SURVEY OF INDIA.

NOTIFICATION.

Calcutta, the 16th March 1906.

No. 149.—An examination for admission to the Provincial Service of the Survey of India will commence on the 27th August next at the following centres:—

Calcutta, Dehra Dun, Simla, Bangalore, Mussooree, Poona and Maymyo.

The number of vacancies offered for this year's examination will probably be 12, of which 3 will probably be for native candidates.

Applications for rules (a copy of which is printed below) should be addressed to the Assistant Surveyor General in charge Surveyor General's Office, 13, Wood Street, Calcutta.

No application to appear as a candidate for the examination will be entertained after the 30th June 1906.

T. F. B. RENNY-TAILYOR, BT. LIEUT.-COL., R.E.,
For Surveyor General of India.

SURVEY OF INDIA.

(Vide R. & A. Department No. 57-2, dated the 4th January 1901.)

MEMO. OF INSTRUCTIONS FOR APPLICANTS FOR THE PROVINCIAL SERVICE OF THE SURVEY OF INDIA.

1st.—Every candidate for the Survey of India must forward his application in writing to the Surveyor General, accompanied by such certificates as to age (Baptismal Certificate required in case of European and Eurasian candidate) moral character, education, soundness of health and good eyesight as will clearly establish his suitability for employment. The application must further be accompanied by specimens of Plan and Free-hand drawing.^{*} The candidate's name having been registered, he will be informed of the time and place of examination, when decided on. The examination papers will be issued from the Trigonometrical Branch Office in Dehra Dun.

2nd.—No application can be entertained from any individual whose age at the date of the completion of the examination will be under 18 or above 23 years, except in the case of Natives whose maximum age is fixed at 24 years. The Surveyor General, however, has the power to extend the age limits to 30 years in the case of those candidates who are at the time in pensionable service in the subordinate grades of the Survey of India. No person who is married or is likely to be soon married will be admitted unless of pure Asiatic origin. Candidates, if of European parentage, must be Statutory Natives of India and have at least passed the High School Pass examination or First Arts examination at an Indian University having qualified in Algebra as one of the subjects, and if Natives the F.A. Pass examination.

3rd.—Candidates must be prepared to undergo the examination detailed below, which will give them entrance to the Training School at Dehra; no candidate will be considered to have qualified unless he gets 50 per cent. of the marks in Mathematics and 30 per cent. of the total marks in Drawing.

4th.—Examinations will be held in August as a rule. The most suitable of the candidates who qualify will be selected.

5th.—When under examination for the Department, the candidate must sign the Bond printed on the reverse of this paper.

6th.—The selected candidates will enter the Department, as Probationary Sub-Assistant Superintendents, 3rd grade, on a salary of Rs. 120 per mensem, and they must pass out of the Training School within a maximum limit of two years. They will not be confirmed in their appointments until they have served at least one year in a field party and have been well reported on.

7th.—As Surveyors are liable to much exposure and to work in trying climates, the medical certificate should particularly specify that the candidate is of good physique and is likely to stand hard work, such as riding and walking long distances. The medical certificate should be in the form as given overleaf, signed by a Medical officer in Government employ not lower in rank than Lieutenant. During his course at the Training School should he prove to be, in the opinion of the Superintendent, Trigonometrical Surveyors, physically unfitted for the Department, that officer may demand a further certificate of fitness.

DECLARATION—By the Government of Bengal, Judicial Department.

No. 2193J.—The 2nd April 1906.—Whereas certain land was acquired by the Bengal Government under the provisions of Act I of 1894 and Act XVIII of 1885, for a public purpose, viz., for the assisted siding for the New Manbhum Coal Company's Dhoondabad mine, and whereas coal-mines are situate under the said land, and whereas the New Manbhum Coal Company, Limited, have given notice to the Government of Bengal, in accordance with the provisions of Act XVIII of 1885, that the said Company intend to work the said mines, and whereas the mines have been inspected by the officer appointed by the Bengal Government for the purpose under section 5 (1) of Act XVIII of 1885, and whereas it appears to the Bengal Government that the working out of the coal of the mines underlying the said land is likely to cause damage to the surface of the said land and to the works constructed thereon, and whereas the said New Manbhum Coal Company, Limited, have agreed not to work and get minerals underlying the land acquired for their siding or underlying the land acquired for the branch or other lines with which the siding is connected, or underlying the land of the branch or branches connecting the said siding with the main line in such a manner as to injure or to endanger the safety of the undertaking or any part thereof, nor to claim any compensation for any restricted working:

Now, therefore, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to declare, under section 5, sub-section (2), clause (b) of the abovementioned Act, XVIII of 1885, that the working shall be carried on by the said New Manbhum Coal Company, Limited, in the manner and subject to the restrictions below specified, viz., that in future workings the galleries shall be driven not more than 12 feet wide and 12 feet high, with centres not less than 52 feet apart, forming pillars not less than 40 feet square, and that in all the above cases no further excavation shall be made in any of the galleries which already have been driven, the actual heights and widths of which have been carefully recorded on the plan marked L.A.M.A. No. 48 signed by the Chief Inspector of Mines.

The plan referred to may be seen in the office of the Chief Inspector of Mines in India by the parties interested.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 30 Marine, dated the 20th March 1906.

UNDER section 10 of Act I of 1859 (an Act for the amendment of the law relating to merchant seamen), the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased, with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to make the following rules for the conduct of examinations for Masters and Mates of Foreign-going ships and Home-trade ships and as to the qualifications to be required. These rules are in supersession of the rules issued under notification No. 183 Marine, dated the 28th September 1899.

The new rules will come into force from the 1st May 1906.

W. A. INGLIS,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RULES.

CHAPTER I.

1. The times and places at which examinations are held are shown in Appendix A, page 30. Time and place of examinations.

2. Candidates for examination must fill up a Form of application (Form Exn. 2) at the Port Office. The Form properly filled in, together with the Candidate's testimonials and discharges, must be lodged with the Port Officer of Calcutta, not later than the day before the day of examination, and the Candidate must conform to any regulations in this respect which may be laid down by the Government. The discharges and testimonials should be handed in, together with the Form of application as many days as possibly before the date of the examination which the Candidate desires to attend. In the absence of the necessary verification the Candidate cannot be examined. The Port Officer should be particularly careful to ascertain that there are no gaps in the Candidate's service which are not properly accounted for before he is allowed up for examination. How to apply.

3. In cases where the services of the Candidate require verification, or where he is in doubt whether his service complies with the regulations, and wishes to submit his case for special consideration, all Certificates, discharges, testimonials, &c., together with the Form of application* properly filled in, should be submitted to the Port Officer of Calcutta. If necessary, the Port Officer will, after seeing that all the required information is clearly set forth in the papers, forward them with his observations to the Government who will deal with the case, or transmit it to the Board of Trade for decision. How to apply in special cases.

4. All other inquiries regarding examinations should be made and dealt with in the same way. The point on which information is sought should be clearly stated, and Certificates, discharges, testimonials, &c., should be forwarded when they are material to the inquiry. Inquiries.

* Form Exn. 2 which can be obtained at the Port Office.

Services
Articles.

5. Services which cannot be verified by proper entries in the Articles of the ships in which the Candidates have served cannot be counted. For instance, a man may state that his service has been as Second or only Mate, and to support his assertion may produce a Certificate of Discharge or of employment from the Master, to the effect that he served as Mate, when on reference to the Articles it appears that he has actually been rated as Boatswain; the service in such a case will not be regarded as having been in the capacity of Mate.

Age.

6. Should any doubt exist as to the age of a Candidate, he will be required to produce a certificate of birth.

Fraud and
tion.

7. It is provided by section 104 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, that any person who makes, assists in making, or procures to be made, any false representation for the purpose of procuring either for himself or for any other person a Certificate of Competency, shall, in respect of each offence, be guilty of a misdemeanour,—the punishment for which is imprisonment for any period not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, or a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

Testimonials
required.

8. Testimonials to character, including sobriety, and to experience and ability on board ship for at least the twelve months of service immediately preceding the date of application to be examined, will be required of all Candidates, and without producing them no person will be examined.

Penalty for misconduct.

9. Candidates who have neglected to join their vessels after having signed Articles, or who have deserted their vessels after having joined, or who have been found guilty of gross misconduct on board, will be required to produce satisfactory proofs of two years' subsequent service and good conduct at sea, unless the Local Government, after having investigated the matter, should see fit to reduce the time.

10. Every Candidate for a certificate of competency of any grade must pass the three tests before he can proceed to the examination in navigation and seamanship.

(1) The sight tests are open to all persons serving or intending to serve in the Mercantile Marine, and all such persons are recommended to take the earliest opportunity of ascertaining by means of these tests whether their vision is such as to qualify them for service in that profession.

(2) The three tests are:—

(a) Form Vision Test (see page 61).

(b) Colour Vision Test (see page 62).

(c) Colour Ignorance Test (see page 68).

No Candidate will be examined in the Colour Vision Test until he has passed the Form Vision Test, or in the Colour Ignorance Test until he has passed the Colour Vision Test.

This rule must be observed whether the candidate has or has not on any previous occasion passed the sight tests.

(3) Any person serving or intending to serve in the Mercantile Marine, of desirous of undergoing the Form Vision, Colour Vision, and Colour Ignorance Tests only, must make application to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 2A, and must pay a fee of one rupee.

This fee will be payable on each occasion upon which a candidate is examined in Form Vision and Colour tests.

(4) Candidates who fail to pass the Form Vision Test or Colour Ignorance Test can be re-examined at intervals of three months, but Candidates who fail to pass the Colour Vision Test cannot be re-examined. It is open, however, to any Candidate who has failed to pass the Colour Vision Test to appeal to the Government, who may, if they think fit, remit the case to a special Examiner or body of Examiners for final decision.

(5) The expenses of Candidates who are examined by such special Examiner, or body of Examiners, and are reported by them to have passed, will, under certain circumstances, be paid by the Government, at a rate which will be notified to the Candidate; but no payment whatever will be made towards the expenses of Candidates who, upon their own application, are examined by the special Examiners and are reported by them to have failed, unless the Government consider that the particular circumstances of the case justify such payment. The special examinations will be held in Calcutta only.

- (6) When a Candidate fails to pass the Colour Vision Test, the Examiner will point out to him the conditions under which he can appeal. Appeals are to be made through the Examiner, and forwarded to the Government with the Examiner's remarks.
- (7) The fee paid for examination for a Certificate of Competency includes the fee of one rupee for examination in Form Vision, Colour Vision, and Colour Ignorance, and if the Candidate fails to pass those tests, this fee will, with the exception of one rupee, be returned to him.
- (8) Only Examiners who have themselves passed the Colour Test are to undertake these examinations.
- (9) Whenever the holder of a certificate of competency fails to pass any of the three tests, there is reason to believe that he is from incompetency unfit to discharge his duties, and in the public interest the Government may cause an inquiry to be held by a Court, having jurisdiction to cancel or suspend such certificate; but in the alternative the Government may accept the voluntary surrender of the certificate until such time as the applicant succeeds in passing the tests in which he failed.

11. Foreigners must prove, to the satisfaction of the Examiners, that they can speak and write the English language sufficiently well to perform the duties required of them on board a British vessel (see paragraph 19). In the case of candidates for Home Trade Certificates, the Certificates of Asiatics who may not be able to speak English shall be endorsed to the effect that they are valid only for vessels manned and officered entirely by Asiatics.

Foreigners must know English.

12. If the Candidate passes, he will receive a Form (Form Exn. 16), authorising the Port Officer to whom it is addressed to issue the Certificate. The Candidate's testimonials and other papers will be returned to him with the Certificate. It is therefore important that the port at which the Certificate is to be issued should be the same on both the Form Exn. 16 and the Form Exn. 2. If circumstances should make any alteration necessary, the Examiner should see that it is made in both Forms, otherwise delay in the issue of the Certificate may be caused.

Issue of certificate.

13. If, after a Candidate has passed the examination, it is discovered on further investigation that his services are insufficient to entitle him to receive a Certificate of the grade for which he has passed, the Certificate will not be granted to him; but if the Government is satisfied that the error in the calculation of the Candidate's services did not occur through any fault or wilful misrepresentation on his part, he may either have the fee returned to him, or have it placed to his credit. Should his services entitle him to a Certificate of a lower grade, it may be granted to him, and the difference, if any, between the fee paid by him for the superior Certificate and the fee payable for the inferior Certificate will be returned to him or placed to his credit. The superior Certificate will not be granted until the Candidate has performed the amount of service in which he was deficient, and has been re-examined in all the subjects unless the Government see fit to dispense with the re-examination.

Service found to be insufficient.

14. In all cases of failure the Candidate must be examined anew. If a candidate fails in Seamanship, he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of six months. Whether the whole or part of this period must be served at sea must depend upon the subjects in Seamanship in which the Candidate failed, but the amount of further sea service to be required will be left to the discretion of the Port Officer, Calcutta.

Failure in examination.

15. The Examiner, in making his report on Form Exn. 14, should state what amount, if any, of further sea service the Candidate must perform, and he should also insert this information in Form Exn. 2.

Examiner's Report.

16. If a Candidate fails three times in Navigation within three months, he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of THREE MONTHS from the date of the last failure.

Failure in Navigation.

17. Candidates for Extra Certificates will not be allowed to present themselves for examination more than three times within a period of twelve months.

Failure in Extra Examinations.

18. If a Candidate has failed in his examination, but the subjects in which he has failed are not included in the subjects required for a Certificate of a lower grade, he may, if he so desires, proceed with the examination for the lower grade certificate without further formal application or payment of fee, but in this case he will be required to complete the whole of the work prescribed for such lower grade, that portion (if any) already done standing good. No part, however, of the fee he has paid will be returned to him, and on presenting himself, when qualified, for re-examination for the higher Certificate, he will be required to pay a further full fee.

Failure for spelling, &c.

19. If a Candidate fails for bad spelling or writing, he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of at least three months. If he fails for ignorance of the English language, he will not be re-examined until after a lapse of six months.

Failure in Seamanship.

20. If a Candidate fails in Seamanship so far as regards the management of square-rigged Sailing Vessels, in his examination for an Ordinary Certificate, he may, if qualified as to service, without further formal application or further payment of fee, proceed with the examination for a Certificate of Competency for Foreign-going Steamships, or for Fore and Aft-rigged Vessels. And if a Candidate fails in the same manner in his examination for an Extra Master's Certificate, he may, under the same conditions as above, proceed with the examination for an Extra Certificate for Steamships.

paid first.

21. Candidates for examination, in making their application on Form Exn. 2, will be required to pay the examination fee before any step is taken in the way of inquiring into their services or testing their qualifications. If the Candidate is found not to be qualified, the fee will either be returned to him or placed to his credit until he is qualified.

Where to pay fees.

22. The fee for examination must be paid to the Port Officer in the cash office. If a Candidate offers a gratuity to any officer of the Department, he will be regarded as having committed an act of misconduct, and will be rejected, and not allowed to be again examined for twelve months either at the port where the offence was committed, or at any other port.

Fee not
failure.
Table of fees.

23. If a Candidate fails to pass the examination, no part of the fee will be returned to him.

24. The fees are as follows:—

FOR "FOREIGN-GOING SHIPS."

| | Ra. |
|---|---------------------|
| Second Mate | 12 |
| First and Only Mate if previously possessing an inferior Certificate, either granted by the Board of Trade, or by the Government of a British Possession under section 8 of " The Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869 " ... | 6 |
| If not | 12 |
| Master | 24 |
| Where a Candidate is in possession of a Certificate for Fore and Aft-rigged Vessels, and requires an Ordinary or Steamship Certificate of the same grade; or where a Candidate is in possession of a Steamship Certificate, and requires an Ordinary Certificate of the same grade | Half the usual fee. |
| Master, Extra, if possessing an Ordinary Master's Certificate; or Master, Extra, for Steamships if possessing a Master's Certificate for Steamships | 12* |

* If the examination for the Extra Master's Certificate takes place at the same time as the examination for the Ordinary Master's Certificate, the usual fee for the Ordinary Master's Certificate in addition to the fee for the Extra Certificate must be paid. This rule as to fees also applies to the extra examinations for Steamships and yachts.

CHAPTER II.

QUALIFICATIONS REQUIRED FOR THE VARIOUS GRADES.*

Certificates for "Foreign-going" Ships or Ordinary Certificates.

25. A Candidate for an Ordinary Certificate of any grade, who has not previously held an Ordinary Certificate of a lower grade, must prove that he has served 12 months in the Foreign Trade, or 18 months in the Home or Coasting Trade in a square-rigged sailing vessel. Square-rigged service required.

26. Ordinary Certificates will entitle the holders to go to sea as Mates or Masters of any vessel, sailing or steam. Value of ordinary certificates.

27. SECOND MATE.—A Candidate must be not less than seventeen years of age, and must have served four years at sea. Second Mate ordinary.

* These qualifications are shown in a tabular form in Appendix P, page 66.

SECOND MATE.

Navigation.

28. Examination in Navigation.—A Candidate for a Second Mate's Certificate will be required —

- (a) To write a legible hand and spell correctly; this will be tested by not less than a quarter-of-an-hour's dictation.
- (b) To write a short definition of various astronomical and other terms and to draw a rough sketch or diagram to illustrate their meaning. (See Appendix C and paragraph 156.)
- (c) To show a competent knowledge of the first five rules of arithmetic and the use of logarithms.
- (d) To work a day's work complete, correcting the courses for leeway, deviation and variation.
- (e) To find the latitude by the meridian altitude of the sun.
- (f) To work any practical problem in parallel sailing.
- (g) To find the true course and distance from one given position to another by Mercator's method; also the compass course, the variation and deviation being given.
- (h) To find the time of high water at a given port.
- (i) To find the true amplitude of the sun and the error of the compass therefrom; also the deviation, the variation being given.
- (j) To find the longitude by chronometer from altitude of the sun by the usual methods, computing the daily rate of chronometer from errors observed when acquired; also to find the true azimuth of the sun, and the error of the compass; and the deviation, the variation being given.
- (k) To find the true azimuth of the sun by the "Time Azimuth" tables; the error of the compass; also the deviation, the variation being given.
- (l) To find on either a "true" or "magnetic" chart* the course to steer and the distance from one given position to another; to find the ship's position on the chart from cross-bearings of two objects; from two bearings of the same object, the course and distance run between taking the bearings being given; also the distance of the ship from the object at the time of taking the second bearing. (See Appendix G.)

He will be required to answer vivâ voce questions on the following subjects:—

- (m) The use and adjustments of the sextant, read off and on the arc, and the mode of finding the index error by both horizon and sun.
- (n) The International Code of Signals.
- (o) The construction, use and principle of the barometer, thermometer and hydrometer.
- (p) Weights and measures.

Second Mate,
ordinary Seaman-
ship.

29. Examination in Seamanship.—He must understand and give satisfactory answers on the following subjects:—

- (a) The standing and running rigging of ships.
- (b) Bending, unbending, setting, reefing, taking in and furling sail.
- (c) Sending masts and yards up and down, &c.
- (d) Management of a ship when under canvas.
- (e) Management of ship's boats in heavy weather.
- (f) Dunnaging and stowing cargo, &c.
- (g) The Rule of the Road as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights and fog and sound signals.
- (h) The signals of distress, and the signals to be made by ships wanting a Pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals.

* The terms "true" and "magnetic" are used for brevity and convenience throughout the Regulations to indicate charts which have compasses engraved upon them showing the true or magnetic points of the compass respectively.

- (i) The marking and use of the lead and log lines.
- (j) The use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of a vessel being stranded.
- (k) Any questions of a like nature appertaining to the duties of a Second Mate that the Examiner may think necessary to ask.
- (l) Also questions on the additional subjects which are specified in the Rules of Examination for Second Mates' Certificates of Competency for Foreign-going Steamships (see paragraph 44).

30. ONLY MATE.—A Candidate must be not less than nineteen years of age, and have served five years at sea. Only Mate ordinary.

31. FIRST MATE.—A Candidate must be not less than nineteen years of age, and have served five years at sea, of which— First Mate ordinary.

- (a) One year must have been in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate of a Foreign-going Vessel, whilst holding a Second Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels;

If his service was as Third or Fourth Mate, proof will be required that he had during the whole year charge of a Watch (see para. 106) :

- (b) or one year and a-half must have been in a capacity not lower than Only Mate in a Home Trade or Coasting Vessel whilst holding a Second Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels, or a Mate's Certificate for Home Trade Passenger Ships;
- (c) or one year must have been as Pilot with a First Class Pilot's Certificate (see para. 103).
- (d) or eighteen months' active service as Chief Officer with a Second Mate's Certificate on a Beugal Pilot Brig.

32. Examination in Navigation.—A Candidate for an Only or First Mate's Certificate will be required— Mate, ordinary Navigation.

- (a) To work out any three of the nautical problems prescribed for the Second Mates' examination which may be given him by the Examiner, in addition to the chart paper (l) and the oral subjects (m, n, o, p) prescribed for that grade.
- (b) To compute the time at which a given star will be on the observer's meridian. [Occasionally by inspection.]
- (c) To describe where tables giving the names of the principal stars passing the meridian may be found.
- (d) To describe where the meridian passage of the principal planets may be found.
- (e) To determine what bright stars will be within an hour or more of the observer's meridian above the pole and above the horizon at any given time; also the hour angle, east or west of each of the stars, and whether to the north or south of the observer's zenith when passing the meridian.
- (f) To describe any maps or diagrams which the Candidate knows, and prefers for further facilitating the recognition of the stars and planets.
- (g) To compute the approximate meridian altitude of one of the stars just found, for setting the sextant.
- (h) To find the latitude from the meridian altitude of the same star.
- (i) To find the longitude by chronometer by altitude of a star.
- (j) To find the true azimuth of a star by the "Time Azimuth" tables, and get the deviation therefrom.
- (k) To find the latitude by ex-meridian altitude of the sun or a star.
- (l) To find the line of position and the true bearing of the sun, and the ship's position, by Sumner's method by projection.

- (m) To answer certain questions relative to cyclones or revolving storms. (See Appendix H, page 50.)

He will be required to answer vivâ voce questions on the following subjects:—

- (n) How to keep a ship's log book.
 (o) How to calculate the capacity of a given bunker or hold.
 (p) How to calculate a freight and its commissions.

First Mate,
 Ordinary
 Seamanship.

33. Examination in Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for a Second Mate's Certificate, an Only or First Mate will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects:—

- (a) Shifting large spars, rigging sheers, taking lower masts in and out.
 (b) How to moor and unmoor ship; to keep a clear anchor; and to carry out an anchor.
 (c) How to manage a ship in stormy weather, and to cast a ship on a lee shore.
 (d) How to secure the masts in the event of accident to the bowsprit.
 (e) How to rig purchases for getting heavy weights, anchors, machinery, &c., in or out.
 (f) How to dispose various kinds of cargo and weights in a stiff, and in a tender vessel.
 (g) The ventilation of holds and the stowage of explosives.
 (h) How to rig a sea anchor, and what means to employ to keep a vessel disabled or unmanageable, out of the trough of the sea, and lessen her lee drift.
 (i) How to get a cast of the deep sea lead in heavy weather.
 (j) Accidents, and how to deal with them.
 (k) Any other questions appertaining to the duties of an Only or First Mate which the Examiner may think necessary to ask.
 (l) Also questions on the additional subjects which are specified in the Rules of Examination for Only and first Mate's Certificates of Competency for foreign-going Steamships (see para. 48).

Master,
 Ordinary.

34. MASTER.—A Candidate must be not less than twenty-one years of age, and

- (a) he must have served six years at sea, of which one year must have been in a capacity not lower than Only Mate of a Foreign-going Vessel whilst holding a Certificate not lower than an Only Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels, provided that this service as officer was not performed whilst holding a First Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels, the Candidate will also be required to prove the officer's service prescribed for that grade (para. 31);
 (b) or, he must have served six years at sea, of which one year and-a-half must have been in a capacity not lower than Only Mate of a Home Trade or Coasting Vessel whilst holding a Certificate not lower than an Only Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels provided that if this service as officer was not performed whilst holding a First Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels, the Candidate will also be required to prove the Officer's service prescribed for that grade (para. 31);
 (c) or, he must have served six and-a-half years at sea, one year of which must have been in a capacity not lower than Second Mate of a Foreign-going Vessel whilst holding a First Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels, provided that if this service as Second Mate was for convenience of calculation the service required is stated in a tabular form appendix F, page 100.

performed under an Additional or Auxiliary First Mate it will only be accepted if a Third and Fourth Mate were also carried, and one year and a-half not lower than Third or Fourth Mate of a Foreign-going Vessel in charge of a Watch whilst holding a Second Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels:

- (d) or, he must have served nine years at sea in the Home or Coasting Trade, of which three years must have been as Master, or one year as Master and three years in a capacity not lower than that of Mate, provided that in either case he has served in such capacity for not less than one year with a Second Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels or a Master's Certificate for Home Trade Passenger Ships.

35. Examination in Navigation.—A Candidate for an ^{Master, Ordinary.} Ordinary Master's Certificate will be required, to work out any twelve of the nautical problems prescribed for the grades of Second and First Mate that may be given him by the Examiner, in addition to the chart paper, the cyclone paper, and the oral subjects prescribed for the grades of Second and First Mate. He will also be required—

- (a) To find the latitude by the altitude of the polar star at any time.
- (b) To find the latitude by the meridian altitude of the moon.
- (c) To find the magnetic bearing of any fixed object when at sea or at anchor from bearings of the object taken with the ship's head on equidistant compass points, and to compute the deviation therefrom; to construct a deviation curve upon a Napier's diagram which will be furnished by the Examiner, and show that he understands its practical application; to give satisfactory written and oral answers to certain practical questions as to the effect of the ship's iron upon the compasses, and the method of determining the deviation, and show how to compensate the deviation by magnets and soft iron by the aid of Beall's Compass Deviascope (see Appendix I, page 50).
- (d) To find on a chart the course to steer by compass in order to counteract the effect of a given current, and find the distance the ship will make good towards a given point in a given time, and to work out practically the correction to apply to soundings taken at a given time and place to compare with the depth marked on the chart, (see Appendix G, page 49).

He will be required to answer vivâ voce questions on the following subjects:—

- (a) The law as to the engagement and discharge and management of the crew, and the entries to be made in the official log.
- (b) How to prevent and check an outbreak of scurvy on board ship.
- (c) The law as to load line marks, and the entries and reports to be made respecting them.
- (d) Invoices, charter party, bills of lading, Lloyd's agent, nature of bottomry, bills of exchange, surveys, averages, &c.
- (e) The prevailing winds and currents of the globe.
- (f) The trade routes.
- (g) Tides.

36. Examination in Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for the grades of Second and First Mate, an ^{Master, Ordinary.} Ordinary Master will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects:—

- (a) Construction of jury rudders for both wooden and iron vessels, also sails.

- (b) Resources for the preservation of the ship's crew in the event of wreck.
- (c) Management of ship in heavy weather.
- (d) Rescuing the crew of a disabled vessel.
- (e) Steps to be taken when a ship is on her beam ends, or in any danger or difficulty, or disabled or unmanageable and on a lee shore.
- (f) Heaving a keel out.
- (g) How to proceed when placing a ship in dry dock, and directing repairs, and when putting into port in distress with damage to cargo and ship.
- (h) Any other question of a like nature appertaining to the management of a ship which the Examiner may think it necessary to ask.
- (i) Also questions on the additional subjects which are specified in the Rules of Examination for Masters' Certificates of Competency for Foreign-going Steamships. See para. 51.

CERTIFICATES FOR FOREIGN-GOING FORE AND AFT-RIGGED VESSELS.

Fore and aft
Certificates.

37. Certificates for the grades of Master, First Mate, Only Mate and Second Mate of fore and aft rigged vessels will be issued to Candidates who have not complied with the regulation which requires them to have served at least one year in square-rigged sailing vessels, or who prove in course of examination that they are ignorant of the management of square-rigged ships. In other respects the qualifications for examination for such Certificates are the same as for Ordinary Certificates.

examinations.

38. The examinations for the grades of Second Mate, Only Mate, First Mate, and Master of fore and aft-rigged vessels will be precisely the same as for the Ordinary Certificates, excepting that in seamanship a knowledge of the management of square-rigged vessels is not required.

Value of Certificates.

39. A Certificate for "Fore and Aft-rigged vessels" will not entitle the possessor to act in any case in which a Certificate for square-rigged vessels is required. Amongst square-rigged vessels are classed full-rigged ships, barques, brigs, barquentines, brigantines, and steamships carrying square sails.

How certifi-
changed.

40. A Candidate possessing a Certificate for fore and aft-rigged vessels, and desiring to be examined for an Ordinary Certificate, must prove that he has served at sea at least one year in a square-rigged sailing vessel, unless he has previously held an Ordinary Certificate of a lower grade.

CERTIFICATES FOR FOREIGN-GOING STEAMSHIPS.

Certificates.

41. Certificates applying only to steamships are issued to Candidates who are either unable to comply with the regulation which requires them to have passed one year in square-rigged sailing vessels, or who prove in course of examination that they are ignorant of the management of square-rigged sailing vessels. All the qualifying Officers' service prescribed for these Certificates must have been performed in steamships.

These Certificates will entitle the holders to go to sea as Masters or Mates of Foreign-going Steamships, but will not entitle them to go to sea as Masters or Mates of Foreign-going Sailing Ships.

There will be no distinction in these Certificates between "Fore and Aft-rigged" Steamships and "Square-rigged" Steamships.

Second Mate
Steamships.

42. SECOND MATE.—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for an Ordinary Second Mate's Certificate (see para 27), excepting that no service in square-rigged sailing vessels is required.

43. Examination in Navigation.—The examination in Navigation navigation for a Second Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Steamships will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary Second Mate's Certificate.

44. Examination in Seamanship.—The Candidate must Seamanship understand and be able to give satisfactory answers as to the following subjects:—

- (a) The standing and running rigging of steamships.
- (b) Bending, unbending, setting, reefing, taking in and furling sail.
- (c) Sending masts and yards up and down, &c.
- (d) Seeing everything in readiness and clear for getting under way, and the precautions to be then observed with regard to engines, propeller, &c.
- (e) Management of a steamship when under canvas.
- (f) Management of a ship's boat in heavy weather.
- (g) Dunnaging and stowing cargo, &c.
- (h) The Rule of the Road as regards both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights and fog and sound signals.
- (i) Signals of distress, and signals to be made by ships wanting a Pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals.
- (j) The marking and use of the lead and log lines.
- (k) The construction, use and action of the sluices, and of the water-ballast tanks.
- (l) Engine-room, telegraph, &c.
- (m) Use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of a vessel being stranded.
- (n) Any other questions of a like nature appertaining to the duties of the Second Mate of a steamship which the Examiner may think necessary to ask.

45. ONLY MATE—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for an Only Mate's Ordinary Certificate (see para 30), excepting that no service in square-rigged vessels is required. Only Mate, Steamship.

46. FIRST MATE—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for a First Mate's Ordinary Certificate (see para. 31), excepting that the service required as officer must have been in Steamships, and that no service in square-rigged vessels is required. First Mate, Steamship.

47. Examination in Navigation.—The examination in Navigation navigation for an Only or First Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Steamships will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary First Mate's Certificate (see para. 32).

48. Examination in Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for a Second Mate's certificate, an Only or First Mate will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects:— Seamanship.

- (a) Shifting large spars; rigging sheers; and taking lower masts in and out.
- (b) How to moor and unmoor ship, keep a clear anchor, and to carry out an anchor.
- (c) Management of a steamship in stormy weather.
- (d) How to rig purchases for getting heavy weights, anchors, machinery, &c., in and out.
- (e) How to dispose various kinds of cargo and weights, in a stiff and in a tender vessel.
- (f) Ventilation of holds and the stowage of explosives.
- (g) The effects of the screw race upon the rudder; and the effect produced on the direction of the head of the ship by going [ahead] [astern] with a [right] [left] handed screw when the rudder is [ported] [starboarded]; also the effect of twin-screws under the same conditions, and when going ahead with one and reversing the other, &c., &c.
- (h) How to rig a sea anchor, and what means to a to keep a steamer, with her machinery dead out of the trough of the sea and to lessen her lee drift.

- (g) How to turn a steamship short round.
- (j) How to get a cast of the deep sea lead in heavy weather.
- (k) Any other questions of a like nature appertaining to the duties of a First Mate of a steamship • which the Examiner may think necessary to put to him.

Master,
Steamships.

49. MASTER.—The qualifications as to age and service are the same as for a Master's Ordinary Certificate for a Foreign-going Ship (see para. 34), excepting that the service required as officer must have been performed in steamships, and that no service in square-rigged vessels is required.

Navigation.

50. Examination in Navigation.—The examination in navigation, for a Master's Certificate for Foreign-going Steamships will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary Master's Certificate (see para 35)

Seamanship.

51. Examination in Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required for the grades of Second and First Mate, a Master will be required to show a knowledge of the following subjects:—

- (a) Construction of rafts and jury rudders suitable for screw steamships.
- (b) The preservation of the ship's crew in the event of wreck.
- (c) Management of steamships in heavy weather.
- (d) Rescuing the crew of a disabled ship.
- (e) Steps to be taken when a vessel is on her beam ends or disabled and on a lee shore.
- (f) How to use steam appliances in the event of fire.
- (g) The best arrangement for towing vessels under different circumstances.
- (h) Placing ship in dry dock, directing repairs, and the mode of procedure when putting into port in distress with damage to cargo and ship.
- (i) Any other questions of a like nature appertaining to the management of a steamship which the Examiner may think it necessary to put to him.

Steamship
Certificates,
how changed.

52. A Candidate possessing a Certificate for "Foreign-going Steamships" and desiring to be examined for an Ordinary Certificate, must prove that he has served at sea at least one year in a square-rigged sailing vessel unless he has previously held an Ordinary Certificate of a lower grade

CERTIFICATES FOR HOME TRADE PASSENGER SHIPS.

Mate, Home
Trade.

53. MATE.—A Candidate must be not less than nineteen years of age and have served four years at sea.

Navigation.

54. Examination in Navigation.—He must write a legible hand and spell correctly, and understand the first five rules of arithmetic, both simple and compound. He must be able to take a bearing by compass, be conversant with the use of Mercator's Chart, and be able to find, on either a "true" or "magnetic" chart, the course to steer, and the distance from one given position to another; to find the ship's position on the chart from cross bearings of two objects and from two bearings of the same object, the course and distance run between taking the bearings being given; and the distance of the ship from the object, at the time of taking the second bearing. He must also pass an examination in the International Code of Signals.

Seamanship.

55. Examination in Seamanship.—He must possess thorough knowledge of the Rule of the Road as both steamers and sailing vessels, their regulation lights, and sound signals. He must be able to describe and explain the signals to be made by ships wanting a Pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals; also the use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of his vessel being stranded. He must be able to mark and use the lead and log lines, to moor and unmoor a vessel, and to manage a ship's boat in heavy weather, etc., etc. He must also understand the construction, use and action of the bulkhead sluices, the engine-room, telegraph, &c., and to answer any other questions of a like nature appertaining to the duties of the Mate of a Home Trade Passenger Ship which the Examiner may think proper to put to him.

56. MASTER.*—A Candidate must be not less than twenty years of age and have served five years at sea of which—

- (a) one year must have been in a capacity not lower than that of only Mate of a Home Trade or Coasting Vessels whilst holding a Mate's Certificate for Home Trade Passenger Ships, or a Second Mate's Certificate for Foreign going Vessels;
- (b) or, two and-a-half years must have been in a capacity not lower than Second Mate of a Home Trade or Coasting Vessel in charge of a Watch whilst holding a Mate's Certificate for Home Trade Passenger Ships, or a Second Mate's Certificate for Foreign-going Vessels (see para. 106);
- (c) or, one year must have been as Pilot with a First Class Pilot's Certificate (see para. 103).

57. Examination in Navigation.—In addition to the qualifications required of a Mate of a Home Trade Passenger Ship, a Master will be required to find on a chart the course to steer by compass in order to counteract the effect of a given current and to find the distance the ship will make good towards a given point in a certain time, and to work out practically the correction to apply to soundings taken at a given time and place, to compare with the depth marked on the chart, etc. He will also be required to understand the use of the quadrant, to be able to observe with it, to read off and on the arc, and to find the index error by horizon. He will also be required to find the latitude by a meridian altitude of the sun, and to give written answers to certain practical question on the subject of the deviation of the compass. (See also supplementary trial test, para. 157.)

58. Examination in Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required of a Mate of a Home Trade Passenger Ship, a Master must understand how to rig a sea anchor and what means to apply to keep a steamship with machinery disabled out of the trough of the sea; also how to get a cast of the lead in heavy weather, etc. He will be examined as to his resources for the preservation of the crew and passengers in the event of wreck and the steps to be taken if his vessel is disabled and drifting towards a lee shore, and will be required to answer any other questions appertaining to the management of a Home Trade Passenger Ship which the Examiner may think necessary to put to him.

EXTRA CERTIFICATES.

59. Certificates as Extra Master.—An Extra Master's Certificate will entitle the holder to go to sea as Master of any vessel, sailing or steam.

The examination is voluntary and intended for such persons as wish to prove their superior qualifications and are desirous of having Certificates of the highest grade granted by the Board of Trade.

The extra examination may take place when the Applicant is qualified to go up for examination for an Ordinary

* For convenience of calculation, the service required is stated in a tabular form in Appendix F, page 69.

Master's Certificate, or at any time subsequent to his having passed the examination for that Certificate.

Extra Master,
Navigation.

60. Examination in Navigation.—The Candidate will be required to work out and show the construction of any four of the problems,* prescribed for the Ordinary Certificates and to satisfy the Examiner in the oral subjects prescribed for those Certificates. He must also be prepared to be examined, in any of the following subjects, showing the construction of all problems†:—

- (a) To work a lunar‡ observation by either sun, star, or planet; and to compute the altitudes when they are not given.
* See Board of Trade notice of May 1905 on page 29.
- (b) To find the latitude from double altitudes of the sun or of a star.
- (c) To determine, from simultaneous observations of two different stars, the position of the ship, and the true bearing of the stars, by Sumner's method. The Candidate may either determine the four longitudes from the two assumed latitudes which will be given, or solve the question in any other way he may choose.
- (d) To find the error of a chronometer from the altitude of the sun or of a star, observed with an artificial, or with the natural, horizon.
- (e) To explain clearly in writing the principles of—(1) Great Circle sailing; (2) Windward Great Circle sailing; (3) Composite Great Circle sailing; and their advantages and disadvantages.
- (f) To show approximately on a terrestrial globe the Great Circle track and the distance from one given position to another; also the latitude and longitude of vertex; and the longitude from vertex; and to explain how the track can then be transferred to a Mercator's chart. Occasionally the Candidate will be required to lay the track down on a chart.
- (g) To determine the initial Great Circle course, and the distance, from one given position to another the latitude and longitude of vertex, the longitude from vertex and the latitudes and longitudes through which the Great Circle will pass; laying the track, composite or otherwise, down on a Mercator's chart, and explaining briefly how the course and distance from one point to another on this track is then found. This problem may, subject to the decision of the Examiner, be solved, either by calculation, or by any tables, graphic method, or Great Circle chart, known to and preferred by the Candidate, and it will usually be set so as to leave the choice of method to the Candidate.
- (h) To draw a figure, and write down the trigonometrical ratios.
- (i) Right-angled plane trigonometry; deducing and writing down the formula for each computation in the problem given.
- (j) Oblique-angled plane trigonometry; deducing and writing down the formula, or the rule, for each computation in the problem given.
- (k) To give Napier's rules for circular parts for the solution of right-angled spherical triangles, explaining clearly how the different angles and sides are considered in deducing the formulæ.
- (l) Right-angled spherical trigonometry.
- (m) The laws of the deviation of the compass in iron ships. (See Appendix K, page 52.)
- (n) To construct a Mercator's chart.
- (o) The law of storms. The Candidate to write a paper of what he knows of this subject.

* Either of the chart papers Exn. 2c. or Exn. 2d. may be given as one of these four problems.
† Two or three of these problems may usually be omitted, but all those set in the examination papers given to the Candidate must be worked.

He must be prepared to answer vivà voce questions on the following subjects :—

- (p) The leading principles of the construction of the sextant and of the vernier.
- (q) The civil duties of a Shipmaster in which he will be expected to show a more extensive knowledge than a Candidate for an Ordinary Master's Certificate.

The construction of the problems mentioned above and those in the compass syllabus, must be shown as follows :—

- (a) A circle should be drawn projected on the plane of the horizon—unless the problem can be shown better otherwise—and a correct figure drawn in it, the magnitude of the sides and angles being estimated approximately by the eye.
- (b) The sides and angles used in solving the problem should be marked by distinguishing letters in the figure, and the Candidate should for each fresh computation write down clearly what is given and what he is required to find, together with the formula which he proposes to use.
- (c) Opposite each quantity in the computation he should put the letters denoting the part of the triangle which it represents, writing 'comp' before the letters when the quantity is the complement of that part of the triangle.

Candidates will not be required to enter into the mathematical investigation of the rules and formulae used in the solution of problems, involving oblique-angled spherical triangles, but credit will be given to any Candidate showing such knowledge. When, however, a problem or part of a problem is solved by right-angled spherical trigonometry, the simple process of deducing the formula from the figure, by Napier's rules for circular parts or other method, must be shown.

Where a problem is solved by right-angled plane trigonometry, the simple process of deducing the formula from the figure for each of the computations in it must be shown.

The rule for finding the latitude by meridian altitude must be proved by the figure.

61. Examination in Seamanship—In addition to the qualifications required of an Ordinary Master, the Extra Master will be expected to give satisfactory answers to any questions in practical seamanship that the Examiner may put to him. Extra Master
Seamanship.

62. Extra Certificates for Steamships will also be issued, subject to the examination described below to Officers who can show the necessary service in Steamships. The certificates will be marked "For Steamships only," and will only entitle the holders to go to sea as Masters of Steamships. Extra certificates,
Steamships.

The examination is open to all who are qualified to go up for a Certificate as Master of a Foreign-going Steamship, or who have already obtained this Certificate. It is open also to Candidates who have failed in the examination for an Extra Master's Certificate to show the requisite knowledge of the management of square-rigged sailing vessels, provided they can prove the necessary amount of Officer's service in Steamship (see para. 20).

63. Examination in Navigation.—The examination in navigation for an Extra Master's Certificate for steamships will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Extra Master's Certificate. Extra Master,
Steamship,
Navigation

64. Examination in Seamanship.—In addition to the qualifications required of a Master of a Foreign-going Steamship, the Extra Master will be expected to give satisfactory answers to any questions appertaining to the management of a steamship that the Examiner may put to him. Seamanship.

CERTIFICATES FOR PLEASURE YACHTS.

65. The examination for these Certificates is purely voluntary, and is confined to persons who command their own Yacht. Yacht

| Description of Certificate. | sea-going pleasure yachts. A Master of yacht who is not also the sole owner, or who is under 21 years of age, is not eligible for examination. |
| No sea service required. | 66. Only one description of Certificate will be issued whether the yacht is foreign-going or cruises within the home trade limits. The Certificate will not entitle the holder to command any vessel except the pleasure yacht or yachts of which he is at the time the sole owner. |
| Statutory declaration necessary. | 67. Candidates are not required to have served any specified time afloat, as it is believed that their sea knowledge will be sufficiently tested by the examination they will have to pass in seamanship. 68. Testimonials of service need not be shown, but a Candidate for examination will be required to produce a statutory declaration to the effect (1) that he is sole owner of the yacht; (2) that the yacht is sea-going; (3) that it is not to be used for trading purposes. He will also be required to fill up the form of application (Form Exn. 2) and pay the fee of Rs. 24 at the Port Office, as in paragraph 3. |
| In other respects ordinary regulations apply. | 69. In all other respects the regulations relating to examinations of Masters of Foreign-going ships will apply in these cases. |
| Yacht Master, Navigation. | 70. Examination in Navigation. —The examination in navigation for a Yacht Master's Certificate will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an Ordinary Master's Certificate, except that in the Civil duties of a Ship Master the Master of a yacht will only be expected to possess a knowledge of what he is required to do by the Merchant Shipping Act. |
| Yacht Master, Seamanship. | 71. Examination in Seamanship. —He must give satisfactory answers as to his knowledge of making and taking in sail, and as to the management of a yacht under canvas in moderate and in stormy weather. He must have a thorough knowledge of the Rule of the Road at sea as regards both steamers and sailing vessels; their regulation lights, and fog and sound signals; and be able to describe the signals of distress and the signals to be made by ships wanting a Pilot, and the liabilities and penalties incurred by the misuse of these signals. He must also understand the use and management of the rocket apparatus in the event of his vessel being stranded. He must be able to mark and use the lead and log lines; to cast a vessel on a lee shore; to moor and unmoor a ship; to keep a clear anchor, and to carry out an anchor. He must know how to keep his vessel out of the trough of the sea in the event of accident; how to rig rafts and jury rudders, &c., and what steps to take if his vessel is disabled or unmanageable and drifting towards a lee shore. He will also be examined as to his resources for the preservation of the crew in the event of wreck. He must also possess a knowledge of the measures he should adopt for preventing and checking an outbreak of scurvy on board, and be prepared to answer any other questions relating to the management of a yacht either steam or sailing which the Examiner may ask. |
| Extra Master, Yachts. | 72. EXTRA MASTER OF YACHT. —An Extra Certificate will be issued to the owner of a yacht who either holds, or is qualified to be examined for a Yacht Master's Certificate, subject to the following examination. |
| Navigation. | 73. Examination in Navigation. —The examination in navigation will be precisely the same as that prescribed for an extra Master's Certificate. (See paragraph 60.) |
| Seamanship. | 74. Examination in Seamanship. —The subjects of examination in Seamanship will be the same as those prescribed for a Yacht Master's Certificate, but the Candidate for an Extra Certificate will be expected to show a more extensive practical knowledge than is required of a Candidate for the Yacht Master's Certificate. |

|---------------------------|---|
| Provisional Certificates. | 75. Provisional Certificates for Foreign-going ships or for Foreign-going Steamships, according to the Candidate's |

qualifications, are granted on the conditions stated below to any officer of the Mercantile Marine who may require such a Certificate to qualify him for appointment to or promotion in the Royal Naval Reserve. These Certificates are only issued for Royal Naval Reserve purposes, and do not authorise the holders to go to sea as First Mate or Master.

76. Candidates for these Certificates must apply to the Port Officer of Calcutta, fill up the form of application (Exn. 2), and pay the usual fee. They must produce their First or Second Mate's Certificate of Competency, and an authority from the Government before they can be examined. This authority should be obtained through the Port Officer.

77. Provisional Certificates as First Mate.—Provisional Certificates as First Mate are granted to Candidates who can prove that they have served five years at sea, and that during one year of this period they have served in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate while holding a Second Mate's Certificate. They must pass the usual examination for First Mate and pay the usual fee. The provisional Certificate is exchangeable for the full Certificate as First Mate, without further payment or examination, on production to the Port Officer of satisfactory proofs that the holder has served at sea not less than 12 months in a Foreign-going Vessel in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate, and that during the whole of that period he has been in regular charge of a Watch and in possession of a Certificate of Competency as Second Mate.

Provisional
Certificates,
First Mate.

78. Provisional Certificates as Master.—Provisional Certificates as Master are granted to Candidates who can prove not less than six and-a-half years' service at sea, and who pass the usual examination for Master and pay the usual fee. Of this service two and a-half years must have been served in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate of an Ocean-going Steamship, during the last 12 months of which the Candidate must have been in possession of a full Certificate as First Mate. These Certificates will be exchanged for the full Certificates as Master, without further payment or examination, on production to the Port Officer of satisfactory proofs that the holder has served at sea not less than two and a-half years in a Foreign-going Vessel in charge of a Watch in a capacity not lower than Fourth Mate, and that during 12 months of this period he has served as Second Mate while in possession of a full Certificate of Competency as First Mate.

VOLUNTARY EXAMINATION IN COMPASS DEVIATION.

79. Any person holding a Certificate of any grade in the Foreign or Home Trade, or as Master of his own Pleasure Yacht, who wishes to pass a voluntary examination in Compass Deviation,* can at any time be examined upon filling up the usual form of application and paying to the Port Officer the fee of Rs. 12. If the Candidate passes the examination, a note to that effect will be made upon his Certificate.

VOLUNTARY EXAMINATION IN STEAM.†

80. These examinations are provided for the purpose of giving Masters and Mates who are possessed of Certificates of Competency an opportunity of undergoing a voluntary examination as to their practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam-engine. They are conducted on the premises, and under the superintendence of the Port Officer at such times as he may appoint for the purpose; and the Examiners are selected by the Government from the Engineer-Surveyors appointed under the Indian Steam Ships' Act, 1884.

*See Appendix K, page 53.

†See also Appendix K, page 53.

| Persons eligible. | 81. The examination is open to any person who holds a Certificate of any grade in the foreign or home trade, or |
| How to apply. | as master of his own Pleasure Yacht. Candidates should fill up the Form of application, Form (Exn. 2) at the Port Office, pay the fee of Rs. 12 and deposit their Certificates with the Port Officer. The Port Officer will inform the applicant when and where to attend to be examined. If the Candidate fails to pass, his certificate will be at once returned to him. |
| Result of Examination. | 82. If he passes, the Report (Exn. 14) will be sent to the Port Officer, and the Certificate together with the Form Exn. 2 will be sent to the Government; the words "certified to have passed in steam," with the date and place of examination, will then be entered on the Certificate and its counterpart, and the certificate will be sent to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office of the port named in the Form Exn. 2, and be delivered to the Candidate in the usual manner. |
| In case of failure. | 83. If a Candidate fails, he may not present himself for re-examination until the expiration of three months from the date of failure. |
| Character of Examination | 84. The examination is for the most part bird's eye , and extends to a general knowledge of the practical use and working of the steam-engine, and of the various valves, fittings, and pieces of machinery connected with it and of the way in which electric lighting is carried out on board ship. Intricate theoretical questions on calculations of horse power or areas of cylinders and valves, or any of the more difficult questions relating to steam-engines and boilers, will not be asked. The examination will in fact be confined to the duties which a master of a steam-vessel may be called upon to perform in the case of the death, in incapacity or delinquency of the Engineer. |
| Practical knowledge required. | 85. Examiners are to satisfy themselves that the Candidates know the names and uses and the use of the various parts of engines and boilers and their connecting pipes, valves, cocks, &c. Practical knowledge, as distinguished from theories and abstruse calculations, is to be the test of the Candidate's fitness to have his Certificate endorsed. |
| Examination on boardship. | 86. The Examiner should arrange to conduct part of the examination in the engine-room of a Steamship, unless from circumstances, he finds it impossible to do so; but in the event of the Candidate passing, the Examiner should state in writing what circumstances prevented a visit to an engine-room. If an opportunity offer, the candidate should be permitted, under the guidance of the Examiner, to start and stop the engine of some vessel which may have her steam up. |
| Place of Examination to be reported. | 87. The Examiner, in sending in his report of the examination, should state where the examination has been held. |
| Elementary questions to be answered. | 88. Candidates will be required to give written answers to sixteen out of twenty questions taken from a book of Elementary Questions published by the Government. These questions will be altered from time to time without notice. The twenty questions are not to be difficult theoretical or book questions, but are to be such as any man of ordinary capacity who has any practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam-engine ought to answer. |
| Answers to be sent to Govt. | 89. These questions, with the Candidate's answers, should be sent to the Government, with the reports, after each examination. |
| Copying. | 90. If a Candidate refers to any book or paper or memorandum, or obtains information from another Candidate during the examination, he will be treated as having failed, will forfeit his fee, and will not be allowed to be re-examined for a period of three months. |
| Report on failure. | 91. The Examiners will report, in the case of failure, the nature of the question or questions that decided the failure, or the point in the management of the engine in which the Candidate was deficient. |

92. There is nothing in the regulations requiring that Applicants for the voluntary examination shall have served on board Steamships; all that is required is that they shall have a practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam-engine. Examiners will not fail to appreciate the fact that practical knowledge is best gained in the engine-room; and the examination of an Officer who does not produce official evidence of service in steamships, and of experience of engines, must necessarily be more searching than in the case of one who produces evidence of such service and experience.

Service on
not essential.

CERTIFICATES OF SERVICE.

93. A person who has attained the rank of Lieutenant, Sub Lieutenant, Navigating Lieutenant or Navigating Sub-Lieutenant in His Majesty's Navy, or of Lieutenant in His Majesty's Indian Marine Service, is entitled to a Certificate of Service as Master of a Foreign-going Ship without examination. This Certificate will not entitle the holder to go to sea as Master or Mate, of a Home Trade Passenger Ship.

Persons
qualified

94. Applications for Certificates of Service must be made on a printed form, Form 18, to be obtained free of charge of the Registrar-General of Seamen, Custom House, London, E. C., or of the Port Officer.

application.

95. Applications for certificates of Service by Officers of the Royal Navy on the active list must be made through their Commanding Officers, and applications from officers of the Royal Navy on half pay must be made to the Secretary of the Admiralty, who will, in either case, forward the application to the Board of Trade.

apply.

Ambulance Certificate, &c.

96. Any person holding a Certificate from the St. John's or St. Andrew's Ambulance Association, as qualified to render first aid to the injured can have the fact stamped on his Board of Trade Certificate or Certificate granted by an authority in British Possession abroad by forwarding the two Certificates to the Government either direct or through the Port Officer.

Ambulance
Certificates.

Recipients of Government awards can also have the fact stamped on their Certificates on application in a similar manner.

CHAPTER III.

RULES FOR ESTIMATING SEA SERVICE.

97. In these regulations sea service is reckoned from the commencement to the termination of the voyage. The Certificates of Discharge for service in the Foreign Trade will generally be accepted as proof of sea service, but Certificates of Discharge for service in the Home or Coasting Trade must always be sent to the Port Officer for verification. The Port Officer and Examiners will be careful to see that these discharges have not been in any way tampered with, and will report any suspicious cases to the Government.

service.

98. For Foreign-going Certificates the term "Sea service" means, unless otherwise stated, service performed in Foreign-going Vessels.

Sea service for Foreign-going
Certificates.

99. For Home Trade Passengers Ship Certificates, service in the Home or Coasting Trade is regarded as equivalent to service in the Foreign Trade; but for Foreign-going Certificates, it is regarded as only equivalent to two-thirds of the time served in the Foreign Trade, except in the case of Indian Coasting Voyages extending beyond a distance of 500 miles from the port of departure in vessels commanded by Masters holding Foreign-going Certificates, when such service will count as foreign voyages, and will be reckoned as full time; but the time spent in the port of departure or Home Port will not be allowed to count. In all cases the length of service is deemed to commence on the date of sailing from the port of departure or Home Port and to end on the date of arrival at the Home Port. Such service must be vouched for in the form laid down in Appendix P, page 69.

Service in Home
Trade.

Certificate—Meaning of.

100. By the word "Certificate" is meant a Certificate of Competency granted by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Act, or by the Government of a British Possession under an Order in Council issued in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act. A list of the Colonial Certificates, referred to, will be found in Appendix T, page 76. They are of the same force as the corresponding Certificates granted by the Board of Trade.

Local
Certificates.

101. The holder of a Colonial Certificate for Foreign-going Ship not granted under the Merchant Shipping Act, who desires to be examined for an Imperial Certificate of the same grade, must prove that he has performed the amount of service required by these regulations to entitle him to hold such a Certificate. He must also produce satisfactory testimonials as to character for at least the 12 months immediately preceding his application to be examined.

Foreign-going
Certificates.

102. Where a Foreign-going Certificate is required in order to qualify a Candidate for examination, the Certificate may be either an Ordinary Certificate, or a Certificate for Fore and Aft-rigged Vessels, or a Certificate for Foreign-going Steamships.

Pilot defined.

103. The term "Pilot" in these regulations (see paras. 31 and 56) means a pilot who is employed in general pilotage and holds a First Class Pilot's Certificate from some competent authority authorising him to pilot vessels outside harbour and partially smooth water limits. A Hooghly Master Pilot is for the purpose of this rule to be considered as First Class Pilot.

service.

104. Officer's Service, to be recognised as qualifying for purposes of examination must be performed with the requisite Certificate as specified in Appendix P, page 69. The Officer's service performed by men who have been duly promoted during the course of a voyage (see paragraph 108), or who, in consequence of serving in vessels plying between ports abroad, have been unable to obtain the necessary Certificates, may, however, be recognised, provided that it is in other respects satisfactory.

105. Foreign Officers who wish to apply for a British Certificate of Competency must in all cases have performed their qualifying Officer's service with the requisite British Certificate. The service may have been performed in Foreign Vessels if the Candidate can produce satisfactory testimonials to conduct and character, and is able to prove that the service has been in the required capacities, and that during the period of service he has held a British Certificate of Competency of the rank required by the regulations (see paragraph 110).

In charge of Watch.

106. When service "in charge of a Watch" in either the Foreign or Home Trade, is specified in the regulations, the Candidate will have to prove that during the whole of the time claimed he had the regular charge of a Watch or Watches, which, if in the Foreign Trade, must amount to not less than 8 hours of each 24 hours of service. It must be distinctly understood that occasional service in charge of a Watch, will not be accepted as Mate's service under the regulations. Great care must be exercised by the Port Officer in regard to such service, and unless the Candidate produces a clear and satisfactory Certificate, specially setting forth the above facts, from the Master or Owner of the Vessel in which the service was performed, it must not be accepted.

107. Service as Additional or Auxiliary First or Second Mate, in large Foreign-going vessels when in both cases Third and Fourth Mates are also carried, will count as First Mate's capacities, and that he produces the necessary Certificate (see paragraph 106) showing that he was in charge of a watch or watches during the whole time claimed.

108. Whenever a man has, from any cause, been regularly promoted, on the occurrence of a vacancy in the course of the Voyage, from the rank in which he first shipped, and such promotion, with the ground on which it has been made, is properly entered in the Articles and in the Official Log Book, he will receive credit for his service in the higher grade for the period subsequent to his promotion. Promotion during Voyage.

109. Service in a lower grade than First or Only Mate in the Home or Coasting Trade will not be recognised as Officer's service towards qualifying a Candidate for examination for a Foreign Trade Certificate. Officer's Service, Home Trade.

110. The testimonials of service of Foreigners and of British Officers and Seamen serving in foreign vessels, which cannot be verified by the Port Officer, must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the Candidate served belonged, or by some other recognised official authority of that country, or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case will be decided on its own merits, and, if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be at all doubtful, it must be referred to the Government for decision. Evidence Service in Foreign Vessels.

111. Service in Auxiliary Screw Whaling Ships and in Vessels with auxiliary steam power, which use their screws only in calms or during light winds, is considered as service performed in Sailing Vessels. Auxiliary Screw Sh.

112. In the case of Excursion Steamers only such service as can be proved to have been performed at sea will be accepted. Excursion Steamer.

113. Candidates whose service has been performed in capacities other than Apprentice, Midshipman, Cadet, Ordinary Seaman, or Able Seaman, e.g., men who have served as Carpenter, or Sail-maker, or as Cook in small vessels where cooking is only a part of a man's duty, will be required to satisfy the Port Officer that they have, during the whole time claimed, performed deck duties in addition to their own particular work and that they have a good knowledge of Seaman'ship. These facts may possibly be proved by the production of satisfactory Certificates from the Masters with whom the Applicant has served; but such service will only be accepted as equivalent to two-thirds of the time served as ordinary deck hand. Failing satisfactory evidence, the Applicant will be required to perform additional service in the capacity of Seaman. Service as Cook (under other conditions than the above), or as Steward, or as Purser, will not be accepted. Service as Carpenter, Sail-maker, Cook, Steward, etc.

114. Service performed exclusively in Trawlers and other deep sea-fishing vessels or in Pilot Vessels will not qualify a Candidate for examination. He must, in addition, prove the following service:— Service in fishing or Pilot Vessels.

- (1) For a Foreign-going Certificate, service for at least eighteen months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign Trade, or the equivalent period (27 months) in the Home or Coasting Trade.
- (2) For a Home Trade Passenger ship Certificate service for at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign, Home or Coasting Trade.

115. Service in Pleasure Yachts will be accepted as qualifying service under the following conditions:— Service in Yachts.

- (a) It must in all cases be verified by satisfactory proofs, which must set forth clearly and in detail the nature and duration of the service claimed, and it must be distinctly understood that only actual sea service will be accepted, and that service in harbour or port is inadmissible.
- (b) Service in foreign-going Yachts will be accepted in full and service performed within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of not less than 50 tons net register or in Steam Yachts of not less than 80 tons gross register will be accepted in the proportion stated in para. 99; but Candidates must also show (1) for a Foreign-going Certificate, service for at least eighteen months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign Trade, or for the equivalent period (27 months) in an ordinary trading vessel in the Home or Coasting Trade; (2) for a Home Trade Passenger Ship Certificate, service for at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign, Home, or Coasting Trade.

- (c) Service within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of 20 tons net register, or in Steam Yachts of 40 tons gross register, will be accepted towards qualifying a candidate for a Foreign-going Certificate as equivalent to half the same time served in the Foreign Trade, but no amount of such service shall count as more than two years' service in the Foreign Trade, and no such service shall count as Officer's service to qualify Candidates for Foreign-going Certificates.
- (d) Service within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of not less than 20 tons net register, or in Steam Yachts of not less than 40 tons gross register will be accepted at the ordinary rate as qualifying service for Home Trade Passenger Ship Certificate, but Candidates must prove that they have in addition served for at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign, Home or Coasting Trade.
- (e) Service within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of less than 20 tons net register, or in Steam Yachts of less than 40 tons gross register, will not be accepted as qualifying service for any class of Certificate.

Tugs.

116. Service performed in Tugs employed in Channel Service or outside partially smooth water limits (see Appendix S, page 72) may be accepted as sea service for the purpose of qualifying a Candidate for a Mate's or Master's Certificate for Home Trade Passenger Ships.

Service in dredgers.

117. Service in Steam Hopper Barges may, subject to the provisions of para. 119, be allowed to count towards qualifying a Candidate for a Mate's Certificate of Competency for Home Trade Passenger Ships, provided the Candidate can prove at least two years' service in an ordinary trading vessel in either the Home, Coasting, or Foreign Trade. Service in these Steam Hoppers will not be accepted as Officer's service towards qualifying a Candidate for a Master's Certificate.

Service in Light-ships or Engine-rooms.

118. Service in Light-ships or in an Engine-room will not be accepted as sea service.

Service on rivers.

119. Service performed on rivers, no matter of what size, and service performed within smooth or partially smooth water limits (see Appendix S, page 72) will not be accepted.

Where any doubt whatever exists on this point, the Candidate will be required to produce a Certificate from the Master or Owner of the vessel in which the service was performed before the service can be accepted.

Service on Training Ships.

120. Half the time served on board a training ship will be allowed to count as service at sea up to a limit of one year (i.e., no length of service will be allowed to count as more than one year at sea), provided that the Candidate can produce a Certificate from the Committee that he has conducted himself creditably and passed a good examination in seamanship so far as it is practised in the training ship, as well as in other matters, down to the time of his leaving the ship, but this service will not be regarded as equivalent to service in square-rigged vessels.

Apprentices.

121. The whole of the time claimed under Indentures of Apprenticeship will be accepted as actual sea service.

to qualify under para. 27 for a second Mate's Certificate provided (a) that the Indentures have not been cancelled through some fault of the Candidate, but are endorsed by the Owner or Master to whom he was bound, to the effect that he has performed his service faithfully during the time he remained as Apprentice; and (b) that the Candidate has served at sea four-fifths of the time claimed, that is to say, has not spent more than one-fifth of the time in Home Ports. In cases where an Apprentice is qualified for examination before the expiration of his Indentures, e.g., where he has had training ship or other sea service prior to being bound, which together with his actual time as Apprentice makes up the required four years, or where his Indentures are for a period of more than four years, a letter from the Owner or Master will be accepted in place of the endorsement referred to above.

In the event of the Candidate being short of the required four-fifths of the time claimed as Apprentice out of the United Kingdom, he will be required to show sufficient additional sea service, either as seaman or junior officer, to make up the four-fifths of the time claimed.

122. The whole of the time served as midshipman or cadet under indentures will also be accepted subject to the same conditions as those laid down for apprentices; and the same will be the case even when not bound by indentures, provided that the service as midshipman or cadet has been continuous, and that on the date of the termination of the period of service claimed in this capacity the candidate was on articles of agreement, and that he is able to comply with the requirements laid down in the matter of serving or making up the four-fifths period at sea during the time claimed.

123. Service performed in the sea-going Steam Vessels of the Trinity House, of the Commissioners of the Northern Light-houses, or of the Commissioners of Irish Lights; will be accepted as sea service for the purpose of qualifying a Candidate for examination for a Home Trade Passenger Ship Certificate; but for a Foreign-going Certificate a Candidate must show in addition to this service calculated in accordance with paragraph 99 at least twelve months in an ordinary Trading Vessel. In order to qualify a Candidate for an Ordinary Certificate, this twelve months must have been performed in a square-rigged Sailing Vessel. (See para. 25.)

124. Officers of the Royal Navy are at liberty to apply for Certificates of Service and to be examined for Certificates of Competency in the Mercantile Marine, but the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have directed that the applications of officers on the active list should be made through their commanding officers, and that the applications of officers on half-pay should be made to the Secretary of the Admiralty, who, in either case, will forward the application to the Board of Trade. In the case of Royal Marine officers, applications for certificates of service should be made on a printed form Examination 18, which will be supplied free of charge on application to the Director of the Royal Indian Marine. Applicants on duty in India should submit their claims to the Director for transmission to the Government of India and the India Office. Officers on leave in England should submit their claims to the India Office, on the printed form which may be obtained from that office.

Service in Royal Navy.

The conditions on which Certificates of service are issued are stated at page 19.

125. Officers of the Royal Navy or of the Royal Indian Marine who wish to be examined for Certificates of Competency in the Mercantile Marine will be required to prove the following service; and if an officer wishes to obtain the Ordinary Certificate for Foreigngoing Ships, he must prove that at least twelve months of this required period was served under sail alone:—

Qualifications required of Naval officers.

- (i) For Second Mate.—The officer must prove four years' service at sea or that he has attained the rank of Acting Sub-Lieutenant.
- (ii) For Only Mate.—Five years' service at sea.
- (iii) For First Mate or Master.—The officer must prove that he has attained the rank of Sub-Lieutenant in the Royal Navy, or of Lieutenant in the Royal Indian Marine.

Service in Royal Naval Reserve.

126. Lieutenants, Sub-Lieutenants, and Acting Sub-Lieutenants of the Royal Naval Reserve who perform sea service on board His Majesty's ships will be allowed to count such service as if it had been performed in Foreign-going Merchant Ships; and the service will rank according to the Certificate of Competency held by the Candidate at the time. Midshipmen of the Royal Naval Reserve, possessing a First Mate's Certificate, and temporarily granted the rank of acting Sub-Lieutenant whilst undergoing twelve months' training afloat in the Royal Navy, will only be allowed to count such service as if it had been performed in, the capacity of Second Mate of a Foreign-going Merchant Ship with a First Mate's Certificate.

harbour ships.

127. If accompanied by a good report, half the time spent in Drill in the Royal Naval Reserve, and in Harbour Ships of the Royal or Colonial Navies, will be allowed to count as sea service, subject to the limit that no such service must amount to more than one-fourth of the time required for the particular grade of Certificate applied for.

CHAPTER IV.

CONDUCT OF THE EXAMINATIONS.

Commencement and
examinations.

128. The examinations will commence early in the forenoon, and will be continued from day to day until all the Candidates whose names appear upon the Port Officer's list on the day of examination are examined.

be punctual.

129. Candidates are required to appear at the examination room punctually at the time appointed.

Loose paper

130. Before commencing the examination, the tables or desks must be cleared of all scraps of paper or books that are not used in the examination, and care should be taken that the Candidates do not bring into the examination room any book or paper.

admitted.

131. No person will be allowed in the room during the examination, other than those whose duties require them to be present. No instructors will be allowed on the premises.

Books and
forbidden.

132. Candidates are prohibited from bringing into the examination room, books or papers of any kind whatever. The slightest infringement of this regulation will subject the offender to all the penalties of a failure, and he will not be allowed to present himself for re-examination for a period of three months.

133. No Candidate will be allowed to work out his problems on a slate or on waste paper, or to write on the blotting paper supplied for his use in the examination. Violation of this rule will subject the Candidate to all the penalties of a failure.

A sheet of blotting paper should be issued to each Candidate with the first examination paper, and it must be returned to the Examiner when the last paper is completed each day. The Examiner will be careful to see that the blotting paper has not been used by the Candidate in solving his problems or for conveying information to other Candidates.

are provided

134. All instruments necessary for use in the examinations are supplied by the Government.

or building.

135. No Candidate may leave the examination room without permission and without giving up the paper on which he is engaged. Under no circumstances will a Candidate be allowed to leave the building while the examination is proceeding. Violation of this rule will subject the Candidate to all the penalties of a failure.

Copying, &c.,
to be prevented.

136. Candidates should be so placed as to prevent one copying from the other, and no communication whatever between the Candidates should be allowed.

Examiners &c.

137. In the event of any Candidate being discovered referring to any book or paper, or copying from another, or affording any assistance or giving any information to another, or communicating in any way with another, during the time of examination, or solving any part of the problems for the purpose of taking them out of the examination room, he shall be liable to the same penalties as a failure.

138. If a Candidate defaces, blots, writes in or otherwise injures any book or form belonging to the Board, his papers will be retained until he has replaced the damaged book or document. He will not be allowed to remove the damaged book or document, and will be subjected to all the penalties of a failure. Injury to books.

139. Perfect silence is to be preserved in the examination room. Silence.

140. Any Candidate violating any of the regulations, or being guilty of insolence to the Examiner, or of disorderly or improper conduct in or about the room, will render himself liable to the postponement of his examination; or if he has passed, to the detention of his Certificate for such period as the Government may direct. Penalty for breach of rules.

141. The examination papers of Candidates must in all cases be sent to the Port Officer, Calcutta, for his approval, together with the report of the examination on the Form, Exn. 14. Should the envelope containing the examination papers appear to have been opened, or in any way tampered with, the Examiner should, if he thinks it necessary, defer the examination until the following day. In the event of any case of this kind occurring, a full report of the circumstances, and of the steps taken in the matter, should be immediately forwarded to the Port Officer, Calcutta. Examination papers, how to be dealt with.

142. The examination papers should be issued to the Candidates in half sheets only and one at a time. This will prevent a Candidate from spreading out the sheets on the table so as to enable his neighbour to look over the problems. It will also enable the Examiner to look over and report upon the work on one-half sheet, while the Candidate is at work upon another. When the errors are not too numerous, the incorrect problems may be returned to the Candidate for correction, but in no case should the errors be pointed out by the Examiner, neither should any marks be made which would indicate how far or to what extent, the work is incorrect. The incorrect problems are not to be returned to the Candidate for correction a second time, and should more than one of the problems—or two, if the errors are only slight—be still incorrect, this would involve a failure. It must be understood, however, that the day's work, latitude by meridian, altitude of sun and star, chronometer problem by sun and star, and the Sumner problem must always be correct. Papers to be issued singly.

143. When, from the large number of the Candidates, it may sometimes be found impossible to look over the work on the day of examination during the office hours, an hour in the morning of the following day may be allotted for the purpose of correcting the problems, but in no case should a Candidate have his problem returned to him for correction after he has made the second attempt. Extra hour allowed in certain cases.

144. In the examinations for Extra Certificates for Foreign-going Ships and for Steamships, the Candidate will be required to complete the whole of his problems and other papers, which must not be returned to the Candidate for correction, but will then be dealt with by the Examiner on the mark system. If the Candidate does not obtain 85 per cent. of the total number of marks allotted for the papers, he will be declared to have failed. (See Appendix Q, page 70.) Extra certificates.

145. The examination will commence with not less than a quarter of an hour's dictation to test handwriting and spelling. This, however, is only to be given to those Candidates who present themselves for examination for the first time for a Foreign-going Certificate. The spelling must be reasonably and fairly good, and the writing clear and legible. The spelling and writing of all Candidates must be satisfactory, and in cases where there is any doubt about the ability of a Candidate to spell correctly, he will be specially tested by dictation. Dictation.

146. The paper of definitions (see Appendix O, page 31) is only for those Candidates who present themselves for examination for the first time for a Foreign-going Certificate. In using this paper, the Examiner will place a mark against the questions which he wishes to be answered, not less than ten questions being so selected. The Candidate will then write against the questions so marked his definition of the terms in a clear and legible hand, and so as to prevent the possibility of any letter being mistaken, and also draw a rough sketch or diagram opposite to each of the questions to which he has given written answers in further illustration of its meaning. The vised voce questions will be asked on the answers given. (See para. 156.)

deviation.

147. In the questions on the Deviation of the Compass (see Appendix I, page 50), the Examiner will mark at least twelve of the questions, including the problems. The selected questions will be varied frequently, and no two Candidates will have precisely the same questions. The Candidate will be furnished with sheets of the blank ruled paper which is supplied for the purpose, with instructions that he is to write only on one side of the paper, and to answer in a clear and legible hand each of the questions against which a mark is placed, and to commence each answer by writing down the number of the question to which it relates in the margin. In answering question 39 on the tentative method of compass adjustment, the Candidate will be tested by Beall's Compass Deviascope, and it will not therefore be necessary for him to give the written answer and sketches. A Candidate for an Extra Master's Certificate will not be required to answer the questions on Compass Deviation on Form Exn. 7, but will be examined in the Syllabus shown in Appendix K, page 52, and with the Compass Deviascope.

tides, &c.

148. The examination on the Barometer, Thermometer, and Hydrometer, prevailing winds and currents of the globe, Trade routes and Tides will for the present be conducted orally, and the questions asked by the Examiner, which will be constantly varied, will be confined to and based on the information given in the test-books mentioned in Appendix R, page 71. Candidates will be required to have a fair and intelligent knowledge of the contents of those books.

of sextant.

149. Particular attention should be paid to the adjustments of the sextant, the examination in which subject will be conducted orally and practically. Every candidate will be examined practically as to his knowledge of the adjustments, and the use of the various screws; he must be able to read correctly off the arc, a supposed index error being given by the Examiner, as additive, as well as reading on the arc in the usual way; he must also be able to find the index error both by the horizon and by the sun.

Corrections.

150. Candidates will find it more convenient, both during the examination and at sea, to correct the declination and other elements from the Nautical Almanac by the hourly differences given in that work; they will thereby render themselves independent of any proportional or logarithmic table for that purpose.

tables.

151. The corrections by inspection of tables given in some of the works on navigation, e.g., Tables IX, XI, and XXI in Noris's Epitome, will not be allowed; every correction must appear on the papers of the Candidates.

Minor corrections to be shown.

152. All outstanding or minor corrections should appear in the margin of each problem paper, and on the chart papers, and the papers of the Candidate will not be considered complete without these corrections.

Problems are tests.

153. Examiners should bear in mind that the problems to be solved are required as tests, and for the purposes of an examination, and not for sea-going or practical purposes alone.

Candidates may use own method.

154. The Candidates will be allowed to work out the various problems according to the method and the tables they have been accustomed to use.

Problems to be varied.

155. All the problems given in the examinations, both for the Ordinary and for the Extra Certificates, will be constantly varied; and the mode of stating the times in the astronomical problems, and the mode of wording and setting these and all other problems will be varied in every possible way, so as to ensure that the Candidate has a proper knowledge of the subject.

156. Candidates are expected not only to give correct ^{Supplement-} written answers to the questions set in the papers, but also ^{ary vid voce.} to possess an intelligent knowledge of the various subjects prescribed in the regulations. The Examiner will therefore put a few vid voce questions to the Candidate as the papers are brought up for inspection or during the course of the examination. The questions, which will be based on the papers set, will be such that the Examiner may satisfy himself that the Candidate possesses a real knowledge of what he has written.

157. When an Examiner finds it necessary to fail a ^{Failure in} Candidate in this supplementary vid voce test, a statement ^{supplement-} to that effect will be made on the Candidate's examination ^{ary vid voce.} papers before they are forwarded to the Port Officer, Calcutta.

Time allowed.

158. Candidates for Second Mate's Ordinary Certificates ^{Second Mate.} must complete the whole of the examination in Navigation in nine hours, including the time allowed for writing the definitions on Form Exn. 4a, the paper on the chart, and the correction of all errors and oversights; but the quarter of an hour's dictation and all the nautical problems, excepting the chart paper, must be completed within six hours, and without the Candidates leaving the premises during that period.

159. Candidates for Only and First Mates' Ordinary ^{Only and First} Certificates must complete the whole of the examination ^{Mates.} in Navigation in twelve hours,* including the time allowed for the papers on the chart; cyclones or revolving storms; and for the correction of all errors and oversights; but the nautical problems up to and including (k) of the Syllabus, prescribed for Only and First Mate must be completed within six hours and without the Candidates leaving the premises during that period.

160. Candidates for Ordinary Certificates as Master must ^{Masters,} complete the whole of the examination in Navigation in ^{Ordinary.} fifteen hours, including the time allowed for the papers on the chart; compass deviation; cyclones or revolving storms; and for the correction of all errors and oversights; but the problems given, up to and including (k) of the Syllabus prescribed for Only and first Mate, must be completed within six hours, and without the Candidates leaving the premises during that period.

161. Candidates for Certificates for Foreign-going ^{Time allowed} Steamships will be allowed the same amount of time to com- ^{Steamship} plete their navigation work as is allowed in the case of ^{Certificates,} Ordinary Certificates.

162. Candidates for Certificates as Masters of pleasure ^{Yacht} Yachts will be allowed the same amount of time for com- ^{Masters.} pleting the examination as the Candidates for Ordinary Masters' Certificates.

163. Candidates for Home Trade Mates' Certificates ^{Home Trade} must complete the whole of their arithmetical chart, and ^{Mates.} other papers, within eight hours, and Candidates for Home Trade Masters' Certificates within ten hours.

164. The time allowed to Candidates for Extra Certi- ^{Masters, extra} ficates to complete the whole of the problems and writings, ^{certificates.} including the Compass Syllabus, must not exceed 26 hours.

165. A period not exceeding eleven hours will be allowed ^{Compass} to Candidates for the completion of the whole of the ^{syllabus.} examination in the Compass Syllabus, including the correction of all errors and oversights in both the problems and writings.

166. Punctually at the expiration of the prescribed time ^{Papers to be} all papers will be collected whether completed or not. If ^{collected} the papers are not completed, the Candidate will be declared ^{punctuality.} to have failed, unless the Port Officer should see fit to lengthen the period in any special case. Where such an extension of time is granted, the case must be fully reported to the Government on the Form Exn. 14.

* A Candidate who is not applying for a Second Mate's Certificate, and has not previously passed an examination, may be allowed the time allotted for dictation and writing his definitions on form Exn. 4a, in addition to the above.

time extra.

167. The periods prescribed in the foregoing paragraphs are not intended to include the time occupied by the viva voce part of the examination.

time allowed.

168. In the viva voce examination a reasonable time should be allowed for the Candidate to give his answers. No assistance should be given or leading question put.

for navigation.

169. It is anticipated that few Candidates will require the whole of the time allowed for completing the examination in Navigation, but ample time has been given so that the work may be done carefully and be clear and legible, and to the entire satisfaction of the examiners.

Order of work.

170. Candidates, after finishing the problems required in the various grades on the first day of examination, should proceed, until the end of that day, with such subjects as the definitions, chart, questions relating to cyclones and compass deviation.

problem.

171. The Sumner problem (Exn. 6C) must on no account be given out to any of the Candidates on the first day of the examination, but should form the commencement of the Candidates' work on the second day. On completion of this problem the Candidates for Masters' Certificates should proceed with the problems (a), (b), (c) of the Syllabus for that Grade.

172. Degree of precision required in the solution of the problems:—

- (a) Candidates are expected to work out their answers to all problems where the answer required is a latitude, longitude or distance within $1\frac{1}{2}'$ of position from a correct result: in finding the ship's position by Sumner's method a margin of $2\frac{1}{2}'$ will be allowed.
- (b) In such problems as the "Amplitude" and "Alt-Azimuth," where the bearing, deviations, &c., only are required, a margin of $3'$ or $4'$ from a correct result will be sufficiently accurate.
- (c) Candidates for Ordinary Certificates are not required to correct for second differences in taking out the quantities from the Nautical Almanac; and even Candidates for extra Certificates are only required to show that they are acquainted with the method of second differences by correcting the elements for same in the lunar problem.
- (d) In solving the Time Azimuth problems an answer not exceeding half a degree from the exact result will be sufficiently near. But in all cases the actual latitude, declination, and time used, together with the exact bearing from the North or South as given in the tables, must be clearly shown by the Candidate on his papers.
- (e) In computing the time at which a given star will be on the observer's meridian, and the name of the stars near the meridian [sections (b) and (c) of paragraph 32], an approximation only is required, and it will be sufficiently precise if the Candidate works throughout with the nearest minute of time. In computing the approximate meridian altitude of a star [section (g)], working throughout with the nearest minute of arc will also be sufficiently close.
- (f) In interpolating for the correct deviation to be applied in solving the chart questions, it will usually be sufficient if the Candidate works throughout with the nearest degree of deviation taken from the Deviation Card; and even in cases where the deviations may vary but little, the nearest half degree used throughout will be sufficiently precise. It is not necessary that the Candidate should waste his time in solving the course to odd minutes as is sometimes done.
- (g) In calculating the correction to apply to Soundings, the Candidate is not required to work to the exact inch, as is sometimes done. It will be sufficient if he brings his answer within half a foot or so of a precise result.

- (4) In the Lunar problem a difference of 3' in the longitude from the correct answer as deduced by a rigorous method by spherical trigonometry will be allowed.

It must be clearly understood in reading the foregoing instructions as to the precision required, that they only apply when the work of the Candidate is correct in principle. No candidate to be examined twice in a week.

173. A Candidate will not be allowed to undergo examination twice in the same week, unless under very special and urgent circumstances the Port Officer should see fit to relax this rule. In that case a special set of problems should be supplied to the Candidate.

EXAMINATIONS OF MASTERS AND MATES.

INSTRUCTIONS TO EXAMINERS AND NOTICE TO CANDIDATES.

Extra Masters' Certificates.

On and after the 1st January 1907, the following alteration will be made in the examination of Extra Masters' Certificates.

The Lunar Problem referred to in paragraph 61(a) of the Regulations relating to the examination of Masters and Mates will no longer be set in this examination. In its place a paper on Naval Architecture will be given, the Candidate being required to give written answers to six or ten questions on this subject, and also to satisfy the Examiner in the supplementary visd voce test. For the purpose of this examination the Board of Trade have adopted "The Modern Practice of Shipbuilding in Iron and Steel" as a text-book, from which the questions will be set, and they advise intending Candidates to take this or other books on the subject to sea with them, so that they can study at their leisure.

APPENDIX C.

DEFINITION PAPER.

THE Candidate is required to write a short definition or answer, accompanied by a rough sketch or diagram, where applicable in the case of so many of the following questions as may be marked with a cross by the Examiner. The Examiner will mark not less than ten. Candidates must write clearly and pay attention to the spelling:—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. Great circles. | 47. Polar distance. |
| 2. Vertex of a great circle. | 48. Right ascension. |
| 3. Small circles. | 49. Dip or depression of the horizon. |
| 4. Vertical circles. | 50. Refraction. |
| 5. Right angle. | 51. Parallax. |
| 6. Oblique angle. | 52. Semi-diameter. |
| 7. Obtuse angle. | 53. Augmentation of moon's semi-diameter. |
| 8. Spherical angle. | 54. Magnetic meridian. |
| 9. Arc. | 55. True course of a ship. |
| 10. Complement of an arc or angle. | 56. Magnetic course. |
| 11. Supplement of an arc or angle. | 57. Compass course. |
| 12. The equator. | 58. Variation of the compass. |
| 13. The poles. | 59. Deviation of the compass, and how it is caused. |
| 14. A meridian. | 60. The error of the compass. |
| 15. The ecliptic. | 61. Leeway. |
| 16. The Tropics. | 62. Does the variation change with time? |
| 17. Equinoctial. | 63. Is the variation the same all over the world? |
| 18. The visible horizon. | 64. Where do you find the variation? |
| 19. The sensible horizon. | 65. Does the deviation change; if so, when? |
| 20. The rational horizon. | 66. Where is the North magnetic pole situated? |
| 21. Artificial horizon, and its use. | 67. Where is the South magnetic pole situated? |
| 22. Parallels of latitude. | 68. Should the compass needle point to the magnetic or the true pole of the earth? |
| 23. Difference of latitude. | 69. When is the altitude of an object most seriously affected by refraction? |
| 24. Meridional parts. | 70. Where is the Pole star situated? |
| 25. Longitude. | 71. Which is the most favourable time for determining the hour angle of a celestial body, and thence the longitude, and state the reason why? |
| 26. Difference of longitude. | 72. Describe the construction of a mariner's compass. |
| 27. Departure. | 73. Describe an Azimuth compass. |
| 28. Nautical mile. | 74. Describe a Pelorus, and its use. |
| 29. Rhumb line. | 75. Describe a Chronometer, and its use. |
| 30. Prime meridian. | |
| 31. First point of Aries. | |
| 32. Prime vertical. | |
| 33. Civil time. | |
| 34. Astronomical time. | |
| 35. Sidereal time. | |
| 36. Mean time. | |
| 37. Apparent time. | |
| 38. Equation of time; why it is used, and when it is at a maximum, and when at a minimum. | |
| 39. Hour angle of a celestial object. | |
| 40. Observed altitude. | |
| 41. Apparent altitude. | |
| 42. True altitude. | |
| 43. Zenith distance. | |
| 44. Azimuth. | |
| 45. Amplitude. | |
| 46. Declination. | |

APPENDIX D.

INTERNATIONAL CODE OF SIGNALS.

Examiners are recommended to frame the examination in the International Code of Signals upon the instructions and illustrations given at the commencement of Parts I and II of the Signal Book. The information there given will be found sufficient to indicate all the characteristics of the Code.

By the form of the hoist, an observer can at sight understand the nature of any signal he sees flying; the examination should, therefore, tend to elicit a clear knowledge of all the distinctive features of the Code.

With this object in view, the Examiners should question the candidates as to the distinguishing forms of the respective hoists, which will be indicated according as a burgee, a pennant, or a square flag is uppermost, and also with regard to the number of flags, and the position of the Code flag when used in the hoist, making the 1, 2, 3 and 4 flag signals on the models supplied for the purpose, and varying the signals made, showing 2 and 3 flag signals with and without the Code flag included, or a Geographical or a Vocabulary signal, the name of a merchant ship, or of a ship of war.

As the two latter signals would not be found in the Signal Book, the candidate should know where to find them and then be required to read them from the Code List of Ships.

The candidate should—(a) Be able to read a signal at sight, so far as to name the flags composing the hoist (b) Know the use of the Code pennant and of the pennants U and D, "Yes" and "No," also of the two burgees A and B and the square flags S and P, and the flags used to indicate cholera, plague, &c., on board, and the Quarantine flag. (c) Be required to signal some word or words not included in the Vocabulary of the Code either by letters or by the Spelling Table (page 516) or both. (d) Have a knowledge of the Distant Signals and of their object, and the different modes of signalling therewith; and be required to make, and read off, one or two signals on the models supplied for this purpose. (e) Understand the Morse Code and know the special signals indicated by certain letters as given on page 550. (f) Have a good knowledge of the Distress Signals and understand the penalty which may be incurred by their improper use.

The ball being the distinguishing symbol of the Distant Signal, any pennants or flags may be used in conjunction with it irrespective of colour, when employed as an alternative for the cone and drama, but the latter should always be used where practicable.

The International Code is used on board His Majesty's ships, and it has been adopted by all the principal Maritime Powers for their public as well as their private ships.

SEMAPHORES.

Plates 1 and 2, Part II, of the Signal Book explain the method by which the arms of the Semaphore are made to represent by their position with respect to the indicator the four symbols used for distant signalling, viz., a ball, a cone point upwards, a cone point downwards and a drum.

Before making signals with the Semaphore, the black disc with a white ring should be placed on the top of the Semaphore mast and the indicator shown on the proper side.

A list of the countries to which messages will be forwarded by the French Semaphore Stations, with the tariff, will be found on page 548 of the Signal Book.

Note.—The International Code of Signals, with the Code List, is prepared by the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen, and may be obtained of the Publishers, Messrs. Spottiswoode & Co, 54 Gracechurch Street, London, and the principal Booksellers at the various ports.

The Official Mercantile Navy List and Maritime Directory, may be obtained in like manner, price 12s.

APPENDIX E.

REGULATIONS FOR PREVENTING COLLISIONS AT SEA.

L. Order in Council of November 27, 1906.

SCHEDULE I.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high sea and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following rules every steam-vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam-vessel.

The word "steam-vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, &c.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise, and during such time no other lights, which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights, shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam-vessel when under way shall carry—

- (a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.
- (b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.
- (c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.
- (d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.
- (e) A steam-vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam-vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line, one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam-vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4 (a).—A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam-vessel, in lieu of that light two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 3 miles, and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 3 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam-vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line, one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this Article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signals that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 31.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam-vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam-vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20 tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when under way, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a), (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them, they shall be provided with the following lights:—

1. Steam-vessels, of less than 40 tons shall carry:

(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right-ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steam-boats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or to other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars, or sail shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a) and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Pilot vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed 15 minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side lights lighted, ready for use, and shall for flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above-mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

Article 9.

* This Article will deal with regulations affecting fishing boats, and will be the subject of another order, which will be submitted to His Majesty for approval at a later date.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 150 feet in length, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40 feet above the hull, one such light and at or near the stern of the vessel and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fair way shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12.—Every vessel may, if necessary, in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by ship-owners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

Article 14.—A steam-vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in day time, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound Signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given:

1. By "steam-vessels" on the whistle or siren.

2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam-vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn, to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow or heavy rain-storms, whether by day or night the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz.:—

- (a) A steam-vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.
- (b) A steam-vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 2 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.
- (c) A sailing-vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.
- (d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.
- (e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules shall, instead of the signals prescribed in subdivisions (a) and (c) of this Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound three blasts, in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing-vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal at intervals of not more than 1 minute.

* In all cases where the Rules require a bell to be used, a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board small sailing vessels.

Speed of ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam-vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

STEERING AND SAILING RULES.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approaching one another so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:—

- (a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.
- (b) A vessel which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.
- (c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.
- (d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.
- (e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam-vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or, by night, to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam-vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam-vessel and a sailing-vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam-vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing-vessel.

Article 21.—Where by any of these Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See Articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam-vessel, which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel, shall, on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft her beam, i. e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forward of or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam-vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of fair way or mid channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing-vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines, or trawls. This rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and construing these rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one second's duration.

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam-vessel under way, in taking any course authorised or required by these rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to star-board."

Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."

Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessel under any Circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29.—Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew, thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out or of the neglect to any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30.—Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

SCHEDULE II.

*Distress Signals.

Article 31.—When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz:—

In the day time—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about minute;
2. The international Code signal of distress indicated by N. C;
3. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball;†
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

At night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel etc.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description fired one at a time, at short intervals;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

*If a master of a vessel uses or displays, or causes or permits any person under his authority to use or display, any of those signals of distress, except in case of a vessel being in distress, he shall be liable to pay compensation for any labour undertaken, risk incurred, or loss sustained in consequence of that signal having been supposed to be a signal of distress, and that compensation may, without prejudice to any other remedy, be recovered in the same manner in which salvage is recoverable [Merchant Shipping Act, Section 434(2)].

†A further distress signal is provided in the new International Code of Signals. It is a distant signal consisting of a cone point upwards having either above it or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball. This signal has not been sanctioned by order in Council under the provisions of section 434 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894.

2. Fishing vessels' lights. Article 10 of the order in Council of August 11th, 1884.

Article 10.—Open boats and fishing-vessels of less than 20 tons net registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side, and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

The following portion of this Article applies only to fishing-vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre:—

- (a) All fishing-vessels and fishing-boats of 20 tons net registered tonnage or upwards, when under way and when not required by the following regulations in this Article to carry and show the lights therein named shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.
- (b) All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exhibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; and so that the horizontal distance between them measured in a line with the keel of the vessel shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.
- (c) A vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out shall carry the same lights as a vessel when engaged in fishing with drift nets.
- (d) If a vessel when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall show the light and make the fog-signal for a vessel at anchor.
- (e) Fishing-vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required, to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling, dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after part of the vessel, excepting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.
- (f) Every fishing-vessel and every open boat when at anchor between sunset and sunrise shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.
- (g) In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes make a blast with her fog horn and ring her bell alternately.

3. ORDERS IN COUNCIL OF 30TH DECEMBER 1884 AND 24TH JUNE 1885.

ALTERNATIVE LIGHT FOR TRAWLERS WHEN ENGAGED IN TRAWLING HAVING THEIR TRAWLS IN THE WATER AND NOT BEING STATIONARY.

1884—PART I—STEAM-VESSELS OF 20 TONS GROSS REGISTERED TONNAGE OR UPWARDS.

(1) On or in front of the foremost head and in the same position as the white light which other steam-ships are required to carry, a lantern showing a white light ahead, a green light on the starboard side and a red light on the port side; such lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and arranged as to show an uniform and unbroken white light over an arc of the horizon of four points of the compass, a uniform and unbroken green light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, and a uniform and unbroken red light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, and it shall be so fixed as to show the white light from right ahead to two points on the bow on each side of the ship, the green light from two points on the starboard bow to four points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and the red light from two points on the port bow to four points abaft the beam on the port side: (2) a white light in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light all round the horizon; the lantern containing such white light shall be carried lower than the lantern showing the green, white, and red lights as aforesaid; so, however, that the vertical distance between them shall not be less than 6 feet and not more than 12 feet.

1884.—PART II—SAILING VESSELS OF 20 TONS NET REGISTERED TONNAGE OR UPWARDS.

(1) On or in front of the foremast head a lantern having a green glass on the starboard side and a red glass on the port side, so constructed, fitted, and arranged that the red and green do not converge, and so as to show a uniform and unbroken green light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, and a uniform and unbroken red light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, and it shall be so fixed as to show the green light from right ahead to four points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and the red light from right ahead to four points abaft the beam on the port side; and (2) a white light in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light all round the horizon; the lantern containing such white light shall be carried lower than the lantern showing the green and red lights as aforesaid; so, however, that the vertical distance between them shall not be less than 6 feet and not more than 12 feet.

1885.—SAILING TRAWLERS OF ANY TONNAGE.

As regards sailing-vessels engaged in trawling, such vessels having their trawls in the water and not being stationary in consequence of their gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, if they do not carry and show the lights carried by sailing-vessels under way, or the other lights of the description set forth in Part 2 of the schedule to the order in Council of the 30th of December, 1884, shall carry and show in lieu of these lights, other lights as follows, that is to say:—

A white light in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light all round the horizon, and visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of at least 2 miles; and also a sufficient supply of red pyrotechnic lights which shall each burn for at least 30 seconds and shall, when so burning, be visible for the same distance under the same conditions as the white light. The white light shall be shown from sunset to sunrise, and one of the red pyrotechnic lights shall be shown on approaching, or on being approached by another ship or vessel in sufficient time to prevent collision.

4. ORDER IN COUNCIL OF 7TH JULY 1897.

LIGHTS TO BE CARRIED BY STEAM PILOT VESSELS.

A steam pilot vessel exclusively employed for the service of Pilots licensed or certified by any Pilotage Authority or the Committee of any Pilotage District in the United Kingdom, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty, and in British waters and not at anchor, shall, in addition to the lights required for all pilot boats, carry at a distance of eight feet below her white masthead light a red light visible all round the horizon, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles, and also the coloured side lights required to be carried by vessels when under way.

When engaged on her station on pilotage duty and in British waters and at anchor, she shall carry, in addition to the light required for all pilot boats, the red light above mentioned, but not the coloured side lights.

When not engaged in her station on pilotage duty, she shall carry the same lights as other steam vessels.

EXAMINATION IN THE REGULATIONS FOR PREVENTING COLLISIONS AT SEA.

All applicants for examination, whether for Certificates as Masters or Mates, are to be examined as to their knowledge of the Regulations each time they present themselves for examination.

Questions suggested by the following heads of examination are to be asked in addition to, and are not to supersede, any other questions, proper and necessary, to be asked by the Examiner.

The following questions need not be adhered to literally by the Examiner, and are not all to be asked; but the substance of the leading questions should be asked, and all that are asked should be satisfactorily answered, before an applicant is reported to have passed his examination. The Examiner should make such selection of the questions as each case appears to him to require.

1. Where and by what vessels are the rules to be followed?

The rules are to be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

2. When is the steam-vessel considered a sailing-vessel, and when a steam vessel?

Under the rules every steam-vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing-vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam-vessel.

3. What does the word "steam vessel" in the rules include?

● The word "steam-vessel" as used in the rules includes any vessel propelled by machinery.

4. When is the vessel considered to be under way by these rules?

When she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore, or aground.

5. What does the word "visible" in these rules, when applied to lights, mean?

Visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere.

6. During what time must the rules, concerning lights be complied with?

In all weathers from sunset to sunrise, and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

7. What light or lights are required by the regulations to be exhibited by sailing-vessels at anchor?

If they are under 150 feet in length, one white light; if of 150 feet or upwards, two white lights, one forward and one aft.

8. What light or lights are required by the regulations to be exhibited by steam-ships at anchor?

The same as for sailing-vessels.

9. Where is the anchor light to be exhibited in a vessel under 150 feet in length?

Forward where it can best be seen. It must be placed where there is the least chance of obstruction from spars, ropes, &c. and must not be more than 20 feet above the hull.

10. Where must the two anchor lights be shown in vessels of 150 feet and upwards?

In vessels of 150 feet or upwards in length one light must be carried in the forward part of the vessel at a height of not less than 20 feet and more than 40 feet above the hull; and another light at or near the stern not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light.

11. In what direction or directions must the anchor lights show?

They must show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light, visible all round the horizon.

12. At what distance must they be visible?

At least one mile.

13. What shall be deemed to be the length of a vessel?

The length appearing in the certificate or registry.

14. What light or lights must a vessel aground in or near a fairway carry?

The light or lights prescribed for a vessel at anchor, and in addition the two red lights prescribed for a vessel not under command.

15. What is the number of lights required by the regulations to be carried by sailing ships when under way at night?

Two side lights, and to have in readiness a white light or a flare-up light to show from their stern to any vessel overtaking them.

16. Of what colour are these lights, and how are they to be placed on board the ship?

A green light on the starboard side, and a red light on the port side.

17. What description of lights must be shown from the sides of sailing vessels under way; and over how many points of the compass, and in what directions, and how far, are they required to show?

Each light must be so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass; so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard and port sides, respectively; and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

18. What lights are they to carry when being towed at night?

The same.

19. Are the side lights required to be fitted with screens; and if so, of what length, and how?

Yes, on the inboard side; at least 3 feet in length, measuring forward from the light so as to prevent the lights from being seen across the bow.

20. What is the number of lights required by the regulations to be carried by steam-vessels when under way at night?

Three lights, and to have in readiness a white light or flare-up light to show from their stern to any vessel overtaking them.

21. Of what colour are these lights, and how are they to be placed on board the ship?

A white light on or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the forepart of the vessel at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height than 40 feet. A green light on the starboard side, and a red one on the port side.

22. Over how many points of the compass, in what direction and how far, is the foremast-head light of a steam-vessel required to show?

Over 20 points, viz., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on each side. It must be of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least five miles.

23. Are the side lights required to be fitted with screens; and if so, of what length?

The green and red lights are to be fitted with screens on the inboard side, extending at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

24. Over how many points of the compass, in what directions, and how far, are the coloured side lights of steam-vessels required to show?

The side lights must be so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, on each side of the ship, i.e., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard and port sides, respectively, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least two miles.

25. May a steam-vessel when under way carry any additional light or lights?

Yes. A steam-vessel may carry a similar white light to the masthead light. These two lights must be so placed in line with the keel, that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and the lower light shall be forward of the upper one, and that the vertical distance between them shall be less than the horizontal distance.

26. What description of lights are steam-vessels required to carry when they are not under steam, but under sail only?

Side lights only, the same as sailing-vessels.

27. What exceptional lights may small vessels carry?

Whenever, as in the case of small vessels during bad weather, the green and red side lights cannot be fixed, those lights shall be kept at hand, lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side; nor, if practicable, more than two points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

28. Are steam-vessels of less than 40 tons gross tonnage compelled to carry the same lights as other steam-vessels; if not, what lights may they carry instead?

No; but if they do not carry the ordinary lights they must carry in the forepart of the vessel or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light to show over the same arc as the ordinary masthead light, and to be visible at a distance of at least two miles. Also a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on their respective sides, such lantern to be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

29. Are small steam boats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels obliged to carry the white light 9 feet above the gunwale?

No; but it must be carried above the combined lantern.

30. What lights may vessels under oars or sails of less than 20 tons gross tonnage carry?

They shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, in the approach of or to other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

31. What lights must rowing boats, whether under oars or sails, carry?

They must have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

32. What description of lights are pilot vessels required to carry when on their stations on pilotage duty?

A pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes. Also on the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side lights lighted ready for use and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading but the green light shall not be shown on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

33. What lights may pilot vessels which are obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, carry?

They may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured side lights, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed for the colour side lights.

34. What description of lights are steam pilot vessels required to carry when on their stations on pilotage duty in British waters and not at anchor?

A steam pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty and in British waters, and not at anchor, shall, in addition to the lights required for all pilot vessels, carry at a distance of 3 feet below her white masthead light a red light visible all round the horizon for at least two miles, and also the coloured side lights required to be carried by vessels under way.

35. What description of lights are steam pilot vessels required to carry when on their stations on pilotage duty in British waters, and at anchor?

A steam pilot vessel, when engaged on pilotage duty in British waters and at anchor, shall carry, in addition to the lights required for all pilot vessels, the red light 8 feet below her white light, but not the coloured side lights.

36. What description of lights are pilot vessels required to carry when not on their station on pilotage duty?

A pilot vessel, when not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of her tonnage.

37. What lights are open boats and fishing vessels of less than 20 tons not registered required to carry when under way and not actually engaged in fishing?

Open boats and fishing-vessels of less than 20 tons not registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredgers, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel, such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

38. What lights are fishing-vessels and fishing-boats of 20 tons not registered, or upwards, required to carry when under way and not actually engaged in fishing?

They must carry similar lights to those of other ships when under way.

39. What lights are steam trawlers of 20 tons gross register, or upwards, whilst actually engaged in trawling, and not being stationary, required to carry?

All steam-vessels engaged in trawling must carry either one of the two following arrangements of lights:—

(a) The usual green and red side lights, and foremast head light, similar to those carried by other steamships; or

(b) They must carry on or in front of the foremast head, and in the same position as the white light which other steamships are required to carry, a lantern showing a white light ahead, a green light on the starboard side, and a red light on the port side; such lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and arranged as to show a uniform and unbroken white light over an arc of the horizon of four points of the compass, a uniform and unbroken green light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, and an uniform and unbroken red light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, and it shall be so fixed as to show the white light from right ahead to two points on the bow on each side of the ship, the green light from two points on the starboard bow to four points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and the red light from two points on the port bow to four points abaft the beam on the port side: and (2) a white light in a globular lantern of not less than eight inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light all round the horizon; the lantern containing such white light shall be carried lower than the lantern showing the green, white, and red lights as aforesaid, so, however, that the vertical distance between them shall not be less than 6 feet nor more than 12 feet.

(40.) What lights are sailing trawlers, whilst actually engaged in trawling, and not being stationary, required to carry?

All sailing vessels, of whatever tonnage, whilst engaged in trawling, must carry either one of the three following arrangements of lights:—

(a) They may carry the green and red side lights similar to those of other sailing ships; or

(b) They may carry on, or in front of the foremast head, a lantern having a green glass on the starboard side and a red glass on the port side, so constructed, fitted, and arranged that the red and green do not converge, and so as to show a uniform and unbroken green light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, and an uniform and unbroken red light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, and it shall be so fixed as to show the green light from right ahead to four points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and the red light from right ahead to four points abaft the beam on the port side; and (2) a white light in a globular lantern of not less than eight inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear, uniform, and unbroken light all round the horizon; the lantern containing such white light shall be carried lower than the lantern showing the green and red lights as aforesaid, so, however, that the vertical distance between them shall not be less than 6 feet and not more than 12 feet; or

(c) They may carry a white light in a globular lantern of not less than eight inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light all round

- the horizon, and visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of at least 2 miles; and also a sufficient supply of red pyrotechnic lights which shall each burn for at least 30 seconds, and shall, when so burning, be visible for the same distance under the same conditions as the white light. The white light shall be shown from sunset to sunrise, and one of the red pyrotechnic lights shall be shown on approaching, or on being approached by, another ship or vessel in sufficient time to prevent collision.

41. What lights are vessels whilst actually engaged in drift net fishing required to carry?

All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exhibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; so that the horizontal distance between them, measured in a line with the keel of the vessel, shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction, as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.

42. What lights are vessels whilst actually engaged in the line fishing required to carry?

A vessel engaged in line fishing is required to carry the same lights as a vessel engaged in drift net fishing.

43. If a vessel, when fishing, becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, what signal must she make?

She must show the same light, and if a fog, mist, or falling snow or heavy rain storms prevail, she must make the same fog-signal as if she were at anchor.

44. What lights are fishing vessels and open boats required to exhibit when at anchor?

Between sunset and sunrise they must exhibit a white light, visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

45. What sound signals are fishing vessels required to make whilst engaged in fishing in thick weather?

In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall, at intervals of not more than two minutes, make a blast with her fog-horn and ring her bell alternately.

46. May fishing vessels and open boats use flare-up lights, and if so, at what part or parts of the vessel should they be exhibited?

Yes. Fishing vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are required to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling, dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after-part of the vessel, excepting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag-net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.

47. Do these regulations referring specially to fishing vessels and boats apply in all parts of the world?

No; with the exception of the first paragraph of Article 10 of the Order in Council of the 11th August 1884, they apply only to fishing vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre.

48. What lights are steam-ships required to carry when towing other vessels?

A steam-vessel when towing another vessel shall in addition to her side lights carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed, exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light [Article 2 (a)] which other steam-vessels are required to carry, except the additional light which may be carried at a height not less than 14 feet above the hull.

49. May a vessel towing carry any other light?

Yes. A small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

50. What light is a vessel which is being overtaken by another required to show?

A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to the other vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

51. May the white light be fixed?

Yes. But if so, it must be so constructed and screened to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz, for six points from right aft on each side of the vessel so as to be visible at a distance of at least one mile. This light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side lights.

52. Describe the lights and the day signals that vessels employed in laying or picking up a telegraph cable are required to carry.

A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam-vessels are required to carry, and if a steam-vessel in place of that light, three lights, in a vertical line over one another not less than 6 feet apart; the highest and lowest of these lights shall be red and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least two miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the top and bottom shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

53. Describe the lights and the day signals that vessels which from any cause are not under command, are required to carry?

A vessel, which from any accident is not under command, shall at night carry at the same height as the white light which steam-vessels are required to carry, where they can best be seen, and if a steam-vessel, in place of that light, two red lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes, each 2 feet in diameter.

54. Are the above-mentioned vessels to carry side-lights?

The above vessels, when not making any way through the water shall not carry the side-lights, but when making way shall carry them.

55. What are the shapes and lights carried by telegraph-ships and ships not under command intended to indicate to approaching vessels?

These shapes and lights are to be taken by approaching vessels as signals that the ship using them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

56. Do these rules prevent squadrons and convoys from carrying special lights, or vessels exhibiting recognition signals?

No. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war, or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by ship-owners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments, and duly registered and published.

57. May vessels exhibit any other lights in order to attract attention?

Yes. In addition to the lights which she is required to carry, she may show a flare-up light, or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

58. What signal must a steam-vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, carry in the day time?

She must carry forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape, 2 feet in diameter.

59. What sound signals are steam-vessels and sailing-vessels of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards required by the regulations to be provided with?

A steam-vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstructions and with an efficient fog horn to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell. A sailing-vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

60. When are these signals to be used?

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, whether by day or night.

61. What does a prolonged blast mean?

A blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

62. On what are the fog signals to be made by steam-vessels under way?

On the whistle or siren.

63. On what are the fog signals to be made by sailing-vessels and vessels towed?

On the fog-horn.

64. What sound signal is to be made by vessels at anchor?

Vessels at anchor shall, at intervals of not more than one minute, ring the bell rapidly for about five seconds.

65. What sound signal is required to be made by a steam-vessel having way upon her?

A steam-vessel having way upon her shall sound at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

66. What sound signal is required to be made by a steam-vessel under way, but stopped, and having no way upon her?

A steam-vessel under way, but stopped, and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals, of not more than two minutes, two prolonged blasts, with an interval of about one second between them.

67. What sound signals are required to be made by sailing-vessels when under way?

A sailing-vessel under way shall sound at intervals of not more than one minute, when on the starboard tack one blast; when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and, when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

68. What sound signals are required to be made by a vessel when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, or a vessel under way which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through not being under command or unable to manœuvre as required by the rules?

A vessel towing, or when laying or picking up a telegraph cable, or when unable to get out of the way, shall, at intervals of not more than two minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts.

69. What sound signal may a vessel being towed make?

A vessel towed may give the same signal as a vessel towing, and she shall not give any other.

70. What sound signal must sailing vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage make?

If they do not give the signal prescribed for other vessels, they must make some other efficient sound signal at intervals of not more than one minute.

71. Do the regulations require vessels to take any other precaution during thick weather?

Yes. Article 13 says every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, or falling snow or heavy rain-storms go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

72. What action must be taken by a steam-vessel hearing apparently forward of the beam the fog signal of another vessel the position of which is not ascertained?

She shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

73. How can you generally ascertain whether there is risk of collision in approaching another vessel?

By carefully watching the compass bearing of the other vessel, and if it does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

74. When a steam-vessel under way takes any course required by these rules, must she indicate that course to any vessel she has in sight?

Yes. Article 28 provides that in taking any course authorized or required by the regulations, a steam-vessel under way may indicate that course to any other vessel which she has in sight by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard."

Two short blast to mean "I am directing my course to port."

Three short blasts to mean "My engines are going full speed astern."

75. What does the expression "short blast" used in the preceding Article mean?

It means a blast of about one second's duration.

76. What precaution is to be taken by steam-vessels which are directed by these rules to keep out of the way when approaching another vessel?

They shall, if necessary, slacken speed, or stop and reverse.

77. If you see two white lights in a vertical line one over the other, what do they denote as regards the vessel carrying them?

They may denote the presence of a steam-vessel end on with her side-lights not within sight on account of distance, fog, &c., or a steam-vessel towing with her side-lights not within sight on account of distance, fog, &c.; or a vessel end on to me engaged in drift net fishing, or in line fishing; or it may be a steam trawler end on, or within two points of being end on to me, or a vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length at anchor and end on to me.

78. If you see a green, or a red light with a white light below, what do they denote?

They denote the presence of a steam-vessel engaged in trawling.

79. If you see both the green and red lights with a white light below them, what do they denote?

They denote the presence of a sailing trawler coming end on to me.

80. If you see a white light alone, what does it denote as regards the ship carrying it?

It denotes the presence of a vessel or boat at anchor; or a pilot vessel on her station; or the masthead light of a vessel, under steam with her side-lights not within sight on account of distance, fog, &c.; or a fishing vessel stationary through her gear getting fast to some obstruction, or a sailing trawler engaged in trawling, or it may be a light shown from the stern of a vessel which is being overtaken.

81. If you see a green or a red light without a white light, or both a green and a red light without a white light, is the vessel carrying the light or lights seen, a vessel under steam or a vessel under sail?

A vessel under sail.

82. How do you know?

Because there is no white mast-head light.

83. If you see a white light over a coloured light, is the vessel a vessel under sail or a vessel under steam?

A vessel under steam. The mast-head light denotes that the vessel is under steam.

[The Examiner will then take one model of a vessel, which he will place on the table, and call it A. He will then take the master stand with a white and red ball on it, and place it at the other end of the table, and call it B.

The Examiner should be careful that the model of one vessel only is used when the questions numbered 84 to 89 are asked.

84. A is a steam-vessel going north, seeing a white light and red light right ahead at B. Are A and the vessel B showing the two lights meeting end on, or nearly end on, or is B passing A, or is B crossing the path of A, and in what direction, and how do you know?

Passing to port, because if I see a red light ahead, I know that the head of the vessel carrying that red light must be pointing away in some direction to my own port or left hand. The vessel showing the red light has her port or left side more or less open to A.

85. If A is going north, within what points of the compass must the vessel B showing the white and red lights be steering?

B must be going from a little W. of S. to W. N. W.

86. How do you know this?

Because, the screens being properly fitted I could not see the red light of B at all with the vessel's head in any other direction.

87. A is a steam vessel going north, and seeing a white and green light ahead. Are A and B meeting, or is B passing A, or is B crossing the course of A, and in what direction; and how do you know?

B is passing to starboard of A, because if I see a green light ahead, I know that the head of the vessel carrying that green light must be pointing away in some direction to my starboard or right hand.

The ship showing the green light has her right or starboard side more or less open to me.

88. As A is going north, within what points of the compass must the vessel showing the white and green lights be steering?

B must be going from a little E. of South to E. N. E.

89. How do you know?

Because, the screens being properly fitted, I cannot see the green light at all with the vessel's head in any other direction.

90. If a steam-vessel A sees the three or four lights of another steam-vessel B ahead or nearly ahead, are the two steam-vessels meeting, passing or crossing?

Meeting end on, or nearly end on.

91. Do the regulations expressly require the course of a vessel to be altered to starboard in any case; any, if so, when?

Yes; in the case of two steam-vessels meeting end on, or nearly end on.

92. Do they expressly require the course of a vessel to be altered to starboard in any other case; and if so, in what other?

No, it is not in any other case expressly required by the regulations.

[The Examiner should see that the Candidate places the models in the position indicated by the question 93 and following.]

93. If a steam-vessel A sees another steam-vessel's red light B, on her own starboard side, are the steam-vessels meeting, passing, or crossing, and how do you know?

Crossing, because the red light of one is opposed to the green light of the other; and whenever a green light is opposed to a red light, or a red light to a green light, the vessels carrying the lights are crossing vessels.

94. Is A to stand on; and if not, why not?

A has the other vessel B on her own starboard side. A knows she is crossing the course of B because she sees the red light of B on her (A's) own starboard side. A also knows she must get out of the way of B, because Article 19 expressly requires that the steam-vessel that has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

95. Is A to starboard or to port in such a case?

A must do what is right so as to get herself out of the way of B; and must, if the circumstances 'of the case permit' avoid crossing ahead of B.

96. If A gets into collision by porting, will it be because she is acting on any rule?

No; the rule does not require her either to port or to starboard. If she ports, and gets into collision by porting, it is not the fault of any rule.

97. If a steam-vessel A sees the green light of another steam vessel B on her own (A's own) port bow, are the two steam-vessels meeting, passing or crossing; and how do you know?

Crossing, because the green light of one vessel is shown to the red light of the other.

98. What is A to do, and why?

By the rule contained in Article 21 of the regulations, A is required to keep her course and speed subject to the qualification that due regard must be had to all dangers of navigation and collision; and that due regard must also be had to any special circumstances which may exist in any particular case rendering a departure from that rule necessary in order to avoid immediate danger. The crossing vessel B on A's port side must get out of the way of A, because A is on B's starboard side.

99. A, a steam-vessel, sees the green light of another steam vessel, B, a point on her, A's port bow. Is there any regulation requiring A to port in such a case, and if so, where is it to be found?

There is not any.

100. Are steam-vessels to get out of the way of sailing-vessels?

If a steam-vessel and a sailing-vessel are proceeding in such direction as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel is to get out of the way of the sailing-vessel unless the sailing vessel is overtaking the steam-vessel.

101. What is to be done by A, whether a steam-vessel or sailing vessel if overtaking B?

A is to keep out of the way of B.

102. When is a vessel considered to be an overtaking vessel?

Every vessel coming up on another vessel from more than two points abaft her beam, i.e., in such a position with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, is an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels can make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of the rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaking vessel until she is finally passed and clear.

103. In the day time how do you know when you are an overtaking vessel?

It is often hard to judge with any degree of certainty, but if in doubt assume you are an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

104. Have sailing-vessels under way to keep out of the way of sailing-vessels and boats fishing?

Yes; they have to keep out of the way of sailing-vessels or boats fishing with nets, or lines or trawls; but this rule does not give to and vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing vessels or boats.

105. When by the rules one of two ships is required to keep out of the way of the other, what is the other to do?

To keep her course and speed.

106. Is there any qualification or exception to this?

Yes. Due regard must be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may exist in any particular case, and require a departure from the regulations to avoid immediate danger.

107. Is there any general direction in the steering and sailing rules, and if so, what is it?

Yes, it is this: that nothing in the rules shall exonerate any vessel or the owner, master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

108. Can you repeat Article () of the regulations? I refer to the article containing the rule for ().

[The Examiner will repeat this question, naming a different Article each time.]

109. What does the Act of Parliament provide as to the obligation of owners and masters in obeying the regulations respecting lights, fog-signals and steering and sailing?

Section 419 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, provides that owners and masters shall be bound to obey the regulations, and it also provides that in case of wilful default by the master or owner, he shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanour for each infringement.

110. What do breaches of the regulations imply?

If an accident happens through non-observance of the regulations, it implies wilful default on the part of the person in charge of the dock at the time, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the court hearing the case that the special circumstances of the case rendered a departure from the rules necessary.

111. If collision ensues from a breach of the regulations, who is to be deemed in fault for the collision?

The person by whom the regulations are infringed, unless the court, hearing the case decides to the contrary.

112. Is there any special rule for steam-vessels navigating narrow channels?

In narrow channels every steam-vessel must, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which is on the starboard side of such vessel.

113. Do the regulations for preventing collisions at sea apply to sea-going vessels in harbours and in rivers?

Yes; unless there is any rule to the contrary made by a competent authority.

114. Do they apply to British vessels only?

No. to foreign vessels as well, with the exception of paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f) and (g) of Article 10 of the Order in Council of the 11th August 1884, and Orders in Council of the 30th December 1884, 24th June 1885, and 7th July 1897, which apply only to British vessels.

115. Do you know where the present regulations are to be found?

Yes, in Article 10 of the Order in Council of the 11th August 1884 and in the Orders in Council of the 30th December 1884, 14th June 1885, 27th November 1896 and 7th July 1897.

116. Is one vessel bound to assist another in case of collision?

Yes.

117. What is the penalty for default?

If the master or person in charge of the vessel fails to render assistance without reasonable excuse, the collision is, in absence of proof to the contrary, to be deemed to be caused by his wrongful act, neglect or default.

118. Is there any other penalty attached to not rendering assistance?

Yes. If it is afterwards proved that he did not render assistance, his certificate may be cancelled or suspended by the court investigating the case.

119. Is it not expected that you should understand the regulations before you take charge of the deck of a vessel?

It is.

120. Why?

If I do not understand them and am guilty of default, the consequences will be very serious to me.

121. What would be a serious offence?

To cause a collision by porting the helm or doing anything not required by the regulations and without due consideration.

AIDS TO MEMORY in four verses, by the late Mr. THOMAS GRAY, C. B.

1. Two Steam-ships meeting.

When both side lights you see ahead—
Port your helm and show your R&B.

2. Two Steam-ships passing.

GREEN to GREEN—or, RED to RED—
Perfect safety—Go ahead!

3. Two Steam-ships crossing.

Note. This is the position of greatest danger: there is nothing for it but good look-out, caution, and judgment.

If to your starboard Red appear.
It is your duty to keep clear;
To act as judgment says is proper—
To port—or Starboard—Back—or, Stop her.
But when upon your Port is seen.
A Steamer's Starboard Light of GREEN.
There's not so much for you to do.
For GREEN to Port keeps clear of you.

4. All Ships must keep a good look-out and Steam-ships must stop, and go astern, if necessary.

Both in safety and in doubt.
Always keep a good look-out.
In danger, with no room to turn.
Ease her, stop her, go astern.

APPENDIX F.

SIGNALS TO BE MADE BY SHIPS WANTING A PILOT.

In the daytime.—The following signals, numbered 1 and 2, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals for a pilot in the daytime, viz.:—

1. To be hoisted at the fore, the Union Jack having round it a white border, one-fifth of the breadth of the flag; or
2. The International Code pilotage signal indicated by P. T.
3. The International Code flag S with or without the Code pennant over it.
4. The distant signal, consisting of a cone, point upwards, having above it two balls or shapes resembling balls.

At night.—The following signals, numbered 1 and 2, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals for a pilot at night, viz.:—

1. The pyrotechnic light commonly known as a blue light every fifteen minutes; or
2. A bright white light, flashed or shown at short or frequent intervals just above the bulwarks, for about a minute at a time.

If a master of a vessel uses or displays, or causes or permits any person under his authority to use or display, any of the pilot signals for any other purpose than that of summoning a pilot, or uses or causes or permits any person under his authority to use any other signal for a pilot, he shall for each offence be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds. [Merchant Shipping Act, 1904, Section 222.]

EXAMINATION IN CHART.

For all Grades where the Chart is used (including Home Trade Passenger Ship Certificates).

[The Candidate will be required to work out the following questions on either a "true" or "magnetic" chart,* whichever may be handed to him by the Examiner, and also determine whether the chart is a "true" or "magnetic" one, and whether it is for the northern or southern, and eastern or western hemisphere.]

1. Using deviation [card] [curve]† No. find the course to steer by compass from to ; also the distance

Answer.—Compass course

2. With the ship's head on the above-named compass course, a [point] [lighthouse] bore by compass find the ship's position. bore by the same compass.

Answer.—Latitude
Longitude

3. With the ship's head as above, a [point] [lighthouse] bore by compass, and after continuing on the same course mile it bore, find the position of ship and her distance from at the time of taking the second bearing.

Answer.—Latitude
Longitude
Distance

All the foregoing questions must be answered, but this does not preclude the Examiner from putting any other questions of a practical character or which the local circumstances of the port may require.

Additional questions for Masters, including Masters of Home Trade Passenger Ships.

4. Find the course to steer by compass from to (see Question 1) to counteract the effect of a current which set at the rate of miles per hour, the ship making by log miles per hour; also the distance the ship would then make good in hours towards

Answer.—Compass course
Distance

5. On being off took a cast of the lead; required the correction to be applied to the depth obtained by the lead line before comparing it with the depth marked on the chart.

6. What do you understand the small numbers to indicate that you see placed about the chart, and at what time of tide?

7. What do the Roman numerals indicate that are occasionally seen on the chart near the coasts and in harbours?

8. How would you find, approximately, the time of high water at any place, the Admiralty tables not being at hand, nor any other special tables available?

All the foregoing questions, and those on Form Exn. 9 C., must be answered, but this does not preclude the Examiner from putting any other questions of a practical character or which the local circumstances of the port may require.

* terms "true" and "magnetic" are used for the sake of brevity instead of indicating charts that have compasses delineated upon them as the "true" or "magnetic" points of the compass respectively.

1. The direction of the wind in a cyclone being*— state the probable bearing of its centre from the ship in the*—Hemisphere.
2. And suppose that the wind during the passage of the same cyclone were found to change towards the*— what would be the ship's position with reference to the line of progression of the centre of the cyclone, and what action would you take?
3. Under what conditions would the change in the direction of the wind in the cyclone be the reverse of the above?
4. What are the usual indications of a ship being on the line of progression of the centre of a cyclone?
5. What are the usual indications that a ship is (a) approaching the centre of a cyclone; (b) receding from it?
6. Describe the track usually taken by cyclones in the†—, and state the seasons of the year in which they most frequently occur in that region.

* These spaces to be filled in by the Examiners, and frequently varied.

† The Examiners to fill in whether North Atlantic, Bay of Bengal, China Seas, Indian Ocean, &c., &c.

APPENDIX I.

Questions on the deviation of the Compass used in the examination of Candidates for Certificates as Masters of Foreign-going Ships, as given on examination Form Exn. 7 :—

The candidate is to answer correctly such of the following questions as are marked with a cross by the Examiner. At least 12 will be marked.

The Examiner's attention is specially called to the importance of questions, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 39, which must be marked in all cases—

1. State briefly the essentials of an efficient Compass.
2. State briefly the chief points to be considered when selecting a position for your Compass on board ship, and what should be particularly guarded against.
3. What do you mean by Deviation of the Compass, and how is it caused.
4. Describe how you would determine the deviation of your compass—(1) by reciprocal bearings; (2) by figures on the dock walls; (3) by bearings of a distant object; (4) by the bearings of the sun or other celestial body.
5. Having determined the deviation with the ship's head on the various points of the compass, how do you know when it is Easterly and when Westerly?
6. Why is it necessary, in order to ascertain the deviations, to bring the ship's head in more than one direction?
For accuracy, which is the least number of points to which the ship's head should be brought for constructing a curve or table of deviations?
How would you find the deviation when sailing along a well-known coast?
Name some suitable objects by which you could readily obtain the deviation of the Compass when sailing along the coasts of the Channel you have been accustomed to use.
10. Supposing you have no means of ascertaining the magnetic bearing of a distant object when swinging your ship for deviations, how could you find it, approximately from bearings of the object taken with the ship's head on equi-distant Compass points; and what distance as a rule should the object be from the ship?
- 11 Example :—Having taken the following compass bearings of a distant object, find the object's magnetic bearing, and thence the deviation—

MAGNETIC BEARING REQUIRED :—

12. With the deviation as above, construct a curve of deviations on a Napier's diagram and give the courses you would steer by the Standard Compass to make the following courses magnetic :—
Magnetic courses,—S.S.W., W.N.W., N.N.E., E.S.E.
Compass courses required.
13. Supposing you have steered the following courses by the Standard Compass, find the magnetic courses made from the above curve of deviations :—
Compass courses,—W.S.W., N.N.W., E.N.E., S.S.E.
Magnetic courses required.
14. You have taken the following bearings of two distant objects by your Standard Compass as above ; with the ship's head at W. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. find the bearings, magnetic :—
Compass bearings—W. by S. and N. $\frac{1}{4}$ W.
Magnetic bearings required.
15. Do you expect the deviation to change ; if so, state under what circumstances ?
16. How often is it desirable to test the accuracy of your table of deviations ?
17. What is meant by variation of the Compass ; what is it caused by ; and where can you find the variation for any given position ?
18. The earth being regarded as a magnet, which is usually termed the blue, and which the red magnetic pole ?
19. Which end of a magnet (or compass needle) is usually termed the red or "marked" end, and which the blue ?
20. What effect has the pole of one magnet of either name on the pole of another magnet ?
21. What is meant by transient induced magnetism ?
22. Which is the red and which is the blue pole of a mass of soft vertical iron, by induction, and what effect would the upper and lower ends of it have on the compass needle (a) in the Northern hemisphere, (b) in the Southern hemisphere, (c) on the magnetic Equator ?
23. Describe what is usually termed the sub-permanent* magnetism of an iron ship, and state when and how it is acquired, and which is the red and which is the blue pole, and why it is called sub-permanent magnetism ?
24. Describe the meaning of the expression co-efficient A ?
25. Describe the meaning of the expression co-efficient B : its signs and effects.
26. Describe the meaning of the expression co-efficient C : its signs and effects.
27. Describe the meaning of the expression co-efficient D : its signs and effects.
28. Describe the meaning of the expression co-efficient E ; its signs and effects.
29. Could you expect any chance to be caused in the error of your compass by the ship heeling over either from the effect of the wind or the cargo, &c. ?
30. The compass of iron ships being more or less affected by what is termed the heeling error, on what courses is this error usually at its minimum, and on what courses at its maximum ?
31. Describe clearly the three principal causes of the heeling error on board ship.
32. State to which side of the ship in the majority of cases is the north point of the compass drawn when ship heels over in the Northern hemisphere.
33. Under what conditions (that is, as regards position of ship whilst building, and the arrangement of iron in the ship) is the north point of the compass needle usually drawn to windward or the high side of the ship in the northern hemisphere, and if not allowed for, what effect has it on the assumed position of the ship when she is steering on northerly and on southerly courses in the Northern hemisphere ?
34. Under what conditions (as in question 33) is the north point of the compass needle usually drawn to leeward or the low side of the ship in the Northern hemisphere, and, if not allowed for, what effect would it have on the assumed position of the ship when she is steering on northerly, and on southerly courses in the Northern hemisphere ?
35. The effects being as you state, on what courses would you keep away, and on what courses would you keep closer to the wind in the Northern hemisphere in order to make good a given compass course (a) when north point of compass is drawn to windward or the high side of ship ; and (b) when drawn to leeward or the low side ?
36. Does the same rule hold good in both hemispheres with regard to the heeling error ?

* The term sub-permanent magnetism in these questions is used in the original sense as proposed by the late Sir G. B. Airy, to denote the character of the permanent magnetism of an iron ship as distinguished from the permanent magnetism of a magnetized steel bar. The terms "sub-permanent" and "permanent" throughout

37. State clearly how that part of the heeling error due to the permanent part of the magnetism of the ship varies as the ship changes her position on the globe, and give the reason for it?
38. State clearly how that part of the heeling error due to the induction in transverse iron (which was horizontal when ship was upright) and iron vertical to the ship's deck, varies as the ship changes her position on the globe.
39. Your compass having a large error, show by Beall's Compass Deviascope how you would correct it by compensating magnets and soft iron (as usually practised by compass adjusters in the Mercantile Marine) in order to reduce the error within manageable limits. Show also how the heeling error can be compensated.
40. As the co-efficient B (capable of being corrected) usually consists of two parts—one due to the permanent magnetism of the ship, and the other to vertical induction in soft iron, how should each of the two parts, strictly speaking, be corrected when compensating the compass?
41. If the whole of co-efficient B be corrected by a permanent magnet, as is usually done, what is likely to ensue as the ship changes her magnetic latitude?
42. Provided the needles of your compass are not so long and powerful, and so near, as to cause the soft iron correctors to become magnetised by induction, would the co-efficient D, if properly compensated, be likely to remain so in all magnetic latitudes and both hemisphere? If so, state the reason why.
43. State at what distance, as a general rule, the magnets and soft iron correctors should be placed from the compass needles, and what will be the consequence if they are placed too near the needles?
44. Is it necessary that magnets used for compensating co-efficients B and C should be placed on the deck? If not state where they may also be placed and the rules to be observed in placing them into position.
45. Can the compensation of the heeling error be depended upon when the ship changes her latitude? If not, state the reason.

APPENDIX K.

SYLLABUS of EXAMINATION in the LAWS of the DEVIATION of the COMPASSES of an IRON SHIP, and in the Means of compensating or correcting it.

Candidates for the voluntary examination in compass deviation, and for Extra Master's Certificate will be required to give written answers to 40 of the questions; these will be marked by a cross by the Examiner. They will also be required to by "Beall's Compass Deviascope"—(1) their knowledge of the tentative method of compass adjustment, and (2) that they understand the practical application of the questions they have answered and of any other questions in the Syllabus that the Examiner may ask. Questions 31, 61, 62, 69, 71, 72, and 73 will be marked by the Examiner in all cases. The other questions will be constantly varied:—

1. Describe an artificial magnet, and how a steel bar or needle is usually magnetised.
2. Which end of the compass needle, or a magnet, is commonly termed the red, and which the blue pole?
3. Which is the red magnetic pole of the earth, and which the blue; and give their geographical positions.
4. What effect has the pole of one magnet of either name on the pole of the same name of another magnet, and what would be the consequence of the pole of one magnet of either name being brought near enough to effect the pole of contrary name, if in these cases both magnets were freely suspended?
5. By applying this law to all magnets, natural as well as artificial, describe what would be the result on a magnetic bar or needle, freely suspended, but constrained by weight or by the nature of its mounting to preserve a horizontal position; and what would be the result, if so mounted, but free to move in every direction; the earth being regarded as a natural magnet?
6. What is the cause of the variation of the Compass?
7. What is meant by the deviation of the compass?
8. What is meant by the term "local attraction;" under what circumstances have ships' compasses, from recent careful investigation, been found to be affected by it, and name some of the localities in different parts of the world where this disturbance is to be found, and consequently where increased vigilance is necessary.

9. What do you understand by the term "soft" iron ; and what are its properties as regards acquiring and retaining magnetism ?
10. What do you understand by the term "hard" iron ; and what are its properties as regards acquiring and retaining magnetism ?
11. Describe the meaning of the term "horizontal force" of the earth ; where is it the greatest, and where the least ; and what effect has it in respect to the increase or decrease of the directive force of the compass needle ?
12. Does the magnetic equator coincide with the geographical equator ; if not, state clearly how it is situated ?
13. Where can the values of the magnetic dip, the earth's horizontal force, and the variation, be found ?
14. State in what parts of the globe lying in the usual tracks of navigation the variation changes very rapidly, and what special precautions should be observed when navigating these localities, also why a "variation" chart is then very useful.
15. Why is a knowledge of the magnetic dip and the earth's horizontal force important in dealing with compass deviations ?
16. Describe the meaning of the term "vertical force of the earth ; where is it the greatest and where the least ?
17. Would you expect a compass to be the more seriously affected by any given disturbing force when near the magnetic equator, or near the poles ? and state the reason.
18. State briefly (a) the essentials of an efficient compass ; and (b) what you would consider a good arrangement of the needles (that is, whether long or short, single or double, &c.) with the view to good compensation.
19. In stowing away spare compass cards or magnets, how would you place them with regard to each other, or what might be the probable consequence ?
20. State briefly the chief points to be considered when selecting a position for your compass on board ship, and what should be particularly guarded against.
21. What is meant by transient induced magnetism ?
22. Which is the red and which the blue pole of a mass of soft vertical iron (for of any soft iron not in a horizontal position) by induction, and what effect would the upper and lower ends of it have on a compass needle in the Northern hemisphere.
23. Which is the red and which the blue pole of a mass of soft vertical iron by induction, and what effect would the upper and lower ends of it have on the compass needle in the Southern hemisphere ?
24. What effect would a bar of soft vertical iron have on the compass needle on the magnetic equator ?
25. Describe what is usually termed the sub-permanent* magnetism of an iron ship, and state when and how it is acquired, and which is the sub-permanent red and which is the blue pole, and why it is called sub-permanent magnetism.
26. What is meant by "the composition of forces" and "the parallelogram of forces," and show how the knowledge of these is valuable in ascertaining and compensating the sub-permanent magnetism of an iron ship ?
27. Describe the nature of the co-efficient B and C plus (+) and minus (-), and the different magnetic forces they represent ; also why they are said to produce semicircular deviations.
28. Can semicircular deviations be produced by any other force than the sub-permanent magnetism of the ship ? If so, by what ?
29. On what points by compass bearings of the ship's head does + B give westerly deviation, and on what points does it give easterly ; also on what points does - B give westerly, and on what points easterly ?
30. On what points does + C give westerly deviation, and on what points easterly ; also on what points does - C give westerly, and on what points easterly deviation ?
31. The value of either co-efficient B or C being given, also the magnetic direction of the ship's head while she was being built, determine by the traverse tables the approximate value of the other co-efficient C or B and the value of both these co-efficient being given, determine approximately the direction by compass of the ship's head whilst being built, assuming, of course, that these co-efficients resulted altogether from sub-permanent magnetism.
32. Would you expect the greatest disturbance of the needle from the effects of sub-permanent magnetism alone to take place when ship's head is in same direction as when building, or when her head is at right angles to that direction, and in what direction of the ship's head would you expect to find the least disturbance ?
33. Describe quadrantal deviation, and state what co-efficients represent it ; also on what points of the ship's head, by compass, each of these co-efficients gives the greatest amount of deviation, and why it is called quadrantal deviation ?

The term "sub-permanent" magnetism in the Syllabus is used in the sense proposed by the late Sir G. B. Airy to denote the character of the permanent magnetism of an iron ship as distinguished from the permanent magnetism of a magnetised steel bar. The terms "sub-permanent" and "permanent" throughout the Syllabus may therefore be considered as synonymous.

34. On what points of the compass will each of the co-efficients, D and E, + and -, give easterly, and on what points westerly deviation?

35. What conditions of the iron of a ship will produce + D and what - D?

36. State clearly which end of horizontal iron running athwartship (such as beams, &c.), and of horizontal iron running fore and aft of a ship, acquires red and which blue polarity, by induction, when ship's head is at N.E., S.E., S.W., and N.W., respectively.

37. Describe the nature of the deviation represented by co-efficients $+A$ and $-A$, and describe the errors in the construction of the compass, and other causes, that frequently produce it.

38. What is the object of compensating the compass by magnets, &c., and what are the general advantages of a compensated compass over an uncompensated one?

39. Before adopting the compass of an iron ship, what is desirable to do with the view to eliminating, as far as possible, what may be termed the unstable part of the magnetism of the ship?

40. Describe clearly the tentative method of compass adjustment (that is, the compensation of co-efficients B, C, and D, with ship upright) as generally practised by compass adjusters in ships of the Mercantile Marine.

41. State at what distance, as a general rule, the magnets and soft iron correctors should be placed from the compass needles and what will be the consequence if they are placed too near the needles.

42. Is it necessary that the magnets used for compensating co-efficients B and C should be placed on deck? If not, state where they may also be placed, and the rules to be observed in placing them into position.

43. Does the B found on board ship usually arise altogether from sub-permanent magnetism, or does part of it usually arise from some other cause or causes?

44. If the part of B due to induced magnetism in vertical soft iron, as well as the part due to sub-permanent magnetism, are corrected by a magnet alone, as is generally the case, what is frequently the consequence on the ship changing her magnetic latitude and hemisphere?

45. How should each of these two parts of B, strictly speaking, be compensated?

46. Assuming, for the sake of clearness, that your steering compass is unavoidably placed very near to the head of the sternpost (and other vertical iron at the stern), thereby causing a very large -B from induced magnetism; describe briefly any method by which the approximate position for the compensating vertical iron bar (Flinder's or Rundle's) could be estimated in order to reduce the error; describe also how you would proceed, in order to improve, if not, to perfect, its position after observations have been made on the magnetic equator.

47. State if standard compasses, as well as steering compasses, are generally subject to this disturbance from induced magnetism in vertical iron; also whether the attraction in all cases is found to be towards the stern; and if not, state the conditions under which it might be towards the bow, and how the compensating soft iron bar should then be placed.

48. Generally speaking, does the magnetism induced in vertical iron usually have any effect in producing the co-efficient C, ship upright, or is it generally produced by sub-permanent magnetism alone? State also your reasons for saying so.

49. Provided the needles of your compass are not so long and powerful, and so near, as to cause the soft iron correctors to become magnetised by induction, would the co-efficient D, if properly compensated as you have described (Ans. 40), be likely to remain so in all latitudes and both hemispheres? If so, state the reason why.

50. Under what circumstances does the character of A and E so change as to render it desirable that these co-efficients should be disregarded or modified?

51. Supposing your compasses were allowed to remain uncompensated, explain clearly what would be the probable changes (ship upright) in the deviations produced separately by (1) the sub-permanent magnetism of the ship alone; (2) by the induced magnetism in vertical soft iron; (a) on reaching the equator; (b) in the southern hemisphere?

52. Assuming you were able to arrive at the proper proportions to be corrected, and were then to exactly compensate the sub-permanent magnetism of the ship by means of a permanent magnet, and the induced magnetism in vertical iron by a soft iron bar, would you expect any deviation to take place in your compass as the ship changed her latitude and hemisphere? And state your reasons for saying so.

53. Supposing the co-efficient D from horizontal soft iron were allowed to remain uncompensated, would you, or would you not, expect the D to differ in name or amount on the ship changing her magnetic latitude and hemisphere? And state the reason.

54. Describe how you would determine the deviation of your compass (1) by reciprocal bearings; (2) by figures on the deck walls; (3) by bearings of a distant object.

55. Describe, in detail, how you would determine the deviation of your compass by the bearings of the sun. Also by a star or planet.

56. Describe the uses to which the Napier's diagram can be applied, and its special advantages.

57. Describe clearly how the Napier's diagram is constructed.

58. For accuracy, what is the least number of points to which the ship's head should be brought for constructing a complete curve of deviations, or a complete table of deviations?

59. Nearing land, and being anxious to check your deviations on a few courses you may probably require to steer, what is the least number of points it will be necessary to steady the ship's head upon, if making use of a Napier's diagram, in order to ascertain the deviation on each of the points, say in a quadrant of the compass and describe clearly how you would do this at sea?

60. Supposing you have no means of ascertaining the magnetic bearing of the distant object when swinging your ship for deviations, how could you find it, approximately, from bearings of the object taken with the ship's head on equi-distant compass points, and how far as a rule, should the object be from the ship when swinging or steaming round?

61. Example: - Having taken the following compass bearings of a distant object, find the object's magnetic bearings, and thence the deviations:—

(a) MAGNETIC BEARING REQUIRED:—

| Ship's Head by Standard Compass. | Bearing of distant object by Standard Compass. | Deviation required. | Ship's Head by Standard Compass. | Bearing of distant object by Standard Compass. | Deviation required. |
|-----------------------------------|--|---------------------|-----------------------------------|--|---------------------|
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 |
| North. N. E. East. S. E. | S. 75° W. S. 64° W. S. 56° W. S. 50° W. | | South. S. W. West. N. W. | S. 34° W. S. 31° W. S. 40° W. S. 71° W. | |

(b) Construct a curve of deviations on a Napier's diagram with the deviations as above, and give the courses you would steer by the Standard Compass to make the following courses, magnetic:—

Magnetic courses—N.N.W., S.S.E., W.N.W., E.S.E.
Compass courses required.

(c) Supposing you have steered the following courses by the Standard Compass, find the magnetic courses made from the above curve of deviations:—

Compass courses—N.N.E., E.N.E., S.S.W., W.S.W.
Magnetic courses required.

(d) You have taken the following bearings of two distant objects by your Standard Compass as above; with the ship's head at N. E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E, find the bearings, magnetic:—

Compass bearings—S. E. by S. and N. N. W.
Magnetic bearings required.

62. Assuming the deviations observed with ship's head by compass to be as follows [or as in question 61, whichever may be given], determine the value of the co-efficients A, B, C, D, and K, and from them construct a complete table of deviations (or for as many points as the Examiner may direct):—

|--------------------|-------|
| Deviation at North | South |
| N. E. | S. W. |
| East | West |
| S. E. | N. W. |

63. When swinging your ship, if it be required to construct deviation tables for two or more compasses situated in different parts of the vessel, describe the process, and how you would employ the Napier's diagram for this purpose.

64. State your rule for determining whether deviation is easterly or westerly.

65. Is a knowledge of the value of the various co-efficients of any advantage? If so, state why?

66. Describe (a) what is commonly known by the term "retentive" or "retained" magnetism, and how the ship acquires it when in port and at sea; (b) its effect on the compass needle whilst ship's head continues in the same direction; (c) the immediate consequence when the direction of the ship's head is altered, and (d) the special precautions to be invariably observed at sea on the alteration of the ship's course.

67. Describe a "Dumb-card" or "Pelorus" and its use (a) in compensating a compass, (b) in determining the deviation.

68. If you determine the deviation by an azimuth or an amplitude of a heavenly body, it is then combined with variation which together is sometimes called the correction for the compass. State when the deviation is the difference between the variation and the correction, and when the sum; and when it is of the same name as that of the correction, and when of the contrary name.

69. In observing azimuths of heavenly bodies, the best method is by "time azimuths," since these can be observed without an altitude when the ship is in port, or when the horizon cannot be defined from any cause. Given the sun's declination, the hour of the day, and the latitude, to find the true bearing of the sun.*

70. By night, if it be desirable to observe the correction of the compass. Given the day of the year, and time at ship, also the latitude of the place, to determine what stars will be in good position for this purpose.

71. If your correcting magnets are so mounted that their positions can be altered, describe the process by which on open sea you can place the ship's head magnetic N. (or S.), and magnetic E. (or W.), and can make the correction perfect.

72. Given the name of a star, the time, the place of ship, the variation of the compass, and the bearing of the star by compass. Determine the deviation, and name it east or west.

73. Would you expect any change to be caused in the error of your compass by the ship heeling over either from the effect of the wind or the cargo?

74. Describe clearly the three principal causes of the heeling error on board an iron ship.

75. Towards which side of the ship would that part of magnetism induced in continuous transverse iron (which was horizontal while ship was upright) help to draw the north point of the needle when ship heels over (a) in the Northern hemisphere, (b) in the Southern hemisphere?

76. Supposing the compass were placed between the two parts of a divided beam or other athwart-ship iron, towards which side of the ship would iron so situated help to draw the north point of the needle when ship heels over (a) in the Northern hemisphere, (b) in the Southern hemisphere?

77. Would you expect that part of the magnetism induced in iron exactly perpendicular to the ship's deck, such as stanchions, bulkhead, &c., if below the compass, to cause any part of the heeling error when ship heels over, and if so, towards which side of the ship (a) in the Northern hemisphere, (b) in the Southern hemisphere?

78. If an ordinary standard compass placed higher than the iron top sides be compensated whilst the ship is upright, what co-efficient will be effected by heeling?

79. Under what conditions (that is, as regards position whilst building and the arrangement of iron in the ship) is the north point of the compass needle usually drawn to windward, or the high side of the ship, in the Northern hemisphere?

80. Under what conditions, as a rule, is the north point of the compass needle usually drawn to leeward, or the low side of the ship, in the Northern hemisphere?

81. State to which side of the ship, in the majority of cases, is the north point of the compass drawn when ship heels over in the Northern hemisphere; and when this is the case, and it is not allowed for, what effect has it on the assumed position of the ship when she is steering on northerly and also on southerly courses?

82. On what courses would you keep away, and on what courses would you keep closer to the wind in both the Northern and Southern hemispheres, in order to make good a given compass course (a) when north point of compass is drawn to windward, or the high side of ship, and (b) when drawn to leeward or the low side?

83. If a ship is beating to windward, when she tacks, under what circumstances will the heeling error retain the same name, and under what circumstances will it take the contrary name?

84. If a ship is placed on the opposite tack by the change of wind, the ship's course being the same by compass, will the heeling error change its name?

85. In which direction of the ship's head does the heeling error attain its maximum value, and in which direction does it generally vanish?

86. Explain clearly how that part of the heeling error due to the permanent part of the magnetism of the ship varies as the ship changes her geographical position, and what is the reason of this?

87. Explain clearly how that part of the heeling error due to the induction in transverse iron (which was horizontal when ship was upright); and iron vertical to the ship's deck, varies as the ship changes her geographical position.

88. What, then, would be the probable nature of the heeling error, that is, whether to high or low side of the ship, and whether the error would be equal to the sum or difference, &c., of the forces given (1) in high north latitudes, (2) on magnetic equator, (3) in high south latitudes? Assuming the polarity of the sub-permanent magnetism of the ship under, and affecting, the compass, to be as given below; the vertical induction in soft iron, of course, obeying the ordinary laws in the above geographical positions (1), (2), (3) —

(a) In cases where the effect of red vertical sub-permanent magnetism is equal to that of the vertical induction in the soft iron of the ship.

* The process of finding time azimuths by the ordinary formulae of spherical trigonometry is tedious, and since on board an iron ship these observations should be often repeated, the Candidate will be allowed to use any table or graphic or linear method that will solve the problem within a half of a degree, the altitude of the heavenly body not being given.

- (b) Where the effect of red vertical sub-permanent magnetism is greater than that of the vertical induction in the soft iron.
- (c) Where the effect of red vertical sub-permanent magnetism is less than that of the vertical induction in the soft iron.
- (d) Where the effect of blue vertical sub-permanent magnetism is equal to that of the vertical induction in the soft iron.
- (e) Where the effect of blue vertical sub-permanent magnetism is greater than that of the vertical induction in the soft iron.
- (f) Where the effect of blue vertical sub-permanent magnetism is less than that of the vertical induction in the soft iron.

89. Can the heeling error be compensated? If so, state the means to be employed, and how the compensation may be effected?

90. Can the compensation of the heeling error be depended on, in every latitude? If not, state the reason?

91. Do the soft iron correctors used for compensating the coefficient + D have any effect on the compass needle when the ship heels over, and if so, do they draw the needle towards the low or the high side of the ship, and do they counteract, or otherwise, the effect produced by the vertical induction in the soft iron; (a) in the Northern hemisphere, (b) in the Southern hemisphere; and what is the reason of this?

92. Given the heel, the direction of the ship's head by compass, and the heeling error observed, to find the approximate heeling error, with a greater or less given heel, and with the ship's head on some other named point of the compass, the ship's magnetic latitude being in both cases the same.

93. Describe any instrument to show the ship's heel (generally called a clinometer), and state how and where it should be fixed.

94. Should the clinometer be observed when the ship is swung to determine the deviation when the ship is upright? If so, state the reason why?

95. Would you expect the table of deviation supplied by the compass adjuster from observations made in swinging the ship to remain good during the voyage, or would you expect the deviations to change? If so, state under what circumstances?

96. Is it desirable that a record of your observations for deviations should be kept as a guide for any subsequent voyage in case the ship should be in the same locality, or for further correction of the compass? If so, describe some suitable form for keeping such record.

97. Would you under any circumstances consider it a safe and proper procedure to place implicit confidence in your compasses however skilfully they may have been adjusted? If not, what precautions is it your duty to take at all times?

APPENDIX L.

DEVIATION OF THE COMPASS.

For Masters' Certificates for Home Trade Passenger Ships.

The applicant must answer in writing, on paper given him by the Examiner, all the following questions, numbering his answers to correspond with the numbers of the questions.

1. When taking a meridian altitude, how do you know when the sun is on the meridian; or, in other words, when it is noon?
2. How does the sun bear (true and magnetic) when on the meridian of an observer in these latitudes (Home Trade Limits)?
3. What do you mean by deviation of the compass, and how is it caused?
4. Having determined the deviation, how do you know when it is easterly, and when westerly?
5. Supposing the sun when on the meridian bore by your compass _____, what would be the deviation of that compass for the direction of the ship's head at the time, the variation given on the chart being _____?
6. How could you find the deviation of your compass when in port, or when sailing along a coast?
7. Name some suitable objects by which you could readily obtain the deviation of your compass, when sailing along the coasts of the channel you have been accustomed to use.
8. The bearing of two objects when in a line with each other was found on the chart to be _____ magnetic; but when brought in a line on board they bore _____ by your compass; required the deviation of your compass for the direction of the ship's head at the time.
9. What means are there for checking the deviation of your compass by night?
10. Supposing the North Star (Polaris) bore _____ by your compass, what would be the deviation (approximately) of that compass for the direction of the ship's head at the time, supposing the variation given on the chart to be _____?
11. Do you expect the deviation to change? If so, state under what circumstances.
12. What instrument by the variation of the compass, and what is the cause of it?

APPENDIX M.

COMPASS ADJUSTMENT.

It is of the utmost importance that Masters of ships should thoroughly understand the tentative method of compass adjustment as generally practised in merchant ships, and Examiners are, therefore, directed to fully satisfy themselves that all Candidates for Masters' Certificates have this particular knowledge. It should be tested in connection with the Form Exn. 7 with the aid of Captain Beall's Deviascope, and Candidates will be required to prove—(1) their knowledge of the laws of deviation, and the tentative method of compass adjustment; (2) that they understand the practical application of the answers given by them to any of the other questions on Form Exn. 7 that the Examiner may ask.

A concise statement of the present method of tentative compass adjustment is appended for the use of Examiners. It is, however, distinctly to be understood that the Board of Trade are not in any way advocating the correction of that part of co-efficient B which arises from vertical induction in soft iron by a permanent magnet instead of by a soft iron bar. The Board have no authority to interfere with the methods in use amongst compass adjusters for the adjustment of compasses in iron ships, but the Examiners must satisfy themselves that Masters are acquainted with the ordinary method as at present practised.

THE TENTATIVE METHOD OF COMPASS ADJUSTMENT as generally practised by COMPASS ADJUSTERS in SHIPS of the MERCHANT MARINE.

Before describing the practice, it will be as well to briefly state the co-efficients used to express the different magnetic forces:—

|----------------|--|
| Co-efficient A | represents a constant quantity. |
| " B | " semicircular deviation due to fore and aft magnetic forces. |
| " C | " semicircular deviation due to transverse magnetic forces. |
| " D | " quadrantal deviation due to horizontal induction in soft iron. |
| " E | " quadrantal deviation due to horizontal induction in soft iron unsymmetrically distributed. |

SIGNS AND EFFECTS OF CO-EFFICIENTS A, B, C, D and E.

Co-efficient A represents a constant deviation of the same nature and amount on all points of the compass; + A signifying easterly, and — A, westerly deviation.

Co-efficient + B represents an attraction towards the ship's head, and causes easterly deviations with ship's head in the eastern semicircle of the compass, and westerly deviations in the western semicircle, attaining a maximum value on the east and west points, decreasing to zero on north and south points, by compass.

Co-efficient — B represents an attraction towards the ship's stern, and causes easterly deviations with ship's head in the western semicircle, and westerly deviations with the ship's head in the eastern semicircle, with a maximum value on the east and west points, decreasing to zero on the north and south points, by compass.

Co-efficient + C represents an attraction towards the starboard side of the ship, and causes easterly deviations with ship's head in the northern semicircle, and westerly deviations in the southern semicircle, attaining a maximum value on the north and south points, decreasing to zero on the east and west points by compass.

Co-efficient — C represents an attraction towards the port side of the ship, and causes westerly deviations with ship's head in the northern semicircle, and easterly in the southern semicircle, attaining a maximum value on the north and south points, decreasing to zero on the east and west points, by compass.

Co-efficient + D gives easterly deviations with ship's head between N. and E. and S. W.; and westerly deviations between S. and E. and N. and W.

Co-efficient — D gives results exactly the reverse to + D.

Note.—Both + D and — D have a maximum value on the four quadrantal points, and become zero on the cardinal points by compass.

Co-efficient + E gives easterly deviations with ship's head between N. E. and N. W. and S. E. and S. W.; and westerly deviations between N. E. and S. E. and N. W. and S. W.

Co-efficient — E gives results exactly the reverse to + E.

Note.—Both + E and — E have a maximum value on the cardinal points, and become zero on the four quadrantal points, but are usually very small in amount in places in the middle line of the ship.

Heeling Error.—The heeling error arises partly from vertical induction in transverse iron, and from vertical to the ship's deck.

and partly from the vertical component of the sub-permanent magnetism of the ship. In the Northern hemisphere in the majority of cases the N. point of the compass needle is drawn to windward or the high side of the ship, with, as a rule, a maximum heeling error on N. and S. points, and zero on E. and W. points by compass. If the compass is not properly placed in the ship, there may be a sensible heeling deviation on E. and W. courses.

TENTATIVE CORRECTIONS.

To correct co-efficient C.—With ship's head north or south magnetic place a bar magnet (or more than one if necessary) horizontally and exactly athwartship, either on the deck or on any convenient platform with its centre on the fore and aft line passing through the centre of the compass card, placing its red or marked end to starboard if the N. point of the needle deviates to the starboard side, or to port if it deviates to the port side of the ship, moving the magnet to or from the compass until it points correctly.

Note.—The deviation represented by co-efficient C varies inversely as the earth's horizontal force, providing the iron is symmetrically arranged on each side of the compass.

To correct co-efficient B.—With ship's head east or west magnetic place a bar magnet (or more than one if necessary) horizontally and exactly parallel to the fore and aft midship line of the ship, either on the deck or on any convenient platform, with its centre on the athwartship line passing through the centre of the compass, the red or marked end of the magnet being directed aft if the N. point of the compass needle deviates towards the stern, or forward if it deviates towards the bow, moving the magnet to or from the compass until it points correctly.

Note.—The co-efficient B consists of two parts; one is due to the permanent magnetism of the ship, which varies inversely as the earth's horizontal force; the other to vertical induction in soft iron, which varies as the tangent of the dip. As ships in the merchant service are rarely built with a view of providing a satisfactory position for the standard compasses, it is very difficult in many ships to find a position for it where it will not be affected by vertical iron. It follows, therefore, that if this deviation be compensated, as is customary, by a fore and aft permanent magnet instead of by a vertical soft iron bar, the poles of the magnet may in some cases require to be reversed in high southern latitudes.

To correct co-efficient + D.—With ship's head on one of the quadrantal points magnetic the + D is generally corrected by boxes of small chain, cylinders of soft iron, or soft iron globes, placed athwartships on the same level, and at equal distances, on the port and starboard sides of the compass, with the centre of their mass on a level with the compass needle, move them to or from the compass till the needle points correctly.

To correct co-efficient - D.—Co-efficient - D, which is of very rare occurrence is corrected by placing the above correctors on the fore and aft sides of the compass.

Note.—When once the co-efficient D is properly corrected by soft iron, it is correct for all magnetic latitudes, provided the distribution of the iron in the ship is not materially changed, and provided the magnetism of the soft iron has not been affected by the compass needles. With short needles having small magnetic power, such, for instance, as Sir Wm. Thomson's there will probably be no change; but when a compass with long and powerful needles is employed, soft iron correctors placed very near it become magnetised by induction according to the power of the needles, and the resulting correction will not remain strictly perfect in all latitudes.

To correct Heeling Error.—The heeling error is corrected for any given magnetic latitude by placing a vertical magnet exactly under the centre of the compass card, with its N. or red pole uppermost if the heeling error is to windward or to the high side of ship, or its S. or blue end uppermost if to leeward or to the low side of ship, moving the magnet to or from the compass until the heeling error is corrected.

Note.—The heeling error due to the permanent part of the magnetism, varies inversely as the earth's horizontal force, and consequently is greatest in high latitudes, diminishes as the ship approaches the magnetic equator and increases again, still retaining the same name as the ship recedes from the magnetic equator in the Southern hemisphere. The heeling error due to transverse and vertical soft iron decreases as the ship approaches the magnetic equator, where it is zero, and is of a contrary name in the Southern hemisphere. It is probable that the poles of the vertical magnet may require to be reversed in high southern latitudes.

A divided scale should be marked or fitted outside the tube or some other convenient place so as to show the proper position for the correcting magnet as found in any given magnetic latitude, and the same recorded as a guide for approximately placing the magnet in position on any subsequent voyage in the same locality, and especially on the return of the ship to the United Kingdom.

Candidates should understand that the object of tentative adjustment is to bring the deviations within manageable limits and also to equalise the directive force of the needle so far as is practicable on all courses; but no system of adjustment whatever, is sufficiently reliable in character to absolve the navigator from the necessity of using every precaution, and especially of ascertaining the deviation on every available opportunity by observations of the sun by day and the other heavenly bodies by night.

APPENDIX N.

EXAMINATION OF A MASTER OR MATE IN STEAM.

The regulations under which these examinations are conducted are printed at pages 27 to 29.

A Candidate for this examination is required to have a thorough grasp of the construction of the steam-engine and boiler, to enable him to understand the nature and importance of any defect which may be reported to him by the engineer, and work in harmony with the engineer, in affording time and facilities for disconnexions, inspections, adjustments, and repairs.

To have a knowledge of what the principal repairs are which are needed in engines and boilers and pipes, and how these repairs are usually accomplished.

To be able to form an independent opinion as to a breakdown and the consequent propriety or impropriety of proceeding under reduced steam with temporarily repaired or defective machinery. To understand how to estimate approximately the reduction of fuel required for reduced speed, and consequently to sanction such reduction of speed as may seem to him to be warranted by the report of the engineer, and to satisfy himself before leaving port that there is sufficient coal for the voyage.

To have an intelligent grasp of the general run of pipes and connexions in the engine-room, the marking of cocks, the opening and closing of cocks and valves, how mistakes of importance may be made in the confusion of an accident, and how best to guard against such mistakes.

To be capable of being left in charge of the feeding of a set of boilers, to understand the working of the water-gauge, and to be able to guard against being misled by false indications of the gauge-glass.

To understand about blowing down and surfacing, the reasons for doing so, and the danger which may result from the neglect of these under certain circumstances. A Master or Mate presenting himself for examination in steam must be understood to have made up for his want of practical experience by reading up about the steam-engine. He ought, therefore, to show that he has given his mind to intelligently understanding the rationale of the action of the steam-engine. Under this head he should, therefore, be able to state approximately the quantity of heat required in the formation of steam, the remarkable relation of "latent" heat to "sensible" heat, how much steam can be raised by the combustion of one pound of coal, what horse-power measure is, what indicated horse-power is, what is the action of the slide-valve, the course of the steam through the engine, and the advantage of working expansively, and how the expansive action is shown by the Indicator diagram. To know the uses of various parts of the engines and dynamos used for electric lighting, and how they and the cables are fitted in the hull; how wires are jointed, insulated and cased; why it is desirable that they should be led along places which are dry and accessible; what is "sparking" and what are the causes which produce it; what is its danger in coal bunkers and petroleum-carrying steamers; what are the uses of switches and cutouts, and why it is so important to prevent short-circuiting taking place.

The Candidate has to answer in writing 16 out of 20 questions selected from the book of Elementary Questions. Selections for this examination are given on the alphabetic sheet for "Steam." Generally, these answers are given by Candidates as learned by rote from a book; the Candidate should, therefore, be asked such vice versa questions as will necessitate his giving his answers in different words, so as to discover whether he has the root of the matter in him.

The principal part of the vice versa is the examination on board a steamer, preferably one with which he is unacquainted. He is told to look about and try to find out the run of the machinery without the assistance of any one; the Examiner to be in the engine-room to see that this independent examination is properly carried out. When the Candidate reports that he thinks he knows the whole arrangement of the machinery, the Examiner will then question him on the uses of the parts, get him to point out the different cylinders, pumps, valves, condenser, &c., also the dynamo, its field magnets, armature commutators, brushes, cables, &c. He must show that he understands the run of the pipes in the bilges, not necessarily that he has gone over every one of them, but he ought to be directed to trace, at least, one important range of pipes, and to thoroughly satisfy the Examiner that he could be safely trusted to manipulate the valve or cocks in connection therewith. It will not often be practicable for the Candidate to be asked to actually work engines under steam, but he must satisfy the Examiner that he knows how to do so, and that he is aware what precautions have to be taken in regard to water in the cylinder, &c. It is most important that a Candidate should show that, in the event of an accident depriving him of the assistance of engineers, he knows what to do to safely take his vessel to an anchorage, or to stop the engines and proceed under sail alone.

The examination of a Mate in steam is the same as that of a Master. The knowledge required has no reference to the Mate's position. A Mate may be examined, but such examination implies that the Mate will one day be a Master, when the possession of the knowledge will be an advantage to him in the discharge of his duties as Master.

APPENDIX O.

THE SIGHT TESTS.

1.—Form Vision Test.

(1) The test for Form Vision is the first test which the candidate is required to undergo, and until he has passed this test, he cannot be allowed to proceed further with the examination. (See paragraph 10, passed first, page 3.)

(2) The test to be used are Snellen's Letter Test for Candidates Tests to be who can read, and the "Dot" tests for those who cannot read. used.

The sets of tests, which have been supplied to the Examiners consist, respectively, of eight sheets of Snellen's letters and two sheets of dots.

(3) The chief object of the tests for Form Vision is to show whether the Candidate possesses eyesight of sufficient strength and range, or, in other words, they are means of discovering whether the Candidate has good or bad sight. Object of the tests.

They also afford a means of detecting whether a Candidate is suffering from that form of colour-blindness which is caused by the excessive use of tobacco, and by illness of similar affections. All candidates who are suffering from colour-blindness arising from causes of that nature, will be found to be incapable of passing the test for Form Vision.

(4) Candidates may use both eyes or either eye when being tested, but they must not be allowed to use spectacles or glasses of any kind. General conduct of the tests.

The set of tests is to be hung on the wall, in a good light, at a height of about five or six feet from the ground.

(5) If the Candidate can read, he should be placed at the distance of 16 feet from the Letter Test sheets, and exactly opposite them. The distance which should never be varied should be carefully measured, and the Candidate should not be allowed to approach within 16 feet of the test sheets. Conduct of the Letter Test.

One of the eight sheets of letters should then be exposed, and the Candidate should be asked to read the letters, beginning at the top and going downwards. If he can read correctly three of the five letters in the fifth line from the top (third from the bottom), or four of the letters in either of the two lines below, he may be considered to have passed the test. If he cannot do so, he should be treated as having failed. Candidates should be tested with at least two of the sheets of letters, and the same two sheets should not be used for all Candidates.

(6) The number printed over each row of letters only shows the distance in feet at which a person possessing ordinary or normal sight to be able to read the letters in the row and does not apply to the distance at which a Candidate under examination should be tested. Meaning of the numbers on the Letter Test sheets.

(7) If the Candidate cannot read, he must be tested with the sheets of dots. For this test he is to be placed at a distance of precisely eight feet from the test sheets, and exactly opposite them. One of the sheets of dots is then to be exposed, and the Candidate should be asked to name the number of dots in one or two of the lines or groups. Lines and groups of dots can be formed by holding a piece of white paper over part of the sheet, but care must be taken that when this is being done, the Candidate's view is not obstructed, or the light on the test sheet in any way obscured. Conduct of the Dot Test.

The Examiner must make sure that the Candidate understands what he is required to do.

If the Candidate answers the questions put to him by the Examiner with complete or very nearly complete accuracy, he should be treated as having passed. If he does not answer with very nearly complete accuracy, he should be treated as having failed.

Tests to be varied.

(8) The Examiner must take care, by varying the tests in Form Vision, and by every other means, to guard against the possibility of any deception on the part of the Candidates. The distance at which the Candidate must stand, and the standard of the vision required, should, however, never be varied.

Pellet Test.

(9) Every Candidate who fails to pass the Form Vision test is to be examined with the pellet test as follows:—

The pellets should be placed on a white plate, and the first test pellet (which is of the same colour as the first wool test skein) should then be placed at a little distance on another white plate. The Candidate should be required to pick out and lay by the side of the test pellet, all pellets of the same colour. The same should be done with the second and third test pellets, and the examination should proceed in the same way as the wool test.

(10) Should the Candidate pass the pellet test, the Form Exn. 17B together with the remarks of the Examiner, is to be forwarded to the Principal Examiner, for his instructions as to whether the Candidate is or is not to be regarded as having failed in Form Vision.

(11) Should, however, the Candidate fail in the pellet test, thus indicating that the defective form sense is due to disease, &c., it will not be necessary to submit the case to the Port Officer, but the Examiner should report the Candidate as having failed in Form Vision, and in forwarding the usual papers, a description of the colours of the pellets incorrectly selected as matches in the respective tests, with any remarks, should be given on the Form Exn. 17C, in the space allotted for the incorrect wools.

Result of test, to be reported.

(12) The result of every test in Form Vision is to be reported to the Government, on the Form Exn. 2, and to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 14, when the Candidate is up for examination for a certificate and to the Government on the Form Exn. 2a, when the Candidate is up for examination in colours only.

All cases of failure to pass the test are also to be reported to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 17a.

2.—Colour Vision Test.

Nature of the tests.

(1) The Colour Vision of Candidates is to be tested by means of Holmgren's wools.

The wools are always to be kept in the tins provided for the purpose, except when in use at an examination, in order that they may not become faded or dirty. Each set contains about 135 skeins of wool.

General instructions.

(2) Before the examination commences, the skeins should be separated from one another, but each separate skein should be kept tied up as when first received.

The three test skeins are labelled respectively I (light green), IIa (pink) and IIb (red), and they are always to be used in the order mentioned.

Care must be taken that the labels do not get detached.

The Colour Vision Test should be held only by daylight. If a good natural light is not obtainable, and artificial light has to be used, the test must be postponed. When the weather is dark or foggy, and a Candidate cannot be examined in colours before his examination in Navigation commences, he may be allowed to proceed with the examination in Navigation, provided he is examined in colours on the first available opportunity.*

Full instructions as to the conduct of the examination will be found on pages 97 to 104.

Courses to be followed if incorrect selections are made by Candidates.

(3) The Examiner, as the examination proceeds, should carefully place on one side the skeins, the selection of which by the Candidate seems to indicate a defect in Colour Vision, taking care to discriminate between those selected as matching the first test skein, those selected as matching the second test skein, and those selected as matching the third test skein.

The skeins which have been correctly selected, should be returned to the general heap on the completion of each of the three tests.

Pieces of the wools incorrectly selected by a Candidate who fails are to be sent to the Principal Examiner of Masters and Mates.

(4) In every case in which the Examiner rejects a Candidate, or is in doubt as to whether he should reject him or not, he is, when the examination is finished, to cut a small piece (say, an inch) off every one of the actual skeins incorrectly selected by the Candidate, and to stitch the pieces cut off on to Form Exn. 17c, keeping the pieces cut off the skeins selected as matches to the first test skein in one line, the pieces cut off the skeins selected as matches to the second test skein in another line, and the pieces cut off the skeins selected as matches to the third test skein in a third line on the Form. The Form (Form Exn. 17c), with the pieces of wool attached to it, is then to be forwarded to the Port Officer, with the Examiner's report, on Form Exn. 17a.

The greatest care must be taken that the pieces forwarded are cut off the actual skeins selected by the Candidate, in order that there may be a reliable record of the actual selections made by the Candidate if any question should subsequently arise.

Pieces need not be cut off the test skeins, but only off the skeins incorrectly selected by the Candidate.

* When the examination in Navigation precedes the Colour Tests, the Candidate should be informed that the examination in Navigation will count for nothing if this.

(6) In cases in which the Candidate passes the test, pieces need not be cut off the skeins he has selected.

If the Candidate passes, pieces of the wools need not be cut.

(6) When the Candidate makes incorrect matches, the Examiner should, after each of the three tests, hold up the skeins selected, and ask the Candidate if he is satisfied that they all match the test skein. If he is not satisfied, he may be allowed to withdraw any of the skeins he pleases.

Candidates should be given the opportunity of correcting their mistakes.

(7) During the test for colour-blindness the Examiner should avoid naming the colours of any of the wools, and should explain to the Candidate that he does not require them to be named to him.

Candidates are not required to name the colours of the wools.

In the test for colour ignorance the Candidate has to name three colours. (See page 68.)

(8) As soon as any skein becomes discoloured, or unduly reduced in size (say, by one-third), owing to pieces having been cut off it, the matter should be reported to the Government.

Copies to be taken when the skeins of wool become reduced in size or discoloured.

(9) In the remarks which follow, reference is made to different kinds of colour-blindness (red-blindness and green-blindness), but the Examiner is not required to form any conclusion as to the kind of colour-blindness from which the Candidate suffers, and should not offer the Candidate any opinion on this point.

Examiners are not required to decide from what form of colour-blindness an unsuccessful Candidate is suffering.

All that is required is that the Examiner shall conduct the examination according to the rules laid down, and from the wools selected judge whether the Candidate is or is not colour-blind, the nature of his colour-blindness being immaterial.

(10) The result of every test should be reported to the Government on the Form Exn. 2, and to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 14, when the Candidate is up for examination for a Certificate of Competency, and to the Government on the Form Exn. 2a, when the Candidate is up for examination in colours only.

Result of tests to be reported.

All cases of failure should also be reported to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 17a, to which should be attached Form Exn. 17c, containing the pieces of the wools incorrectly selected by the Candidate. (See paragraph 4, page 62.)

HOLMGREN'S METHOD OF TESTING FOR COLOUR.

The method of testing consists in asking the Candidate to select from variously coloured objects those which appear of the same colour as one which the Examiner selects. The most suitable objects and at the same time the most readily obtainable are skeins of wool, which can be procured of almost every desired hue and tone. An advantage of skeins of wool, besides their portability, is that, owing to their want of gloss, they appear of approximately the same tone from whichever side they are viewed. The colours of the skeins to be selected include reds, oranges, yellows, yellowish-greens, pure greens, blue-greens, blues, violets, purples, pinks, browns and greys. Several shades of each colour, with at least five gradations of each tint, are provided, from the deepest to the lightest greens and greys. Varieties of pinks, blues, and violets, and of light grey, together with shades of brown, yellow, red, and pink, are well represented. The test skeins with which the examinees are to compare the other skeins are three in number:—(1) a light green; (2) a pink; and (3) a bright red. These three colours will suffice to indicate approximately the amount and kind of colour-blindness which may exist. The light green skein, which is a tolerably pure green mixed with a large proportion of white, is chosen as the colour which closely matches the spectrum colour which the red and green-blind distinguish as white or grey. It is chosen of a pale tint, as it then becomes puzzling to the colour-blind to distinguish its colour by luminosity. A light grey or drab skein will present the same brightness to him that this pale colour does, and, although he may be trained to distinguish bright colours by their relative luminosities, in the case of these pale varieties he will be unable to do so. The pink is chosen for similar reasons, and in fact it is nearly a complementary colour to the green. The pink is, according to the Young-Helmholtz theory, a mixture of two fundamental colours, the blue and the red, and, as in the green-blind it excites both the blue and red sensations, it may be confused with grey or with a green. In the red colour-blind it excites in excess the blue sensations mixed with what they call white. A blue or violet may, therefore, be matched with it.

The method of examination is as follows:—

Method of Examination and Diagnosis.

The wools are placed in a heap on a large table covered by a white cloth or white paper, and in broad daylight. The first test skein is taken from the pile, and laid far enough away from the others not to be confounded with them during the examination. The person examined is requested to look carefully at the test skein and then to select other skeins from the pile most nearly resembling it in colour, and to place them by the side of the sample. At the outset, it is necessary that he should thoroughly understand that he is required to search the heap for the skeins which make an impression on his chromatic sense, or sense of colour, similar to that made by the test-skein, and quite independently of any name he may give the colour. The Examiner should explain that resemblance in every respect is not necessary; that there are no two specimens exactly alike; that the only question is the resemblance of the colour; and that, consequently, the Candidate must endeavour to find something similar in shade and something lighter and something darker of the same colour. If the person examined cannot succeed in understanding this by a verbal examination, resort must be had to action. The Examiner should himself pick out the skeins, thereby showing in a practical manner what is meant by a shade, and then restore the whole to the pile, except the sample skein. As it would require too much time to examine every individual in this way, it is advisable, when examining large numbers, to instruct them all at once, and to ask them to attentively observe the examination of those preceding them so as to become more familiar themselves with the process. This saves time, and there is no loss of security, for no one with a defective chromatic sense will be able to find the correct skeins in the heap the more easily from having a moment before seen others looking for and arranging them. He will make the same characteristic mistakes; but the normal observer, on the other hand, will generally accomplish his task much better and more quickly after having seen how it has to be done.

The coloured plate shows the test colours and some of the mistakes likely to be made by colour-blind people. The colours in the plate are of two characters:—

1st.—The colours for samples (test colours); that is, those which the Examiner presents to the persons examined; and

2nd. The "confusion colours"; that is to say, those which the colour-blind may select as matches with the sample.

The first are shown on the plate as horizontal bands, and are distinguished by Roman numerals (I, IIa, and IIb), the second as vertical bands, under the test colours, and are distinguished by Arabic figures (1, 2, 3 etc.)

As to the similarity between the confusion colours of the plate and the wools which the colour-blind take from the heap, reliance must be placed simply on the hue, and not their brightness or degree of colour saturation. The confusion colours shown in the plate are only to illustrate the mistakes which the colour-blind may make, and for this purpose they survey perfectly. Having made this explanation, we can pass directly to the test itself. The following are the direction for conducting it, and for making a diagnosis from the results:—

Test I.—The green test skein which is labelled Test No. I in the bundle is exhibited to the Candidate. This sample is the palest shade (the lightest) of very pure green, which is neither a yellow-green nor a blue-green to the normal eye, but fairly intermediate between the two, or at least not verging upon yellowish-green.

Rule.—The examination must continue until the examinee has placed near the test skein several other skeins of the same colour, or else, with these or separately one or more skeins of the class of "confusion colours" such as 1 to 5 in the plate, or until he has sufficiently proved that he can easily and unerringly distinguish the confusion colours, or else has given unmistakable proof of a difficulty in accomplishing it.

Diagnosis.—An examinee who places with the test skein "confusion colours" such as 1 to 5—that is to say, finds that they resemble the "test colour"—is colour-blind, whilst if he evinces a manifest disposition to do so, though he does not absolutely do so, he has a feeble chromatic sense, or sense of colour.

Remark.—We might have taken more than five colours for "confusion"; but we must remember that we are not taking into consideration every kind of defective colour sense.

Test II.—The pink or light-purple skein, which is labelled No. IIa, is shown to the examinee. The colour is midway between the lightest and darkest. It only approaches that given as IIb of the plate, as the colour of the wool is much more brilliant and saturated and bluer.

Rule.—The trial must be continued until the examinee has placed all of the greater part of skeins of the same colour near the test skeins, or else, together or separately, several skeins of the "confusion colours," such as 6—9. If he is colour-blind, he will probably select either the light or deep shades of blue and violet, especially the deep (6 and 7), or the light or deep shades of one kind of green or grey inclining to blue (8 and 9).

Test III.—The red skein labelled No. IIb is presented to the examinee. It is necessary to have a vivid red colour, like the red flags used as signals on Railways. The colour should be that of IIb of the plate, rather towards yellowish-red.

Rule. This test should be continued until the person examined has placed beside the test skein the greater part of the skeins belonging to this hue, or else several "confusion colours" (10—12).

Remark.—Every case of comparatively complete colour-blindness does not always give precisely the same mistakes. Instances occur of persons who are not completely colour-blind, or of completely colour-blind persons who have been practised in the colours of signals and who endeavour not to be discovered. They usually confound at least green and brown, but even this does not always

- Monochromatic Vision.—The absence of every colour sensation, except one, will be recognised by the confusion of all the hues, which will appear to be of the same intensity of light or brightness.

Dr. Joy Jeffries, in his book on colour-blindness, gives a translation of Holmgren's special directions for conducting the examinations. The examinations to which Holmgren refers were for employés on the Swedish railways, but the remarks which follow are applicable to examinations for officers and seamen in the Mercantile Marine.

Special Directions for Conducting the Test.

The method plays an important part in an examination of this kind, not only from the principles upon which it rests, but also from the manner in which it is used. The best plan for directing how to proceed is by oral instructions and de visu, but here we are obliged to accomplish this by description. Now, this is always defective in some respects, especially if we wish to be brief. What has been said would evidently suffice for an intelligent and experienced physician; but it may not be superfluous to enter still further into detail to provide against any possible difficulties and loss of time. The object of the examination is to discover the nature of a person's chromatic sense, or sense of colour. Now, as the fate of the Candidate and that of others depend upon the correctness of the judgment pronounced by the Examiner, and, as this judgment should be based upon the manner in which the Candidate stands the trial; it is of importance that this trial should be truly what it ought to be a trial of the nature of the chromatic sense, and nothing else; an end that will be gained if our directions are strictly followed. It is not only necessary that the Examiner should be carefully observe them—which does not seem to us difficult—but that he also should take care that the individual examined does thoroughly what is required of him. This is not always as easy as one might suppose. If it were only required to examine people familiar with practical occupations and especially with colours, and with no other interest connected with the issue of the examination than to know whether they are colour-blind or not, the examination would be uniform and mechanical; but it is required to examine people of various degrees of culture, all of whom, besides, have a personal interest in the issue of the examination. Different people act very differently during the examination for many reasons. Some submit to it without the least suspicion of their defect; others are convinced that they possess a normal sense. A few only have a consciousness, or at least some suspicion, of their defect. These last can often be recognised before examination. They will keep behind the others, and attentively follow the progress of the trial, and, if allowed, will willingly remain to the last. Some are quick, others slow. The former approach unconcernedly and boldly, the latter with over anxiety and a certain dread. Some have been, perhaps, already tested and have practised in preparations for the trial; others have never been familiar with colours. Among those already tested, some may be colour-blind. Some of these latter are uncertain about their Colour Vision and act with great care, whilst others again, having been practised in distinguishing signals, conclude that their colour sense is perfect. They make the trial quickly and without thought, of course, regularly making the mistakes characteristic of their special form of colour-blindness.

The majority, however, desire to perform their task as well as possible, that is, to do what the normal eye does. This, of course, assists in testing them, provided it does not lead to too great care, as then the testing is more difficult, the trouble being that much time is wasted.

- Only a very small part have a contrary desire, namely, to pass for colour-blind, though normal-eyed. We will speak of these later, and now only concern ourselves with those who stand the test in good faith with the desire to appear normal, though perhaps they are colour-blind.

The trial generally goes on rapidly and regularly. We will only mention those hindrances and peculiarities which most frequently occur. The Examiner must watch that no mistake is made from not understanding. The names of the colour need never be used, except to ascertain if the name hides the subjective colour sensation, or to find the relation between the name the colour-blind employs and his colour preception.

The person examined who thinks more of names than the test itself (this being generally a sign of school-learning) selects not only the words of the same hues—that is, those of the same colour to his eye—but all which generally have the name of this colour; for instance in the first test 1, not only the green like the sample, but all that are green; and with the second test, not only the pink (and what are generally called red), but all which look reddish, scarlet, cinnamon, or sealing-wax red. This is of no importance, for those who only do this have scarcely such defective chromatic sense as that with which we are concerned.

Under any circumstances it is better to correct the mistakes just mentioned, when arising from misunderstanding, and it is even necessary, in reference to the mistake we explained might occur with the first test. It might be said that it was sufficient if the examinee confounded the test colour with green only; that it was indifferent whether he distinguishes carefully between the various kinds of green. But, in fact, this is not so unimportant. We must give full weight as to whether the confusion arises from misunderstanding, or lack of practice with colours, or, finally, from a true chromatic defect. To include all that is green would render the test tedious and unpractical. In fact, no little judgment has been exercised in the selection of the very lightest shade of the green proposed as a test colour, for it is exactly what the colour-blind most readily confounds with the colours (1-5) of the plate. If the examinee were allowed to depart from the narrow limits, every shade of green could be included, the result of which would be that he would prefer to select all the vivid shades, and thus avoid the dangerous ground where his defect would certainly be discovered. This is why it is necessary to oblige him to keep within certain limits, confining him to pure green specimens, and, for greater security, to recommend him to select especially the lightest shades; for, if he keeps to the darker shades, as many try to do, he readily passes to other tones, and loses himself on foreign ground, too the great loss of time and of the certainty of the test. What we have just said of green applies also, of course, to pink. (Test IIa.)

The principle of our method is to force the examinee to reveal, by an act of his own, the nature of his chromatic sense.

Now, as this act must be kept within certain limits, it is evident that the Examiner must direct him to some extent. This may present in certain cases, some difficulty, as he will not always be guided, and does either too much or too little. In both cases the Examiner should use his influence, in order to save time and gain certainty, and this is usually very easily done. This intervention is, of course, intended to put the examinee in the true path, and is accomplished in many ways according to the case in point.

We will here mention some of the expedients we have found useful:—

(A) Interfering when the Candidate selects too many Colours.

It is not always easy to confine the Candidate within the proper limits. In the first test he easily slips a yellow-green or blue-green skein among the others, and as soon as there is one, others follow usually; and it thus happens that in a few moments he has a whole handful of yellow-green, a second of blue green, a third of both these shades, at the same time. Our procedure has assisted us in more than one case of this kind.

(a) When the person examined has begun to select shades of one or several other colours than those of the sample, his ardour is arrested by taking from him the handful of skeins he has collected and asking him whether his eye does not tell him there are some which do not match the others, in which case he is told he may restore them to the pile. He then generally proceeds in one of the following manners:—

1. He rejects, one after the other, the incorrect skeins, so that only the correct remain, which is often only the sample skein. He is shown what mistake he has made, and he is told only to select skeins of the same hue as the specimen, although they may be lighter or darker. If his first error arose only from a misconception or want of practice in handling colours, he begins generally to understand what he has to do, and to do properly what is required of him.

2. Or else he selects and rejects immediately the test skein itself. This proves that he sees the difference of colour. He is then shown the test skein as the only correct one, and is asked to repeat the trial in a more correct manner. He is again put on the right track as just before, and the trial proceeds rightly, unless the error arose from a defect in colour sense. Many seem, however, to experience a natural difficulty in distinguishing between yellow-green and blue-green, or the dull shades of green and blue. This difficulty is, however, more apparent than real, and is corrected usually by direct comparison. If the method requiring the name of the colour to be given is used, a number of mistakes may be the result. If a skein of light green and light blue alone are presented to him, and he is asked to name them, he will often call blue green and green blue. But, if in the first case a blue skein is immediately shown him, he corrects his mistake by saying "this is blue" and "that green." In the last case the same thing happens mutatis mutandis. This is not the place for an explanation. It must suffice to say that the error is corrected by a direct comparison between the two colours.

(b) Another Process.—If the Candidate places by the side of the sample a shade, for instance, of yellow-green, the Examiner places near this another shade, in which there is more yellow, or even a pure yellow, remarking at the same time that if the first suit the last must also. The Candidate usually dissents from this. He is then shown, by selecting and classing the intermediate shades, that there is a gradation, which will diverge widely if logically carried out as he has begun. The same course is followed with colours of the blue shades, if the blue-green were first selected. He sees the successive gradations, and goes through with this test perfectly if this chromatic sense is correct.

To ascertain further whether he notices the tints of yellow and blue in the green, we ourselves take the yellow-green and blue-green

• and ask him if he sees any difference in colour between them. We can judge by his answer of his sense with regard to these shades, and the object of this investigation is accomplished.

It results from all this that many who are finally considered to have a normal chromatic sense may occasionally cause embarrassment. In the main, the normal observer of this kind causes greater loss of time than the colour-blind. It is astonishing to see with what rapidity the colour-blind betray their defect. At least it is found, in the majority of the cases examined by us, that the first skein of wool selected from the pile by the colour-blind in the first test was one of the "colours of confusion."

(B) Interfering when the Candidate selects too few wools.

Those who evince too great slowness also require the interference of the Examiner in another manner. We can lay aside here those cases in which, at the sight of the complex colours of the heap of wool, the Candidate finds it difficult to select a skein resembling the sample in a collection where all the particular colours seem to differ from each other, and in consequence declares immediately that he can find none resembling the specimen. He is then told that an absolute resemblance is not demanded, and that no one asks impossibilities; that time is limited, many are waiting, etc. But there are people who—from natural slowness, from being unaccustomed to such business, from fear of making mistakes, especially if they have been previously examined and been suspected of colour-blindness, or from many other motives—proceed with the greatest caution. They do not even wish to touch the wool; or they search, select and replace with the greatest care all the possible skeins without finding one corresponding with the sample, or that they wish to place beside it. Here, then, are two cases: on one hand, too much action with the fingers, without result; on the other, too little action. The Examiner is forced to interfere in both cases:—

(a) In the case of too much manual action, without corresponding practical result, the Examiner must be careful that the eye and hand of the Candidate act simultaneously for the accomplishment of the desired end.

Some people forget that the hands should be subservient to the eye in this trial, and not act independently. Thus they are often seen to fix their eyes on one side, while their hands are engaged on the other. This should be corrected, so as to save time and avoid further labour. The candidate should be told to cross his hands behind his back, to step back apace, and quietly consider all the skeins, and, as soon as his eye has met one of those for which he is looking, to extend his hand and take it. The best plan is to advise him to look first at the sample, and then at the pile, and to repeat this manoeuvre until his eyes find what he is looking for.

This plan generally succeeds when nervousness from over anxiety causes his hands to tremble; but it is not always easy to induce him to keep his hands behind his back until the moment for taking the skein in question.

(b) In cases of great caution, the trial is hastened, if the Examiner come to the assistance of the Candidate, by holding above the pile one skein after the other, and requesting him to say whether it resembles the colour of the sample or not.

In cases where any one suspected of colour-blindness has remained some time to see the trial of others, and where, as often happens, he has remarked the skeins belonging to a required shade, he may, of course, profit by it in his own trial. But this can be prevented by shuffling the skeins.

It may be regarded as an advantage of this method that it has at command a great variety of resources. We have by no means mentioned all; and yet many who have only read this description will probably reproach us with having devoted ourselves too much to details which seems to them puerile. But we believe that those who have examined the colour sense of a great number of persons, and acquired thereby considerable experience, will think differently.

We are convinced that time is saved by the means we have described and a more certain result obtained; whilst a practised surgeon, who has become to a certain degree a virtuoso, will accomplish his object quicker and surer by such means than one who neglects them. Recent experience fully confirms this. All those who have familiarized themselves with this method, and have had experience with colour-blindness, and of whose competence there can be no doubt, report, without exception, that it is to be fully depended on—the most practical, and the best.

An advantage of the method was shown to be that those who were to be examined could be present and see each individual tested, without this interfering in the least with the certainty of the result. The individual test is even hastened thereby. The colour-blind, and even the normal-eyed who are not familiar with colours, are generally rather shy about being tested, in whatever way it is done. As the method, however, is carried out, they have more confidence. The majority are even amused. The old adage holds true here, that it is easier to find fault than to do it yourself. The Surgeon, who watches not only the examined, but also those around, can often see from their faces how closely the latter observe the person being tested, when he takes out the wrong colours, as also when he neglects the right ones under his eye. This gives those looking on confidence and assurance, till their turn comes, when they appear as uncertain as before they were confident. There is something attractive in the process, stimulating the interest, and not without benefit.

From this we see that our judgment of a person's colour sense is made, not only by the material result of the examination—the character of the wools selected—but often also by the way the examined acts during the test. We should mention a very common manner of persons on trial, which, in many cases, is of great value in diagnosis. Often, in searching for the right colour, they suddenly seize a skein to lay it with the sample, but then notice it does not correspond, and put it back in the heap. This is characteristic; and if an Examiner has often seen it, he can readily recognise and be assured that it is an expression of difficulty in distinguishing the differences in the colours. We frequently see this in the first test, with shades of greenish-blue and bluish-green. Here it means nothing important; but it is quite the reverse, however, when it concerns the grey or one of the confusion colours (1-5). Uncertainty and hesitation as to these colours, which the colour-blind do not distinguish from the test colour, even when directly comparing them, is positive proof of mistake, implying defective chromatic vision of the complete colour-blind type. No doubt the form of chromatic defect which we have called incomplete colour-blindness exists in several kinds and degrees. This is not the place to further discuss our experience on this point; and, for the practical purpose we have in view, it is not necessary. As we have explained, there are among this class, forms of colour blindness gradually approaching normal colour sense. How they are distinguished has been described. We designated them as possessing feeble colour sense.

It is, perhaps, not easy to detect these special forms by any other method, or even by our own; we, therefore, give the following as a means of so doing. The only way of getting at it is by determining at what distance the Candidate can distinguish a small coloured surface. We have to deal, in fact with a feeble colour sense, which does not prevent the colours from being distinguished, but only renders it difficult. We may suppose, in comparison to the normal that the feeble colour sense is due either to a weaker response to the stimulation of the colour-perceptive organs of the retina, or else to a stimulation of a relatively smaller number of these organs. In either case this method would give us the same result, judging from our experience in testing the eccentric portions of the field of vision with the perimeter.

The method we here speak of shows us also the effect of habit and practice on the colour perception, and it is worth while to dwell on this point. It not unfrequently happens that a person who by test No. I has been noted "incompletely colour-blind," after they know of their mistake and have practised themselves in distinguishing colours will so comfort themselves at a second trial that we have to simply mark them as of "feeble colour sense." The same will sometimes happen with test No II, and it is explainable by what we have said, namely, that between the complete lack of some one colour sense and the incomplete there is a series of gradations, and that in such cases practice would affect the result of examinations.

All the examples given prove that many seeming trifles and plans are of value in making the examination—amongst others the keeping the sample a little way off from the heap of worsteds, as also the removal of everything which can cause the examined doubt and uncertainty. We must not, therefore, let them do what many want to do, namely, hold a number of the worsteds in the hand at once. We must make the person being examined place each skein, as he takes it up, either with the sample or else back on the heap. Many who are not clear whether the skein is like the sample or not, instinctively put the shades most resembling the test sample at the side of the heap towards it, and thus gradually form a little bridge, but which for correctness they will not vouch for. No such half measures must, however, be allowed.

3.—COLOUR IGNORANCE TEST.

1. The object of this test is simply to ascertain whether the Candidate knows the names of the three colours—red, green, and white—which it is important of every seaman to be acquainted with, and the test is to be confined to naming those colours.

2. One or two of the purest red and green skeins should be selected from the set of wools, and the Candidate should be required to name their colours. He should also be required to name the colour of any white object, such as a piece of white paper.

3. If he answers correctly, he could be considered to have passed the test. If he makes any mistake, he should be tried with the lantern which was formerly used for colour tests, the plain glass and the standard red and the green glasses being employed for the purpose. If he does not name these glasses correctly, he should be reported as having failed to pass the test.

4. The result of every test should be reported to the Government on Form Exn. 3, and to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 14, when the Candidate is up for examination for a Certificate of Competency, and to the Government on the Form Exn. 3a, when the Candidate is up for examination in colours only.

All cases of failure should be reported to the Port Officer on Form Exn. 17a.

Object of test for colour ignorance.

Manner in which the test is to be conducted.

Grounds in which Candidate should be treated as having passed or failed.

Result of test to be reported.

APPENDIX F.

TABLE SHOWING THE REQUIREMENTS AS TO SEA SERVICE, NECESSARY TO QUALIFY FOR EXAMINATION FOR CERTIFICATES OF COMPETENCY.

NOTE.

A Candidate for an Ordinary Certificate of any grade who has not previously held an Ordinary Certificate of a lower grade, must prove that he has served twelve months in the Foreign Trade or eighteen months in the Home or Coasting Trade in a square-rigged Sailing Vessel.

Where Foreign-going Certificates are required to be held to qualify Candidates for examination, they may be either the Ordinary Certificates or those for Fore and Aft-rigged Vessels or for Foreign-going Steamships.

| Rank. | Minimum Age. | Total Sea Service (Years). | Officer's Service in Merchant Vessels. | | |
|-------|--------------|----------------------------|--|------------------|------------------------------|
| | | | Years. | Lowest Capacity. | Lowest Certificate required. |

BOARD OF REVENUE, L. P., CALCUTTA, the 26th March 1906.

No. 2021B.
NOTIFICATION.
CUSTOMS.

THE HON'BLE MR. F. A. SLACKER, I.C.S.

Dated Calcutta, the 26th March 1906.

IN supersession of the Notification No. 7511B., dated the 10th August 1904, and the rules published therewith in Part I, page 1194 of the Calcutta Gazette of the 17th August 1904, the following revised rules, framed under sections 9 and 72, clause (b), of the Sea Customs Act, 1878 (VIII of 1878), for regulating the remuneration of Preventive Officers for overtime work on board ships, loading or unloading in the port of Calcutta, are published for general information, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor:—

- (i) For all work done by the Preventive Officers before sunrise or after sunset, an overtime fee at the rate of Re. 1 per hour shall be levied from the merchants or ship-owners concerned. If, however, for the purpose of completing the discharge or intake of any particular lot of cargo, it is found necessary to work between sunset and sunrise for a period not exceeding 15 minutes, no fee shall be charged. Should the period of 15 minutes be exceeded, the full fee of one rupee shall be charged for any broken period of the hour.
- (ii) If a merchant or ship-owner requires the services of Preventive Officers between 6 A.M. and 8 A.M., he shall present his request to that effect to a Preventive Inspector in sufficient time to enable such officer to arrange for the attendance of the necessary staff. Where officers, directed to attend on the request of a merchant or ship-owner at hours between 6 A.M. and 8 A.M., are subsequently found not to be required, overtime at the ordinary rate shall be paid by the merchant or ship-owner concerned for any such attendance, and such attendance shall not be counted as attendance for Government towards making up the total of 54 hours per week referred to in Rule (iii) below.
- (iii) For every hour in excess of 9, on which an officer works between sunrise and sunset, Government shall pay him an overtime fee of one rupee, provided that no such fee shall be paid unless the officer has worked for a total of 54 hours in the week, or for a number of hours equal to nine times the number of days on which he has been at work during the week.

2. The new rules shall take effect from the 1st April 1906.

By order of the Board of Revenue, L. P.,

S. M. NASIRUDDIN,
Offg. Secretary.

L. P. SHIRRES,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DRAFT NOTIFICATION.

In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 69B., clause (i), of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1885 (Bengal Act III of 1884), and section 138, clause (k), of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act III of 1885 (Bengal Act III of 1885), and in supersession of the Notification, dated the 5th January 1892, and of the rules published therewith, as subsequently amended, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following rules for the establishment and management of hospitals and dispensaries under the supervision of the Government of Bengal.

RULES FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF HOSPITALS AND DISPENSARIES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

PRELIMINARY.

In these rules—

“Local authority”
“Local Fund”

(a) “Local authority” means any body of persons for the time being invested by law with the control and administration of any matters within a specified local area. It includes a Joint-Committee under section 30 and a Local Board under section 101 of Bengal Act III of 1885.

(b) “Local fund” means any fund under the control or management of a local authority.

CLASSIFICATION.

Classification of Hospitals and Dispensaries.

RULE 1.—Hospitals and dispensaries are divided into the following classes:—

- | | |
- Class III.—Local Fund Hospitals and Dispensaries—includes all institutions which are vested in Local Boards or Municipalities, or guaranteed or maintained by local or municipal funds. The fact that such an institution is aided by private subscriptions or receives assistance from Government in the shape of part of the salary of the Medical Officer, grants of medicine, or otherwise, should not be regarded as a reason for not classing it as a Local Fund Dispensary so long as its existence is ultimately dependent upon local funds.
- Class IV.—Private aided Hospitals and Dispensaries—comprises institutions supported by private subscriptions or guarantee, but receiving aid from Government or local funds.
- Class V.—Private non-aided Hospitals and Dispensaries—comprises institutions maintained entirely at the cost of private individuals or associations. The fact that Government supplies superior inspection or registers and forms should not be regarded as a reason for not treating it as a private non-aided dispensary.
- Class VI.—Railway Hospitals and Dispensaries—comprises all Railway institutions whether maintained by State Railways or others.

CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH GOVERNMENT AID AND SUPERVISION WILL BE GIVEN.

Opening and closing of Dispensaries.

RULE 2.—A dispensary may be opened by a local authority with the sanction, general or special, of the Commissioner, and on provision of the necessary funds in the annual budget, and it may be closed by the same authority with the same sanction. When thus opened or closed by a local authority, the fact shall be reported by the Civil Surgeon to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, in order that the dispensary may be added to or struck off from the list in Class III. No dispensary in Class III, in which a Government medical subordinate is employed shall, however, be closed without the sanction of Government, and, in the case of a dispensary in Class IV or V, three months' notice shall be given before the dispensary is closed. All dispensaries maintained by local authorities with public funds entrusted to them by Government are subject to all the rules hereby laid down for the management of such institutions. Whenever a dispensary under Class IV or Class V is opened or closed by a private individual, the fact shall be reported by the Civil Surgeon to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals.

Institutions in Class IV, which are in receipt of aid from Government or Local funds, shall be subject to the rules laid down in this Manual. Institutions in Class V shall not be brought under the supervision of Government, except at the request of those who are responsible for their maintenance. When brought under Government supervision, they shall be subject to these rules.

RULE 3.—Applications for grants from Government in respect of any dispensary shall be submitted to Government through the Magistrate and the Commissioner.

Grants-in-aid
Government
Local authorities.

The Lieutenant-Governor reserves the right to withdraw Government supervision or aid in any case, or at any time, when it may seem desirable to do so.

No grant may be made by a local authority in aid of any hospital or dispensary which has not received the recognition of Government and been classified under these rules. Grants-in-aid shall be made only in accordance with these rules.

RULE 4.—A guarantee bond (vide form given in Appendix A) for the maintenance of a dispensary for a given period may, if thought necessary, be required from the intending supporters of an institution in Class IV or V as a condition precedent to their obtaining assistance from Government in money or in any other way.

Guarantee Bond.

RULE 5.—The Managing Committee of every hospital or dispensary under these rules, whether in Class I, Class II, Class III, Class IV, or Class V, shall submit to the Medical Department, through the Civil Surgeon of the district, such reports, returns, and accounts as may be prescribed by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals from time to time. Such reports, returns, and accounts shall be in such forms, and be submitted on such dates, as may be prescribed. All books, registers, and forms which may be necessary for the preparation and submission of such reports, returns, and accounts will be supplied by Government free of cost.

Submission of reports, returns and accounts.

RULE 6.—Every institution which is recognized by Government and brought under these rules is subject to inspection and supervision by the Commissioner of the Division, by the Civil authorities of the district, by the Civil Surgeon, by the administrative officers of the Medical Department, and by any other person who may be generally or specially appointed by the Commissioner of the Division in that behalf. No charge will be made for such inspection or supervision.

Inspection and Supervision.

RULE 7.—Government aid to a hospital or dispensary will be conditional on the observance of due economy in the management of the dispensary funds. The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals will bring to the notice of Government any instance in which he considers that such economy is not observed, and that the Government aid should be continued or withdrawn.

Conditions to grant-in-aid.

RULE 8.—Every dispensary under Government supervision which has accommodation for in-patients shall admit all cases brought by the Police for examination and treatment; and shall provide facilities for post-mortem examinations being conducted in such cases.

Admission of Police cases, and post-mortems.

APPOINTMENT, PAY, LEAVE, AND PENSION OF MEDICAL OFFICERS.

RULE 9.—The medical officer of every institution in Class I or II of these rules shall be a member of the Government service, and shall be appointed by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals.

Appointment of medical officer in state institutions.

RULE 10.—The local authority or Managing Committee vested with the control and administration of an institution in Class III, and the Managing Committee of an institution in Class IV or V shall be entitled to appoint their own medical officer, subject to the following conditions, viz.—

Appointment of medical officer in other cases.

- (a) that he be a duly qualified medical man, licensed or certified by a recognised medical college or school, his license or diploma being subject to examination and approval by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals;
- (b) that he be not a dismissed servant of Government, or disqualified for his duties by age, infirmity, or character; and
- (c) that in the event of misconduct, insolvency, or professional incompetence by reason of age or otherwise, being proved against him to the satisfaction of the Medical Department, he be removed from his charge on the requisition of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals:

Provided that, on the application of the local authority or Managing Committee of any such institution, the services of a Government medical officer may be lent to such institution, subject to the rules laid down in this Manual. In such cases the pay, including contribution towards pension and allowance for leave other than privilege leave of an Assistant Surgeon will be assumed to be Rs. 198 per mensem, and the pay of a Civil Hospital Assistant Rs. 43, and local authorities will be required to pay these sums into the treasury half-yearly in June and December, irrespective of the actual pay of the officer appointed.

Provided, also, that in the case of dispensaries situated at the head-quarters of districts or of subdivisions, the medical officer shall be a member of the Government service, and shall, in all cases, possess such qualifications as may be declared to be necessary for such an appointment. The salary of a medical officer in charge of a dispensary at the head-quarters of a subdivision shall be as laid down in Rule 11.

RULE 11.—In the case of a hospital or dispensary situated at the head-quarters of a subdivision, the Government medical officer in charge of the subdivision will usually be in charge of the hospital or dispensary in addition to his other duties, and will receive from the managers of the dispensary an additional allowance of Rs. 10 a month if he is a Civil Hospital Assistant, or Rs. 20 a month if he is an Assistant Surgeon.

Remuneration of Assistant Surgeons and Civil Hospital Assistants.

In case the officer sanctioned by Government for the medical charge of the subdivision is of the Civil Hospital Assistant class, it will be open to the managers to obtain the services of a Civil Assistant Surgeon on payment of the difference between the assumed pay of an Assistant Surgeon (Rs. 198) and the assumed pay of a Civil Hospital Assistant (Rs. 43) in addition to the dispensary allowance.

RULE 19.—Medical stores to be supplied from the Medical Store Department must be indented for annually, and the annual indent must be submitted on the date fixed by the Civil Surgeon, to enable him to submit the combined indent for his district punctually on the date fixed by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal.

MANAGEMENT AND SUPERVISION.

ested.

RULE 20.—The management of hospitals and dispensaries under these rules shall be vested as follows:—

If the institution is in—

- (a) Classes I and II—in such officer, person or persons as Government may direct.
- (b) Class III—in the local authority which provides the major portion of the funds from which the institution is maintained, or in a Managing Committee appointed by that authority, subject to the veto of the Commissioner of the Division. Such Managing Committee may include persons who are not members of the local authority. The members shall be notified by the Commissioner in the Calcutta Gazette, and the Committee shall exercise in respect of the hospital or dispensary for which it is appointed such powers as may be delegated to it by the local authority.
- (c) Classes IV and V—in a Manager or Managing Committee to be nominated by the supporters and approved by the Commissioner of the Division: provided that no Committee shall be appointed for any institution in this class which receives no aid from Government or local funds, unless the proprietors or chief supporters apply for such appointment.

No medical officer and no employé of the dispensary shall be eligible for appointment as a member of the Dispensary Committee.

NOTE.—See orders in Government Resolution No. 523T.—M., dated the 2nd November 1899, at Appendix E, regarding the constitution of committees for the management of local fund dispensaries, and the allotment of funds to those committees, and also the rules prescribed in Accountant-General's Circular No. 263L.A., dated 18th August 1900, for the guidance of Managing Committees and local authorities in matters of accounts.

RULE 21.—Every member of the Managing Committee appointed under Rule 20, clauses (a) and (c) shall vacate his office at the end of three years from the date of his appointment as such member; and Term of office members of Managing Committee.

Every member of a Managing Committee appointed under Rule 20, clause (b), shall vacate his office when the term of office of the members of the local body by which the committee is appointed expires:

Provided that the term of office of the members of the committee shall be held to include any period which may elapse between its expiration and the date of the first meeting of a new committee appointed to take its place.

RULE 22.—(1) A member of a committee appointed under Rule 20, clause (a), may at any time be removed from office by the Commissioner of the Division. Removal of members.

(2) A member of a committee appointed under Rule 20, clause (b), may at any time be removed from office by a resolution passed by a majority of the members of the local body by which the committee was appointed, or for any of the reasons for which a member of the local body might be removed from office, by the authority empowered by law to remove such member.

(3) A member of a committee appointed under Rule 20, clause (c), may at any time be removed from office by the Commissioner of the Division, at the request of the supporters or any of them, or by the Commissioner of his own motion for any of the reasons for which he might remove from office a Municipal Commissioner.

RULE 23.—If any member of the committee shall be unable to complete his full term of office, or shall avail himself of leave granted by the committee, the vacancy caused by his resignation or removal, or death, or absence on leave, may be filled up by the appointment of another person, and the person so appointed shall fill such vacancy for the unexpired remainder of the term for which such member would otherwise have continued in office, or during his absence on leave, as the case may be. Filling of vacancies.

RULE 24.—In cases falling under (b) and (c) of Rule 20, the local authority or the Managing Committee shall elect two of their number to be Chairman and Vice-Chairman respectively, and may also elect another of their number as Secretary. Chairman and Vice-Chairman.

RULE 25.—The Managing Committee shall meet at least once a quarter, and shall scrutinize the accounts and enquire into all matters affecting the welfare of the institution. They shall examine and pass the monthly accounts, and shall keep a minute-book in which their proceedings shall be recorded. Meetings of committee.

RULE 26.—The Managing Committee shall be responsible for the management of the funds of the institution. It shall be their duty to see that the guaranteed and promised subscriptions are regularly collected. After defraying the current expenses of the institution, the balance at the end of the month, if any, of the donations, subscriptions, and interest realized by the Committee shall be deposited by them in the Post Office Savings Bank. When the amount at credit of the dispensary exceeds Rs. 200, the Comptroller-General shall ordinarily be asked to invest the whole or a part of it in Government securities. No other mode of investment will be allowed without the previous sanction of Government. Duties and functions of committee.

RULE 27.—In the case of institutions in Class III, the endowments and subsequent investments, which must be made in Government securities, shall be held in the custody of the Comptroller-General apart from the assets of the local fund. Small sums available for investment should be placed in the Government Savings Bank. The securities must not be sold, and these invested funds must not be appropriated or used in any way without the sanction of Government. Custody of endowments and investments.

NOTE.—See orders in Government Resolution No. 523T.—M., dated the 2nd November 1899, at Appendix E, regarding the constitution of Committees for the management of Local Fund dispensaries and the allotment of funds to those Committees, and also the rules prescribed in Accountant-General's Circular No. 263L.A., dated 18th August 1900, for the guidance of Managing Committees and local authorities in matters of accounts.

RULE 28.—Dispensaries in Class III are subdivided for purposes of account into two classes: Class IIIA—Dispensaries for which separate banking accounts are allowed to be opened in the treasury with the sanction of the Government; and Class IIIB—Dispensaries for which separate accounts are not allowed at the treasury, but the funds of which are kept under the direct control of the local authority. Subdivision for purposes of accounts of Local Funds Dispensaries.

(a) CLASS IIIA.—DISPENSARIES.

- (1) All subscriptions and donations shall be collected by the Managing Committee and shall be paid into the treasury for credit to the Dispensary Fund. The income from endowments and investments shall, however, be realised by the local authority, and shall be remitted by it to the treasury for credit to the Dispensary Fund, an advice being sent at the same time to the Managing Committee. If any cheques for remittance orders are received, they should be sent intact to the treasury for per contra credit to the Dispensary Fund. Method of keeping accounts where separate banking account is opened in treasury.

Execution of repairs to local fund or private institutions.

RULE 48.—In the case of institutions in Class III, IV or V, repairs to the dispensary, buildings shall be executed by, and be chargeable to, the local authority or Managing Committee, as the case may be.

Appointment and discharge of Compounders, dressers and menial servants.

RULE 49.—Menial servants will be appointed and discharged by the Managing Committee of the institution. Compounders and dressers will also be appointed and be liable to removal by the Managing Committee, subject to the approval of the Superintendent.

Conditions of appointment and remuneration of compounders.

RULE 50.—All compounders appointed to dispensaries in Classes, I, II, and III after the 1st April 1897 must hold certificates under the rules for the grant of certificates to Compounders under section 252 of the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884, and section 368 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, III of 1899, and will draw pay at the rate of Rs. 10, rising by biennial increments of Re. 1 to Rs. 15. Compounders already employed in such dispensaries will be entitled to draw pay at the above rate on obtaining such certificates.

In selected cases the pay may, with the approval of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, be fixed at any other rate subject to a maximum of Rs. 20: provided that if it be incremental it shall ordinarily rise by biennial increments of Re. 1 and attain the maximum in ten years."

Prohibition of private employment of dispensary servants.

RULE 51.—Dispensary servants must not be employed in the private service of the medical officer.

Prohibition of employment of apprentices on certain cases.

RULE 52.—The employment of apprentices is prohibited, except in hospitals and dispensaries, the Superintendents of which are authorized by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, to receive and train candidates for the compounder class.

Disposal of non-infected clothing and property of deceased patients.

RULE 53.—Articles of clothing which are not infected, and other moveable property belonging to deceased house-patients, should unless, in the case of native patients, to whom section 64 of Act II of 1874 does not apply, there are heirs to whom the property may be made over, be sent through the Police to the local Munsif or District Judge for disposal under the provisions of Regulation V of 1799. In the case of European or other patients to whom section 64 of Act II of 1874 applies, there is no obligation on the hospital authorities to report the death to the Judge or to send to him the property of the deceased. It may be taken away by the relations or friends of the deceased, if there are any present. If not the hospital authorities may keep any moveable property left by the deceased until the friends or relations of the deceased can take them away. If no application is made within six months, the articles may be sent to the District Judge with a report of the death of the deceased. In making over such property or allowing such property to be taken away, the hospital authorities will exercise due care and caution, and will advise the parties that they are not legally entitled to possession of these until they have complied with the provisions of law on the subject of the effects of deceased persons, and that they are permitted to remove the property at their own risk.

A receipt for the goods should be taken in a register to be kept for the purpose or on a separate paper which should be filed.

BOOKS AND FORMS.

Book and forms to be kept up by the Medical Officer.

RULE 54.—The following books and forms are required to be kept up by the medical officer at hospitals and dispensaries brought under these rules (see Appendix B) :—

- (1) Diary and register of indoor patients (Form I).
- (2) Register of operations (Form II).
- (3) Bed-head ticket (Form III). This should be written up daily and be filed, so as to preserve a concise history of the case and treatment. It is advisable also to keep a case-book for recording all special or important cases. A clinical chart of temperature, pulse, and respiration in Form IIIA should be posted into the case-book against the patient's case.
- (4) Register of out-patients (Form IV).
- (5) Ticket for outdoor patients (Form V).
- (6) A book of copies of certificates given in police and medico-legal cases (Form VI).
- (7) A blank book for record of post-mortem examinations, medico-legal or otherwise and for keeping detailed records of wounds or other police cases. Instead the book being kept up, a copy of Form VII, which is to be used when despatching vis-à-vis to the Chemical Examiner, may be filed as a record of medico-legal post-mortem examinations.
- (8) Monthly returns of in and out-patients (Forms VIII and VIIIA). These should be kept up to date for the more easy and accurate preparation of the annual return; a copy should be submitted to the Civil Surgeon soon after the close of the month.
- (9) Monthly bill in detail of establishment, diet, and contingencies (Form IX). These are to be prepared by the medical officer in charge, and sent for examination, countersignature, and payment to the Secretary or Manager. In all cases in which there is expenditure for establishment, diet, or any other charge to be paid by Government, the bills of such expenditure are to be kept separate from the private accounts of the charity.
- (10) A bill-book for copies of all the dispensary bills.

- (11) A daily account or cash-book showing actual receipts and expenditure in detail. This is to be kept by the medical officer, and the account totalled up at the end of each month.
- (12) A diet-book in Form X. This is required only in dispensaries in which there are in-patients.
- (13) Monthly return of medical subordinates and hospital servants, including acquittance-roll (Form XI). This is to be sent monthly to the Superintendent.
- (14) A stock ledger of medicines (Form XII).
- (15) Annual indent for European medicines and instruments (Form XIII). This is to be submitted to the Civil Surgeon in printed form and in triplicate.
- (16) Emergent indent for European medicines and instruments (Form XIV). This is to be submitted to the Civil Surgeon in printed form and in triplicate.
- (17) Form XV shows a list of medicines that may ordinarily be indented for from the Government Medical Store.
- (18) Form XVI shows a list of the principal articles of the Materia Medica which are procurable in bazars.
- (19) Annual indent for forms (Form XVII).
- (20) Annual returns (Forms XVIII, XVIIIA, XVIIIB, XVIII C, and XVIII D). These should be sent in the printed form and in duplicate, in the first week of January, to the Civil Surgeon for check, and for the transmission of one of the copies to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals not later than the 10th January.
- (21) Operations are to be entered in the annual return continuously as in the list in the Appendix to the Nomenclature of Diseases.
- (22) A season monthly register of vaccination for use in dispensaries to which vaccinators are attached (Form XIX). This form can be obtained from the Superintendent, to whom a copy duly filled up should be submitted every month for incorporation in his monthly return to be submitted to the Sanitary Commissioner.
- (23) Annual report of vaccination. This is to be submitted to the Superintendent in Form XX for incorporation in his general report to be sent to the Sanitary Commissioner.
- (24) A visitors' book. For this a simple blank book will suffice.
- (25) A blank book for copies of all letters and circulars received.
- (26) A blank book for copying all letters despatched.
- (27) A book-cover for filing all circulars and other letters.

RULE 55.—The following books and forms are required to be kept up by the Secretary or Managers (see Appendix C):—

Books and forms to be kept up by the Secretary or Managers.

- (1) A monthly statement of accounts (Form XXI) to be submitted by the Secretary or Managers monthly to the Superintendent. A copy of the same should also be laid before the managing body at their monthly meetings, and another copy should be sent to the Magistrate.
- (2) An annual return of accounts in the same form should be submitted to the Superintendent for his information in the first week of January.
- (3) A cash book of class IIIA. Dispensary Fund (Form XXIA) to be kept by the Managing Committee in accordance with the instructions contained in rule 28.
- (4) A subscription and donation book (Form XXII).
- (5) A dispensary property book.
- (6) A committee book for recording the proceedings of each meeting of the managing body.

RULE 56.—The following reports and returns are required to be submitted by the Superintendent (see Appendix D).

- (1) Annual return of Government Assistant Surgeons and Civil Hospital Assistants (Form XXIII).
- (2) Annual confidential report of Government Assistant Surgeons and Civil Hospitals Assistants (Form XXIV).
- (3) Inspection report of a dispensary (Form XXV).
- (4) Annual report on the working of a dispensary (Form XXVI).

LEGISLATIVE DEPT.,
BOOK DEPOT BRANCH,
The 9th January 1906.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA, MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depot; and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depot, Calcutta,

the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad.

PART III.

Acts of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, the assent of His Honour on the 14th March, 1906, and, having been assented to by His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General on the 24th idem, is hereby published for general information:—

BENGAL ACT No. II OF 1906.

An Act to amend the Land Registration Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Land Registration Ben. Act VII of 1876. Act, 1876; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Land Registration (Amendment) Act, 1906; and

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, appoint in this behalf.

Amendment of Bengal Act VII of 1876, section 3, clauses (5), (6) and (7). 2. (1) To sub-clause (c) of clause (2) of section 3 of the Land Registration Act, 1876, the following words shall be added, Ben. Act VII of 1876. namely:—

“or on any other register prescribed for the purpose by rule made under this Act”.

(2) To clause (6) of the same section the words “or as a trustee or executor” shall be added.

(3) For clause (7) of the same section the following shall be substituted, namely:—

“‘mausa’ means the area defined, surveyed and recorded as a distinct and separate mauza in—

(a) the general land-revenue survey which has been made of the Province of Bengal, or

- (b) any survey made by the Government which may be adopted by notification in the Calcutta Gazette as defining mauzas for the purposes of this clause in any specified area ; and, where a survey has not been made by or under the authority of the Government, such area as the Collector may, with the sanction of the Board of Revenue, by general or special order, declare to constitute a mauza."

Amendment
of section 13.

3. (1) In section 13 of the said Act, after the word "such," where it first occurs, the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

"or that, in consequence of the preparation of a record-of-rights, or for any other reason, the circumstances of any district or part of a district are so altered."

(2) In the same section, after the words "to prepare" the words "or re-write or maintain" shall be inserted.

Amendment
of section 15.

4. In section 15 of the said Act, for the words "and a separate alphabetical arrangement, for each local division" the following words shall be substituted, namely:—

"for each local division, and shall be so arranged as the Board may direct."

New sections
19A and 19B.

5. After section 19 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"19A. Notwithstanding anything contained in other sections of this Act, the Board may from time to time, by written order, direct, in respect of all or any districts,— Power of Board to issue orders as to record of matters required to be entered in Register A or Part I of Register D.

(a) that all matters required by this Act to be entered in the general register of revenue-paying lands and Part I of the intermediate register, respectively, shall be entered in a combined register to be prescribed by the Board, instead of in the aforesaid registers, or

(b) that all matters required by this Act to be entered in the general register of revenue-paying lands shall be entered in Part I of the intermediate register instead of in the general register of revenue-paying lands, or

(c) that all matters required by this Act to be entered in Part I of the intermediate register shall be entered in the general register of revenue-paying lands instead of in the intermediate register.

Explanation.—An order issued under this section may merely direct the entry of matters in some register other than that prescribed for the purpose by other sections of the Act. It may not direct the non-record of matters which are required by the Act to be recorded.

"19B. All provisions of this Act (other than section 19A) as to the maintenance of registers, as to the entry of matters in any particular register or in any particular part of any register, and as to other matters relating to registers, shall be read subject to any orders issued by the Board under section 19A and for the time being in force."

Act to be read subject to orders so issued.

Amendment
of section 24.

6. In section 24 of the said Act, for the words "the alphabetical arrangement mentioned in section fifteen" the words "the arrangement directed under section fifteen" shall be substituted.

sections 28 and 29.

7. To section 28 and to section 29 of the said Act the following shall be added, namely:—

"The notice required under this section shall be served in the manner prescribed by section 50."

section 30.

8. To section 30 of the said Act the following shall be added, namely:—

“(e) Whenever any minor, disqualified proprietor or other beneficiary whose name has been recorded in any register along with that of a guardian or manager lawfully assumes direct charge of his estate, he shall forthwith give notice to the Collector and apply for correction of the register by removal therefrom of the name of such guardian or manager.”

Amendment
of section 31.

9. In section 31 of the said Act, after the words “any information required by the Collector” the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

“or under clause (e) of the said section to give notice of his having assumed direct charge of an estate.”

Amendment
of section 53.

10. In section 53 of the said Act,

(a) after the word “witnesses” the words “and any applicant or his agent” shall be inserted; and

(b) for the words “in the case of a Civil Court” the words “in respect of witnesses” shall be substituted.

New section
53A.

11. After section 53 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

“53A. The evidence of every person examined by the Collector in any inquiry from which an appeal lies under this Act shall be recorded in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Civil Court by the Code of Civil Procedure.”

XIV of 1902.

Amendment
of section 64.

12. (1) Before the proviso in section 64 of the Land Registration Act, 1876, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

1876.

“(3) in the case of a fee-simple waste-land lot which is revenue-free and for which no rents are received or receivable, two-and-a-half per centum on one-fifteenth part of the value, such value being taken to be—

(a) in the case of a transfer by sale, the purchase-money, and,

(b) in any other case, the value determined by the Collector.”

(2) After the said proviso the following proviso shall be inserted, namely:—

“Provided also that the Board may, by general or special order, remit the payment of fees payable for any transfer.”

section 70.

13. To section 70 of the said Act the following shall be added, namely:—

“Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, no application under this section or under section 10 or section 11 of the Bengal Land-revenue Sales Act, 1859, shall be received unless it is accompanied by a fee of two rupees.”

XI of 1900.

New section
74A.

14. After section 74 of the Land Registration Act, 1876, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

1876.

“74A. Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing sections, if the Collector becomes aware, otherwise than after receipt of an application under section 72, that any separate account opened under section 10 or section 11 of the Bengal Land-revenue Sales Act, 1859, or under section 70 or section 72 of this Act in respect of any estate does not represent existing facts, he may, after service of a notice on the recorded proprietor in the manner prescribed by section 50, and after hearing any objection which may be preferred, close the account.”

XI of 1900.

Amendment
of section 77.

15. In section 77 of the Land Registration Act, 1876, before the word “concerned” in the second place in which it occurs, the words “who is” shall be inserted.

Beng. Act VII of 1876.

Repeals.

16. (1) The following portions of the said Act are repealed throughout Bengal, namely:—

(a) the second paragraph of section 5;

(b) in section 23, the words “and a note referring to such entry shall be made in the place in the general register in which such estate or property would have appeared according to the alphabetical arrangement mentioned in section five”; and

(c) section 25.

(2) When any order has been issued under any clause of section 19A of the said Act (as amended by this Act), in respect of any district, the following portions of the said Act shall be deemed to be repealed in that district, namely:—

clause (e) of section 7 and clause (e) of section 8.

(3) When any order has been issued under clause (a) or clause (b) of the said section 19A in respect of any district, the following portions of the said Act shall be deemed to be repealed in that district, namely:—

(i) in clause (b) of section 8, the words “and the number which the estate bears in Part I of the general register of revenue-paying lands for its own district”;

(ii) in clause (a) of section 18, the words “the number it bears on the general register of revenue-paying lands”; and

(iii) in clause (d) of the said section 18, the words “in each Part of the general register of revenue-paying lands and.”

(4) The following portions of the Bengal Land-revenue Sales (Amendment) Act, 1862, are hereby repealed, namely:— Ben. Act III of 1862.

(i) in section 3, the words and figures “sections 10 and 11,” and

(ii) clause 1 of the Schedule.

CALCUTTA;

The 3rd April, 1906.

L. C. ADAMI,

Off. Secretary to the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Pongal in Council, received the assent of His Honour on the 14th March, 1906, and, having been assented to by His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General on the 24th idem, is hereby published for general information :—

BENGAL ACT No. III OF 1906.

An Act to provide for the discontinuance of Brothels and Disorderly Houses in certain localities in Bengal.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the discontinuance of brothels and disorderly houses in certain localities in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Disorderly Houses Act, 1906;

(2) It applies to all municipalities constituted under the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884; and Ben. Act III of 1884.

(3) The Lieutenant-Governor may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, extend it to any specified local area not being a municipality.

Power to direct discontinuance of use of house as a brothel or by disorderly
persons.

2. (1) When any Magistrate of the first class receives information—

- (a) that any house in the vicinity of any educational institution, or of any boarding-house, hostel or mess used or occupied by students, is used as a brothel or for the purpose of habitual prostitution, or is used by disorderly persons of any description, or
- (b) that any house is used as aforesaid to the annoyance of respectable inhabitants of the vicinity, or
- (c) that any house in the immediate neighbourhood of a cantonment is used as a brothel or for the purpose of habitual prostitution, he may summon the owner, tenant, manager or occupier of the house to appear before him either in person or by agent; and, if satisfied that the house is used as described in clause (a), clause (b) or clause (c), as the case may be, may, by written order, direct such owner, tenant, manager or occupier, within a period to be stated in such order, not less than five days from the date thereof, to discontinue such use:

Provided that action under this sub-section shall be taken only—

- (i) with the sanction or by the order of the District Magistrate; or
- (ii) on the report of the Commissioners of the Municipality concerned; or
- (iii) on the complaint of three or more persons resident in the immediate vicinity of the house to which the complaint refers.

(2) If any person against whom an order has been passed by a Magistrate under sub-section (1) fails to comply with such order within the period stated therein, the Magistrate may impose on him a fine which may extend to twenty-five rupees for every day after the expiration of that period during which the house is so used:

Provided that no fine shall be imposed on an owner if he is able to prove to the satisfaction of the Magistrate that he has taken such action as is within his power to comply with the order.

APPENDIX TO

The Calcutta Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1906.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

The following Notices are published for general information.

CALCUTTA, the 30th March 1906.

W. A. INGLIS,
Secretary, Marine Department.

BAY OF BENGAL—BURMA COAST.

Rangoon river approach—A shoal patch reported.

No. 112 (first publication).—The following notice to mariners (No. 27 of 1906), issued by the Bombay Government, is republished :—

From a recent survey by the Deputy Conservator of the Port of Rangoon, it would appear that there is a shoal with 3 to 6 feet of water about 8 cables in extent N. N. E. and S. S. W. and $2\frac{1}{2}$ cables broad, the northern end of which bears from Centre Eastern buoy S. 73° E., distant 4 cables and the southern end S. 3° E., distant 9 cables.

All bearings are true.

This notice affects the following Admiralty Chart :—Rangoon River and Approaches, No. 833 ; also Bay of Bengal Pilot, 3rd edition, 1901, page 551.

AFRICA, NORTH-EAST—RED SEA.

Shoal patch reported.

No. 113 (first publication).—The Bombay Government has given notice (No. 28 of 1906) that the Master of S.S. Coromandel states that his vessel drawing 20' 8" touched on a shoal patch which lies in a position from which Shermo Reef Beacon bears approximately N. 52° E. (T.), distant 2 miles.

Approximate position :—Latitude $24^{\circ} 3' N.$, longitude $37^{\circ} 53' E.$

This notice affects the following Admiralty Chart :—Red Sea Sheet II, No. 8 b ; and Red Sea and Gulf of Aden Pilot, 5th edition, 1900, page 260.

AUSTRALIA, SOUTH—SPENCER GULF.

Preliminary Notices.

No. 114 (first publication).—The President of the Marine Board, Port Adelaide, calls the attention of Masters of vessels, pilots, and others to the undermentioned preliminary notices, which will be followed at an early date by notices giving more definite information :—

Middle Bank Lightship.

This vessel will be removed on or about the 1st March next for repairs and overhaul, during which period the light will be exhibited from a three-masted vessel painted black.

The light will be shown from the foremast in a position under the forestay. During daylight a diamond-shaped object painted red will appear on her fore topmast stay.

Shoalwater Point Obelisk.

It is proposed to place a white ball on the top of this obelisk during the next few days.

Port Victoria—Rocky island channel.

In the course of a few days this channel will be marked by two Cheese Buoys.

Ward Spit.

On or about the 2nd March 1906, a black beacon will be erected on Ward Spit, in lieu of the black buoy now there and the beacon which disappeared some time ago.

Tumby Bay.

The north end of Tumby Reef has been marked by a Black Can Buoy surmounted by a square-shaped Cage Head. The buoy is moored in three and-a-half fathoms.

Jarrold Point.

It is intended to at once replace the Bell Buoy on this point, and remove the Red Buoy which has been there temporarily.

This notice affects Admiralty Chart No. 2389b.

COCHIN CHINA—SAIGON RIVER.

Saigon—Wreck in approach.

No. 115 (first publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 204 of 1906) that the wreck of the S.S. Carlisle, with a mast, funnel, and part of the fore-castle above water, lies sunk across the Saigon, or Don nai river, near the entrance to the tributary On Gnai (Ong Mai), the bow, which is nearest the centre of the channel, being situated at a distance of $15\frac{1}{2}$ cables S. 48° E. from the green fixed light near the mouth of the tributary Gioi or Doi.

Approximate position, lat. $10^{\circ} 41\frac{1}{2}'$ N., long. $106^{\circ} 46\frac{1}{2}'$ E.

The semaphore of Nha Bé (Nga be), and the mouth of the tributary On Gnai are reported to be incorrectly shown on the chart.

(Variation 2° Easterly in 1906.)

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Saigon or Don nai river, Nos. 1269 and 1016; Also China Sea Directory, vol. II, 1899, page 384.

INDIAN OCEAN—MADAGASCAR—DIEGO SAUREZ BAY.

Cape Miné (Andranomodi) light—Intended alteration in.

No. 116 (first publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 206 of 1906) that it is intended to alter the character of Cape Miné or Andranomodi light, Diego Suarez bay, from flashing to a white group flashing light, showing groups of three flashes every $\frac{1}{2}$ second. The new light may be exhibited for experiment, but further notice will be given when it is permanently established.

Approximate position, lat. $12^{\circ} 18\frac{1}{2}'$ S., long. $49^{\circ} 22\frac{1}{2}'$ E.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Delagoa bay to Cape Guardafui, No. 597; Chagos Archipelago to Madagascar, No. 289; Comoro islands, No. 2762; Cape St. Andrew to Antongil bay, No. 758; Diego Suarez to Andranomodi bay, No. 1002; Diego Suarez bay, No. 1116; plan of Oranjia pass on chart No. 1764; Also List of lights, Part VI, 1906, No. 100; and Islands in the Southern Indian Ocean, 1904, page 61.

PACIFIC OCEAN, SOUTH—TUAMOTO ARCHIPELAGO—FAKARAVA ISLAND.

Rotoava—Light established.

No. 117 (first publication).—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 302, dated 11th October 1901, issued by this Office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 207 of 1906) that a white fixed light, elevated 29 feet above high water, and visible in clear weather from a distance of 10 miles from the bearing of S. 53° E., through east, to N. 8° W., has been established on an iron support erected near the root of the pier at Rotoava,

Approximate position, lat. $16^{\circ} 2\frac{1}{2}'$ S., long. $145^{\circ} 38\frac{1}{2}'$ W.

It is presumed that this light replaces the former red fixed light given in the above-mentioned notice.

(Variation 8° Easterly in 1906.)

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and corrected from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Alipore Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; t, thunder; <, lightning; d, drizzling rain; K, thunderstorm.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1901L.R.—The 9th April 1906.—Whereas Maharaja Bahadur Sir Jotindra Mohan Tagore, K.C.S.I., has applied to the Lieutenant-Governor, under section 3 of the Bengal Settled Estates Act, 1904 (Bengal Act III of 1904), for permission to make a settlement of an estate under that Act; and whereas, in pursuance of section 7 of the said Act, and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the said application was published for general information [with the exception of the particulars as to income, revenue, rates and taxes which were inserted in pursuance of clause (b) of section 4 of the Act] in the Calcutta Gazette of the 27th September 1905, Part I, at pages 1649 to 1661, as Notification No. 2603T.—R., dated the 20th idem;

and whereas the Lieutenant-Governor has duly considered all objections to the proposed settlement communicated to him during the period of six months which has elapsed since the date of the said notification:

In exercise of the power conferred by clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 8 of the Bengal Settled Estates Act, 1904 (Bengal Act III of 1904), the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to grant permission to the said Maharaja Bahadur Sir Jotindra Mohan Tagore, K.C.S.I., to make the settlement proposed in the application hereinafter set forth below of the immoveable and moveable properties mentioned in the first, second and third schedules annexed thereto.

R. W. CARLYLE,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

IN THE MATTER OF THE BENGAL SETTLED ESTATES ACT, 1904 [Act III (B.C.) of 1904] and IN THE MATTER of a proposed Instrument of Settlement to be executed by Maharaja Bahadur Sir Jotindra Mohan Tagore, K.C.S.I.

TO HIS HONOUR SIR ANDREW HENDERSON LEITH FRASER, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

The application of Maharaja Bahadur Sir JOTINDRA MOHUN TAGORE, K.C.S.I., under section 3 of the Bengal Settled Estates Act, 1904.

SHEWETH:

1. That the applicant, the son of the late Horo Coomar Tagore, is the representative of the elder branch of the Tagore family of Calcutta, was born in the year 1831. He is one of the largest Zamindars in Bengal. In January 1870 he was appointed a Member of the Bengal Legislative Council, and on the expiry of his term of office he was appointed a second time. The title of Raja Bahadur was conferred upon him on the 17th March 1871, and on the 1st January 1877 he received the title of Maharaja, and on the 1st February following he was appointed a Member of the Legislative Council of the Governor-General of India. In the year 1879 the applicant was appointed a second time, and in 1881 a third time, as a Member of the Legislative Council of the Governor-General. In 1880 he was created a Companion of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, and on the 24th May 1882 a Knight Commander of the same Order. In the year 1882 the applicant was elected President of the Faculty of Arts of the Calcutta University, and was appointed to be a Member of the Education Commission and of the Jury Commission. On the 1st January 1880 the title of Maharaja Bahadur was conferred on the applicant as a personal distinction, and on the 1st January 1891 by Foreign Department Notification of that date the title of Maharaja which had been conferred upon him in the year 1877 as a personal distinction, was declared to be hereditary.

2. The applicant is desirous of effecting a settlement of the immoveable properties hereinafter mentioned of which he is in possession in his own right which are held by him in permanent heritable and transferable right and to which he is solely entitled and also of the moveable properties hereinafter mentioned of which he is in possession and to which he is absolutely entitled.

3. The reasons for such application are that the applicant is desirous of ensuring that the dignity of the hereditary title and the position of the Tagore family, of which the applicant is the head, shall be maintained by successive Maharajas and with such object that the properties referred to in the last preceding paragraph hereof shall be set apart from the estate of the applicant and brought into settlement to follow the devolution of the hereditary title to guard by the settlement of such properties against waste and extravagance in the future and the degrading and disastrous consequences thereof and to afford and secure to successive life tenants a certain and sufficient income to enable them to maintain or to assist them in maintaining the dignity and position aforesaid.

4. The said immoveable properties are particularly described in the several parts of the first schedule hereto. The properties mentioned and described in the first part of the first schedule hereto are situated in the several districts of Rangpur, Dinajpur, Bogra, Hooghly, Burdwan, Murshidabad, Birbhum, Midnapore, Nadia, Darbhanga, 24-Parganas, Jessore, Purnea, Muzaffarpur, Faridpur, Arrah and Bhagalpur. The immoveable properties mentioned and described in the second part of the said first schedule are situated within the local limits of the Corporation of Calcutta, and the immoveable properties mentioned and described in the third part of the said first schedule are situated within the local limits of the several Municipalities of Calcutta, Baranagore, Ariahdah, Madhupur (Sonthal Parganas) and Cossipore-Chitpur.

5. The description of the immoveable property fourthly mentioned in the first part of the said first schedule, namely, Mahal Mahamad Aurinpur in the district of Hooghly, represents the eight annas undivided share of the entirety of such Mahal, the other eight annas undivided share being held by the sons of the late Raja Pramatha Nath Roy of Dighapatia. The respective undivided shares are separate in management and the juma wasil of the share held by the applicant is entirely distinct from the juma wasil of the share held by the said Kumars of Dighapatia, the revenue payable to Government being definitely apportioned to the respective shares under separate accounts. The applicant being in fact solely entitled to the said eight annas share held by him and being in possession thereof and entitled thereto for a permanent, heritable and transferable right, interest and estate therein is desirous that such share should be included in the proposed settlement as a property to which he is solely entitled.

6. The moveable properties which the applicant is desirous of including in the settlement consist of jewellery, books and manuscripts mentioned or described in the second and third schedules hereto. Such moveable properties are in the possession of, and are the absolute property of, the applicant, who proposes to include them in the settlement in order that they may be treated as heirlooms.

7. The income yielded annually by the several immoveable properties situate in the several districts mentioned and described in the first part of the first schedule and the revenue rates and taxes payable to the Government annually in respect thereof are shown in that part of such schedule.

8. The income yielded annually by the several immoveable properties mentioned and described in the second part of the first schedule hereto and the rates and taxes payable to the Local Authority therein mentioned in respect thereof are shown in that part of such schedule.

9. The immoveable properties mentioned and described in the third part of the first schedule hereto are residential buildings and country houses in the possession or occupation of the applicant or of members of his family and as such they yield no annual or other income.

10. There are no incumbrances held by secured or unsecured creditors enforceable against the applicant of the aforesaid immoveable and moveable properties, and beyond ordinary claims of tradesmen and others in respect of current household and other expenses the applicant is not at present indebted to any person whomsoever.

11. A draft of the proposed instrument of settlement is submitted with this application.

The applicant therefore applies for permission to make a settlement of the lands, hereditaments, and premises, jewellery and other moveable property mentioned and described in the foregoing application and the schedules thereto pursuant to the Bengal Settled Estates Act, 1904.

JOTINDRA MOHAN TAGORE.

I, Maharaja Bahadur Sir Jotindra Mohan Tagore, K.C.S.I., the applicant abovenamed, do declare that what is contained in the above-written application is true to my knowledge, except as to matters stated on information and belief, and that as to those matters I believe the same to be true.

JOTINDRA MOHAN TAGORE.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

The Indian Petroleum Act, 1899.

Section 6.—No quantity of dangerous petroleum equal to, or less than, forty gallons shall be kept or transported without a license.

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply in any case where the quantity of the petroleum kept by any one person or on the same premises, or transported, does not exceed three gallons, and the petroleum is placed in separate glass, stoneware or metal vessels, each of which contains not more than a pint and is securely stoppered.

Section 11.—No quantity of petroleum exceeding five hundred gallons shall be kept by any one person or on the same premises, or shall be transported, except under, and in accordance with the conditions of, a license granted under this Act.

The 6th April 1906.

No. 36 Marine.—Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 9 of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899, and in supersession of the rules sanctioned under this Government Notification No. 111 Marine, dated the 1st September 1903, which was published at page 1159-1165, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 2nd September 1903, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to make the following rules for regulating the grant of licenses to possess and transport petroleum in the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

W. A. INGLIS,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Preliminary.

1. The following rules shall extend to all the territories for the time being administered by the Lieutenant-Governor.
2. In these rules, including the forms annexed thereto,—
 - (i) “the town of Calcutta” means all places within the local limits of the Original Civil Jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal;
 - (ii) “the Municipality of Calcutta” means the municipal limits of Calcutta as defined in the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1899;
 - (iii) the expression “Suburbs of Calcutta” means the local area for the time being excluded from the general police district of Bengal by notification under section 1 of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866; and
 - (iv) “petroleum in bulk” means petroleum in quantities of five hundred gallons or upwards contained in any one receptacle.

Possession of Petroleum.

3. Licenses for the possession of petroleum (other than dangerous petroleum) within the town and Suburbs of Calcutta shall be granted only when—(1) the quantity of petroleum to be kept in one place does not exceed 50,000 gallons, and (2) the place intended to be used for the keeping of the petroleum fulfils the following conditions, namely: (a) if the quantity of petroleum to be kept in the place does not exceed 5,000 gallons, the building itself shall be constructed of masonry with a terraced or iron roof, and the doorways and other openings of the building shall be built up to such a height above the level of the road or street, or the floor shall be sunk to such a depth below the level of the road or street, as will prevent the petroleum from flowing out of the place in case of fire; (b) if the quantity of petroleum to be kept in the place exceeds 5,000 gallons, the building itself shall be constructed of masonry with a terraced or iron roof, and the doorways and other openings of the building shall be built up to such a height above the level of the road or street, or the floor shall be sunk to such a depth below the level of the road or street, as will prevent the petroleum from flowing out of the place in case of fire, and there shall be a clear open space of at least twenty feet round the building.

Provided that, if the place in which the petroleum is to be kept is situated within one hundred yards of the river Hooghly or Tolly's Nala or the Circular Canal, the building shall further be surrounded by a wall or earthen embankment not less than four feet high, so placed as to provide an enclosure of sufficient capacity to hold all the petroleum stored.

4. Licences for the possession of petroleum (other than dangerous petroleum) in places outside the town and suburbs of Calcutta shall, if the quantity of petroleum to be kept in the place does not exceed 50,000 gallons, be granted on the same terms as those granted in the town and suburbs of Calcutta for the possession in one place of not more than 5,000 gallons. If a license for the possession in one place of a larger quantity than 50,000 gallons be required, the license shall be granted on the same conditions as those granted in the town and suburbs of Calcutta for the possession in one place of petroleum exceeding in quantity 5,000 gallons.

5. Licences for the possession of dangerous petroleum shall be granted only on the following conditions:—

- (a) The petroleum must be stored in gas-tight tinned or galvanized sheet iron, steel or lead-plate drums or receptacles, each containing not more than 10 gallons and fitted with well-made filling holes and well-fitting screw-plugs or fitted with screw-cap with metal air-tight under-cap. Such drums or receptacles must be packed in strong wooden cases, the thickness of the wood being not less than half an inch. Provided that wooden cases shall not be necessary when the drums or receptacles are made of tinned or galvanized sheet iron, or steel, and have the following thickness of metal:—
- | | |
|--|-----------------|
| | Not less than |
| (1) when the capacity does not exceed 2 gallons | ... 25 B. W. G. |
| (2) when the capacity exceeds 2 gallons, but does not exceed 4 gallons | ... 22 B. W. G. |
| (3) when the capacity exceeds 4 gallons | ... 16 B. W. G. |
- (b) An air space of at least one-tenth of its capacity must be left in each drum or receptacle at the time of filling.
- (c) The drums or receptacles must be so substantially constructed and secured as not to be liable, except under circumstances of gross negligence or extraordinary accident, to be broken or become defective, leaky or insecure.
- (d) Before any vessel which contains or has contained dangerous petroleum is repaired by the licensee, or is sent by him to be repaired, the vessel shall, as far as practicable, be cleared of all dangerous petroleum and of all dangerous vapours arising from the same.
- (e) The building in which the petroleum is to be stored must be constructed of masonry or other unflammable material, with terraced, tiled or iron roof and a tiled, paved or earthen floor.
- (f) Either (1) the doorways and other openings of such building must be built up to such a height above the level of the road or street, or the floor thereof must be sunk to such a depth below the level of the road or street, that the petroleum stored in it cannot flow out of the building in case of its escape from the receptacles in which it is contained, or (2) the building must be surrounded with a masonry wall or embankment sufficiently high to contain all the petroleum in the building in case of its escape therefrom: Provided that combination of methods (1) and (2) may be adopted.
- (g) All ventilating openings in such building must be protected by strong wire gauze.
- (h) No smoking shall be permitted inside any installation.
- (i) All due precautions must be taken for preventing—(1) accidents by fire or explosion, and (2) access by unauthorised persons to any dangerous petroleum or to any vessels containing or having actually contained the same.
- (j) Every person managing, or employed on, or in connection with, the building in which the petroleum is stored shall abstain from any act whatever which tends to cause fire or explosion and the doing of which is not reasonably necessary, and shall prevent any other person from doing any such act.
- (k) The said building shall be liable to inspection by an officer authorised in this behalf.
- (l) The drum or other receptacle containing dangerous petroleum shall only be opened on the licensed premises, at or immediately adjoining the place of storage, and for the time necessary for drawing off the petroleum, and during such drawing off, every reasonable precaution shall be adopted for preventing the escape of dangerous petroleum or the vapour therefrom.
- (m) No light, except a light of such strength, position and character as is not liable to ignite any inflammable vapour, and no fire of any description, shall be permitted at any time within the installation.

(n) The following distances must be kept clear round the building in which the petroleum is stored, namely:—

| Quantity to be stored. | | | | Distances to be kept clear when dangerous petroleum is stored in drums of capacity not exceeding 4 gallons. | Distances to be kept clear when dangerous petroleum is stored in drums of capacity exceeding 4 gallons, but not exceeding 10 gallons. |
|------------------------|--------------------------|----------|--------|---|---|
| Gallons. | | Gallons. | | Feet. | Feet. |
| Not exceeding | 1,000 | ... | ... | 25 | 30 |
| Exceeding | 1,000, but not exceeding | 5,000 | ... | 40 | 50 |
| " | 5,000 | " | 10,000 | 60 | 70 |
| " | 10,000 | " | 15,000 | 90 | 100 |
| " | 15,000 | " | 20,000 | 130 | 150 |
| " | 20,000 | " | 30,000 | 180 | 200 |
| " | 30,000 | ... | ... | 200 | 200 |

(o) When the quantity of dangerous petroleum to be possessed does not exceed 60 gallons, the following conditions shall be imposed instead of those mentioned in clauses (e), (f) and (n), namely:—

(i) The store-house or building in which the petroleum is stored must be well ventilated, and must be constructed of uninflammable material, except that the doors and windows may be of wood.

(ii) When such store-house forms part of, or is attached to, another building, and the intervening floor or partition is of an unsustantial or inflammable character or has openings therein, the whole of such building shall be deemed to be the store-house, and no portion of such store-house shall be used as a dwelling-house or as a place where persons assemble; and the store-house must have an entrance from the open air distinct from any dwelling-house or any place in which persons assemble.

6. (1) Notwithstanding anything in rules 3 and 4, and subject to the conditions prescribed in this rule, and to such further conditions as may be prescribed by the Local Government in each case, a license may be granted for the possession of any stated quantity of petroleum (other than dangerous petroleum) in a place specially prepared for the storage of petroleum in bulk in accordance with plans and specifications approved by the Local Government. The capacity in gallons shall be conspicuously marked on every storage-tank or other receptacle in such place.

(2) Every tank or other receptacle for the storage of petroleum in bulk in such a place as is referred to in sub-rule (1) shall be protected by an efficient lightning-conductor:

Provided that a tank or receptacle which is not of sufficient capacity to contain 10,000 gallons of petroleum need not be so protected if it is so situated as not to be liable to cause danger in the event of the petroleum being ignited, i.e., if it is not in close proximity to any other such tank or to any building, and if it is surrounded by a wall or moat, or combination of both, sufficient to prevent the flow of petroleum beyond certain circumscribed limits in the event of the escape of the whole contents of the tank when full.

(3) Not less than once in every year the holder of a license granted under sub-rule (1) for the place in which there is, under sub-rule (2), required to be a lightning-conductor, shall test or cause to be tested the efficiency of the lightning-conductor in such manner as the authority granting the license may, by general or special order, declare to be sufficient.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-rule (3), an officer appointed in writing by the Local Government in this behalf may enter any place in which there is, under sub-rule (2), required to be a lightning-conductor, for the purpose of testing the efficiency of the lightning-conductor at any time after sunrise and before sunset.

7. The Chief Inspector of Explosives, the Inspector of Explosives, the District Magistrate, or any Deputy Magistrate or Sub-Deputy Magistrate or in the town and suburbs of Calcutta, the Commissioner of Police, or any Police Officer of, or above the rank of officer in charge of a police-station, may enter any place in respect of which a license for the possession of petroleum has been granted, for the purpose of inspecting the same at any time after sunrise and before sunset:

Provided that a Police Officer below the rank of Inspector shall previously obtain the order of the District Magistrate or Commissioner of Police, or Deputy Commissioner of Police, or District Superintendent of Police, in writing for such duty.

8. The officer authorised by the preceding rule to enter on such premises may require a sample to be delivered to him from any tank or other receptacle containing petroleum stored in any licensed premises. The procedure prescribed in sections 12 and 13 of the Act shall apply to any demand for samples made under this rule, and to the testing of such samples.

9. The following fees shall be charged for licenses for the possession of petroleum in places situated within the Municipality and Suburbs of Calcutta :—

Licenses for the possession of dangerous petroleum :—

| | Rs. |
|--|--|
| For quantities not exceeding 40 gallons (section 6) | 3 |
| For quantities exceeding 40 gallons (section 5), but not exceeding 500 gallons ... | 8 |
| For quantities exceeding 500, but not exceeding 1,000 gallons' ... | 12 |
| For quantities exceeding 1,000 gallons, but not exceeding 5,000 gallons ... | 12 plus Rs. 2 extra for 1,000 gallons or part thereof in excess of 1,000 gallons. |
| For quantities exceeding 5,000 gallons and upwards to 50,000 gallons ... | 20 plus Rs. 4 for every 1,000 gallons or portion thereof in excess of 5,000 gallons. |
| For quantities exceeding 50,000 gallons ... | 250 |

Licenses for the possession of other petroleum :—

|--|---|
| For quantities exceeding 500, but not exceeding 1,000 gallons ... | 12 |
| For quantities exceeding 1,000 gallons, but not exceeding 5,000 gallons ... | 12 plus Rs. 2 for each 1,000 gallons or part of 1,000 gallons in excess of 1,000 gallons. |
| For quantities exceeding 5,000 gallons, but not exceeding 50,000 gallons ... | 20 plus Rs. 4 for each 1,000 gallons or part of 1,000 gallons in excess of 5,000 gallons. |
| For quantities exceeding 50,000 gallons ... | 250 |

10. The fees for licenses for the possession of petroleum in places situated beyond the limits of the Municipality and Suburbs of Calcutta shall be half those prescribed in rule 9:

Provided that no fee shall be charged under these rules for a license to possess petroleum within municipal limits other than Calcutta.

11. Every license for the possession of petroleum in any place shall specify the maximum quantity of petroleum which may be stored in that place.

12. Licenses for the possession of petroleum shall be in force until the 31st of December next following the date of issue of the license :

Provided that the Licensing Officer or the Local Government may, at any time, for good and sufficient reason, cancel a license.

13. Any premises belonging to the Commissioners of the Port of Calcutta and appertaining to the Budge-Budge Petroleum Depot, and any premises used by the Commissioners for the temporary storage of petroleum brought into the Port of Calcutta, shall be deemed to be places in respect to which licenses for the possession of petroleum have been granted under these rules.

14. Any tank or other receptacle for the storage of petroleum in bulk that may be erected on the land belonging to the Commissioners of the Port of Calcutta, and appertaining to the Budge-Budge Petroleum Depot, shall be deemed to be a place in respect of which a license for the possession of petroleum has been granted under rule 6.

Transport of Petroleum.

15. Receptacles for the transport of dangerous petroleum shall be of the same description as is required, under rule 5, for the possession of dangerous petroleum.

16. (1) Licenses for the transport of petroleum (other than dangerous petroleum) in quantities exceeding 500 gallons and licenses for the transport of dangerous petroleum in quantities exceeding three gallons, may be either general or special. The transport of dangerous petroleum in bulk is absolutely prohibited.

(2) Licenses for the transport of petroleum, other than in bulk, shall only be granted if the petroleum to be transported is packed in air-tight tins or other vessels not easily broken or is contained in bottles securely stoppered and carefully packed so as to avoid risk of breakage or in air-tight tank carts of a pattern approved by an officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf.

(3) Licenses for the transport of petroleum, in bulk (other than dangerous petroleum) by railway may be granted if the petroleum is contained in wagons approved by the railway administration over whose line it is proposed to transport it.

(4) (a) Licenses for the transport of petroleum in bulk (other than dangerous petroleum) by steamer or barge may be granted if the vessel is certified to be fit for the service by an officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf. This certificate will remain in force for one year.

(b) The vessel, if a steamer, must possess a certificate of survey granted under the provisions of the Inland Steam-vessels Act, 1884.

(c) The vessel, if a barge, should be towed by a steamer.

(d) Vessels carrying petroleum in bulk shall not be allowed to carry other inflammable cargo at the same time, such as jute, cotton, straw, etc., nor passengers; and such vessels shall not be allowed to load any cargo or carry passengers after having discharged the petroleum, until the oil compartments have been thoroughly cleaned.

(e) No naked lights shall be allowed on board any vessel carrying petroleum in bulk.

17. General licenses for a period of twelve months shall be issued for transport by rail by road or by water. Such licenses shall authorise the holders to transport any petroleum being their own property without restriction as to destination or quantity.

18. (1) The holder of a general license granted under rule 17 shall, with each consignment of petroleum conveyed under cover of this license, issue a pass in Form G appended to these rules, specifying the places from and to which the petroleum is to be conveyed, the route by which it is to be taken and the quantity of petroleum covered by the pass.

(2) Each such pass shall be numbered.

(3) When petroleum is being carried under any such pass by rail, it shall be subject to all the regulations which may from time to time be prescribed generally or specially in that behalf by the Railway Administration of the line over which it is being carried.

(4) When petroleum is being so carried by carts—

(a) the number of the general license under which the pass was issued shall be legibly marked on a conspicuous part of the last case on each cart, and

(b) the person or persons in charge of the cart or carts shall not permit them to be moved after sunset or before sunrise, or to carry any light, and shall not permit any smoking therein.

(5) When petroleum is being so carried by steamer, it shall be stowed in such part of the steamer, and in such manner as may be approved by the licensing authority or any officer appointed by it in writing in this behalf.

(6) When petroleum is being so carried by boat—

(i) no person shall smoke or kindle or carry any fire or light in or into the boat, and

(ii) the person in charge of the boat shall, from sunrise to sunset, show at its stern a red flag, 18 inches long and 12 inches broad, bearing the word "Petroleum Boat" marked on it in black letters.

19. The Licensing Officer may, for special reasons to be reported to Government, refuse a license in any case. The reasons for refusing a license shall be communicated to the applicant, if a request to that effect is preferred by him.

20. Every special license for the transport of petroleum shall specify the places from and to which, respectively, the petroleum is to be conveyed, the route by which it is to be taken, the quantity of petroleum covered by the license, and the time for which the license is in force.

21. Petroleum transported to Calcutta or Howrah under a license, whether general or special, shall be conveyed by land and not by water between Garden House and Cossipore.

Provided that dangerous petroleum, in quantities not exceeding 300 gallons, may be conveyed by water between Garden House and Cossipore, on condition that it is covered by the necessary license, and is not unloaded from boats at the following ghauts—

On the Howrah side:—Bechali Ghauts, near the Howrah Jute Mills.

On the Calcutta side:—Juggernath Ghaut, Sahib Bazar Ghaut, Ruthtollah Ghaut, and Bagbazar Ghaut.

Explanation.—This rule shall not apply to the conveyance of petroleum which is brought under a license from beyond the limits of Calcutta or Howrah, and is not intended to be landed within those limits.

22. Applications for special licenses for the transport of petroleum by rail, by cart, by boat, or by steamer, or by two or more of these modes of conveyance, shall specify the description and quantity of petroleum to be transported, and the places from and to which, respectively, the petroleum is to be conveyed, and the route to be taken, and shall describe the receptacles in which it is to be contained, or, in the case of petroleum to be transported in bulk, shall state that the wagon or vessel in which it is to be carried has been approved or certified, as the case may be, as required by sub-rules (3) and (4) of rule 16. In the case of applications for licenses for the transport of dangerous petroleum under section 5 of the Act, the application shall also contain the particulars required by sub-section (2) of that section.

23. When a license has been granted under these rules for the transport of petroleum, the Chief Inspector of Explosives, the Inspector of Explosives, the District Magistrate, or any Deputy Magistrate or Sub-Deputy Magistrate, or, in the town and Suburbs of Calcutta, the Commissioner of Police, or any Police Officer of, or above, the rank of officer in charge of a police station may, at any time after sunrise and before sunset, and on or before the arrival of the petroleum at its place of destination, board any steamer or boat, or detain any cart, used for such transport, for the purpose of inspecting the license and seeing whether its provisions are being complied with.

Provided that a Police Officer below the rank of Inspector shall previously obtain the order of the District Magistrate, or Commissioner of Police, or Deputy Commissioner of Police, or District Superintendent of Police, in writing for such duty.

24. The following fees shall be charged for licenses for the transport of petroleum under the Act :—

| | Ra. |
|---|--|
| General license for the transport of petroleum for twelve months | 100 |
| Special license for the transport of dangerous petroleum :— | |
| For quantities exceeding 3 gallons, but not exceeding 40 gallons (section 6) .. | 2 |
| For quantities from 40 to 480 gallons ... | 2 for the first 40 gallons plus 8 annas for every additional 40 gallons or part thereof. |
| For quantities exceeding 480 gallons ... | 8 plus Ra. 2 for every additional 480 gallons or part thereof. |
| Special license for the transport of other petroleum :— | |
| For quantities exceeding 500, but not exceeding 5,000 gallons | 1 |
| For every additional 5,000 gallons or part of 5,000 gallons | 1 |

General.

25. Licenses for the possession or transport of dangerous petroleum in quantities exceeding 40 gallons will be granted, subject to the provisions of section 5 of the Act, under the signature of an Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, on the recommendation of the Commissioner of Police, if the application for the license is made in the town and Suburbs of Calcutta, or of the Commissioner of the Division, if the application is made elsewhere.

Application for such licenses should be made through the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, or the Commissioner of the Division, as the case may be.

26. Licenses for the possession or transport of dangerous petroleum in quantities not exceeding 40 gallons, and licenses for the possession or transport of other petroleum (except the possession of petroleum in bulk) will be granted in the town and Suburbs of Calcutta by the Commissioner of Police, or Deputy Commissioner of Police, at Budge-Budge, by the Superintendent of the Petroleum Wharf, and elsewhere by the District Magistrate, or by such other officer as the Local Government may, by order in writing, appoint in this behalf.

27. Licenses for the possession of petroleum in bulk will be granted, in the town and suburbs of Calcutta, by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police, and by the Commissioner of the Division elsewhere, subject to the previous approval, in each case, of the Chief Inspector of Explosives.

28. Licenses granted under these rules shall be in the forms and shall have endorsed on them the rules and conditions respectively prescribed for them in the schedule hereto annexed. Every such license shall, on the breach of any such condition, be liable to be forfeited.

29. Every application for the renewal of a license should be made in the same manner as an application for an original license. Every such application should be made at a date not less than fifteen days before the date on which the original license expires. The same fee shall be charged for the renewal of a license as for a new license.

(a) The route by which consigned and the manner of carriage to be filled in here.

The 6th April 1906.

No. 37 Marine.—In exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 9 of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), and in supersession of the rules sanctioned under Notification No. 93 Marine, dated the 19th September 1905, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to make the following rules for regulating the grant to owners of motor vehicles of licenses to possess and transport petrol for use in such motor vehicles.

1. In these rules—

- (a) "motor vehicle" includes all vehicles propelled by mechanical means on ordinary roads and motor boats and launches;
- (b) "petrol" includes "other dangerous petroleum" used for the propulsion of motor vehicles.

2. (1) Licenses may be granted to the owners of motor vehicles—

- (a) to possess petrol intended for use in motor vehicles;
- (b) to transport petrol on motor vehicles for use in propelling such motor vehicles;
- (c) to transport petrol by other means of conveyance by road, rail or water.

(2) Such licenses, if the amount of petroleum exceeds 40 gallons, will be granted under the signature of an Under-Secretary to Government; otherwise they may be granted, in the town and suburbs of Calcutta, by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police, and elsewhere by the District Magistrate or such other officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, by order in writing appoint.

(3) The licenses under rule 2 (1), clauses (a) and (b), shall be granted in the annexed Form H, and those under rule 2 (1), clause (c) in the annexed Form I.

3 The licenses under clauses (a) and (b) of rule 2 (1) shall be granted free of charge, and those under clause (c) of that rule for a fee of Rs. 5. The licenses shall remain in force for a period of one year, at the expiry of which they shall expire, but may be renewed.

4. Every license shall be subject to the following conditions, namely—

- (1) When not carried in a receptacle forming part of a motor vehicle the petrol shall not be kept, used or transported except in receptacles of the kind prescribed for the possession of dangerous petroleum in rule 5 of the rules regulating the grant of licenses to possess and transport petroleum.
- (2) Every such vessel, when used for transporting or keeping petrol, shall have attached thereto a metallic or enamelled label in conspicuous characters, stating the description of the petrol with the addition of the words "highly inflammable" legibly and indelibly stamped or marked thereon, and with the addition of the name and address of the owner.
- (3) Every such vessel shall have an air-space equal to one-tenth of its capacity to allow for expansion of the petrol.
- (4) No such vessel shall contain more than four gallons.
- (5) Before repairs are done to any such vessel, it shall, as far as practicable, be cleaned by the removal of all petrol and of all dangerous vapours derived from the same.
- (6) The store-house or building in which the petrol is stored shall be well ventilated and constructed of unflammable materials.
- (7) Where a store-house forms part of, or is attached to, another building, and the intervening floor or partition is of an unsubstantial or inflammable character, or has an opening therein, the whole of such building shall be deemed to be the store-house, and no portion of such store-house shall be used as a dwelling or as a place where persons assemble.
- A store-house shall have a separate entrance from the open air distinct from that of any dwelling or building in which persons assemble.
- (8) The amount of petrol which may be kept by the owner of a motor vehicle, whether or not upon motor vehicles, shall not exceed 60 gallons at any one time.
- (9) The amount of petrol which may be transported under a license granted under rule 2 (1), clause (c), shall not exceed 60 gallons.
- (10) The filling or replenishing of any vessel with petrol shall not be carried on, nor shall the contents of any such vessel be exposed, in the presence of fire or artificial light, except a light of such construction, position and character as not to be liable to ignite any inflammable vapour arising from the petrol, and no fire or artificial light capable of igniting inflammable vapour shall be brought within dangerous proximity of the place where any vessel containing petrol is being kept.

(11) In the case of all petrol kept or transported for the purpose of, or in connection with, any motor vehicle—

(a) all due precautions shall be taken for the prevention of accidents by fire or explosion, and for the prevention of unauthorised persons from having access to any petrol kept or transported, and to the vessels containing, or having actually contained, the same; and

(b) every person managing or employed on, or in connection with, any motor vehicle shall abstain from every act whatever which tends to cause fire or explosion, and which is not reasonably necessary, and shall prevent any other person from committing any such act.

(12) The store-house shall be liable to inspection by the Chief Inspector of Explosives, the Inspector of Explosives, the District Magistrate, or any Deputy Magistrate or Sub Deputy Magistrate, or, in the town and suburbs of Calcutta, the Commissioner of Police, or any Police officer of, or above, the rank of officer in charge of a police-station.

5. The general rules for the possession and transport of dangerous petroleum in force in the province of Bengal for the time being shall, except so far as they are inconsistent with the foregoing rules, apply to petrol kept or transported for use in motor vehicles.

SESSION 1906-1907.

CANDIDATES for admission to the Engineer Department should apply to the Principal in the prescribed form on or before the 15th May 1906. Each application must be accompanied by a registration fee of Re. 1, which will in no case be returned.

The session begins on Monday, the 4th June 1906.

Candidates must furnish proof that they have passed one of the following tests:—

- (1) The B. Sc. or B. A. examination in the B course in Physics and Chemistry of the Calcutta University. The candidate's age must be under 23 years.
- (2) The F. A. examination of the Calcutta and Madras Universities.
- (3) The Intermediate examination of Allahabad and Punjab Universities.
- (4) The Intermediate examination for the degree of B. A. of Bombay University.
- (5) The High School examination for Europeans and Eurasians.

The candidate's age in (2), (3), (4) and (5) must be under 21 years.

In selecting candidates who have passed the F. A. (all other things being equal), preference will be given to those who have passed in Sanitary Science in addition to the ordinary subjects of the F. A. examination.

The maximum number to be admitted is limited to 40. The position in the University examination and the age of the candidate will be taken into consideration when selection is made, and such selection will be made by the Principal.

The tuition fee for students to the Engineer class is Rs. 10 a month for each month of the year, vacation included.

One junior scholarship of Rs. 20 a month, one of Rs. 15 a month, and six of Rs. 10 a month, tenable for two years, will be given to students who have been admitted to the College who do not hold University Scholarships.

The selection will be made in the following order:—

- (a) B. Sc.'s.,
- (b) B. A.'s who have taken up the B course, and
- (c) F. A. candidates (except those who passed in the third division).

There will be in addition one scholarship of Rs. 20 a month and one of Rs. 10 a month for Europeans or Eurasians who have been admitted to the College, tenable for two years. Should there be no suitable candidates for these scholarships, they will be awarded to the general candidates. Every applicant, before admission to the College, will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour and eyesight.

Form of application for admission and any further particulars will be supplied upon application to the Principal.

SESSION 1906—1907.

CANDIDATES for admission to the Apprentice Department should apply to the Principal in the prescribed form on or before the 6th May 1906. Each application must be accompanied by a registration fee of Rs. 1, which will in no case be returned.

The session begins on Monday, the 4th June 1906. Candidates must furnish proof that they have passed one of the following tests:—

- (1) Standard VII or Middle School Examination of the Code of European Schools,
- (2) University Entrance Examination.

The candidate's age must be at least fifteen and not more than seventeen years.

There are twenty-eight vacancies for natives and twelve for Europeans and Eurasians. The selection of candidates for admission will be made by the Principal.

There will be four vacancies on the free list for Christian Apprentices in June next and eight on the reduced fee list. For natives there will be eight vacancies on the reduced fee list, available during the month of June. Election to those lists will be made by the Board of Visitors. Forms to be filled up for the consideration of the Board can be had on application to the Principal.

The tuition fee to students of the Apprentice Department is Rs. 3 monthly for each month of the year, vacation included, except for students on the Free and Reduced fee lists.

Every applicant before admission to the College will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour and eyesight.

Before an applicant is admitted to the College his parent or guardian must sign an agreement in the prescribed form.

All applications from Christian candidates for admission to the free or reduced free lists must reach the Principal not later than the 6th May, so as to enable the elections to be made by the Board of Visitors before the opening of the session.

The vacancies on the native list will be filled up after the opening of the session from those apprentices who have joined the College after admission. Forms of application for admission and further particulars will be supplied on application to the Principal.

CALCUTTA ;

The 23rd March 1906.

HARA PRASAD SHASTRI,

Principal, Sanskrit College, and Registrar, Sanskrit Examination.

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

NOTIFICATION.

The following Rules passed by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal are published for general information.

By order of the High Court,

R. L. Ross,

Offg. Registrar.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE AT FORT WILLIAM IN BENGAL.

(CIVIL APPELLATE JURISDICTION.)

It is ordered that the following Rules to take effect from the 15th June 1906, be substituted for Rule IX, 1 to 9, Part IV, Chapter XV, pages 86 to 99 of the Rules of the High Court, Calcutta, Appellate Side, published in Part I, pages 1623 to 1633 of the Calcutta Gazette of the 19th November 1902:—

Rules regarding applications for, and the preparation and issue of, copies on the Appellate Side of the High Court.

IX-1. When a copy of a judgment or decree or any other document is required, the party requiring the same shall file with the filing clerk in the appropriate department an application signed by his Vakil or Mukhtar or by his authorized agent or by himself, if acting in person—Such application should be made in Form A obtainable in loose sheets in the office at the cost of 1 pice or $\frac{1}{2}$ anna per sheet or 100 for a rupee.

2. The filing clerk shall number all such applications consecutively and enter them in a separate Register in Form B to be called "Filing Register of applications for copies," and shall submit the applications during the same day or not later than the following day to the Registrar or such other officer of the Court to whom he may have delegated the duty of dealing with applications for copies.

3. In the event of an application for a copy being refused an endorsement to that effect shall be made on the application form which shall then be returned to the applicant.

4. On orders being passed granting an application for a copy, the Superintendent of Copyists, or, in his absence, the Assistant Superintendent of Copyists shall at once, if possible, or during the same day, or not later than the following day, obtain the original required for the copy and ascertain the amount of Court-fee stamps payable for the same and the charges required for the preparation of the copy, and at the same time inform the applicant thereof. When such information cannot be given at once, the Superintendent of Copyists, or, in his absence, the Assistant Superintendent of Copyists shall inform the applicant of the reason thereof and when he may expect to obtain the information, and shall note on the back of the counterfoil of the application, "Told to attend on _____ for information which cannot be supplied now as _____." The counterfoil shall then be returned to the applicant, and it shall be his duty to attend at the time named.

5. The amount of Court-fee stamps and the charges required shall then be entered by the Superintendent of Copyists, or, in his absence, by the Assistant Superintendent of Copyists in the middle portion of the form of application, and the applicant, on his appearing, shall be required to put his signature thereto as an acknowledgment of his having received the information.

6. The applicant shall further be informed that his application will not be considered complete and that the preparation of the copy will not be commenced until he has supplied in full the Court-fee stamps and the costs required for the purpose.

7. When the stamps and costs are put in, the date shall be entered by the Superintendent of Copyists, or in his absence, by the Assistant Superintendent of Copyists in the place provided in the form for the purpose. The applicant shall at the same time present the counterfoil of his application which has been returned to him and a Memorandum shall be made thereon by the Superintendent of Copyists or, in his absence, by the Assistant Superintendent of Copyists stating the date when the copy will be ready. A corresponding note shall be made by the Superintendent of Copyists, or, in his absence, by the Assistant Superintendent of Copyists, on the body or main portion of the form, which, together with the original document of which a copy is applied for, shall then be made over by the Superintendent of Copyists, or, in his absence, by the Assistant Superintendent of Copyists to one of the copyists for the preparation of the copy. The applicant shall retain the counterfoil and it shall be his duty to attend on the day fixed for the purpose of receiving the copy.

8. Under ordinary circumstances a copy shall be furnished not later than the 5th open day after the necessary Court-fee stamps and costs have been put in.

9. When an applicant requires his copies before the expiry of the five days, the ordinary time allowed by the preceding Rule 8 for furnishing a copy, an extra fee of two rupees (or, if the copies exceed 600 English words or 1,200 Vernacular words of 8 annas for every 150 English words or 300 Vernacular words or part thereof) shall be charged on all copies so furnished to be levied from him by Court-fee stamps, which should be affixed to the application for the copy and be entered in the Register for Court-fee stamps. Care, however, is to be taken that other applicants for copies do not materially suffer by the arrangement.

10. It shall be the duty of any assistant in whose custody the original document of which a copy is applied for may be to immediately deliver it to the Superintendent of Copyists on his requisition and on being shown the application for the copy. If for any reason, he is unable to do so, he should state such reason on the back of the application for the copy.

11. After the copy has been made, the Superintendent of Copyists shall forthwith return the original to the assistant from whom he obtained it.

12. All applications for copies shall be kept with the Superintendent of Copyists, filed in the order of admission in a separate series for each month and shall be destroyed at the end of a year.

13. The charge for all copies shall be Re. 1 for copying, and 8 annas for examining, 1,410 English words, and Re. 1 for copying, and 8 annas for examining, 2,000 words in any of the vernacular languages, the whole of which shall go towards paying the copyists and examiners who shall be employed for the purpose, in addition to the regular establishment.

14. In addition to the foregoing charges, three annas for every rupee of the copying and examining charges shall also be charged on account of the remuneration of the Superintendent of Copyists and Assistant Superintendent of Copyists, the former of whom shall be entitled to two-thirds of such additional charge and the latter to the remaining one-third. The Superintendent of Copyists shall keep an account of the sums received and paid for copying, distribute the work to the copyists, and be responsible that the copies are carefully made and supplied with due despatch as nearly as possible in the order in which they have been applied for: such a deposit shall be made for the copy required as the Superintendent shall consider necessary to cover all the expenses.

15. The Superintendent of Copyists shall keep a book in Form C to be called "Detailed Register of Applications for copies." Columns 5, 11 and 12 shall be daily added up. The sum of the totals of columns 5 and 11, less the total of column 12 will be the amount (equal to the sum of the totals of columns 8 and 9) actually to credit.

16. A Cash Book shall also be kept by the Superintendent of Copyists in Form D. The Cash Book shall be daily balanced and signed by the Deputy Registrar.

17. The Superintendent of Copyists shall receive all sums deposited or paid for copies, and give receipts for the same, and shall at the close of each day make over the day's receipts to the Cashier of the Court for deposit in the Bank of Bengal to the credit of Government.

18. The Superintendent of Copyists shall, at the close of the month, draw up a bill showing the amount due to him and the Assistant Superintendent of copyists from the charge of three annas in the rupee, prescribed by Rule 14, and the earnings of each of the copyists. Such bill, after being duly signed by the Registrar, shall be presented to the Accountant-General, Bengal, for payment from the allotment made in the Court's Budget grant for "Party copying works," the amount thereof being recouped from the copying fees realised from parties and credited to Government under Rule 17.

19. Only those persons shall be allowed to make copies who have been approved by the Registrar and whose names have been entered in a list kept for that purpose. Any attempt to supply copies otherwise than in the mode directed by these rules will subject them to instant dismissal.

20.* The Copyists will, alternately in turn, examine each other's copies, and receive the remuneration allowed for examining. Parties will supply their own paper.

21. All regular employes in the office are prohibited from making any such copies, certified or uncertified, and from receiving any emuneration in respect thereof.

* NOTE.—This rule applies to unauthenticated copies; but as regards authenticated copies, the clerks and assistants in the office may, with the sanction of the Registrar, examine all such copies.

S. M. NASIRUDDIN, Off Secretary.

BOARD OF REVENUE, L. P., CALCUTTA, the 26th March 1906.

No. 2021B.
NOTIFICATION.
CUSTOMS.

THE HON'BLE MR. F. A. SLACKER, I.C.S.

Dated Calcutta, the 26th March 1906.

IN supersession of the Notification No. 7511B., dated the 10th August 1904, and the rules published therewith in Part I, page 1194 of the Calcutta Gazette of the 17th August 1904, the following revised rules, framed under sections 9 and 72, clause b), of the Sea Customs Act, 1878 (VIII of 1878), for regulating the remuneration of Preventive Officers for overtime work on board ships, loading or unloading in the port of Calcutta, are published for general information, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor:—

- (i) For all work done by the Preventive Officers before sunrise or after sunset, an overtime fee at the rate of Re. 1 per hour shall be levied from the merchants or ship-owners concerned. If, however, for the purpose of completing the discharge or intake of any particular lot of cargo, it is found necessary to work between sunset and sunrise for a period not exceeding 15 minutes, no fee shall be charged. Should the period of 15 minutes be exceeded, the full fee of one rupee shall be charged for any broken period of the hour.
 - (ii) If a merchant or ship-owner requires the services of Preventive Officers between 6 A.M. and 8 A.M., he shall present his request to that effect to a Preventive Inspector in sufficient time to enable such officer to arrange for the attendance of the necessary staff. Where officers, directed to attend on the request of a merchant or ship-owner at hours between 6 A.M. and 8 A.M., are subsequently found not to be required, overtime at the ordinary rate shall be paid by the merchant or ship-owner concerned for any such attendance, and such attendance shall not be counted as attendance for Government towards making up the total of 54 hours per week referred to in Rule (iii) below.
 - (iii) For every hour in excess of 9, on which an officer works between sunrise and sunset, Government shall pay him an overtime fee of one rupee, provided that no such fee shall be paid unless the officer has worked for a total of 54 hours in the week, or for a number of hours equal to nine times the number of days on which he has been at work during the week.
2. The new rules shall take effect from the 1st April 1906.

By order of the Board of Revenue, L. P.,

S. M. NASIRUDDIN,
Offg. Secretary.

No. 1782A.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA, MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depot; and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depot, Calcutta,

or

the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad.

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—MALACCA STRAIT—KARIMON ISLANDS.

Pulo Hiju Kechil—Intended light.

No. 120 (first publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 221 of 1906) that, in or about the month of May 1906, a white flashing light every twenty seconds, thus:—light, four seconds; eclipse, sixteen seconds, and elevated 131 feet above high water, visible in clear weather from a distance of 17 miles, will be established on Pulo Hiju Kechil, the easternmost of the Brothers islands.

The lighthouse will be a white iron framework structure, 44 feet in height, with the keeper's dwelling, a white building with red tiles, standing below it.

Further Notice will be given as necessary.

Approximate position, lat. $1^{\circ} 11\frac{1}{4}'$ N., long. $103^{\circ} 21\frac{1}{4}'$ E.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Malacca strait, No. 1555; cape Rachado to Singapore, No. 795; Singapore strait, No. 2405: Also, List of Lights, part V1, 1906, page 71; China Sea Directory, vol. I, 1896, page 113; and Supplement, 1899, page 12.

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—FLORES, NORTH COAST.

Telok Baleh.—Rock in approach.

*No. 121 (first publication).—*The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 222 of 1906) of the existence of a reef, with a depth of 2 fathoms over it, situated in the approach to Telok Baleh, in a position from which the south extreme of Gili Bodo island bears S. 69° E., distant 4½ miles, and the south point of Seraya Besar island S. 53° W.

Approximate position, lat. 8° 19½' S., long. 119° 56½' E.

(Variation 1° Easterly in 1906.)

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart :—Eastern archipelago, western position, No. 941b; Lombok to Flores, No. 1696 : Also, Eastern Archipelago, part II, 1904, page

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—BORNEO, NORTH-WEST COAST.

Natuna islands—Shoals.

*No. 122 (first publication).—*The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 224 of 1906) of the existence of a reef, with a depth of 6 fathoms over it, situated to the north-eastward of Sirhassen island, South Natuna islands, in a position from which the north point of Ganting island bears S. 79° W., distant 1½ miles.

Approximate position, lat. 2° 33' N., long. 109° 10½' E.

Also, that many reefs and shoals have been found to exist in the channels between the west coast of Great Natuna island and the islands Sedanau, Salaor, and Batu Bilis.

The navigation of these passages is therefore dangerous and should not be attempted.

Approximate position, Salaor island, lat. 3° 53½' N, long. 107° 53½' E.

(Variation 2° Easterly in 1906.)

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts :—South Natuna islands, No. 2104 ; Natuna islands, No. 1348 : Also, China Sea Directory, vol. II, 1899, pages 82, 86.

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—SUMATRA, EAST COAST—PADANG STRAIT.

Bengkalis approach—Light-buoy established.

*No. 123 (first publication).—*With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 467, dated 30th November 1905, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 225 of 1906) that a light-buoy, painted white, and exhibiting a white occulting light every twenty seconds (light, ten seconds; eclipse, ten seconds), has been established in the fairway to Bengkalis, in approximately lat. 1° 13½' N., long. 102° 30½' E.

This buoy should be passed on its south-west side.

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—CELEBES, NORTH POINT.

Tagulanda and Ruang islands—Decreased depth on the shoal between.

*No. 124 (first publication).—*With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 20, dated 12th January 1906, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 229 of 1906), that an examination of the reef, existing nearly midway between Pehoe point Tagulanda island and the reef extending from Batu Waleby point, Ruang island, shows that there is a least depth of 6 feet over it, and not 2 fathoms as formerly supposed.

Approximate position on chart No. 2193, lat. 2° 19' N., long. 125° 22' E.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart :—Plan of the channel between Tagulanda and Ruang on chart No. 2193 : Also, Eastern Archipelago, part I, 1902, page 414.

BAY OF BENGAL—BURMA COAST.

Rangoon river approach—A shoal patch reported.

No. 112 (second publication).—The following notice to mariners (No. 27 of 1906), issued by the Bombay Government, is republished :—

From a recent survey by the Deputy Conservator of the Port of Rangoon, it would appear that there is a shoal with 3 to 6 feet of water about 8 cables in extent N. N. E. and S. S. W. and $2\frac{1}{2}$ cables broad, the northern end of which bears from Centre Eastern buoy S. 73° E., distant 4 cables and the southern end S. 3° E., distant 9 cables.

All bearings are true.

This notice affects the following Admiralty Chart :—Rangoon River and Approaches, No. 833 ; also Bay of Bengal Pilot, 3rd edition, 1901, page 351.

AFRICA, NORTH-EAST—RED SEA.

Shoal patch reported.

No. 113 (second publication).—The Bombay Government has given notice (No. 28 of 1906) that the Master of S.S. Coromandel states that his vessel drawing 20' 8" touched on a shoal patch which lies in a position from which Shermo Reef Beacon bears approximately N. 52° E. (T.), distant 3 miles.

Approximate position :—Latitude $24^{\circ} 3'$ N., longitude $37^{\circ} 53'$ E.

This notice affects the following Admiralty Chart :—Red Sea Sheet II, No. 8 b ; and Red Sea and Gulf of Aden Pilot, 5th edition, 1900, page 260.

AUSTRALIA, SOUTH—SPENCER GULF.

Preliminary Notices.

No. 114 (second publication).—The President of the Marine Board, Port Adelaide, calls the attention of Masters of vessels, pilots, and others to the undermentioned preliminary notices, which will be followed at an early date by notices giving more definite information :—

Middle Bank Lightship.

This vessel will be removed on or about the 1st March next for repairs and overhaul, during which period the light will be exhibited from a three-masted vessel painted black. The light will be shown from the foremast in a position under the forestay. During daylight a diamond-shaped object painted red will appear on her fore topmast stay.

Shoalwater Point Obelisk.

It is proposed to place a white ball on the top of this obelisk during the next few days.

Port Victoria—Rocky island channel.

In the course of a few days this channel will be marked by two Cheese Buoys.

Ward Spit.

On or about the 2nd March 1906, a black beacon will be erected on Ward Spit, in lieu of the black buoy now there and the beacon which disappeared some time ago.

Tumby bay.

The north end of Tumby Reef has been marked by a Black Can Buoy surmounted by a square-shaped Cage Head. The buoy is moored in three and-a-half fathoms.

Jarrold Point.

It is intended to at once replace the Bell Buoy on this point, and remove the Red Buoy which has been there temporarily.

This notice affects Admiralty Chart No. 2389b.

COCHIN CHINA—SAIGON RIVER.

Saigon—Wreck in approach.

No. 115 (second publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 204 of 1906) that the wreck of the S.S. Carlisle, with a mast, funnel, and part of the fore-castle above water, lies sunk across the Saigon, or Don nai river, near the entrance to the tributary On Gnai (Ong Mai), the bow, which is nearest the centre of the channel, being situated at a distance of $15\frac{1}{2}$ cables S. 48° E. from the green fixed light near the mouth of the tributary Gioi or Doi.

Approximate position, lat. $10^{\circ} 41\frac{1}{2}'$ N., long. $106^{\circ} 46\frac{1}{2}'$ E.

The semaphore of Nha Bé (Nga be), and the mouth of the tributary On Gnai are reported to be incorrectly shown on the chart.

(Variation 2° Easterly in 1906.)

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Saigon or Don nai river, Nos. 1269 and 1016: Also China Sea Directory, vol. II, 1899, page 384.

INDIAN OCEAN—MADAGASCAR—DIEGO SAUREZ BAY.

Cape Minè (Andranomodi) light—Intended alteration in.

No. 116 (second publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 206 of 1906) that it is intended to alter the character of cape Minè or Andranomodi light, Diego Suarez bay, from flashing to a white group flashing light, showing groups of three flashes every fifteen seconds. The new light may be exhibited for experiment, but further notice will be given when it is permanently established.

Approximate position, lat. $12^{\circ} 13\frac{1}{2}'$ S., long. $49^{\circ} 22\frac{1}{2}'$ E.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Delagoa bay to cape Guardafui, No. 597; Chagos Archipelago to Madagascar, No. 2899; Comoro islands, No. 2762; cape St. Andrew to Antongil bay, No. 758; Diego Saurez to Andranomodi bay, No. 1002; Diego Suarez bay, No. 1116; plan of Oronjia pass on chart No. 1064: Also List of lights, Part VI, 1906, No. 100; and Islands in the Southern Indian Ocean, 1904, page 61.

PACIFIC OCEAN, SOUTH—TUAMOTO ARCHIPELAGO—FAKARAVA ISLAND.

Rotoava—Light established.

No. 117 (second publication).—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 302, dated 11th October 1901, issued by this Office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 207 of 1906) that a white fixed light, elevated 29 feet above high water, and visible in clear weather from a distance of 10 miles from the bearing of S. 53° E., through east, to N. 8° W., has been established on an iron support erected near the root of the pier at Rotoava.

Approximate position, lat. $16^{\circ} 2\frac{1}{2}'$ S., long. $145^{\circ} 38\frac{1}{2}'$ W.

It is presumed that this light replaces the former red fixed light given in the above-mentioned notice.

(Variation 8° Easterly in 1906.)

JAPAN—KIUSIU, WEST COAST—HIRADO NO SETO APPROACH.

Fuku se—Buoy established.

No. 118 (second publication).—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 21, dated 12th January 1906, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 212 of 1906, that a conical buoy, painted in red and black horizontal bands, and surmounted by a ball, has been moored in a depth of 7 fathoms, at a distance of three-quarters of a cable to the northward of the site of the former light beacon on Fuku se.

Approximate position, lat. $33^{\circ} 4\frac{1}{2}'$ N., long. $129^{\circ} 26\frac{1}{2}'$ E.

This notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Korean Archipelago, No. 104; western coasts of Kiu siu and Nipon, No. 358; Matsushima to Aomori no O sima, No. 140; Nagasaki to Karatsu, No. 359; Also Sailing Directions for Japan, &c., 1904, page 561.

AFRICA, EAST COAST.

Pungue river entrance—Shoal to the eastward.

*No. 102 (third publication).—*The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 173 of 1906) that the Master of the S.S. Logician reports having obtained soundings of $4\frac{1}{2}$ and 5 fathoms to the eastward of the Pungue river entrance on the parallel of latitude $19^{\circ} 57' S$, extending from the meridian of $35^{\circ} 12'$ to that of $35^{\circ} 5' E$. longitude.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Delagoa bay to cape Gauru-f i, No. 597; Delagoa bay to river Zambesi, No. 648; Also, Africa Pilot, part III, 1906, page 224.

AFRICA, NORTH-EAST—RED SEA, WESTERN SHORE.

Shaub Shaks—Light established.

*No. 103 (third publication).—*With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 149, dated 7th May 1904, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 175 of 1906) that, on 15th February 1906, a white flashing light every five seconds, visible in clear weather from a distance of 18 miles, would be established in a metal tower, surmounting a tripod painted white with one black band, erected on a point known as Shaab Shaks.

Approximate position, lat. $14^{\circ} 38' 15'' N.$, long. $41^{\circ} 5' 40'' E$.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Red sea, Nos 2523, 8d and 8c; Jebel Tier to Perim island, No. 143. Also List of Lights, part V, 1906, No 1451; part VI No. 153; Red sea, &c., Pilot, 1900, page 197; and Supplement, 1904, page 29.

PACIFIC OCEAN, NORTH—CAROLINE ISLANDS.

Uluthi islands—Shoal reported.

*No. 104 (third publication).—*The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 181 of 1906) of the existence of a shoal, with a depth of $3\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms over it, in the channel between Thorolien and Pagueich islands, Uluthi.

Approximate position, lat. $10^{\circ} 2' N.$, long. $139^{\circ} 38' E$.

As no definite position is assigned to this shoal, " $3\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms reported" has been placed upon the plan of Uluthi on chart No. 772, instead of "Large passage apparently without dangers."

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart:—Plan of Uluthi on chart No. 772; Also, Pacific Ocean, vol. I, 1900, page 434; and Supplement, 1903, page 41.

CHINA—SHANTUNG, NORTH COAST.

Chifu time-ball—Standard time adopted.

*No. 105 (third publication).—*The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 182 of 1906) that, on 20th September 1905, the time-ball at Tower hill, Chifu, was dropped at 0, h. 0, m. 0s. Standard time of the 120th meridian of East longitude, or 0h. 5m. 34s. local mean time, corresponding to 16h. 0m. 0s. Greenwich mean time.

It is assumed from the above that Standard time has been adopted at Chifu.

Approximate position, lat. $37^{\circ} 32' 56'' N.$, long. $121^{\circ} 23' 30'' E$.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—Chin tau Shan to Chifu bluff with plan of Chifu or Yentai harbour, No. 1960; Also, List of Time Signals, 1904, No. 175 and China Sea Directory, vol. III, 1904, pages 41, 568.

REPORT OF THE BRUCE INSTITUTION FOR THE YEAR 1905.

No. 1649.—The 10th April 1906.—The following is published for general information.

T. W. RICHARDSON,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

REPORT OF THE BRUCE INSTITUTION FOR THE YEAR 1905.

I.—Control.—During the year under review, the Ven'ble A. Saunders-Dyer was appointed to be a Governor, vice the Ven'ble A. Kitchin, resigned. The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sale, whose term of office had expired, was re-appointed to be a Governor.

The following is a list of the Governors at the close of the year:—

| | | | |
|---|-----|-----|----------------------|
| The Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal | ... | ... | } Ex-officio. |
| The Most Rev. the Lord Bishop of Calcutta | ... | ... | |
| The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal | ... | ... | |
| The Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality | ... | ... | |
| The Director of Public Instruction, Bengal (Honorary Secretary) | ... | ... | |
| The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sale. | | | |
| L. P. Pugh, Esq., (Barrister-at-law). | | | |
| The Ven'ble Archdeacon Saunders-Dyer. | | | |
| D. M. Hamilton, Esq. | | | |
| The Rev. Father A. Van de Mergel, s.j. | | | |
| The Rev. Titus Lowe. | | | |
| W. W. Hornell, Esq., (Inspector of European Schools). | | | |

II.—Capital and Income.—The capital of the Institution stood, as in the previous year, at Rs. 10,51,200, of which Rs. 10,46,200 is held by the Comptroller-General in the form of a $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. stock certificate of the year 1865, and the balance, Rs. 5,000, which is invested in $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. Government securities, is held by the Secretary and Treasurer, Bank of Bengal. The annual interest on the capital amounts to Rs. 36,792, which is placed to the credit of the Institution in the Bank of Bengal. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 18,546-1-3 and closed with a balance of Rs. 1,661-3-5. The small closing balance is due to the fact that the second half-yearly interest of Rs. 18,396, which is generally received in December, was not received till the beginning of the year 1906.

III.—Election, Vacancies, etc.—The annual election was held in the month of January, as usual. For the 25 vacancies advertised, 83 applications were received, but three more vacancies having occurred shortly afterwards, 28 girls were elected on the recommendation of a Sub-Committee consisting of the Ven'ble Archdeacon Saunders-Dyer, the Rev. Father A. Van de Mergel, s.j., the Rev. Titus Lowe and W. W. Hornell, Esq. One girl however did not join after being elected. Of the girls elected, twelve were placed in the Loreto Convent, Entally (eight in the Orphanage and four in the Boarding School), nine in the Calcutta Girls' High School, two in the Pratt Memorial School, three in La Martiniere, Calcutta, and one in the Calcutta Free School.

Of the girls who had been withdrawn, 14 had attained the age of 17 years, the limit ordinarily allowed under the rules. One girl, who was absent for nearly two years on the plea of ill-health, was removed from the Fund. The names of three other girls were also struck off from the Fund, for removal from school without the consent of the Governors, and no outfit allowance was granted them. Of the girls who had left, two are learning type-writing and one both shorthand and type-writing. Another girl is being trained for Kindergarten work, while two are employed as junior teachers. One girl, after passing the High School Examination, intends to undergo a commercial training at the Dow Hill Girls' School, Kurseong, and another has found employment at a Solicitor's office as a clerk. Two girls, after being withdrawn from the Bruce Fund, have been retained by the school authorities to help in needle-work and make themselves generally useful. They receive in return for their services board and lodging. One girl who had been ill for some time was sent by the school authorities to the hills for a change. There were two deaths during the year.

At the close of the year there were 131 girls on the Fund against 124 in the preceding year. They were distributed as follows:—

IV.—Education and Maintenance.—The nature of the education imparted to the girls on the foundation is generally that prescribed for primary and middle schools for Europeans. In exceptional cases a higher education is given. Parents and guardians are allowed to choose any school for the education of their children or wards, who may be elected, provided that such a school has first been approved by Government as suitable for the education and maintenance of Bruce foundationers. A sum of Rs. 21-8 a month, inclusive of all charges, is paid for the education and maintenance of each foundationer in a boarding school and Rs. 16 a month in an orphanage. A sum of Rs. 40 is also allowed for each foundationer for an outfit on joining a boarding school, and Rs. 25 for the same purpose on joining an orphanage. Under the rules, a girl is not ordinarily allowed to remain in school after she has attained the age of 17 years when an outfit grant of Rs. 50 is given to enable her to make a start in life. If, however, a girl elects to take up teaching as a profession, some extension of time is generally allowed, if the Governors consider her fit to take up higher studies. Two such extensions were granted during the year. Short extensions, not exceeding a few months, are also generally allowed to enable foundationers to appear at the examinations prescribed under the Code of Regulations for European Schools. One such extension was granted during the year. The end sought is to fit the girls for a respectable and useful station in life.

The average monthly cost for the education and maintenance of each girl on the Fund amounted to Rs. 18-12 against Rs. 18-9-5 in the preceding year.

The total amount paid under the different heads of expenditure was as under:—

V.—Inspection.—Mr. W. W. Hornell (Inspector of European Schools) was appointed Visiting-Governor for the first half and re-appointed for the second-half year. His report was satisfactory. Mr. Hornell states that he visited every school in Calcutta in which Bruce foundationers are being educated and saw each foundationer. He has every reason to believe that each Institution is doing its best for the foundationers confided to it, and he is glad to report that the majority of the foundationers were reported on very favourably. No case of serious misconduct or laziness was brought to his notice. Annual reports are also received from the school authorities in regard to the conduct, application, progress, health and attendance of the foundationers. These reports have generally been satisfactory.

VI.—Meetings.—Four meetings were held during the year, and among the various resolutions passed there was none of importance calling for special mention.

CALCUTTA;

A. PEDLER,
Honorary Secretary.

RESOLUTION ON THE SURVEY AND SETTLEMENT REPORTS FOR THE YEAR ENDING THE 30TH SEPTEMBER, 1905.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 10th April 1906.

RESOLUTION—No. 1907.

READ—

The Survey and Settlement Reports for the year ending the 30th September 1905, with the remarks of the Board of Revenue thereon.

THE Survey and Settlement Reports for the year ending the 30th September 1905 have been prepared generally in accordance with the orders of Government and are well within the prescribed maximum limit of pages; but there has been considerable delay in their submission, which, it is hoped, will not recur.

2. The present Reports deal with the province before the eastern districts had been transferred to the new province. Exclusive of the survey of the suburbs of Calcutta, which has been undertaken at the request of the Calcutta Corporation, and of certain minor operations, the work of the Survey and Settlement Departments extended over portions of fourteen districts lying in eight Divisions. With a few minor exceptions, which were unavoidable, the full programme has been worked up to and even exceeded. The traverse survey covered 6,326 square miles, as against 5,025 square miles in the year ending the 30th September 1904, while the areas cadastrally and topographically surveyed were 4,667 and 572 square miles respectively, as against 5,044.77 and 463 square miles, the corresponding figures for the previous year. The area for which a record-of-rights was completed during the year, under the control of the Director of Land Records, was 2,404 square miles, bringing up the total area thus dealt with in the Province to 37,635 square miles.

3. Both Reports furnish ample evidence of continued endeavours to secure efficient administration at a minimum of cost. The marginal table

Cost rate of traverse survey per square mile.

| District. | 1903-04. Rs. | 1904-05. Rs. |
|-----------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Bhagalpur | 35.8 | 31.7 |
| Purnea | 26.8 | 47.8 |
| Bakarganj | 57.1 | 43.4 |
| Faridpur | ... | 45.4 |
| Ranchi | 35.4 | 39.5 |

shows that there was a satisfactory reduction in the cost rate of traverse survey everywhere save in the district of Purnea. The exceptional rate in that district is due to the fact that only detached areas, comprising small villages, remained to complete the district; and the Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that notwithstanding the high cost rate of the year 1904-05, the traverse survey of the entire district of Purnea has been completed at the moderate rate of Rs. 30.2 per square mile. The district of Faridpur was taken in hand in the year under report, and it is noticeable that, even in the first year of the operations and with the well-known difficulties peculiar to Eastern Bengal, the cost rate has been as low as Rs. 45.4 per square mile. It is gratifying that in the district of Ranchi, where a low cost rate is specially desirable, the cost of cadastral survey and initial record-writing, owing to larger fields and the supply of free labour by the people, amounted to only Rs. 82.1 per square mile, as against Rs. 93.2 in the previous year. The cost rates* of this branch of the work in the districts of Bhagalpur, Bakarganj and Purnea were moderate, although owing to the smaller fields in the area dealt with they were a little higher than in the previous year. In the case of the Majnamutha, Jalamutha and other estates in the district of Midnapore the cost rate for the year works out to Rs. 311.4 per square mile. The incidence of cost of cadastral survey and initial record-writing on the total area of the estates in Midnapur, now completed, is however Rs. 150 per square mile. Having regard to the water-logged condition of the country, and the fact that the estates are not compactly situated but lie in no less than 21 Parganas, as well as the small average size of the revenue villages ($\cdot 34$ of a square mile) and of fields ($\cdot 37$ of an acre), and the high rates of wages of coolies, the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to find that it has been found possible to carry out the operations at such a moderate rate.

4. Experience having shown that the dual control of the Survey and Settlement Departments over cadastral survey and initial record-writing was no longer necessary in view of the experience gained by the Settlement Department, it was recommended, in consultation with the Surveyor-General, that these items of work in Eastern Bengal and Chota Nagpur should be transferred to the Settlement Department. These recommendations were accepted by the Supreme Government and have been given effect to from the beginning of the field season of 1905. The settlement staffs concerned were put through a special course of training in cadastral survey under the Survey Department at the recess camps at Ranchi and Tittaghur; and, as a further means of ensuring sufficient accuracy in the cadastral maps prepared under the supervision of the Settlement Department, an officer of the Survey Department has been attached to each settlement party as a professional advisor of the Settlement Officer.

5. Other administrative changes have been made, or were proposed during the year and are still under consideration. Among these may be mentioned the improvement of the system of draft publication of records. A Bill to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, including measures to give greater authority to the record-of-rights when such record has been duly prepared and published, has been referred to the Government of India for sanction to its introduction. The joint report of the Settlement Officer of Ranchi and the Commissioner of the Chota Nagpur Division, alluded to in paragraph 4 of the Government Resolution No. 1458L.R., dated the 13th March 1905, on the Survey and Settlement Reports for the year ending the 30th September 1904, has been received, and proposals for amending the Chota Nagpur Landlord and Tenant Procedure Act so as to remove the grievances of Mundaris are now under consideration.

6. In the Resolution quoted in the preceding paragraph the Lieutenant-Governor had occasion to notice the high proportion (16 per cent.) of non-occupancy holdings as shown by the records attested in the district of Ranchi during the year 1903-04. The present Report brings to light a similar state of affairs in the records attested during 1904-05, the proportion of non-occupancy holdings being 14·6 per cent. It is stated by the Director of Land Records and the Settlement Officer that the figures clearly show the necessity of further amending the law on this subject. The Lieutenant-Governor is not satisfied that sufficient materials have yet been collected for a definite decision on this important matter which, however, will be separately considered.

7. The settlement of rents in the Banki Government estate in the district of Cuttack resulted in an enhancement of 19·5 per cent. on the existing rental. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad that no objection has been filed against the rents settled and that they are being paid readily.

8. It is also satisfactory that the enhancement of rents in the zamindari estates in the Sonthal Parganas has been moderate on the whole notwithstanding the great increase in cultivation since the previous settlement.

9. The special attention of Government has been directed during the last few years to ensuring the use of settlement records in all branches of the administration. In paragraphs 4 and 10 of the Resolution on the Survey and Settlement Reports for the year ending the 30th September 1904, mention was made of the steps which were in contemplation, or had been taken, in this direction; and His Honour is much gratified to notice that they have already met with marked success in the district of Ranchi and elsewhere. The Director of Land Records reports that in Ranchi, where the preparation of a record-of-rights has been completed in respect of only a small portion of the district, the production of parchas (abbreviated khatians) is generally insisted on in criminal cases as well as in rent suits, and the settlement records are now freely consulted by the majority of the Courts and Executive officers; a perceptible effect on agrarian oppression such as illegal dispossession, fraudulent registration and unlawful enhancement of rents, has already been noticed. In other districts completely or partially surveyed the same improvement is reported, and records are freely consulted by the revenue and criminal courts and in the Registration offices in tracts where records-of-rights have been prepared. The proposal to depute a few munsifs annually to settlement duty, in order to enable them to acquire a practical knowledge of the settlement procedure and the validity which attaches to the record at its various stages, has been approved by the High Court and sanctioned by the Supreme Government. Six munsifs are now employed as Assistant Settlement Officers in the settlements of Bihar, and Ranchi.

10. The orders of the Secretary of State on the question of maintenance of the settlement records in Orissa and Bihar have now been received. It has been decided that in the temporarily-settled districts of Orissa, the records should be kept up continuously and a scheme for the purpose is being prepared. With regard to Bihar, however, the decision of the question has been postponed until Government is in a position to frame proposals based on the experience gained of the working of the system in Orissa. There appears to be still room for improvement in the record of mutations and the maintenance of rent-rolls in Government and Wards' Estates, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the Board of Revenue will take steps to render the existing system more effective.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor notices that efforts are being made to give effect to the rules laid down for the maintenance of boundary marks. He trusts that the maintenance of marks will be rendered more effective by the use of maps, now being prescribed under the instructions of the Board of Revenue, of a scale sufficiently large to show clearly the position of such marks.

12. Sir Andrew Fraser has much pleasure in acknowledging the services rendered by Major Crichton and by Messrs. Maddox, Beatson-Bell, McPherson, Lister and Coupland. It is very largely owing to the tact and good judgment shown by Major Crichton that the dual control of the Survey and Settlement Departments over cadastral survey and initial record-writing proved so successful in the past as has actually been the case. The Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments are also due to Messrs. Cumming, Jack and Allanson, and to the other officers named in the concluding chapters of the two Reports.

13. Extracts from the Reports are published for information.

ORDER—Ordered that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that a copy of it with copies of the two Reports be submitted to the Government of India.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. C. McALPIN,

Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Extracts from the Survey and Settlement Reports for the year Ending the 30th September 1905.

I.—SURVEY REPORT.

CHAPTER I.

GENERAL REMARKS.

3. The outturn of the year namely 6,326 square miles of traverse survey, 4,481 square miles of cadastral survey, 4,512 square miles of record-writing and 572 square miles of topographical survey is larger than that of last season.

The full programme of the year has been worked up to in every respect, in fact generally exceeded, except the programme in the Sundarbans of the 24-Parganas which had to be postponed until next season owing to late receipt of orders and difficulty in obtaining boats.

Changes during the year.

4. An important change in the organisation of the Bengal Surveys has been effected during the year under report. In previous seasons the Bengal Surveys consisted of one full party comprising one large traverse camp and two cadastral camps in Bihar and a number (gradually increasing year by year as the programme increased) of detachments, each about the strength of one of the Bihar Camps, in Chota Nagpur and Eastern Bengal. These detachments, augmented when necessary, have been formed into parties and the surveys of the past season have been carried out by 3 full parties, viz., No. 4 (Bihar,) No. 5 (Chota Nagpur) and No. 6 (Eastern Bengal) each under an Executive Officer. In addition to these, there are also under my control, the Bengal Drawing Office at Calcutta and the Calcutta Suburbs Survey detachment.

5. There have been several minor changes in procedure, but none of sufficient importance to warrant mention in this report except perhaps the supply to applicants of copies of maps reproduced by the vandyke process instead of the usual traces on vellum.

6. The Bengal Drawing Office has been moved from Free School Street to larger and more suitable quarters in the Lower Circular Road. This is reported on in detail in Part IV of the report.

7. On the 31st May a conference, presided over by the Hon'ble Member, at which the Chief Secretary was present, was held at Darjeeling to consider a joint note put up by the Director of Land Records and myself proposing that the control of cadastral surveys and record-writing be in future handed over by the Survey Department to the Settlement. It was agreed that as the Settlement Department had by now, owing to its 14 years constant close relationship with the Survey Department, become properly imbued with the importance of maintaining the detail survey at the same standard of accuracy as the professional parties and as a large trained Settlement Staff was now available, the maintenance of the present system of dual control was no longer necessary or advisable. As a consequence of a further conference, at which the Deputy Surveyor General was also present, it was decided that the Survey Department should continue to do all traverse work wherever required but only retain the cadastral survey and record-writing in Bihar. The Government of India have accorded their approval to these proposals taking effect from 1st October 1905. Although this will shortly lessen the pressure on the Survey Department it has of course materially added to its work during the year under report, as arrangements for handing over establishments, equipment and instrumenta, have had to be made and two training classes established at Ranohi and Titaghur.

Permanent marking of village trijunctions.

16. In accordance with the instructions contained in Appendix T of the Survey and Settlement Manual, the cadastral camps have moved stones from traverse trijunction points to the true village trijunction points and embedded cylinders at the former so as to retain their traverse value.

CHAPTER II.

DISTRICT MIDNAPORE.

Cadastral Survey.

18. The area dealt with is very scattered, being comprised in no less than 21 Parganas. The low lying and water logged nature of the country was also a source of trouble, as work could not be commenced until March and had to be rushed through as fast as possible in order to finish before the villages went under water again.

19. Out of the area khanapuried, 45 villages, comprising 63,963 fields were dealt with by the Settlement Officer direct but have been included in this report as the funds were provided by the Survey Department.

20. The survey was checked by 115 linear miles of re-survey which gives an incidence of 3·8 linear miles of test survey to each square mile of detail.

21. The entries against 40,193 plots were checked by the survey staff which gives an average of 16 per cent. This small average is due to the scattered programme and water-logged nature of the country.

22. The small average size of the villages and fields is noticeable. The Revenue Survey villages averaged only 0·34 of a square mile and the fields 0·37 of an acre. These factors will have to be considered in estimates for future work in the District as they tend to considerably raise the cost of both Traverse and Cadastral operations.

23. There were only 10 boundary disputes which were decided without delay by the Settlement Officer.

Out of the 1,958 disputes regarding entries in the records 1,677 were decided during the operations, the balance remaining over for the attestation stage.

24. The demarcation is reported to have been just as bad as last season. The inhabitants attempted obstruction at the commencement of the work, but the Settlement Officer, who was on the spot, stopped this and the work thereafter proceeded quite smoothly.

25. The health of the establishment was fairly good, the average daily outturns accomplished being 12 acres of survey or 56 numbers of record-writing, but these cannot be taken as fair averages for computing future estimates as progress was retarded by the presence of water and by the scattered nature of the work.

26. All the work of every description has been completed and the records despatched to the Settlement Officer.

PART II.—REPORTS ON SURVEYS AND RECORDS OF RIGHTS IN PRIVATE ESTATES.

MAJOR SETTLEMENT.

BHAGALPUR DISTRICT.

Traverse Survey.

27. The traverse camp of No. 4 Party under Mr. P. L. Causley was employed on the completion of the "diara" tract of the Kosi River lying to the North of last season's operations and also in the uplands of the Thanas in the Southern half of the District.

28. The total outturn of 1,380 square miles consists of 1,250 square miles traversed in fully detail for subsequent cadastral survey and 130 square miles for topographical survey on the 4 inch = one mile scale.

29. There are 26,424 theodolite stations in the whole area which have been marked by 3,882 stones, 20,892 cylinders and 1,650 pegs.

30. Four Great Trigonometrical Stations have been connected with and the angular work checked by the observation of 110 Azimuths. The mean variation of the magnetic needle is 10·36' East.

31. The demarcation in the uplands was good. In the "diara" tract demarcation was not required except for the Government Estates, where the demarcation was found to be so bad that a certain amount of extra traversing had to be undertaken.

32. The health of the establishment was on the whole good except in the "diara" where Malarial fever was very prevalent.

58. The programme, which has been fully carried out, comprised the traverse of 251 square miles of cultivation and 320 square miles of dense forest and jungle, including also the Haringhata River.

59. The usual procedure for marking of traverse stations had to be departed from in this area, as, owing to the soft nature of the soil, stones would have sunk and disappeared in a short time. Consequently the trijunction points have been marked by 145 galvanised iron cylinders and 20 trunks of trees, cut off at the right height. Salient points on the boundaries and intermediate stations have been marked with 11 galvanised iron cylinders, and 397 trunks of trees. At the remaining 5,671 stations, wooden pegs, 3 feet long and 4 inches in diameter have been driven into the ground.

60. In addition to these marks, at all stations in the forest and jungle area, cross sticks painted white, were affixed to an adjoining tree or else a white cross was painted on an adjoining tree. These marks helped very materially in the identification of stations at the topographical stage.

61. The mean of the azimuths observed in this tract gives a magnetic variation of 1°02' East.

62. The density of the forest and jungle debarred any attempt at systematic line clearing along the edges of the tidal creeks or "khals" and a system of zig-zag traversing, i.e., placing successive stations on opposite banks of the "khals" and measuring the distances across the water by means of sub-tense bar observations was adopted. This system proved a complete success and the traverse work is very good.

63. There have been very great difficulties to contend with in this survey. The establishment had to live and sleep in country boats and carry fresh water and food supplies. As absolutely nothing is obtainable locally, all supplies had to be sent out at regular intervals from the northern area. The want of fresh water caused a good deal of sickness, especially skin diseases and sores, from which fully 75 per cent. of the establishment suffered and presented a ghastly appearance at the end of the field season. Malarial fever and dysentery were very common, and lastly there was considerable danger owing to the country being infested with tigers. Two "khalasis" were killed by tigers during the season. The body of one of these men was recovered owing to the pluckiness of the surveyor in charge of the squad who struck the tiger over the head with his brass sight rule causing him to drop the body. Under all these unfavourable conditions it is not to be wondered at that establishments absconded wholesale and considerable difficulty was experienced in replacing them.

Topographical survey.

64. The area topographically surveyed, consists of 227 square miles on the 4 inch scale of dense forests and jungle and also 93 square miles of the Haringhata River which have been surveyed on the 2 inch scale. The survey has been checked by the resurvey of numerous blocks and by 119 linear miles of "partial." The impenetrable jungle made progress slow, as it confined line clearing to the low outturn of 20 to 25 chains a day.

65. This tract is contained in 8 Revenue Survey villages and has been mapped on 25 sheets excluding the 2 sheets on the 2 inch scale of the Haringhata River.

66. Any scattered cultivation, which was encountered, has also been surveyed on the 16 inch scale and a record has been prepared for 8 of these villages. The high winds and tides and frequent storms which occurred late in the season near the Bay of Bengal made it dangerous for the survey squads to remain longer in boats and the establishment had consequently to be withdrawn before the whole record could be completed.

66. Traces of the whole area have been made over to the Settlement Officer.

67. The Settlement Officer requested that chars Bogola and Hare, which had been reported to have reformed, should be surveyed. Char Bagola which lies in the Bay of Bengal to the South of the Rabnabad islands was traversed and connected to the traverses on the main land, but no trace of char Hare was visible even at ebb tide. The area of char Bagola is 77 acres and on the edge of the char are the remains of the wreck of a large vessel.

DISTRICT RANCHI.

Traverse survey.

74. The traverse camp of No. 5 Party under Mr. T. W. Babonau traversed, during the year under report, an area of 1,632 square miles in Thanas Kochedga Kurden, Palkot, Basia and Gumla.

75. The angular work was checked by 308 azimuths which give a mean magnetic variation of $1^{\circ} 13'$ East. The season's work has been connected to 6 Great Trigonometrical stations.

76. Three-fourths of the area dealt with during the season is hilly and broken country and the subtense bar had, therefore, to be constantly used.

77. There were 30,350 theodolite stations which were marked as follows: 966 trijunction points by stones with a dot in centre, 18,808 local stones marked by a broad arrow cut thereon, 5,256 broad arrow marks cut on rocks "in situ" and 5,317 pegs.

78. The demarcation was, as usual, found wanting and the surveyors had to survey villages as pointed out. There are no Revenue Survey or other old maps in existence which show village boundaries and the Deputy Commissioner's list of villages referred to in paragraph 21 of my last report was found most useful.

79. The health of the establishment was, owing to the unhealthy nature of the tract indifferent. All the computations have been completed in every respect.

PART III.—REPORTS ON MISCELLANEOUS SURVEYS.—CALCUTTA SUBURBS SURVEY.

93. This survey was continued by the detachment under Mr. R. B. Smart.

The outturn of the year consists of (a) traverse of 2,090 acres of Dibi Panchanagram lying outside the municipal boundary, on the scale of 32 inches to the mile, (b) detail survey of the foregoing area on 32-inch scale, and (c) detail survey of 1,430 acres on the scale of 50 feet to the inch.

94. The traverse work proved troublesome, owing to the difficulty in demarcating the limits of the several sub-divisions. The old maps were utilised as a guide, but where the boundaries ran through fields they proved useless, and the traverses had to be run only approximately to their proper positions, leaving it to be decided, after demarcation, how the plots were to be projected.

95. The area of 2,090 acres surveyed on the 32-inch scale has not been completed in demarcation, owing to the difficulty in ascertaining the names and obtaining the attendance of tenure-holders. There are also a number of detached holdings which remain to be mapped and connected by traverse.

96. The 1,430 acres of large scale survey consist of 1,181 acres within Municipal limits and 249 acres outside.

97. The total area in, what is known as the added area of Calcutta, completed to date is 8,513 acres, of which 6,600 acre, comprise Municipal and Revenue holdings belonging to Dibi Panchanagram and Belliaghata Canal surplus lands and the balance of 1,913 acres comprise municipal holdings with scattered holdings in the Government estates of Addy Ganga Jheel, Daripia and Sahiban Bagicha.

98. Outside the added area of Calcutta, 249 acres, being portions of Sub-Divisions of Dihi Panchanagram, of which the remaining portions lie within the added area, have also been surveyed on the large scale.

99. As already stated 2,090 acres have been surveyed on the 32 inch scale and, therefore as far as actual survey work is concerned, there is little left for the detachment, except some scattered holdings and the connection by traverse of the scattered blocks of Panchanagram, but there is a considerable amount of difficult work remaining in the way of ascertaining the limits and showing the boundaries of Municipal and Revenue holdings on the maps.

100. Owing to tenure holders having bought and sold holdings without any reference to the Collector, the registers are in a most incomplete state and it often takes months to discover who is the owner of a plot. It has been found that there are several plots of land without Municipal numbers and several revenue holdings have been demarcated for which no taxes have been paid.

101. In addition to the amount of work already detailed, 45 acres already surveyed in the previous survey of 1887 to 1894 had to be resurveyed owing to municipal holdings, forming a part of the added area, having been found to lie in these 45 acres. The changes since the former survey were so great that the correction work amounted to a new survey. Also 26 acres to the North of Calcutta had to be revised on the old maps in order to demarcate the boundaries properly.

102. The area extraction of all the work within the added area is up to date, but the exterior tracts cannot be dealt with until all the holdings have been demarcated. The completion of areas is a troublesome operation owing to the necessity of making the areas of the several Revenue holdings, contained within one Municipal holding, tally with the area of the latter.

103. Several registers are under compilation, but can of course only be completed as the demarcation proceeds.

104. Out of 398 maps, 133 have been fair drawn in skeleton, i.e., all details are shown, but the boundaries of holdings can only be entered as attestation progresses.

Attestation has commenced, four Subdivisions having been made over to the Collector.

105. Up to date there have been 2,283 disputes recorded for enquiry out of which 1,305 have been decided.

Patna Division diara survey.

109. With a view to the annual checking of accretions and diluvion in "diara" tracts, the Board ordered that the present position of the Ganges River in the Patna Division, be marked on maps, showing the position of the river according to the latest available surveys.

110. The procedure adopted was to run a traverse along each bank of the river as close to the water's edge as feasible, connecting these lines with trijunction of the former survey, and to map the actual water's edge by means of offsets. A set of maps on the 16 inch scale were compiled in the Bengal Drawing Office showing the course of the river as previously surveyed in block and on these maps the present position of the river has been shown in red. The total length of the survey was 354 miles and the approximate area enclosed was 56 square miles.

111. The change in the course of the River, in most places is very great and an inspection of the map, points to its being very doubtful. Whether the existing permanently marked lines along the edges of the "diara" can be drawn closer together with safety. Unless those two lines can be drawn together with a fair chance of a considerable proportion of the marks remaining after a rainy season, or unless marks placed at selected points within the tract, can be counted on to remain for some time, it is evident that the proposed annual revision cannot be undertaken by a non-professional agency and the cost of a yearly revision entailing a theodolite survey would be prohibitive. It is therefore proposed to select, after a careful examination of the map lately prepared, points and embed marks of a fairly permanent nature at them. If a fair percentage of these marks are forthcoming after the next rainy season, the difficulty will have been solved, and there is no reason, why, with the aid of these fixed points, a yearly revision should not be carried out by inexpensive methods.

PART IV.—REPORT ON THE BENGAL DRAWING OFFICE.

116. The charge of this office was held by Mr. E. F. Berkeley until the 12th May and afterwards by Mr G. W. Archer until the close of the year under report.

117. In last year's report mention was made of the necessity of more accommodation for this office on account of the very great increase of work. This change was carried out during the year, and the office is now located in 166, Lower Circular Road, in the buildings formerly occupied by St. James's School. Before the new premises could be occupied, considerable alterations, comprising the building of a small house as photo. room for the Vandyke section, erection of racks in the record-room, putting iron gratings into the doors, and windows of same, removal and re-erection of the shed for grainers, laying down water connection for both filtered and unfiltered water for the photo. room and pipes for the surface drainage in the compound, had to be carried out. In order to dislocate work as little as possible, the office was moved in by sections during the months of February to April inclusive, but nevertheless there has, of course, been some reduction in outturn.

118. During the year a large machine press, driven by an electric motor, has been purchased and erected, and the necessary electric connections carried out. Several minor improvements, such as the glazing in of a verandah for the use of draftsmen on delicate work and the erection of a number of small racks in the mapping section, have also been effected.

119. The new premises, with the improvements noted above, are very suitable for the requirements of the office, but the very rapid increase of work, especially in the reproduction section, already points to the necessity of increasing the accommodation of the photo. room. However, as there is plenty of room available in the compound, the necessary extra building will be seen to during next season.

120. The Bengal Drawing Office, in addition to its proper work of compilation of standard sheets, has gradually undertaken a very heavy and varied programme, and is, therefore, in addition to the general section, consisting of the officer in charge and his clerical staff, divided into five main sections as follows:—(a) Standard mapping section, (b) Thana mapping section, (c) Reproduction of villages maps section, (d) Badar section and (e) Map record section.

121. The Districts of Darbhanga, Monghyr, (north of the Ganges) and Bhagalpur (north of the Ganges) which had been completed in cadastral survey during previous years, are comprised in 18 standard sheets, of which 4 had been completed and published during 1903-04. As regards the remaining 14 sheets, the following outturn has been accomplished during the year under report: 4 sheets have been completed and submitted for publication, 3 are practically completed and will be submitted for publication, shortly and the remaining 7 sheets are all in hand in different stages of progress. Owing to the issue of recent orders regarding the reduction of the size of standard sheets to half of their former size, two sheets which were not far advanced have been rejected by order of the Deputy Surveyor-General and will be redrawn. Also the two Eastern sections of one sheet have been rejected for the same reasons.

122. The 14 standard sheets of Chittagong, which were reported as completed last year, had to be recalled after publication in order to enter Thana and District boundaries in accordance with the orders of the Deputy Surveyor-General. This work has been completed and the sheets have been returned for press order.

123. The District of Backergunge is contained in 17 standard sheets, of which 13 quarter sections had been projected and plotted when the new orders regarding size of the sheets were received and the work had consequently to be rejected.

124. Under the orders of the Deputy Surveyor-General the compilation of 4 standard sheets of District Tippera was undertaken in the Bengal Drawing Office. Three sheets have been projected and plotted, but further work on these sheets has been temporarily postponed in order to make up for the loss in outturn on the Bihar sheets.

125. The outturn of work of standard mapping in Bengal has not been as good as was expected. This is due to (a) unavoidable dislocation of work consequent on the removal of the office and (b) rejection of some sheets owing to the new order reducing the size of the sheets. Next season, there will be no move and as the new office provides better light and more suitable accommodation than we have been accustomed to heretofore, progress should be much more satisfactory. Moreover, the new orders regarding the size of sheets, although they have temporarily checked outturn, will in future, accelerate outturn, as sheets need not be kept back, as at present, waiting for material of large tracts not yet surveyed. Steps have also been taken to accelerate despatch of traverse data and original sheets to the Bengal Drawing Office, but there is no doubt, that in order to enable the Standard mapping section to deal with the large amount of material now available and to keep pace with the present outturn of the field parties, a considerable augmentation of establishment will be necessary.

126. This section also undertook the preparation of district maps on the scale of 4 miles to the inch. During the year the District maps of Saran and Cuttack have been completed, and sent in for publication. The District map of Puri has also been completed and is under submission for publication. The District map of Cnamparan is well advanced, and that of Darbhanga is as far advanced as the publication of the Standard maps permits of. The map of Chittagong is in hand, but is giving great trouble in the incorporation of old material for the gaps left in the latest survey.

127. A small computing staff attached to this section has been employed throughout the year on computing the co-ordinate values of village trijunction points with a view to the compilation of the traverse charts ordered by the Surveyor-General. During the year 2,627 villages of Darbhanga and 11,071 of Orissa have been dealt with, and it is hoped that 27 charts will be ready by 1st April 1906, and the remaining 79 charts by 1st October 1906.

128. During the year the compilation of maps of districts Gaya and Shahabad, showing permanently marked trijunction points has been completed. As regards similar maps of the Orissa districts, 7,767 villages have been completed and it is hoped to complete the trijunction map of Orissa as well as that of Patna before the 1st April 1906.

129. This section has also compiled an index map of district Faridpur and carried out the selection of material of 30 sheets on one inch scale for preparation, of Atlas sheets.

II.—SETTLEMENT REPORT.

CHAPTER I.

SECTION A—GENERAL SUMMARY AND GENERAL REMARKS.

2. Survey and settlement operations were in progress during the year in thirteen districts belonging to eight out of the nine Divisions which were included in the Province of Bengal before its recent partition. The total area included in these operations was 22,663 square miles contained in 24,686 villages. The area cadastrally surveyed during the year was 4,52 square miles, while preliminary records were written for 6,970 villages. Records were attested in 6,113 villages and finally published in 1,700 villages. The rents of 205,916 tenants were settled. The expenditure of the year amounted to Rs. 9,15,557.
3. The total area for which a record-of-rights has now been completed under the control of this Department is 37,635 square miles. Of this, 2,404 square miles were completed during the year under report. Progress during the last nineteen years has averaged 1,981 square miles a year.

SECTION B.—GENERAL SETTLEMENT MATTERS DEALT WITH DURING THE YEAR.

6. The work of revision of the Boundary Commissioner's lists of villages is being carried on by Mr. R. N. L. Chandra, Deputy Collector on special duty, in 26 out of a total number of 47 districts which were in Bengal during the year. The other districts are being left untouched for the present, either because there are no mauzawar maps to work with and no Boundary Commissioner's Lists to revise, or because mujm'li maps and village lists have recently been prepared for them by the Settlement Department which do not require bringing up to date, or because such maps and lists will be prepared shortly in the course of the survey and settlement operations which have been begun or are about to begin. Of the 26 districts being dealt with, 9 have, since the 16th October last, been transferred to the new Province of Eastern Bengal and Assam, but the work in connection with them is being completed by the Special Officer at the request of the Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam. The Board of Revenue have decided that the maps should be reproduced and the lists printed. Accordingly trace copies of the maps are being prepared and supplied to the Bengal Drawing Office where they will be reproduced by the Vandyke process. The lists are being printed by the Government press.

7. Up to the end of the preceding year thana index maps had been prepared for the cadastrally-surveyed districts of Saran, Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Cuttack, Balasore and Puri. Similar maps were prepared during the year for five thanas of the district of Darbhanga and two thanas of the district of Chittagong. As soon as the jurisdiction lists of villages for these districts are prepared by the special officer engaged on the revision of the Boundary Commissioner's Lists of villages, both the thana maps and lists of villages will be distributed to Heads of Departments and the local officers. The cost of reproduction of maps by the Vandyke process having been much reduced, the price of a copy of the thana map and its list of villages was reduced during the year from Rs. 3 to 12 annas with the object of popularising them. A simple form has been introduced for the preparation of the lists of villages of the Ranchi district in modification of the form prescribed by the Board's Circular order No. 3 of March 1904.

8. The work of reproduction of village maps has now been completed for the districts of Cuttack, Puri (including Khurda), Balasore, Chittagong and Saran as well as for the Jaipur and Kalimpong Government estates in the districts of Bogra and Darjeeling, respectively. The districts of Muzaffarpur, Champaran and Backergunge are also nearing completion. The cost of the reproduction of the maps having been reduced meanwhile, the price of each village map has now been reduced from 4 to 2 annas with a view to popularize their use.

14. Under rule 43, Chapter VI of the Government rules under the Bengal Tenancy Act, copies of records-of-rights are supplied at the conclusion of settlement proceedings to landlords and tenants free from stamp duty. This is in accordance with clause (4) of a notification issued by the Government of India in the Department of Finance and Commerce, No. 4650, dated the 10th September 1889. But the notification to clause (4) of the notification lays down that these copies of settlement records away by its proviso. A representation was therefore made during the year with the object of securing to the landlords and tenants the full benefits of the copies of the settlement records supplied to them, and the Government of India have issued a notification in the Finance Department, No. 4634Exo., dated the 18th August 1905, whereby these documents will now be admissible in Courts of Justice free from stamp duty.

15. The question of the admissibility in evidence of copies of village maps reproduced from the originals by the system of photostereography invented by Mr. Vandyke came under the consideration of Government during the year. After consulting its legal advisers, the Government of Bengal submitted to the Government of India, in letter No. 2532T.—R., dated the 6th October 1904, a proposal to amend sections 36 and 83 of the Indian Evidence Act, I of 1872, with a view to rendering admissible in evidence maps reproduced under the mechanical process referred to. The Government of India have, however, decided in letter No. 256, dated the 25th February 1905, that it is not advisable for the present to amend the Indian Evidence Act in the way indicated, as differences of opinion exist among the legal advisers consulted as to whether maps of this description would or would not be admissible in evidence under the existing law, and as the question has not yet been brought to the test of a legal decision.

16. With the approval of the Board of Revenue, instructions were issued in this office Circular No. 34S., dated 20th May 1905, to all officers in charge of settlements under this Department, in order to afford landlords and tenants facilities in the matter of institution of suits under sections 105 and 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act in the case of tenancies spread over several villages, some of which have been finally published, while others have not been so dealt with. It has been laid down that, where the "tenure by tenure" system of publication is unsuited to local conditions, endeavours should be made to meet the convenience of the parties by postponing the signature to the certificate under section 103B until the latest possible date, so that the period of limitation for instituting suits under sections 105 and 106 may run from that date. Where recovery operations take place before the disposal of suits under sections 105 and 106, the publication certificate of each village should be signed on the date on which recovery begins in that village. In cases, however, in which, even with the precautions suggested above, the period of limitation is likely to expire in respect of the lands in one village before the papers of a second village, also concerned in the suit, are distributed, the plaintiffs should be advised to institute suits within the period of limitation of the first village, supplementary plaints being allowed in respect of subsequent villages and the series of suits being tried as a single suit in respect of the whole tenancy.

21. It was decided in Government order No. 2797T.R., dated the 19th October 1904, that the existing practice whereby draft publication takes place in the village should be continued, but that, in order to secure greater efficiency in the publication work, the attestation officers should devote a period equivalent to three days in each month to paying surprise visits to their draft publication kanungos and should also keep a record of the mistakes discovered at draft publication. It was directed that this system should be introduced in the field season of 1904-05, and that the result of its working should be embodied in this Annual Report. The orders of Government were given effect to, and the Settlement Officers generally report that they resulted in improvement of the method in which draft publication was previously carried out. The subject will again receive careful attention during the current season.

22. The question of the procedure adopted by attestation officers in dealing with illegally enhanced rents came before the Board and Government during the year in connection with a memorial from the Bihar Landholders' Association. The legality of the action of the Settlement Department in treating enhancements by contract exceeding two annas in the rupee as illegal, no matter how long they have been paid, has been placed beyond all doubt by the ruling of the Full Bench of the High Court in the case of Bepin Bihary Mandal versus Krishna Dhone Ghose. But the Board have directed that where the tenants raise no objection to the existing rents, the attestation officer should not take action of his own motion to test their legality without previous reference to the Settlement Officer.

ANGUL ESTATE IN ANGUL.

30. The state of Angul lies within the limits of the Tributary Mahals of Orissa. The Chief of the State having rebelled, the State was confiscated in 1847. Since that time it has been treated as a Government Estate. The last regular survey and settlement of the estate was commenced in 1886, and a settlement was concluded for 15 years, with effect from 1892, with a gross rental of Rs. 45,936. No enhancement in the rates of rent was made in the last settlement, the increase in rental being almost entirely due to the extension of cultivation and re-classification of soil.

31. In view of the expiry of the current settlement of the estate in March 1907, proposals for its resettlement were submitted in October 1904 and sanctioned by Government in order No. 623P.D., dated 30th June 1905.

Initiation of the present operations.

33. The programme of the year consisted of demarcation, field survey, comparison of plots with the khasras and maps, jamabandi rent-settlement and disposal of case work.

Programme.

35. It was not possible to carry out the entire programme during the year.

Work done.

The operations began in February and were retarded by hot weather and the unsuitability of the original rules which were framed on insufficient information. The khanapuri of 43 villages done according to the rules originally sanctioned for the work was revised, and the khasras of 225 villages prepared in the field season were re-written according to the revised rules sanctioned in Government order No. 943P.D., dated 5th August 1905. The orders passed at the khanapuri stage in all those villages were carried out, and statistics were compiled for the rate report. Skeleton maps for all the 629 villages comprised in the estate were prepared. The field work and record-writing of 225 villages were inspected and the khasra entries were tested by the Settlement Officer, the Assistant Settlement Officer, kanungos and Head Amins at the rate of 8, 7, 12 and 27 per cent., respectively.

GOVERNMENT ESTATES AND ZAMINDARI ESTATES IN MIDNAPORE.

39. The programme of cadastral survey and preliminary record-writing was fully carried out. The khanapuri of 43.56 square miles was done entirely by the Settlement Department. Besides the above, the Settlement Department also surveyed and wrote the preliminary records of an area of 1.78 square miles. Of the 257,492 plots dealt with in khanapuri, about 4 per cent. only could be tested. This low rate of check is due to the following reasons:—

Work done.

- (1) Khanapuri having been rushed towards the end of the season in order to get flooded areas finished.
- (2) Scattered areas and difficulties of communication.
- (3) Khanapuri Officer's time being much taken up in preparing the record of the raiyats who were being suppressed by chakdars or tenure-holders.

Attestation work proved more arduous than was anticipated, owing to the absence of ails or ridges in the fields in many parts of the Contai sub-division and the fact of a large number of revenue-free, rent-free and other privileged tenures lying scattered throughout the mal or revenue-paying area. In khas mahals a large number of cases of encroachments by under-raiyats on one another's lands had to be enquired into and decided. Elaborate references to the last settlement maps and records had also to be made in connection with the record of rents in the khas mahals. In *Jalpai tracts the difficulty was increased by the systematic attempts of tenure-holders to prevent the record of their tenants' names. At the request of the Subdivisional Officer of Contai, the Settlement Department had to make enquiries into the ownership of the cross of certain lands in the Jalpai area which were attached under section 135, Criminal Procedure Code. The chakdars tried to conceal the names of the tenants who cultivated the lands. Inferior establishment and inexperienced staff and the unhealthiness of certain tracts also interfered with the completion of the attestation programme. In consequence of these difficulties attestation could only be done of the records of 330.59 square miles out of 442.52 square miles, included in the revised programme, though the work was carried on well into the rains.

During recess the records of 77 villages with an area of 47.43 square miles were prepared for attestation; areas were extracted in respect of 47.43 square miles; maps of the last and the present surveys of 196 villages with an area of 75 square miles were compared in order to identify privileged lands; and enquiries were made into the classification of soils of 67 villages of which the records are to be attested during the cold season. Office check was completed in 115 villages with an area of 25 square miles and containing 16,176 plots.

Miscellaneous.

40. A map is being prepared showing all khals (water channels, and grambheris (village embankments) for the use of the Khas Mahal Department.

RESETTLEMENT OF THE BANKI ESTATE IN CUTTACK.

41. The resettlement operations in the Banki Government estate were sanctioned Initiation of the operations.

in Government order No. 3162P.R., dated 7th November 1904, and notified in Government Notifications Nos. 751L.R. and 752L.R., dated 10th February 1905. The last settlement of the estate, which was made under Act VIII (B. C.) of 1879 expired in September last and the new settlement took effect from that date. The present operations were conducted under section 101 (2) (c) and (d) of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

* Lands relinquished by the Salt Agency after the abolition of salt manufacture. Fuel for salt was collected from these lands.

43. It was at first believed that ample materials for the proposed resettlement operations already existed in the records of the Milan Khasra (maintenance of records) Department of the estate and programmes and estimates were framed accordingly. Closer inspection, however, falsified these anticipations, and Mr. Maddox and Mr. Fisher, the Collector, after a field-to-field enquiry, found that mistakes existed in no less than 60 per cent. of the plots and that the work of the maintenance of the records had been done very perfunctorily. This discovery led to considerable modifications in the original programme.

State of the records of previous settlement.

44. The programme for the year as actually accomplished consisted of the revision of the khanapuri records, attestation, assessment, draft publication, disposal of objections, office work and final publication.

Programme.

45. Before starting attestation which went on pari passu with the work of assessment, it was found necessary to bring up to date the old village records and maps. This involved the decision of some 5,000 objections recorded by amins in the course of the revision of the khanapuri. About 1,025 applications for lease of waste lands had also to be disposed of after local enquiry. The work of attestation proved somewhat difficult, as the old plot boundaries were not corrected in the field at the time of khanapuri. The old khatians also were spoilt by corrections and could not be easily deciphered.

Attestation.

46. An enhancement of 19·5 per cent. on the existing rental has been obtained at this resettlement, mainly on the ground of the rise in prices of the staple food-crops. The general rate of enhancement on this ground was limited to 2 annas in the rupee. No objection has been filed to the rents settled and the raiyats are reported to be paying them readily.

Settlement of rents.

ZAMINDARI ESTATES.

RANCHI DISTRICT.

Area—7,128 square miles.

63. With the publication of the Government notifications Nos. 4147 to 4149 L.R., dated the 16th November 1904, extending the provisions of the Bengal Survey, Bengal Tenancy and the Chota Nagpur Commutation Acts to those parts of Ranchi to which they were not formerly applied, the extension of the survey, settlement and commutation operations to the whole of the district was completed during the year. The settlement has been in progress for 3½ years and has now reached the boundaries of the Mundari tract to which the operations were at first limited. The settlement records are now freely consulted by the majority of the Courts and executive officers of the district and are already showing their effects on agrarian oppression such as illegal dispossession, fraudulent registration and unlawful enhancement of rents. The most important event of the year has been the transfer of the control of the cadastral survey and preliminary record-writing to the Settlement Department, which, however, was not carried into effect till after the close of the year.

General.

64. The programme of the year consisted of (1) the supervision of record-writing in 130 square miles left incomplete from the previous year, as well as in 909 square miles of new area; (2) attestation of 804 square miles khanapuri in the preceding field season, and (3) office work in the records of 900 square miles and final publication of the records of 400 square miles. The entire khanapuri programme was successfully completed by the end of April. The attestation programme was also completed in due time, but the case-work under section 103A, being unexpectedly heavy, dragged on till the rains, and case-work under section 106 of the local Act has not yet been finished, as local enquiry is needed in every case. Some arrears of office work still remain to be completed. The absence of accommodation impeded copying and the prolongation of case-work reduced the staff for office check. Final publication presented no difficulties and was carried out rapidly and satisfactorily.

Programme of the year.

65. Dispossession, jungle rights, rights to timber in trees, and korkar or new reclamations were the chief subjects of contention at khanapuri. The general principles for deciding the disputes regarding trees and korkar which were issued by Mr. Lister have since been embodied in proposals for amending the Act. As regards korkar or reclaimed land, a definition was framed by the Settlement Officer which was satisfactory to the cultivators.

Notable features of the work.

Complaints regarding extortion by amins were more numerous than usual. The Settlement Officer has made arrangements in the present season for the distribution of parchas by Assistant Settlement Officers and for the payment of amins direct instead of through Inspectors, and these measures will, it is hoped, strike at the root of the evil.

The most important boundary disputes were those connected with the Gangpur State boundary. They were all disposed of by a Commission consisting of the Settlement Officer, Mr. J. A. Craven, the Dewan of the State and Mr. A. Burton, Assessor on behalf of Ranchi. The unanimous decision of the Commission has now been confirmed by Government, and the State boundary has been continuously demarcated.

Attestation was difficult in Tamar, Bundu, Silli and Rahi owing to the prevailing condition of agrarian lawlessness in the Munda country, regarding which a separate report has already been submitted to Government. In Khunti and Torpa, rents, rakumats and racial quarrels were the chief causes of disputes.

The system of marking the trijunctions of villages by means of cairns was continued, and the index-maps and registers of these boundary marks have been made over to the District Officer.

The work under the Commutation Act proceeded smoothly and objections continued to be few. There is no longer any doubt about the desirability of dealing with rakumats and begari simultaneously with rent.

As was remarked last year, the most notable feature in the status return is the exceedingly large proportion of non-occupancy raiyats and the extent of sub-letting that prevails in many parts of the district. The Settlement Officer points out that the figures clearly show the necessity of amending the law so as to do away with the innovation made in 1879 of recognizing occupancy rights only after 12 years' cultivation. The under-raiyats are in number one-eleventh of the raiyats.

66. The principles for the apportionment of costs were discussed by the Director of Land Computation and recovery of costs. Records with the Deputy Commissioner, the Settlement Officer and the Manager of the Chota Nagpur Raj, and the decisions arrived at were approved by the Commissioner and confirmed by the Government.

It is estimated that the total cost will not exceed six annas per acre on the average, and various rates have been assessed on different classes of land accordingly. The system of computation devised by Mr. Lister is very complete and is working well.

67. Out of a total of 478,896 acres surveyed, the area annually cropped amounts to 189,707 acres, or 39 per cent. Of the latter, no less than 107,000 acres are terraced lands under rice. Upland rice and gondli are the only other staple food-crops in the district, and the one important non-food crop is surguja.

PURNEA DISTRICT (EXCLUDING PARGANAS SURJAPUR AND HARWAT).

Area—3,599 square miles.

Number of villages ... 3,504

69. The first programme of survey and settlement operations in this district consisting of pargana Surjapur has been completed. The operations have since been extended to the whole of the district, and by the end of September 1905 the record-writing was completed throughout the district, with the exception of thana-Sariganj and Kadwa.

72. The cadastral work was at first much impeded by insufficiency of staff and illness of the men. Internal disputes were numerous as in previous years and concerned principally waste lands, rights in trees, rents of hemestead lands and rent-free claims. In the end the cadastral camps reported 1,413,000 plots and 250,000 khatians. More than 30,000 plots or 10 per village on the average, were tested by the Settlement Department in addition to the testing done by the survey staff. The average plot was $\cdot 79$ of an acre and the average holding 4.42 acres.

Out of 30,090 internal disputes decided at khanapuri in the previous seasons, in only 1,179 was the decision revised at attestation. Every rent-free claim was disputed again at attestation, but there were very few disputes about the existing rents; 47.78 per cent. of the objections referred to status, 20.1 per cent. to possession, 15.46 to title and 11.65 to disputes about money rent.

The records of 364 villages out of the 1,190 attested were finally published during the year under report.

Greater attention was paid to the public inspection of draft publication. Visits to markets were made, and the current prices of food-grains were noted in the village notes and the attestation records. The checking of trijunction stones was at first carried out under the old rules by the draft publication kanungos, but later the surveyor munsarim was detailed for the purpose. Mr. Cumming reports that owing to the late receipt of the Board's orders on the subject, the check was incomplete and will have to be done again in part before registers are prepared for the Collector.

THE ZAMINDARI ESTATES IN THE SONTHAL PARGANAS.

78. The programme of the years referred to (i) the second programme of zamindari estates noted above, and (ii) 724 square miles of Mr. Craven's first programme. It consisted of (1) the disposal of objections to, and the arrangement of, the published records of 776 square miles (first half of Mr. McPherson's second programme); (2) attestation, rent settlement and publication of records of 809 square miles (second half of Mr. McPherson's second programme); and (3) disposal of objections to the published records of the same area. Regarding Mr. ... to take over from the Deputy Commissioner the last settlement records of 724 square miles, (b) to copy the last settlement jamabandis of the same area for the use of the survey and kharapuri amins.

80. In the first half of Mr. McPherson's second programme of zamindari estates (776 square miles), 4,345 objection cases were pending from the previous year and 2,248 were instituted during the year, giving a total of 6,593, of which 5,428 were disposed of during the year under report. A number of these cases have been kept pending, awaiting the orders of the Commissioner on some test cases. The unforeseen difficulties and tediousness of the attestation work in the second half of the programme threw back the case-work considerably.

During the year the Settlement Officer disposed of 915 appeals and revision cases in the zamindari estates. The orders of the Lower Court were upheld in 707 cases, or 77 per cent., modified in 44, reversed in 121, while 43 were otherwise disposed of.

In 113 appeals and applications for revision decided by the Commissioner, the Settlement Officer's orders were upheld in 101, reversed in 4, the remainder being otherwise disposed of.

The records of all taluqs of which the case-work disposed of before the field season have been arranged.

81. The second half of Mr. McPherson's second programme of 809 square miles contained 1,937 villages surveyed and kharapuri'd during the season 1903-04. The areas to be attested lay in different parts of the district, and included parts of all the six subdivisions, except Darghur. During the year the records of the whole of this area were attested, rents were settled and the records were published. This attestation programme was the heaviest undertaken in this district in any single year, and the work is reported to have been more intricate and troublesome than in any other part of the district. Mr. McPherson had estimated that the work would be finished in February 1905, but, as a matter of fact, all the attestation circles had to work up to June, and one up to August.

In the ordinary tracts of the Southal Parganas attestation and rent settlement are comparatively simple. The last settlement classification of soils is adopted at kharapuri and the last settlement rates of rents are usually applied to existing areas, and remissions are allowed, where necessary, to temper cases of high assessment resulting from the above process. Further, as transfers are forbidden, the transfer lists are generally not bulky. In the year under report, there were large areas (about 150 square miles) where totally different conditions prevailed. There was a manifold classification at the last settlement which was replaced at kharapuri by one simple system of three classes of dhani (paddy) lands and two of bari (non-rice). For obvious reasons, the last settlement rates for the manifold classification could not be applied to the revised classification, and so fair and equitable rates had to be fixed by the Settlement Officer after considering carefully the last settlement areas and rents, extension of cultivation and the results of the reclassification of lands. Unlike other parts of the district, the right of transfer was found to exist in this exceptional area, which necessarily swelled the transfer list, but hardly any of the transferees had effected mutation in the zamindars' records, as the latter demanded chauth (a premium amounting to quarter of the sale price) for them. The zamindar's claim to a mutation-fee had to be recognised, and the fee had in some tracts to be collected by the Attestation Officer and credited against the dues of the zamindar for the costs of the settlement, before the work could proceed. Then in the Bengali tracts there are considerable areas of brahmatter, lakhiraj and similar privileged tenures, but, as the saukats were not forthcoming in many cases, the last settlement records had to be consulted. The areas were generally much in excess of the lands recorded at the last settlement; and in such cases lands had to be identified on the spot from the old records, in order that the excess areas, after due allowance for more accurate measurement in the present settlement, might be brought under assessment.

82. At last settlement the total assessed area was 177,289 acres which was 34 per cent of the whole. The assessed area now is 295,877 acres or 57 per cent. of the whole. The increase in cultivation has been nearly 67 per cent. dhani or paddy lands have increased by 57 per cent. and the bari or non-rice land by 85 per cent. Of the total cultivated area, 62 per cent. is under rice and 38 per cent. under other crops. The proportions at last settlement were 66 per cent. and 34 per cent. respectively.

83. The settled rents now amount to Rs. 4,34,855 for the first five years of the settlement, and Rs. 4,51,663 from the sixth year onwards. These rents are 37 per cent. and 41 per cent. respectively, in excess of the last settlement rents. But the last settlement rents do not represent existing rents, as lands brought under cultivation during the period of settlement pay rents at half rates. The enhancement over existing rent is 24 per cent. for the first five years and 23 per cent. from the sixth year. The incidence of the last settlement rent per acre was Re. 1-12, as compared with Re. 1-7-9 for first five years and Re. 1-8-5 from the sixth year onwards in the present re-settlement. These figures clearly indicate the moderation of the present assessment.

NORTH BHAGALPUR.

89. The whole of the district to the north of the Ganges has been taken up and the fringe of the southern high bank in thanas Sultanganj, Bhagalpur and Colgong.

90. It was proposed to complete the attestation, draft publication, disposal of objections, office work and final publication in the area of 280 square miles with 175 villages between thana Kishenganj and the South Bhagalpur area. The recovery of costs and distribution of records entirely and the disposal of the section 105 and 106 cases as far as possible over the northern area of 1,587 square miles from thana Kishenganj to Nepal were also included in the programme of the year under report.

Programme.

92. The attestation of the 175 villages mentioned above in thanas Bihpur, Coigong and Sultanganj was completed and the records of 93 villages were finally published by the end of September. A fresh attestation of rents was carried out by order of the Director of Land Records in 27 villages of the Pachgachia estate which were attested in the preceding year, and resulted in a compromise satisfactory to the landlords and raiyats.

Recovery was started in two camps in January and February 1905, and the total demand of Rs. 3,98,358 was entirely realized by the end of August. Ninety-five per cent was collected without certificate, and of the balance 75 per cent. without any coercive measures.

The case work was extremely heavy. In the area attested in the previous year, covering 1,587 square miles and 231,917 tenancies, applications for the settlement of fair rents were filed in respect of 27,503 tenancies. There were 2,111 suits under section 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. The file has been cleared since the close of the year. Applications for the settlement of fair rents were withdrawn in respect of more than 25 per cent. of the tenancies concerned. The net enhancement obtained from the rest, exclusive of lands settled for the first time, amounted to $7\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. only. The Darbhanga Raj accepted compromises which gave an increase spread over a large number of tenants with comparatively small enhancement for each.

The public appreciated the stationary mufassal camps for the disposal of case-work and the facilities afforded for taking of copies of judgments and decrees in the camps.

SERAIKELA AND KHARSAWAN STATES IN SINGHBHUM.

97. The States of Seraikela, and Kharsawan, which are contiguous to each other, fall within the exterior limits of the British district of Singhbhum. Political control over these States is exercised by Government through the Commissioner of Chota Nagpur and the Deputy Commissioner of Singhbhum. In Kharsawan, settlement proceedings of a primitive character were undertaken by the Chief, shortly before the State came for a time under the direct management of Government in 1884 owing to the minority of his successor. These proceedings caused great discontent among the raiyats, which the Government had to allay by the grant of concessions. A short time before his death in 1902, the late Chief attempted to re-settle the State, but the rates fixed were so grossly unfair that the Deputy Commissioner was obliged to refuse his sanction to the proceedings. In Seraikela also the relations between the Chief and his tenantry were not cordial; an attempt to re-settle rents caused great dissatisfaction and a protracted opposition on the part of the tenants ended after eight or ten years in withholding of rents and in open defiance of the Chief's authority by a large number of his raiyats. This opposition had to be overcome by the aid of the police. While restoring order, the opportunity was taken to ascertain the wishes of the tenantry, who emphatically declared themselves in favour of a regular survey with a complete record-of-rights and a settlement of rents, the whole being made by Government officers. A request to this effect had been previously preferred to Government by the raiyats of the State. The proposals for a regular survey and settlement of these States were sanctioned in the orders of the Government of India, No. 1741, dated 4th November 1903. The operations are being conducted generally on lines analogous to those of the Bengal Survey Act, the Bengal Tenancy Act (as extended to the Chota Nagpur Division) and the Chota Nagpur Landlord and Tenant Procedure Act.

Programme.

98. The programme of the year which consisted of the survey and the preliminary record-writing of the whole area was duly completed.

100. Some difficulty was at first experienced in getting the amins to understand the classification of soils and in instructing the Assistant Settlement Officers, all of whom were new to the work, how to prepare the khewats correctly and check the work of the amins. Once these were understood, the work progressed rapidly.

101. Internal disputes were numerous but not difficult. In the majority of cases they were instituted by men who had been for many years dispossessed of their lands and who now took advantage of the settlement to try and regain them.

The most important of the internal disputes were those put forward by the zamindars of Dugni, Bangsai and Icha in Seraikela, who claimed to be on the same level as the Raja himself and not subordinate to him in any way. The Settlement Officer enquired into the matter himself and found that they were kharpashdars or ordinary maintenance holders.

that the zamindars of Dugni and Bangsai were not khorphoshdars but zamindars subordinate to the Raja.

102. Boundary disputes were also numerous, the most complicated and hardly contested being those between the State of Kharsawan and the tenure-holders. The Settlement Officer was appointed Special Commissioner for deciding the following cases :—

- (1) Between Seraikela and Kharsawan.
- (2) Between Kharsawan and Patkhum.
- (3) Between Kera and Karaikela.

The first was disposed of, and the other two, which were instituted late in the season, were pending at the end of the year.

The Settlement Officer also demarcated the boundary between Seraikela and Mourbhanj with the aid of assessors.

103. The attitude of the people was friendly and they rendered every assistance.

THE FATEHSINGH ESTATE IN MURSHIDABAD.

104. On the application of the Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad the survey and settlement of 99 villages were ordered in Notifications Nos. 936L.R., dated 20th February 1905, No. 14L.R., dated 3rd January 1905, No. 934L.R., dated 20th February 1905, and No. 1121T.R., dated 7th June 1905. Of the villages under survey and settlement three are situated in the Birbhum district, one in the Burdwan district and the rest in the Murshidabad district.

105. The programme was to finish the survey and record-writing of 43 villages with an area of 20.75 square miles that remained over from the previous year; to attest the records of 15.63 square miles and to publish the draft and final records of 52 villages. The programme of attestation was subsequently cut down to 39 villages containing 7 square miles, as it was apprehended that the quality of the work would suffer if it was pressed on through the rains.

107. The survey and preliminary record writing were completed. The records of only 38 villages with an area of 6.07 square miles could be attested during the year. The short outturn was partly due to the necessity of re-attesting the records of seven villages at the instance of the proprietors of tauzi No. 284 on the notification of the ijmali lands of that tauzi for survey and settlement. The work was also hampered by the existence of a large number of intricate disputes about lakhiraj claims, every one of which was contested, and much time and care had to be devoted to the disentangling of lakhiraj from rent-paying lands. The records of the seven villages mentioned above were also draft published for a second time. During the recess maps of 66 villages were inked up and numbered, areas of 69 villages were extracted, converted into local measure and entered into khasras and khatians. Headings and boundaries of 71 maps were also written.

[See Appendices VII to X.]

MAINTENANCE OF LAND RECORDS.

123. No orders of the Government regarding the schemes already submitted by this Department for the maintenance of land records in North Bihar, Orissa and Chittagong have yet been received. But the general question of the maintenance of the settlement maps and records engaged the attention of the Government during the year under report and an interesting experiment was initiated in Balasore by Mr. H. Savage, C.S.I., with a view to utilizing the village chaukidari panchayats in the scheme for the maintenance of records. A record of mutations was written up during the cold weather by the panchayats in respect of over a lakh of plots, but it was only possible to check 60,000 of these, owing to the inexperience and inadequacy of the staff employed. At a Conference held in August last it was generally recognised that very valuable experience was being gained by the experiment in Balasore, and it was recommended that it should be continued. Proposals have accordingly been submitted for attesting this season the 60,000 plots which were checked last year and for continuing the record of mutations so as to complete two entire thanas before the end of the cold weather. The entire area will have been attested by the end of next season, and it will then be possible to judge of the results of the experiment. So far as can be ascertained before attestation, the quality of the work done by the panchayats appears to have been good, but insufficient provision was made at the outset for the check of the work and for correcting the records for attestation purposes. The record of mutations in regard to the 60,000 plots checked shows changes of possession in regard to 52 per cent. of the plots and 60 per cent. of the tenancies. It must of course be remembered that the original record is now ten years old.

124. The returns of the mutation offices established at Bettiah, Hajipur and Mahnar under the Land Records Maintenance Act, VII of 1895, show little improvement over that of the preceding year. Three thousand and fifteen mutations were recorded during the year under review as compared with 2,864 in 1903-04, and the receipts of the year from fees amounted to Rs. 385-2 against Rs. 305-6 realized last year. As remarked in the previous annual reports of this Department, the results of the working of these mutation offices during a succession of years emphasize the conclusion that the Act, as worked at present, is a failure, so far as securing maintenance of the records is concerned.

125. Appendices VII to X of this report give a summary of the information received from the District Officers regarding the inspection and maintenance of rent-rolls in such Government and wards' estates as have been surveyed and settled. According to the standard laid down in Board's Circular No 11 of April 1903, the number of mutations recorded annually in an estate should not fall below 8 per cent of the total number of tenancies, and it is noteworthy that so far as the work in the Government estates is concerned, in only 7 out of the 21 reporting districts was this standard attained or exceeded during the year, but six other estates approximated to the standard. The falling off in Angul is due to mutations having been stopped owing to the inception of settlement operations. No explanation has been given of the poor results in Kalimpong (Darjeeling) and Palamau. In Chittagong there is a slight improvement as compared with last year. The other estates which fall below the standard are petty. Taking the Government estates as a whole, the percentage attained is only 4.35 as compared with 7.11 last year, which indicates the necessity of greater attention to this work.

126. Of the eight wards' estates included in the return, only two, the Ohuraman estate in Dinajpur and the Dakhin-Shabazpur in Backergunge, have reached the prescribed standard. In the Deo estate, the low percentage (0.24) is ascribed to the settlement records having recently been brought into use. For the Bettiah estate the figures are reported to be incomplete, owing to the absence of full information regarding the thika village and to the indifferent working of the patwaris in the khas villages. The percentage reached is only 0.34. In regard to Hathwa, the explanation offered is that owing to the practice of giving sarpeshgi leases, the number of out-and-out transfers is few, but the percentage is only 2.9 as compared with 4.72 last year, and the Commissioner remarks that the work done was not, on the whole, satisfactory. The Sheohar and Narhan estates also show a falling off, as compared with last year, and in regard to the former, the Collector has called for an explanation from the Manager.

127. As regards the inspection of rent-rolls, the prescribed standard of 50 per cent. was reached or exceeded in 14 out of the 21 districts in Government estates. The short output in Angul was due to the settlement operations now going on there, and that in Palamau is not explained. The number of unreported mutations discovered by means of this inspection was considerable. The prescribed standard of inspection was reached in all wards' estates except Bettiah, where the rent-rolls of only 1,034 tenants or .5 per cent. of the total were inspected.

CHAPTER V.

UTILIZATION OF LAND RECORDS.

128. The extracts which have been furnished by District Officers from their Land Revenue Administration Reports for the year 1904-05 show that in 25 districts, which have been completely surveyed, or in which considerable areas have been surveyed, the settlement records are freely referred to in all branches of criminal and revenue work. It is reported that the presumption of correctness attaching to the entries in the records-of-rights is understood by the Magistrates and the Police, and that in land disputes the parties are required to produce their khatians. In several districts, the Police use the survey maps in preparing sketches of the scenes of time. It is hoped that in the current year printed copies of the thana index maps, accompanied by jurisdiction lists of villages, will be ready for distribution to all the districts, the survey of which has been completed, and that this will lead to a still more extended use of the settlement maps and records in the different Departments of the district administration.

129. In all districts settlement records appear to be utilized wherever possible for collectorate work. They are referred to in land acquisition, cess revaluation, land registration, and certificate work, and also in granting loans and advances and in the management of Government and wards' estates. In twenty districts the description of lands by survey numbers is insisted on in Sub-Registry offices in tracts for which records-of-rights have been prepared, and several officers have proposed that this should be made compulsory by law.

130. One of the most satisfactory features of the reports received is the confidence displayed in the work of the Settlement Department by the Civil, Criminal and Revenue Courts in the Ranchi district, and this is the more gratifying because the work there has actually been completed in a small part of the district only. The production of parohas is generally insisted on in rent suits and criminal case, and criminal complaint, are freely referred for report to attestation officers working in the areas concerned. The credit for this must be ascribed mainly to Mr. Lister, who spares no pains in making his records as useful as possible to the general administration, but our thanks are also due to all officers from the Commissioner, Judicial Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner downwards, who have given the Settlement Officer the opportunity of showing what can be done in this direction.

131. Generally speaking, it may be said that the year was marked by an increased and more intelligent use of the settlement records by the Criminal and Revenue Courts, and this is satisfactory, as, the more they are used, the more their use is likely to extend.

CHAPTER VI.

[See Appendix XI.]

MAINTENANCE OF BOUNDARY MARKS.

132. Under Government Order No. 518T.R., dated the 5th May 1904, the application of the rules for the maintenance of boundary marks to districts which have been surveyed and settled and in respect of which schemes for the maintenance of settlement records have been submitted to the Government of India, has been kept in abeyance, pending receipt of orders on these schemes. It was recognized, however, that if the estimates for the preparation of registers and boundary-mark maps were got ready for sanction when the orders of the Government of India on the land records maintenance schemes are received, the work connected with the identification and preservation of the boundary pillars could proceed pari passu with that connected with the maintenance of the records. Estimates were accordingly called for from the Divisional Commissioners and their reports have been submitted to the Board. Special boundary-mark maps for the districts of Orissa are now under preparation, and 6,654 out of 14,302 villages were dealt with by the end of July last. Estimates for the completion of this work and for the preparation of similar necessary maps for Chittagong have been received from the Superintendent, Provincial Surveys, since the close of the year, and steps are being taken to provide the funds for the purpose. The Superintendent, Provincial Surveys, reports that a start is being made with the maps, showing trijunction points of districts Muzaffarpur, Saran and Champaran. The estimated cost of the preparation of maps and registers of the trijunction marks in the Tippera Government estates has been sanctioned by Government and the mujmilli maps are now under preparation in the Bengal Drawing Office.

133. A summary of the district returns showing the results of the inspection of boundary marks made by the local officers during the year is given in Appendix XI of this Report. Out of 757 Government estates surveyed recently, boundary pillars are reported to exist in 319 only. More than half the number of existing marks was inspected during the year under review with the result that 6,246 were found damaged and 761 missing. Of these, 636 were restored during the year at a cost of Rs. 1,092 only.

134. Of the 323 estates belonging to the Court of Wards which have been surveyed during recent years, trijunction marks are said to exist in 297 and most of their boundary stones are reported to have been inspected in the year under notice. Of the 1,760 stones reported to be damaged and missing in them, the Wards' estates in Saran are responsible for no less than 1,613.

135. In most of the estates recently surveyed in the 24-Parganas and Murshidabad, permanent boundary marks have been erected and a register of them is kept up in the former district in a form prescribed by Mr. Stevenson-Moore. The Khas Mahal Tahsildar is held responsible for the preservation of the pillars, and Sub-Deputy Collectors and kanungos inspect and report upon them every year. In Murshidabad Sub-Deputy Collectors and kanungos have been during the year visiting each thana for the purpose of making an allotment of the boundary pillars to the daffadar's circles. In the Sundarbans the estates are bounded by rivers and embankments, and where there are several estates on one island, they are usually separated by embankments also.

136. In the Palamau Government estate there is a special establishment part of whose duties consists in examining and reporting on the boundary marks, and repairs to them are carried out by means of the headmen. In the Kolhan Government estate in Singhbhum, the Deputy Commissioner is having boundary-mark maps prepared, and the Bengal Drawing Office has been requested by the District Officer of Hazaribagh to prepare the requisite mujmilli maps for the Koderma and other Government estates there.

137. In Champaran most of the boundary marks were reported to have been inspected during the year by the Excise Deputy Collector, the Manager and Assistant Manager of the Bettiah Raj, the kanungos, patwaris and the police. Out of the 4,458 pillars inspected in the Bettiah estate, 1,020 were found damaged and 289 missing. The Manager reports that stones have already been sent to replace the missing ones.

138. For the Government estates in Gaya a list of the boundary marks required for the villages surveyed up to date has been prepared, and an estimate amounting to Rs. 1,005 has been submitted for providing 1,261 stones considered absolutely necessary; these pillars will be set up as soon as funds are allotted. The existing marks both in the Government and Wards' estates were inspected by the District Officer, the Subdivisional Officer, the khas-mahal Deputy Collector and the kanungos.

139. The permanent boundary pillars in all the villages of the Narhan Wards' estate in Monghyr and Darbhanga were inspected by the tahsildars and Mutation Inspectors of the estate and necessary steps have been taken to replace the damaged and missing marks.

140. All the trijunction marks in the Kalimpong Government estates were inspected during the year by the Manager himself who found them all in good order except a few which he got repaired at once by free labour.

141. As regards samindari estates surveyed and settled in Orissa, Bihar, Chittagong and elsewhere, boundary marks have been erected in most of them. Owing, however, to the absence of index maps and registers, their inspection during the year was very limited. Only 23,995 stones are reported to have been inspected, of which 1,284 were found missing and damaged. 202 of the former were restored during the year.

142. In accordance with the rules for the maintenance of boundary marks, contained in the revised Appendix T of the Survey and Settlement Manual, special efforts are being made at present under survey to demarcate true trijunction points and to prepare maps showing them, and in maintaining and preserving them.

WEATHER AND CROP REPORT.

For the week ending the 9th April 1906.

Burdwan.—Rainfall at Sadar, Kalna and Katwa nil, Raniganj 0·04. Weather hot. Pressing of sugarcane continues. Fodder and water sufficient. Cattle-disease reported from three thanas in Kalna. Common rice sells as follows:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

ENGINEER DEPARTMENT.

SESSION 1906-1907.

CANDIDATES for admission to the Engineer Department should apply to the Principal in the prescribed form on or before the 15th May 1906. Each application must be accompanied by a registration fee of Re. 1, which will in no case be returned.

The session begins on Monday, the 4th June 1906.

Candidates must furnish proof that they have passed one of the following tests:—

- (1) The B. Sc. or B. A. examination in the B course in Physics and Chemistry of the Calcutta University. The candidate's age must be under 23 years.
- (2) The F. A. examination of the Calcutta and Madras Universities.
- (3) The Intermediate examination of Allahabad and Punjab Universities.
- (4) The Intermediate examination for the degree of B. A. of Bombay University.
- (5) The High School examination for Europeans and Eurasians.

The candidate's age in (2), (3), (4) and (5) must be under 21 years.

In selecting candidates who have passed the F. A. (all other things being equal), preference will be given to those who have passed in Sanitary Science in addition to the ordinary subjects of the F. A. examination.

The maximum number to be admitted is limited to 40. The position in the University examination and the age of the candidate will be taken into consideration when selection is made, and such selection will be made by the Principal.

The tuition fee for students to the Engineer class is Rs. 10 a month for each month of the year, vacation included.

One junior scholarship of Rs. 20 a month, one of Rs. 15 a month, and six of Rs. 10 a month, tenable for two years, will be given to students who have been admitted to the College who do not hold University Scholarships.

The selection will be made in the following order:—

- (a) B. Sc.'s.,
- (b) B. A.'s who have taken up the B course, and
- (c) F. A. candidates (except those who passed in the third division).

There will be in addition one scholarship of Rs. 20 a month and one of Rs. 10 a month for Europeans or Eurasians who have been admitted to the College, tenable for two years. Should there be no suitable candidates for these scholarships, they will be awarded to the general candidates. Every applicant, before admission to the College, will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour and eyesight.

Form of application for admission and any further particulars will be supplied upon application to the Principal.

SIBPUR,

Principal, Civil Engineering College.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

APPRENTICE DEPARTMENT.

SESSION 1906—1907.

CANDIDATES for admission to the Apprentice Department should apply to the Principal in the prescribed form on or before the 6th May 1906. Each application must be accompanied by a registration fee of Re. 1, which will in no case be returned.

The session begins on Monday, the 4th June 1906. Candidates must furnish proof that they have passed one of the following tests:—

- (1) Standard VII or Middle School Examination of the Code of European Schools.
- (2) University Entrance Examination.

The candidate's age must be at least fifteen and not more than seventeen years.

There are twenty-eight vacancies for natives and twelve for Europeans and Eurasians. The selection of candidates for admission will be made by the Principal.

There will be four vacancies on the free list for Christian Apprentices in June next and eight on the reduced fee list. For natives there will be eight vacancies on the reduced fee list, available during the month of June. Election to those lists will be made by the Board of Visitors. Forms to be filled up for the consideration of the Board can be had on application to the Principal.

The tuition fee to students of the Apprentice Department is Rs. 3 monthly for each month of the year, vacation included, except for students on the Free and Reduced fee lists.

Every applicant before admission to the College will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour and eyesight.

Before an applicant is admitted to the College his parent or guardian must sign an agreement in the prescribed form.

All applications from Christian candidates for admission to the free or reduced free lists must reach the Principal not later than the 6th May, so as to enable the elections to be made by the Board of Visitors before the opening of the session.

The vacancies on the native list will be filled up after the opening of the session from those apprentices who have joined the College after admission. Forms of application for admission and further particulars will be supplied on application to the Principal.

SENATE HOUSE,

The 9th April 1906.

C. LITTLE,

Offg. Registrar.

BIHAR SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING.

PROSPECTUS FOR ADMISSION.

THIS school is under the management of the Principal of the Patna College, assisted by a Board of Visitors. It owes its origin to a fund raised by residents of Bihar to commemorate the visit to India of His Majesty the King when Prince of Wales. The object of the fund was the promotion of technical instruction in Bihar. The school was formally opened on the 11th July 1896 by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

2. The number of students admitted to the first-year class of each year will be limited to 60. Preference is to be given to Biharis. Failing, however, a sufficient number of Bihari applicants, students who are natives of other provinces may be admitted, preference being given to Bengalis domiciled in Bihar over non-domiciled Bengalis or other applicants.

As far as accommodation is available, students who have passed the final "B" class examination will be admitted to the second-year class, provided they are not over 21 years of age, preference again being given to Biharis and domiciled Bengalis.

3. The school, as at present constituted, is chiefly engaged in training students for appointment as Sub-Overseers and Overseers.

The curriculum includes —

- (1) A sound study of elementary mathematics.
- (2) Careful training in survey work.
- (3) Drawing both free-hand and engineering.
- (4) Elements of road-making and the construction of simple buildings.
- (5) Workshop practice, with hand tools and machinery.

Students are prepared for the Overseer certificate of the Public Works Department. The necessary additional buildings have now been completed; and Government has agreed to reserve one appointment annually for a qualified student from this school, who must be a Bihari by race.

4. The next session will commence on 2nd July 1906.

5. In the Overseer Department, which corresponds to the Apprentice Department of the Sibpur College, the monthly fee is Re. 1-8, except for non-domiciled Bengalis, who shall pay Rs. 3. All scholarship-holders, however, receive free tuition. Government scholarships of the value of Rs. 7 a month, tenable one year, are awarded each year on the results of the annual examinations, eight being tenable in the second-year class, six in the third-year class, and six in the fourth-year class. Of the scholarships attached to the school, 75 per cent. of them are to be reserved for those students who are Biharis by race. The teaching is in English.

6. Candidates for admission to the Overseer Department must be under 20 years of age, and must have passed one of the tests mentioned below :—

- (1) The entrance examination of an Indian University in English and mathematics
- (2) Standard VII of the Code of European schools.
- (3) Students who have not passed either of these tests, and who are otherwise eligible, will have to pass an examination in English and mathematics (of about the same standard as the Entrance examination of the Calcutta University in these subjects) to be held by the Principal of the Patna College on the 4th and 5th July, respectively (from 6 A.M. to 9 A.M. each day).

7. Candidates for admission must apply to the Principal not later than the 30th June. Their application must give the following particulars :—

- (a) Name, address, and occupation of father or guardian.
- (b) Race and religion. (A domiciled Bengali must produce evidence to show that his father with his family, have taken up their residence in Bihar.)
- (c) A certificate of good moral character from last head-master.
- (d) An attested certificate of age (showing that he is under 20 years of age).
- (e) A medical certificate showing him to be fit for employment in the public service.
- (f) A certificate of having passed either of the first two of the three tests mentioned above, failing which the application will be kept pending till a certificate showing that the candidate has passed the third test is given to the Principal.

8. There is also an Amin class, admission to which may be obtained by students who do not know English. In the Amin class the course of study is for one year, and the monthly fee is Re. 1. An Amin-student is taught elementary surveying with a corresponding amount of mathematics and of geometrical drawing. He will not be admitted to the workshop. A student in the first-year class of the Overseer Department, who fails to pass the examination for promotion to the second-year class, but who has shown an adequate knowledge of elementary surveying and the other subjects taught in the Amin class may, at his option, leave the school with an Amin certificate.

Candidates for Amin class, who have not passed the middle English or middle vernacular examination will be examined at the school on the 4th July; candidates failing at this examination will not be admitted.

9. Except in very special cases, a student will not be admitted to the Amin class for the session that commences from 3rd July 1906, unless application for admission is made before 30th June 1906.

10. All candidates for admission to the school should present themselves personally at the school on the 2nd July.

11. There is a hostel in connection with the school. The fees are Re. 1-8 for room and Re. 1 for light. Students make their own mess arrangements. Students joining the Overseer classes must reside in the hostel unless they are residents with parents or with nearly related-guardians whose homes are near enough to enable them to attend the school at the required times. The Principal of the College will decide whether a student should reside in the school hostel, or whether the guardian proposed can be accepted as such.

NOTIFICATIONS OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE.

No. 2016B.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Fifth Sale of Opium, the provision of 1903-04, will be held at the Government Opium Sale-room, No. 2 Bankshall Street, on Tuesday, the 1st May 1906, at 11 A.M., and will comprise 4,400 chests, viz,—

| | Chests. |
|---|---------|
| Opium manufactured at the Patna Factory consisting of ... | 2,200 |
| Ditto at the Ghazipur Factory consisting of ... | 2,200 |
| Total ... | 4,400 |

2nd.—The general conditions of the sale now advertised will be the same as usual. They may be ascertained by reference to the Notification issued on the 28th November 1905, and published in the Government and Exchange Gazettes, or on personal application at the office of the Board of Revenue.

3rd.—The latest dates for deposit and clearance will be the 8th and 16th May 1906, respectively, that is to say, no Bank of Bengal Receipts, Government Promissory Notes or other Public Securities that may be tendered for deposit in redemption of Promissory Notes given by purchasers in the sale-room will be received after 3-30 P.M. of Tuesday, the 8th May 1906, and no Bank of Bengal Receipts in full payment of lots will be accepted after 3-30 P.M. of Wednesday, the 16th May 1906.

4th.—In addition to the quantity above advertised for sale, the following quantities, more or less, of the Opium manufactured at the Patna and Ghazipur Factories will be brought to sale between the sale now advertised and December next on or about the dates specified below. The Board of Revenue, however, reserve to themselves the right of altering these dates should circumstances render it expedient to do so:—

By order of the Board of Revenue, L. P.,

S. M. NASIRUDDIN, Offg. Secretary.

BOARD OF REVENUE, L. P., CALCUTTA, the 26th March 1906.

NOTIFICATION—No. 2476B.

IN exercise of the powers conferred on them by section 19A of Act VII (B.C.) of 1878, as amended by section 6 of Act I (B.U.) of 1883, and with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, are pleased to make the following rules to regulate the importation into Bengal under bond of rum and other spirits manufactured at the Cawnpore Sugar Works Company's Distillery at Cawnpore. These rules will have effect from the 1st May 1906:—

- Any person may import rum and other spirits manufactured at the Cawnpore Sugar Works Company's Distillery at Cawnpore to the Lower Provinces of Bengal in bond under a pass granted as provided in the following rules.

Importation.
- When any person desires to export rum or other spirits manufactured at the Cawnpore Sugar Works Company's Distillery at Cawnpore to the Lower Provinces of Bengal, he shall present a written application for a pass to the Collector of Cawnpore.

Application for a pass.

The application must specify—

 - the name of the consignor;
 - the name of the consignee;
 - the description, quantity and strength of the spirits to be exported.

License authorising the import of the spirits and bond.

3. Every application must be accompanied by—

- (i) a license from the Collector or Deputy Commissioner of the district to which the spirits are to be exported authorising the import of the spirits, and
- (ii) a duly executed bond in the prescribed form.

NOTE.—The license referred to in clause (i) above may be a general license covering all consignments for one year. The bond referred to in clause (ii) may be a special bond in Form A, or a general bond in Form B covering all consignments to a particular warehouse or warehouses for a specific period to be mentioned in the bond.

Particulars in pass.

4. The pass granted by the Collector of Cawnpore shall be in triplicate, and shall specify—

- (i) the name of the consignor;
- (ii) the name of the consignee;
- (iii) the number and description of casks or other vessels in which the spirits are to be exported;
- (iv) the description, quantity and strength of the spirits contained in each cask or other vessel.

One copy of the pass shall be delivered to the exporter, a second forwarded to the Collector or Deputy Commissioner of the district to which the spirits are to be taken, and the third retained for record.

Within a reasonable time to be fixed by the Collector of Cawnpore and specified in the bond or pass, the importer shall produce to the Collector of Cawnpore his copy of the pass with a certificate on it signed by the Collector or Deputy Commissioner of the importing district as to the due arrival of the spirit at its destination.

Casks to be marked.

5. On each cask or other vessel containing spirit for export there shall be legibly cut or painted—

- (i) the name and the mark of the Cawnpore Sugar Works Company's Distillery;
- (ii) the number of the cask or other vessel;
- (iii) the nature, quantity and strength of its contents.

These particulars shall correspond with those entered in the pass.

Time entered in the bond may be extended on application or on production of a certificate.

6. On a written application being made to the Collector of Cawnpore stating the causes, accidents, etc., which necessitate an extension of time, or on the production before him of a certificate from the Collector or Deputy Commissioner of the place of destination to the effect that there are good and sufficient reasons for extending the currency of the bond or pass, it shall be competent for the Collector of Cawnpore; if he thinks fit, to extend the time named in the bond or pass for the due arrival of the spirit at its destination.

7. In the case of spirits exported under special bonds, the Collector of Cawnpore shall discharge the bond on receipt of the pass and certificate mentioned in rule 4, provided that none of the conditions of the bond have been infringed. The duty on consignments issued under a general bond shall be written off on receipt of the pass and certificate mentioned in rule 4, provided that none of the conditions of the bond have been infringed.

8. If the certificate be not received within the time mentioned in the bond or pass, or if on receipt of the certificate it appears that any of the conditions of the bond have been infringed, the Collector of Cawnpore shall forthwith take the necessary steps to recover from the executant, or his surety, the penalty due under the bond.

9. The particulars given in each pass shall be entered in a register which shall be kept in form No. 54* in the office of the Collector of the district into which the spirits are imported.

10. Collectors of districts in the Lower Provinces will fix places for the reception, storage and examination of all spirits imported under bond from Cawnpore, subject to the orders of the Commissioner of Excise passed in consultation with the Board of Revenue.

The Commissioner of Excise is authorised to refuse, if necessary, permission to import such spirits into any place or district within the Lower Provinces.

11. Places fixed under the preceding clause for the reception and storage of spirits will, in all respects, be considered Excise godowns, and will remain in charge of an Excise establishment to be fixed by the Commissioner of Excise, in consultation with the Board of Revenue; and to be entertained at the expense of the bonder or owner of the spirits so long as any spirit remains there.

12. No spirits shall be removed from such godowns except under a pass signed by the Collector or other officer duly authorised by the Commissioner of Excise and until full duty of excise has been paid. Any spirit removed from such godown except as above shall be liable under the terms of the importer's or bonder's license to confiscation, and the person removing the liquor to the penalties provided by the Excise law. It will always be competent to the Commissioner of Excise, subject to the approval of the Board, to permit the removal of non-duty-paid spirit from one warehouse to another under bond.

13. The importer or his agents shall give intimation in writing to the Collector of the district of the arrival of each consignment, and shall convey it at his own expense direct to the place fixed for its reception under clause 10.

Owner to give intimation in writing to Collector.

14. If any spirit arriving from Cawnpore is not taken direct to the place appointed for its reception or is found out of the ordinary route of transit, it shall be liable to confiscation.

Liability of spirit to confiscation in certain cases.

15. On spirit being stored in the place appointed under clause 10, it shall be tested and gauged by an officer appointed for the purpose by the Collector of the district, care being taken to allow sufficient time for the spirit to cool. Due notice of such examination shall be given to the owners thereof.

Spirit stored to be tested and gauged.

16. The Collector of the importing district shall, after examination of the spirit, certify on the importer's copy of the pass the arrival of the consignment, setting forth in detail for each cask any excess or deficiency found in quantity or quality, as the case may be.

Grant of a certificate on arrival.

Allowance in case of deficiency at the time of clearance.

17. In case of deficiency at the time of clearing the spirit, an allowance shall be made according to the following

| | | | |
|---|---------|-----|-------------|
| For any time not exceeding 1 month | ... | ... | 1 per cent. |
| For any time exceeding 1 month and not exceeding 3 months | ... | 2 | |
| Ditto ditto 3 months | 6 | 3 | |
| Ditto ditto 6 | 12 | 4 | |
| Ditto ditto 12 | 2 years | 6 | |
| Ditto ditto 2 years | 3 | 8 | |

18. Rent is charged at the rate of one anna per day per quarter cask, and one anna six pies per hogshead remaining in the Excise godown after the fourth day.

Rent to be charged.

19. Spirits manufactured at Cawnpore and imported into Bengal under the above rules may, after payment of full duty of excise in the district into which the spirit is imported, be sold by persons holding licenses for the sale of imported liquor or country spirit. Such spirits, whether issued from an excise godown or purchased from a licensed vendor, when intended for sale, shall be transported under a pass in the same manner as imported liquors.

Sale and transport.

20. The provisions of sections 61 and 75 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1878 shall apply to all Cawnpore spirits imported into Lower Bengal in excess of the quantity shown in the bond or pass prescribed in clauses 3 and 4, respectively, or otherwise in contravention of these rules.

Provisions of sections 61 and 75 shall apply to all Cawnpore spirits.

21. These rules do not apply to spirits intended for exportation by sea, which, under section 145 of the Sea Customs Act, VIII of 1878, as amended by Act II of 1887, must be consigned direct from the distillery to the Collector of Customs under the bond prescribed by section 144 of the said Act.

Exception.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA, MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depot; and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depot, Calcutta, or
the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of A. & O. P., and Oudh, Allahabad.

Proceedings of the Bengal Legislative Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, assembled under the provisions of the Indian Councils Acts, 1861 and 1892.

THE Council met in the Council Chamber on Saturday, the 7th April, 1906, at 11 A.M.

Present:

- The Hon'ble SIR ANDREW FRASER, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, presiding.
The Hon'ble MR. L. HARE, C.S.I., C.I.E.
The Hon'ble MR. F. A. SLACKE.
The Hon'ble MR. S. P. SINHA, Offg. Advocate-General of Bengal.
The Hon'ble MR. E. W. COLLIN.
The Hon'ble MR. R. W. CARLYLE, C.I.E.
The Hon'ble MR. W. A. INGLIS.
The Hon'ble MR. L. P. SHIRRES.
The Hon'ble MR. T. W. RICHARDSON.
The Hon'ble MR. G. GORDON.
The Hon'ble MR. C. G. H. ALLEN.
The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR.
The Hon'ble MR. J. CHAUDHURI, M.A.
The Hon'ble ASIF KADR SAIYID WASIF ALI MIRZA, of Murshidabad.
The Hon'ble RAJA BAN BEHARI KAPUR, C.S.I.
The Hon'ble BABU JOGENDRA NATH MUKHERJEE, M.A., B.L.
The Hon'ble MR. J. D. NIMMO.
The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU, M.A., B.L.
The Hon'ble MR. SYED SHURFUDDIN.
The Hon'ble MR. W. T. SPINK.

NEW MEMBERS.

The Hon'ble MESSRS. S. P. SINHA and W. T. SPINK took their seats in Council.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

MALARIA IN ARRAH.

The Hon'ble Mr. SYED SHURFUDDIN asked:—

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the marginally-noted statement* occurring in the course of a leading article on "Famine and Irrigation" published in the Amrita Basar Patrika newspaper of the 16th March, 1906 (Dak Edition), and will the Government be pleased to state if the matter has ever been inquired into? If so, with what result? If not, will the Government be pleased to appoint an independent Committee to inquire into and report on the matter?

* "Arrah was one of the healthiest districts in India; it is now one of the most malaria-stricken places owing to the canal system."

The Hon'ble Mr. SHIRRES replied:—

"The question was inquired into by a Commission appointed in 1887 to examine the working of the Sone Canals Administration. The conclusions of that Committee were dealt with in a note by Lieut.-Col. C. W. I. Harrison, R.E., the then Chief Engineer, Bengal, and were considered by Government in the Resolution in the Public Works Department No. 206-I., dated 4th February, 1890. Both Lieutenant-Colonel Harrison's note and the Resolution were published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 12th February, 1890. The subject was dealt with in paragraphs 59-61 of the note and in paragraph 12 of the Resolution. In the Sanitary Report for 1904 the Sanitary Commissioner reported that the most malarious parts of the district were those in which canal irrigation was not carried on. This was also noted by Government in the Resolution quoted above."

WATER-SUPPLY REGISTERS IN THE MUFASSAL.

The Hon'ble Mr. SYED SHURFUDDIN asked:—

Will the Government be pleased to state if the District Boards and Municipalities of Bengal have made the water-supply survey of the areas under their respective jurisdictions as intimated by the Hon'ble Mr. Baker,† in reply to a question put by the Hon'ble Babu N. N. Sen at a meeting of the Bengal Legislative Council held on the 15th April, 1899? If such a survey has been made, will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement giving the details of the survey, district by district? If such a survey has not been made, will the Government be pleased to ask the District Boards and Municipalities to do it and submit an early report?

†The Hon'ble Mr. Baker replied:—

"At the same time every District Board and Municipality was required to make a kind of water-supply survey of the area under its jurisdiction, and to prepare two registers showing the existing sources of supply of every town or village containing more than 100 houses, together with information as to the purity or otherwise of every tank, well or stream, and its ownership."

The Hon'ble Mr. SHIRRES replied:—

"The question presumably refers to the water-supply registers prescribed under Circulars Nos. 7T.M., and 8T.M., dated the 15th May, 1896, in which Municipalities and District Boards were instructed to prepare two registers showing whether the existing sources of water-supply were sufficient for the requirements of the population and what ought to be done to extend or to improve them. Practically the same question was asked at the meeting of the Bengal Legislative Council held on the 9th April, 1902 by the Hon'ble Maharaja Manindra Chandra Nandy, of Cossimbazar. The Hon'ble Member is referred to the answer given by the Hon'ble Mr. Kisch to

THE SUBORDINATE EXECUTIVE SERVICE.

The Hon'ble BABU JOGENDRA NATH MUKHERJEE asked:—

(a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing—(i) the number of Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors appointed by the Bengal Government who, though residents of Western Bengal, have been transferred to Eastern Bengal; and (ii) the number of Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors who have been kept in Western Bengal, though residents of Eastern Bengal?

(b) Is it a fact that, when the partition of Bengal was ordered, the Government of India gave special orders that, as far as possible, officers should be kept in their home Province?

(c) In the Civil List of the old Province corrected up to January, 1906, it is found that some officers have been transferred to Eastern Bengal and their names have been omitted from that list. Does it mean that their cases have been finally disposed of, and that they shall be compelled to serve in the Province of Eastern Bengal and Assam even if they do not wish to remain there? Will the Government be pleased to reconsider the matter, and ask for the opinion of the officers concerned before finally deciding it?

(d) In case the Government is unable to provide for all officers who are residents of the Western Province in that Province, will the Government be pleased to allow such officers as may be unwilling to serve in Eastern Bengal the option of retiring with such compensation pension or gratuity as they may be entitled to under the rules?

(e) Will the Government be pleased to devise some scheme which will admit of the transfer of Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors from one Province to the other at their request?

(f) Will the Government be pleased to state what orders, if any, have been passed with regard to the granting of travelling allowances to Sub-Deputy Collectors who at present do not get any halting allowance or anything for travelling up to 15 miles by road, a question which the Government once before declared to be under consideration, and also state what orders have been passed regarding the counting of the officiating period of their service towards pension as in the case of Deputy Collectors, which matter also the Government was pleased to declare once before to be under consideration?

The Hon'ble MR. CARLYLE replied:—

(a) A statement is laid on the table showing (i) the number of Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors appointed by the Bengal Government, residents of Western Bengal, serving in Eastern Bengal, and (ii) the number of Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors, residents of Eastern Bengal, but kept in this province.

(b) The orders of the Government of India were to the effect that in working out the final constitution of the staff of each province, the utmost consideration compatible with the interests of the public service should be shown to the wishes of individual officers as to the province in which they should be employed.

(c) The fact that the names of officers serving in Eastern Bengal have been omitted from the Civil List corrected up to January 1906, does not mean that the cases of these officers have been finally disposed of.

(d) The question of offering compensation pension or gratuity has not been considered, and it is very unlikely to arise. In the course of time, it will probably be possible to allow officers, residents of this province, to return to it.

(e) No scheme can be devised by which Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors could at once be transferred from one province to the other at their request. It will probably be possible to do so in the course of a few years.

(f) The question of the travelling allowance of Sub-Deputy Collectors holding certain appointments has lately been decided by the Government of India in their favour. The general question has not been considered.

As regards the second portion of the question, the Hon'ble Babu Jogendra Nath Mukherjee is referred to article 375 of the Civil Service Regulations, which lays down the conditions on which the services of sub. pro tem. Sub-Deputy Collectors count towards pension.

VERNACULAR TEXT-BOOKS.

The Hon'ble BABU JOGENDRA NATH MUKHERJEE asked :—

Will the Government be pleased to call for a report from Head-masters of Indian Schools as to whether the number of vernacular text-books introduced into the lower classes are too many and too difficult for the understanding of the boys?

The Hon'ble MR. RICHARDSON replied :—

"In the opinion of the Government it is unnecessary to call for reports from Head-masters of Indian Schools, as suggested by the Hon'ble Member."

"An inquiry has already been instituted as regards the text-books prescribed or approved for use up to the end of the lower primary course, and the Government expects shortly to be favoured with the report of a Committee which has been appointed to consider the subject. It is anticipated that on the basis of the Committee's report it will be found possible largely to reduce the number of text-books, and that the revised list will contain only text books written in simple language, understood by the people."

"As regards upper primary and middle vernacular schools, the Government has under its consideration the question of the revision of the courses of studies in these schools and the connected question of curtailing and simplifying the text-books now in use."

SUBJECTS DEALT WITH BY THE SECRETARIES TO GOVERNMENT BEFORE AND AFTER THE PARTITION OF BENGAL.

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR asked :—

Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the various departments or branches of administration of which each of the Secretaries to the Government has been in charge both before as well as since the partition of Bengal?

The Hon'ble MR. RICHARDSON replied :—

"Circulars giving the information which the Hon'ble Member desires are laid on the table."

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION, BENGAL.

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR asked :—

Will the Government be pleased to state what has been the cost, including salary, establishment and contingencies, of training an officer of the Civil Service for the post of the Director of Public Instruction in Bengal? From what source has this cost been met? And under what head has it been debited in the budget? Was any member of the Civil Service ever before this the Director of Public Instruction in Bengal? If so, when? And what was the cost, if any, of giving him a similar training?

The Hon'ble Mr. RICHARDSON replied:—

"I think that the Hon'ble Member is labouring under a misapprehension. He is apparently under the impression that Mr. Earle was appointed to special duty in the office of the Director of Public Instruction, with a view to be trained for the office of Director. This is not the case.

"It is true that Mr. Earle when on furlough sacrificed a considerable portion of his holiday for the purpose of making himself acquainted with educational institutions in England, Germany and Switzerland and the systems in vogue in those countries. This cost the Government nothing. He was asked to return from leave a month or two before Sir Alexander Pedler gave over charge, with a view to allowing the latter to devote his time to University work; and he has been discharging the duties of the Director of Public Instruction ever since.

"As to the second part of the question, if the Hon'ble Member will refer to page 7 of Mr. Buckland's book entitled 'Bengal under the Lieutenant-Governors,' he will find that Mr. Gordon Young, a member of the Civil Service, was appointed Director of Public Instruction in 1855, when the post was first created. History is unfortunately silent on the question whether any special expenditure was incurred for the purpose of training him, but I believe that no such expenditure was incurred."

PROPOSED AMENDMENT OF RULE 6 FRAMED UNDER SECTION 16 OF THE CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU asked:—

(a) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the recent Full Bench Ruling referred to in the Calcutta Weekly Notes (issue March 5th, 1906) regarding Rule 6 of the rules framed by the Local Government, under section 16 of the Criminal Procedure Code, which provides that in case of a Bench of Magistrates being equally divided the opinion of the Chairman shall prevail?

(b) Having regard to the fact that all the Judges composing the Full Bench expressed the opinion that the rule in question was an undesirable rule, and that two of the Judges held the rule to be ultra vires, will the Government be pleased to alter the rule?

The Hon'ble Mr. RICHARDSON replied:—

"The question of amending the rule referred to by the Hon'ble Member is under the consideration of the Government. Any amendment that will be made will be duly notified in the Gazette."

PROFESSOR OF SANSKRIT IN THE PRESIDENCY COLLEGE.

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU asked:—

Is it true, as stated in the Amrita Bazar Patrika, that the Government intends to give the appointment of a Professor of Sanskrit in the Presidency College, for which Rs. 6,000 has been provided in the next year's budget, to a European?

The Hon'ble Mr. RICHARDSON replied:—

"The proposal to appoint a European Professor of Sanskrit in the Presidency College was originated by SIR ALEXANDER PEDLER, who was impressed by the backward state of Sanskrit learning in this Province where the traditional or eastern method of teaching Sanskrit has hitherto been followed. Under the inspiration of European scholars, more modern and scientific methods of study and research have been adopted in Bombay and the United Provinces with correspondingly better results. SIR ALEXANDER PEDLER's views have been submitted to the Government of India. As the matter is before the Government of India, I am unable to give a more definite reply to the Hon'ble Member's question."

THE BENGAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR 1906-1907.

The Hon'ble Mr. SYED SHURFUDDIN said :—"I cannot very well begin my remarks on the Financial Statement for 1906-07 without expressing my deep sense of gratitude to the Government of India for the remission of the zamindari dāk cess. The relief from this remission will not be appreciably great, for, the burden of payment of this cess has never been very keenly felt by the individual on whom it has been levied. But I take this as only an earnest for the full realisation of one of the fondest dreams of my countrymen, namely, the abolition of all those taxes on land which go to counteract or in the least affect the effects of the Permanent Settlement about the imposition of which the authors of that generous measure never dreamt when granting the boon. 'The question presents itself,' said Lord Curzon in one of his speeches, 'whether it is not better as opportunities occur to mitigate those imposts which are made to press upon the cultivating classes more severely than the law intended.' Again the Hon'ble Mr. Baker in introducing the Financial Statement at the Supreme Legislative Council has more clearly enunciated the same principle in the following terms: 'The arrangement,' he is reported to have said, 'at which we desire to aim is that no local cesses shall be imposed on the land supplemental to the Land-revenue proper, except such as are levied by or on behalf of local authorities for expenditure by them on genuinely local objects; in other words, local taxation on the land shall as far as possible be limited to what is required for local administration by local bodies and shall not form an asset of imperial or Provincial revenues.' The principle having been thus recognized and so clearly laid down, the day is not distant when we may hope, the conditions remaining the same, to see the abolition of the Chaukidari and similar other taxes, and it is this hope that leads me to begin my remarks by expressing my deep sense of gratitude to the Government of India.

"It was in 1904 that the Hon'ble Mr. Shirres, in laying the Budget upon the table, announced the new Financial Settlement made by the Imperial Government with the Government of Bengal, which was to have lasted for an indefinite period; but the partition of Bengal has necessitated a fresh settlement, and I don't think we have much to complain of. The settlement of 1904 was viewed with a degree of misapprehension in certain quarters. Up to now, however, those misapprehensions have not been justified. If we go through the whole range of the question of the financial relations of the Local Government with the Government of India, from just after the Mutiny in 1857 when anything deserving the name of systematic finance was introduced into India, a system very appropriately described by Mr. Laing as one of 'barren uniformity and pedantic centralisation,' to when in 1870 the Government of Lord Mayo introduced the scheme of financial decentralisation which we owe as much to Lord Mayo as to Colonel Chesney and Sir Richard Temple, from that day up to now as we go through the various stages of the development of the system, we cannot deny that the fact has always been kept in view that the obligation to find the fund necessary for administrative improvements ought to rest upon the authorities whose immediate duty it is to devise such measures. The quinquennial contract system was no doubt defective in more respects than one, for, it came out fully in the evidence adduced before the Welby Commission that the system gave rise to disputes regarding the apportionment of certain charges between the Supreme Government and the Local Government, which were kept up for years and finally decided to the satisfaction of neither parties. And though the system now introduced cannot be claimed to be the acme of perfection, it 'nevertheless constitutes,' to quote the Hon'ble Mr. Shirres, 'a step towards greater financial autonomy and is bound to have a strong indirect influence,' and I say, it is a material step. Provincial finance is a plant of natural growth developed under pressure of administrative necessity, and owing little or nothing to example and theory. And the quasi-permanent nature of the revised settlement announced by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Budget appears to me to be replete with hope and promise for the future.

"Now coming to the Budget for 1906-07, I find that the income under the head of 'Stamp' has been put at Rs. 1,4,00,000 and the Provincial share (half) Rs. 72,50,000, as against Rs. 71,00,000, being the revised estimate for the last year, thus anticipating an increase of a lakh and-a-half. This amount, together with the sum of Rs. 20,000, being the anticipated increase under the head 'Law and Justice' over the revised estimate for 1905-06 under the same head, gives a total increase of a lakh and seventy thousand rupees. This increase shows a proportionate increase in litigation, a fact which no one who has the welfare of the country at heart can view without alarm. But litigation is a necessary evil of civilization, and howsoever fine and attractive a scheme to put it down without depriving the individual of his right and privileges, may appear in theory, to give to it practicable effect is surrounded by almost insurmountable difficulties. So the best thing would be to spend the entire sum in giving relief to litigants and those entrusted with the administration of justice. So, while thanking the Government for the large provision made for increase of salaries of ministerial officers, remuneration to copyists, diet and travelling allowances to witnesses, and allowances to jurors and assessors, and additional Deputy Magistrates and their establishment, I cannot pass over in silence the claims of the members of the Subordinate Judicial Service. Recently I sent a question on the subject to be put at the Council, but as the reply has not been given in time, I do not know what action, if any, the Government is going to take in the matter, and I cannot allow this opportunity to pass without pressing the subject firmly but respectfully upon the attention of the Government. The subject is not a new one. The post of Munsiff was first created by a Regulation in 1793, when they were paid by commission on the amount of causes investigated by them, and it was Sir Cecil Beadon who in 1863 dealt with the question in a comprehensive way. Since then the matter has, off and on, engaged the attention of the Government, and from certain answers given to questions in the Council it would appear that the Government is even now engaged in the solution of the question. But as matters stand the position is very unsatisfactory to all concerned. The members of the Provincial Executive Service, though of a much later creation (this branch of the service was created by an Act passed in 1848) are much better off than those of the Subordinate Judicial Service. The members of the latter service are required to have better qualifications and in my opinion their position should be made equal to, if not better than, that of the members of the Provincial Executive Service. The officiating Munsiffs labour under serious difficulties in that they get no allowance during the intervals of their appointments. This defect ought to be removed first of all. Then as to matters of leave and promotion, they should be placed on the same footing as the Deputy Magistrates. Their future prospects should also be bettered.

"While on the subject of Law and Justice I may as well bring to the notice of the Government the fact that the time has come when the Jury system should be extended to other districts. It will be remembered that the Jury system was introduced by Sir Cecil Beadon by a Notification dated the 7th January, 1862, and the second year's report on the working of the system showed that it had been fairly successful. Before retiring Sir Cecil Beadon placed on record his conviction that the trial of offences of all classes before the Courts of Sessions in all parts of the Lower Provinces ought to be by Jury, and that the system could be generally adopted without prejudice to the administration of criminal justice and would be attended with decided benefit to the Courts and increased confidence of the public in their judgments. This was written in the early sixties, and forty years have passed since then—forty years of great progress in education and other matters—and the average citizen of to-day has a higher ideal of his duty towards himself and towards society than in those days. Out of the 12 districts of Bihar only Patna enjoys the privilege of Trial by Jury. But other districts, such as Arrah, Gaya, Muzaffarpur, Monghyr, Bhagalpur and Chapra have advanced sufficiently to claim the same privilege. Those districts are certainly now more advanced in point of education than Patna was in 1863, and the working of the system has been found satisfactory all along in Patna. It therefore stands to reason to hope that they will not abuse the privilege if it is given to them. Moreover, by introducing trial by jury in those districts the Government loses nothing but gains everything, and it should, I submit, consider the matter. There is another matter in this connection which I would like to press upon the attention of the Government. The time has come when the Government should consider the advisability of introducing the provisions of summary procedure for the recovery of rents. Having regard to the delay and expenses (legal and illegal) of the present system and also to the fact that record-of-rights have now been prepared for large areas in the Province, will it not be feasible to extend the procedure prescribed by the Public Demands Recovery Act in such areas? This is only a hint, and the Government should, if it thinks proper, work out a workable system. This will, no doubt, be a great relief to landlords and tenants alike.

"With regard to the Income-Tax it is gratifying to note that the Coronation Durbar gift of Lord Curzon's Government—I mean the raising of the taxable minimum to Rs. 1,000—has not really proved as far, as Bengal is concerned, to be a dead-letter, as it at one time threatened to do. This I think is due to the Government taking early steps to check overzealous officials from increasing Government revenue at the sacrifice of a principle, when their attention was drawn to the matter by the Hon'ble Babu Ambika Charan Mazumdar. I may here be permitted to offer a few remarks on the principle involved in the Income-tax, and I hope I am not treading upon forbidden grounds in doing so. If we survey the history of this tax from the time that it was first imposed, when Sir Richard Temple from his seat in the Imperial Council fought hard for the principle and defied his critics of all orders and names, when Mr. Inglis of the Board of Revenue, United Provinces (then North-Western Provinces) came out with his severely caustic remarks about bribery and oppression and Sir William Muir calmly confirmed rather than disavowed them, when the question had been removed altogether from the domain of argument to that of examples to its abolition by the Government of Lord Northbrook, again from its re-imposition in 1886 up to now we will find a class of men who have, in season and out of season, held this tax up to public reprobation and derision. But to my mind this is a very just tax, being almost the only contribution of importance which is made to Government revenues by that class of people whose incomes are derived from sources other than those connected with the land. But because I admit the fairness of the principle, I never for a moment mean to assert that the working and administering of the tax is incapable of improvement. A further raising of the taxable minimum would be hailed with great delight by a very large number of people. Again, I would point out that as in assessing traders, a margin for cost of establishment should be left out in assessing the professions.

"The steady, never-failing growth of the Excise Revenue has very justly raised an alarm throughout the length and breadth of the country. The Hon'ble Mr. K. G. Gupta in his speech at the discussion of the Budget last year said: 'Some people seem to think that a mere increase in the excise receipts is in itself something atrocious, something to be deprecated and absolutely wrong.' I, Sir, for one do not belong to that body of 'some people.' I do not hold such an extreme view. On the other hand I think that in a country like India where intoxicating drugs grow wild, and the means of distillation are everywhere at hand, an excise system is a stern necessity. A system of free trade of prohibition (such as the Maine Liquor Law) could have only disastrous results. From Bihar right across Chota Nagpur and the Sonthal Parganas to Western Bengal, there are vast mahowa forests and palm trees abound in all districts, and rice is of course a staple of the country. So the evils that are to be condemned have been due to its abuse or faulty administration, and not to the system itself. I do not condemn the increase because of the increase itself. No, I would doubly welcome a greater revenue; for, a greater revenue ought to be followed by higher prices and a consequent discount on the drunkenness of the people. But what I am afraid of is that a greater revenue is secured by a laxity in the observance and enforcement of those wholesome safeguards framed by the Board in conformity with the dictum 'Greatest revenue from the smallest consumption.' Who does not know that a liquor shop is to be closed at a certain hour at night, but what Excise-officer does not know that liquor can be procured at any time and all times. Instances of similar breaches of the rules are not rare nor far between, but the officers entrusted with the supervision only wink at them. A visit to the sale room when the annual settlements are made is always an instructive pleasure, because it shows how the settlement-officer (in almost all cases the Excise Deputy Collector) in his zeal to increase the Government revenue determinedly shuts his eyes to those salutary provisions in the Excise Manual which lay down in distinct terms that revenue is always a secondary consideration to public welfare. I hope the Excise Committee now touring about in the country will recommend definite measures to prevent these abuses.

"I come, Sir, from a part of the country where tari forms the staple drink of the people during a particular season of the year, and I would be guilty of grave ingratitude to nature for the magnificent palm groves which she has bestowed on Bihar with no niggardly hand were I to pass by without putting in a word or two about them. A proper use of these palm groves and their products would certainly enrich the people as much as their abuse is at present debasing and demoralising. Sometime ago an Excise Deputy Collector submitted, I am told, a report saying that tari can very profitably be turned into gur and vinegar. But nothing seems to have come out of this report. It is a duty of the people themselves, I admit, to utilise an indigenous product in its most profitable form; but I plead the general ignorance of the mass and the want of the enterprising spirit in the educated and monied classes as extenuating circumstances, and I hope I do not raise an impotent voice in this Council Chamber when I pray that the Government will take the initiative and lead the way.

"Coming now to the receipts under the head 'Provincial Rates,' I find that 'an increase is anticipated on the completion of the work of re-valuation in certain districts.' I may be permitted here to point out that cases have occurred where an estimate has been assessed at a rate fabulously greater than at the previous assessment. Such a state of things can hardly be taken to be compatible with a healthy growth of this source of revenue. In reviewing the reports on the working of the District Boards in Bengal during the year 1904-05, the Government have remarked:—

'The increment in the year under review was more than double the average of the previous decade. It is not likely, however, that this rate of progress will be maintained, nor could its continuance be regarded as healthy. The cess is already levied at the maximum rate allowed by law, and any further increase must be due either to more accurate assessment or to higher rents. There is now little room for improvement under the former head; and it is not in the public interest that there should be a general enhancement of the existing rates of rent.'

"I think officers entrusted with the re-valuation work should be made to act up to the principle enunciated in the above quotation.

"The people of Bengal are deeply grateful to Your Honour's Government as well as to the Government of India for the provision made in the Budget for Technical Education. The matter is of vital interest to the people of the country, and the provision under reference made in the Budget, though in itself a mere drop in the ocean, is, to me, only a sign of future help in the same direction. The Government of India in their Resolution (Home Department), dated the 14th January, 1904, have laid down certain lines according to which Local Governments were desired to take action with regard to Industrial schools as well as to adoption of means to produce better handicraftsmen. But the actual solution of the problem was left in the hands of the Local Governments. So, Your Honour's Government has been given a free hand in the matter, and may I suggest that before anything more is done in the matter, a careful Industrial Survey be made in this Province. It was during the rule of Sir Richard Temple that for the first time a proposal for an Industrial Survey of India, originated by Mr. Forbes Watson, came up for the consideration of the Government of Bengal. The scheme contemplated a complete survey of the production and consumption of Indian wealth, with a full description and classification of collected specimens of every product and of the machines and implements used. It contemplated the formation of Honorary Committees in each district to be assisted by local officers in collecting specimens and transmitting them to a museum in London. Sir Richard Temple regarded the scheme as hardly practicable, but he was of opinion that the desired result could be more successfully and satisfactorily achieved by proper arrangements designed and achieved in the province itself. Now I think the time has come when the Government of Bengal should undertake a survey of the present state of the indigenous industries with a view to find out the precise manner in which the different industries have been affected by competition with imported articles and the possibility of giving a new lease of life to those industries either by special instruction or by introduction of improved appliances. 'The Jolahas of Bihar and Jehanabad, the glass manufacturers of Patna, the gunsmiths of Monghyr and various other handicraftsmen are in a very bad way indeed. If they are given a helping hand, a considerable pressure upon the land will be removed, and it will bring about a greater prosperity to the people.

"Under police I find that the sum of Rs. 63,67,000 has been budgeted for expenditure during the current year. This includes the lump provision for reforms recommended by the Police Commission. But the details of how those reforms are to be carried out are to us, the uninitiated, provokingly meagre. For instance, in Appendix B under the head 'Police' I find the sum of Rs. 41,00,000 put down as 'Lump Provision for Police Reforms.' In explaining the Financial Statement in the Supreme Council the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Imperial Budget has said that among other improvements, the post of Deputy Superintendents will be created in the course of the year. May I now ask, if any such post is going to be created in Bengal, and, if so, how many such posts are proposed to be created during the year.

"On the receipt side of the budget under discussion I find that in the year 1904-05 and 1905-1906 there is one item of contribution from Imperial to Provincial amounting to Rs. 6,000, mentioned as for the preservation of ancient manuscripts; but no such contribution appears to have been made this year, though in the expenditure side I find that a sum of Rs. 8,000 has been granted for the same purpose for this year. I should like to know how much of these amounts has been spent in the last two years and how the present grant is going to be spent during the current year on the Oriental Public Library, Bankipore. I do not think that any other institution in Bengal can boast of such valuable oriental manuscripts as this institution, and as such, it has the first claim on this contribution. I hope that when allotments are made the claims of this institution will not be lost sight of.

"The budget estimate for education during the year 1906-1907 stands at Rs. 53,00,000 as against Rs. 43,37,000, being the revised estimate for the year just closed. From the details of expenditure under this head I am unable to make out if any provision has been made for redressing the just grievances of the members of the Subordinate and Provincial Educational Services. Apparently such a provision has not been made, and I join my voice with that of the other members of the Council who have so strongly championed the cause of this class of officers in previous years. Education is admittedly the most important function in the administration of a civilized Government, and an ill-paid staff to discharge this duty can hardly be commensurate with a safe and just policy. The reduction in the value of Senior and Junior scholarships has before this been made the subject of another just complaint, and I do not find any reason why this matter should be allowed to remain as it at present stands.

"I hope the lump provision for Primary Education will be utilized in giving effect to the recommendations of the Committee contained in their Report dated the 3rd August, 1905.

"The grant of a lakh of rupees for laboratory fittings and other charges for the Patna Training Institution and provision for the construction of a Model and Engineering College at Ranchi (Rs. 6,35,000) and barracks for students and a Pathological Museum in the Temple Medical School (Rs. 27,000) cannot but be welcome to the Beharis, and on their behalf I beg to offer my thanks to the Government.

"The subject of the Temple Medical School brings to my mind the great want of a paying ward in the hospital attached thereto. Middle-class respectable people feel the want very keenly, and I beg to point this out with the hope that Your Honour's Government will do something in the matter.

"The grants of Rs. 90,000 and Rs. 20,000 for expenses during the prevalence of malarial and anti-malarial measures respectively appear to me to be quite in proportion to the importance of the respective items. Malaria surely for more victims than plague, but only Rs. 20,000 has been granted for anti-malarial measures. And even then we are in the dark as to how this amount is going to be spent.

"Referring to the grant of Rs. 90,000 for plague, I would draw the attention of the Government to the fact that the people suffering from plague very seldom, if ever, resort to the Allopathic system of treatment, but they do place plague patients under indigenous treatment, and in many cases with success too. We in Bihar are just now in the midst of an outbreak of the epidemic, and I can speak from personal knowledge that one medicine, named 'Tiriyak,' has effected many cures, and what I would suggest with regard to it is that this medicine should be given a fair trial.

"In the course of their speeches during the last year's Budget debate, the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu and my late lamented friend and predecessor, the Hon'ble Babu Saligram Singh, drew the attention of the Government to the grievance of the Sub-Deputy Collectors with regard to their initial pay, considering the fact that these officers exercise the same judicial and executive functions and pass the same departmental examinations as Assistant Magistrates and Deputy Collectors, their initial pay (Rs. 100) appears to be inadequate in these days of high prices and is not sufficient to make the two ends meet and keep up their position. Even Police Inspectors and Deputy Inspectors of Excise are better off than they. The current Civil List shows that there are no less than 78 Sub Deputy-Collectors in the last grade drawing Rs. 100 per mensem, while there are upwards of 40 vacancies in the higher grades. I am decidedly of opinion that the initial pay of Sub-Deputies should not be less than Rs. 150. Referring to this point the Hon'ble Mr. Shirres in his reply last year said that he could not accept the views of the two Hon'ble Members named above, as the number and quality of candidates who now come forward show that the appointment of Sub-Deputy Collector, is an attractive one as it stands. If I were to carry the analogy a little further I could say with equal show of reason that for a less pay candidates of equal or even better qualifications would come forward for appointments for which the Government now pays a higher rate of pay. But that I think is no reply to the contention that the present minimum pay of Sub-Deputy Collectors is inadequate for their needs. And I beg earnestly to invite the attention of the Government to this.

"The current Budget provides for the separation of the Patna Division into two Commissionerships. For sometime past an Additional Commissioner has been posted at Patna, thus showing that one Commissioner is not able to cope with the work, and it is in the ordinary course of things that a separation should be effected. But the public would like to know the details of how this is going to be effected, that is to say, what areas are going to be formed into the different Commissionerships.

"I hope, Sir, that Your Honour's Government will not meet all our demands only 'with the cold water of sympathetic words.' I for one sincerely sympathise with what Your Honour has said at the Supreme Council about the difficulties of the Government in being 'surrounded by open mouths and claimant demands' and not having money to satisfy them. We the non-official members, can only express our sympathy with the Government in their difficulties; for we are precluded from rendering any substantial help in this matter. The late Sir John Woodburn said in 1898: 'And I shall hope that next year we may receive from the non-official Members of this Council those suggestions as to greater economy in administration which we may reasonably hope to receive from them.' But, Sir, from our very position in the Council we are debarred from doing anything which would go to render any such help to the Government as from the above quotation it would seem is expected of us. That degree of confidence which is necessary for the purpose and which the above words imply is not as a matter of fact reposed in us. We are in a hopeless minority and cannot vote for any matter connected with the Budget. We are never asked anything when the estimates are being prepared. The Budget is placed before us cut and dried, and we are asked to carry on a discussion on its merits and our suggestions can at the very best be utilized in the following year's estimate. In managing the finance of our own country we have scarcely any voice; not that Indians are not qualified for this kind of work. What a Todar Mal did for the Moghal Empire, what a Dinkar Rao has done for Baroda or a Madhava Rao for Travancore, another of the same race being given the same opportunities can do for any other Government. But our Government has no place for men like these. While our rulers cannot fathom the mind of native India and perhaps, far less so now than when they remained in India for thirty years without seeing England, the very deepest depths are not unfathomable to those who, in addition to genius, possess a knowledge of the habits and a key to the sympathies of the people."

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU said:—"May it please Your Honour—It is with a feeling akin to a sense of personal loss that I rise to speak in Your Honour's Council on the occasion of the budget debate. Apart from the hollowness of such debates which, in the absence of any power in the Members to move amendments, tend to degenerate into mere academic discussions, there is an air of unreality and incongruity which cannot fail to strike even the most casual observer: of the ten non-official Members, 2 gentlemen represent Divisions which have ceased to belong to Your Honour's Province. Much has happened since the Hon'ble Members were elected to this Council: much water has run down the Hooghly, and the Province has lost its premier position in all India. Events have followed each other in quick succession, like the changing views of the kaleidoscope, sometimes dramatic, more often melo-dramatic, but ways tragic, to us the people. So far as the new Province has had its share, and there is no denying that it has had the largest share in these performances, my hon'ble friends have had to possess their souls in patience. They are like an ancient King of India hung up between the earth and the sky. In Your Honour's Council, they belong neither to the east nor to the west. They may have their seats, but in what capacity it would be difficult to determine even for medieval scholastics.

"For though they sit here still, they are like disembodied spirits hovering round the scenes of their ancient exploits, they may beckon and more than this against accepted precedents in ghostology, they may even speak except on matters which concern them. Such is the Council and the surroundings in which we have such to offer our criticisms on the budget, and Your Honour will pardon us if there is a ring of the unreal on the note of our discussions.

"Sir, coming to the budget itself, we must in the first place thank the Government of India and congratulate ourselves on the liberal spirit in which it has revised the financial settlement between the two Governments. There are people who think that it was the duty of the Government to help us out of the financial muddle into which the policy of partition has thrown us; and, in allotting to us a larger share in our revenues, it has done what was its plain and evident duty, if so much as that. No doubt this is so, but we, in India, generally know only of the muddle, and it is a real pleasure, because we hardly expected to see the helping hand stretched out. We are truly grateful to the Hon'ble, the Finance Member, for the generous way in which he has come to our rescue, and, though far removed from them, the Hon'ble Mr. Baker has not forgotten the people of Bengal, who have such good cause to remember him with feelings of esteem and pleasure and who hope to welcome him at no distant day in a more distinguished position than that which he now occupies.

"Sir, I have the honour to represent, however unworthily, the interests of education in Your Honour's Council, and I cannot pass over the great injustice which has been done to the members of the education service in the recent appointment of the Director of Public Instruction. I do not discuss and must not be understood as raising the question on its personal aspects. I have had the privilege of being associated in this Council with the present incumbent of that high office. None who have come across Mr. Earle will for a moment doubt that he will bring to the discharge of the duties of his high office a long and varied experience and a ready resourcefulness in tackling with the many difficult problems of administration which must await him in his new department, and above all his large-hearted sympathy which will attract to him the willing loyalty and allegiance of his subordinates. Individually and apart from the claims of the Education Service and certain other consideration to which I shall presently refer, no choice could have been happier. But, Sir, while fully acknowledging the great qualities of the head and heart which Mr. Earle is in that it overrides the just claims of the Education Department, subordinates that department to the political sway of the State. Members of the Education Service, men possessing high academic qualifications, who have made education their sole and special business in life and dealt with generations of Indian youths, are to make way for men who may come into the work more or less as amateurs, and stay for a few short years, if so long as that, and then pass on to other spheres. The appointment casts a slur upon the Education Service, that it has not been able to produce an officer fitted to discharge the duties of the office, and it deprives them of a prize post, which not unoften marks the fitting close of an honourable career. It lowers the prestige of the service, makes it less attractive to the brilliant and ambitious young men of Oxford and Cambridge, and if it chills the ardour, as it must of those who year in and year out have to bear the heat and the burden of the day, and deters deserving men from entering the service, it will have done an incalculable amount of mischief to the cause of education in Bengal. Sir, there is another aspect of the question which I should also humbly ask Your Honour not to overlook. It has been my good fortune to be associated with many distinguished graduates of the British Universities employed in the work of education in this country. Their sole aim has been undeterred by any political question, the spread and advancement of knowledge and education. To them the possibility of their being a large number of educated Indians, even of failed B.A.'s, was never a moving spectre, and in the republic of letters which they established in India they recognised no distinction of colour or creed. This until recent times had been the tradition of the Education Department. True it is that for some time past the Education Department was lapsing from its old ideals, and the scheme of the Indian and the Provincial Services inaugurated in 1896 introduced the boundary line of colour in the field of knowledge.

"Sir, the people looked with the gravest apprehensions on the Indian Universities Act. They found that the Universities were being officialised, and not education but secular policy was the moving principle of the new legislation, not the advancement but the repression of the legitimate aspirations of the people, and this last appointment putting the direction of education of the Province in the hands of a non-educational officer tends to confirm the fears and suspicions of the people. Sir, I was just referring to the introduction of the element of colour in the educational service of the country. Since the division of the service into the branches, the Indian and the Provincial, only two gentlemen have been able to get admission into the higher service: of one of them, Dr. J. C. Bose, any country would be proud, and not even in India could he be kept in the lower service. I shall not go into personal matters, but I shall refer to a few instances by way of illustration. There is no abler chemist in the whole service than the discoverer of the nitrites of mercury and the histories of the Hindu system of chemistry: after 17 years of toil in the lower grades of the Provincial service, he has been lucky enough to be posted in class I of that service, but even he has failed to get across the barrier that reserves the Indian Educational Service practically to non-Indians. Distinguished Indian graduates of the Universities of England and Scotland are vegetating on Rs. 200 or 250 a month, and it will be many years before they are able to earn a decent livelihood. Take the case of Mr. Nogensdra Chundra Mitra, M.A. (Cantab.), who entered the service on Rs. 200 a month, and I believe is still there, while Englishmen with lower qualifications and a lesser number of years of service have got beyond him. Many other names occur to me: that distinguished biologist Mr. Mahalanobis after nine years of study in Edinburgh was lucky enough to enter the service on Rs. 250 a month: the poet and literateur Mr. Monomohan Ghose, where is he? He and others like him, the finest products of the Indian and English Universities, are content to see inferior men posted above them. This is not the way to attract to the service the best and highest amongst the Indian youths: naturally they turn to the fascinating domain of law: what if the burning sands kill many a weary traveller, he lives on the mirage of better things ahead, and may be he has the endurance to reach the oasis: but the prize is worth fighting for: it is better to sink struggling to reach a higher goal than lie buried in the lower strata of the Educational Service with no hope of deliverance. Our best graduates from the English Universities are avoiding the Education Service and taking to other pursuits. I appeal to you, Sir, with confidence, as a University man yourself, to come to the rescue of these deserving men. Let them not turn away in disgust and despair from the doors of their own mother-University. It will not be good to them or to the country. Sir, if the lot of these Indian graduates of the English Universities is hard, the lot of our own University men is, if possible, harder: under the old régime, the Education Department refused to be governed by the law of supply and demand: but the late Director of Public Instruction saw that there were many hundreds of graduates living on the border land of stravation, and, if cheap education was nasty, cheap graduates were useful.

"Sir, if the Government wants to attract to its Education Department young men of talent and promise, it must place the service on the same footing as its executive branches, Subordinate and Provincial. It is curious while the Government holds out no inducement to talent to join the ranks of the Education Service, it should lament the decay of educational standards in the country and have recourse to legislation to achieve what can only be done by substantial improvements in the pay and prospects of its officers engaged in the work of education. For if Government once leads the way, private institutions will follow and educational standards will rise automatically all through the country.

"Sir, we are waiting with no small degree of solicitude for the publication of the reorganization scheme of the Subordinate Educational Service. I understand that the scheme is ready, and details have nearly been worked out. May we appeal to Your Honour to see that the scheme is published without delay, and may we have Your Honour's assurance that it will have retrospective effect from September last, when the scheme received the sanction of the Supreme Government. Sir, I have taken the liberty to express pity for the position of my unfortunate colleagues whose constituencies no longer concern Your Honour's Council. I am afraid I must bestow some amount of that pity on myself, as the interests I have the honour and privilege to represent in Your Honour's Council affect the two Provinces equally. Without any offence to the new Government, I may be permitted to hope that the scheme will have operation in the old as well as the new Provinces and in the distribution of favours; the Education Department, notwithstanding its many sins of omission and commission, will not be looked upon as a discarded wife in the new Province.

"I have to congratulate Your Honour's Government on the increased grant on education; it has risen from 29 lakhs in 1903-1904 to 41 lakhs in the present budget, out of the Provincial Funds. No relief will be more welcome than the provision of Rs. 80,000 for hostels for private colleges. The rules which the University is framing regarding hostels would be utterly frustrated, unless Government came to the rescue of the hard pressed private colleges. There is another direction in which private colleges may be helped, viz., in the matter of house rent and equipments for proper libraries and laboratories. For want of available houses, the rent charged for the few houses which are suitable is excessive. In one instance it was found to be 9 per cent. by the inspecting committee appointed by the University. The unaided private colleges lead a financially precarious existence, and I believe they would welcome and accept any help given to them under reasonable conditions.

"Sir, I welcome the grant for the weaving school at Serampore. The Government has wisely decided to establish the school at Serampore, the home of a very large weaving population. With the death of the indigenous industries of India, owing to foreign competition and probably more to unfair and repressive legislation, the heaviest blow has fallen on the weaving community of Bengal. Eminent experts have given as their opinion that the hand-loom of India, with the necessary improvements, would still be able to hold their ground against the power-loom of Europe: whether this opinion may be correct or not, it is worthwhile to try the experiment, and Your Honour's Government is entitled to the gratitude of the whole country for the measure that it proposes to take to save the weaving industry of Bengal from utter extinction.

"Sir, there have been rumours that the provision for a chair in Sanskrit for the Presidency College is meant for a European. The experiment of a European Professor in Sanskrit has been tried elsewhere, but not without success. Students of Sanskrit brought up under the European system of education will be able to do much greater justice to the post than a Professor from Europe, whose knowledge of the language and the requirements of the Indian youth must necessarily be limited. Well may the facetious exclaim that the next step would be to import our Priests and Pujaries from Europe. It is no doubt a desirable thing to encourage Sanskrit amongst Englishmen whose work may lie in India, but what if all the prizes and scholarships which Government awards to its officers has failed to do, a single chair on Rs. 500 a month will not achieve.

"Sir, while on the subject of education, I shall devote a little time to its most important branch, the primary education of the agricultural and industrial populations of Bengal. It is to be noticed that, while the number of these institutions was steadily rising, they fell off in number in 1904-1905 from 49,093 to 48,176 or by 1·8 per cent, and their attendance from 1,391,997 to 1,356,773 or by 2·5 per cent. Various causes have been suggested: the Inspector of Schools in some of the Bihar districts suggested plague and the abolition of public examinations. In Burdwan, Birbhum and Bankura the decrease was attributed to failure of crops: in Midnapur and Noakhali it was attributed to the disappearance of mushroom institutions which unlike mushrooms did not show any signs of growing again, while the Rajshahi and Dacca Divisions are wisely silent as to the cause. There was no plague in Eastern, Northern and Southern Bengal, and the scarcity in Birbhum and Bankura was hardly felt. The reasons for an universal decrease all over Bengal, including Bihar and the several districts, should have been carefully investigated, and, if the decrease still continues, Government should lose no time in instituting a searching inquiry. The Inspector of only one Division, namely the Chittagong Division, ventured to suggest what seems to me to be the real reason, viz., 'the recent changes introduced in the educational system,' a reason which the late Director of Public Instruction dismissed from his mind by observing that the change had been introduced all over the Province, forgetting that there was a decrease in numbers also all over the Province. The decrease was specially noticeable in the case of Muhammadan children: they fell off from 546,783 to 529,825 or by 3·1 per cent. To any one who has perused the publications which do service for primary education, it is a matter of wonder that primary education has survived the scientific fad of the late Director. The books are curious specimens of the vernacular languages, translations of some standardized English text, and containing condensed accounts of all the sciences known to modern man. I have seen teachers and the taught puzzling themselves over the truth of biology, physiology botany, zoology, geology, physics and chemistry, and ultimately agreeing that the best course for the pupil is to commit the pages of the quaintly written books to memory. This has meant a great waste of the nation's time, life and energy. The whole subject of primary education in Bengal needs overhauling, and that none too soon.

"Sir, while dealing with the question of primary education, I wish to draw Your Honour's special attention to the case of the indigent pupils, Hindu and Mussalman. The number of indigent Hindu children decreased from 62,482 to 54,745, and of Muhammadans from 39,840 to 35,750.

"Sir, I have taken the liberty on previous occasions to call the attention of Your Honour's Government to the very small outlay which the State makes in the matter of primary education for boys. Out of a total expenditure of Rs. 34,79,000 (I am taking the figures in round numbers of 1904-1905 for the Province of Bengal as it then existed), the Provincial funds only contribute Rs. 1,80,000, the District Boards and Municipalities Rs. 9,76,000, while the poor pupils coming from the poorest classes of the people contribute Rs. 19,00,000 in fees alone, the rest being practically met from private sources, the amount of such contribution being over 4 lakhs as against the Rs. 1,80,000 of Provincial contribution. I am sure your Honour's Government will not defend this state of things. While European countries, Canada and the United States of America and even the small States in South America, have made primary education free, we contribute only $\frac{1}{16}$ th of the total cost of primary education and levy nearly 60 per cent. from fees. Sir, the greatest boon that England has conferred on India is the introduction of western methods of learning through the medium of the English languages. The dead bones in the valley are beginning to be instinct with life. But even greater than this, greater than all, that England has done for us, would be giving free primary education to the masses.

The experiment is well worth trying, and may be tried from rural tracts.

"Sir, before I leave the subject of education, I think it my duty to call attention to the circular lately issued by the Director of Public Instruction placing the control of the education of the country practically in the hands of the District Magistrates. Anywhere else, the District Magistrate, if such a personage existed, would be glad to be relieved of a part of his multifarious duties, but here in India things are otherwise: no powers are too great or too many for him. Why should the control of the education of the people be vested in an official who, whatever may be the notions of the Government, is looked upon in the mufassal as the head of the police and its mouth-piece. Under the present centralized form of Government, very few measures of beneficence emanate from the District Magistrate. He is so closely connected with the police, the feelings with regard to whom in the country are so well known that they need not be described, that all the aversion which attaches to the police is unfortunately associated with the District Magistrate, because the Government will not dissociate him from the police. The Magistrate will look upon education as part of his police work, for of what other use can the Magistrate be to the department which is managed directly by the educational authorities? And the Magistrate will naturally rely upon the District Superintendent of Police who will receive his inspiration from the Daroga: the result will be that the ill-paid half-starved and miserable class of men, teachers in our primary schools, will tremble before the Head-constable, and even the teachers in the secondary schools will be in fear of the Daroga. If it is sought to degrade education, lower its prestige in the eyes of the public, nothing would serve the purpose better: but if it is meant, as is apparent notwithstanding the too thin veneer of sophistry that overlies the circular, to bring the schools and their teachers under the disciplinary control of the Magistrate, if it is meant to meet the English Judge yet unsophisticated by a too close association with what is known as Anglo-Indianism, who expressed his surprise that Magistrates had without any authority fined school-boys as a disciplinary measure and had ordered the fines to be levied as if they were convicted criminals, if it is meant, as it seems to be, to get round the law and legal safeguards by indirectly investing Magistrates with the power of punishing boys against the wishes of their teachers, it will defeat its object. I have already shown what a small fraction of the cost of primary education is borne by the State, and how large a part is borne by the pupils themselves, who contribute nearly 11 times the Government expenditure, and that the contribution from private sources is more than double the Government grant. Without taking into calculation the District Board grant, which is five times as much as the Government gives and which is to some extent subject to Government control, it may be safely predicted that, if the people feel that their little ones will be subject to police control, and may be publicly flogged, as they have been at the instance of Magistrates through their own teachers, the people will take the education of their children in the primary stages at least entirely in their own hands. This attitude of the people towards the Government would be a matter sincerely to be deplored, and no one who wishes well to the Government and the people can look on unconcerned. I remember in the past, while I was a student myself in the Presidency College, our then Principal, Mr. Sutcliffe, whom his students loved with the intensity of filial devotion, strongly resenting police interference with his students in the case of a row which occurred in College Square: he brought back the students within the college compound, shut the gates in the face of the police, and told them that whatever were the faults of his boys, which were merely the freaks of youth, he would sooner stand in the dock than see his students there. We heard no more of the police, there were no more rows in College Square, and long afterwards, when Mr. Sutcliffe as Director of Public Instruction was retiring from service and came to his favourite college to bid his old boys - - - bye, we advanced students, grown up men, wept like little children parting from their mother. Your Honour will pardon me if I have dwelt at length on this incident. To me and to all interested in the cause of education it is a matter of the deepest regret that the spirit which animated the pioneers of education in this country, Hare and Cowell, Sutcliffe and Woodrow, has departed from the ranks of our educationists. Instead of love and sympathy and guidance, we have thrown at the heads of hapless students showers of circulars fulminating all sorts of pains and penalties; instead of the stand which used to be made in olden days by the authorities of the Education Department against interference by the executive authorities, we have the amazing spectacle of the Head of the Education Department surrendering his functions and authority to the Magistrate and the Police, and not unnaturally we find to-day at the head of the Education Department a high executive officer of Government. The members of the Education Department have complained, but is not a just nemesis overtaking those who have tried to play the rule of small executive officers themselves? Even in your Province, Sir, where the time of Sayesta Khan are not sought to be renewed, things have come to a bad pass indeed. These circulars have meant the end of all authority of all discipline. There is so little of touch between the student community and the members of the education service, so little of trust, so little of sympathy, and so little of mutual understanding, that not a few of us, who as students had participated in the wild enthusiasm of the reception given to our gracious King when he came to the Senate House to accept the degree of D. C. L. conferred on him by the Calcutta University, were pained beyond measure to see the College Square and all its avenues guarded by the police against the Indian students, and the Indian people on the occasion of the visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to the Senate House, and the whole place wearing the silent and desolate aspect of an African desert. Good God! Guarding the grandson of our beloved Queen, whose memory still lingers in the minds of her Indian subjects and is cherished with reverence and affection? Guarding the son of our King and our future Sovereign against the Indian students? Could ignorance and inaptitude go further? Sir, will it be too much to hope, too much to pray, for the restoration of the old relations in the dealing of the Government with our student population?

"Sir, if I have ventured to detain the Council at some length on questions connected with the education of the country, their great importance is my only justification.

"If I have complained of the poor prospects of the Subordinate Educational Service, I may as justly complain of the position of the Sub-Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Magistrates of the 5th grade. They discharge the same judicial and executive function as Deputy Magistrates and Collectors, and pass the same departmental examinations. Their qualifications are practically the same, and their duties quite as responsible: it is neither safe to themselves nor to the State to keep them on the small monthly pay of Rs. 100 with no travelling allowance up to 15 miles; it is hardly a decent subsistence allowance. Even Inspectors of Police and Excise who prosecute criminal cases before them draw higher pay. This state of things should not be allowed to exist, and I appeal with some degree of confidence to your Honour to see it mended.

"I had hoped, Sir, that it would not be necessary for me to refer to this subject. The absence of my Honourable friend Babu Nolin Behari Sircar, which we all regret, leaves me no option. I shall say nothing of the discontinuous and, I believe, discontinued system of the so-called continuous water-supply, though the statutory period within which the system was to have been brought into operation has elapsed. Of the northern portion of the City, I shall say nothing of its lighting which serves only to make the darkness visible, of its neglected though slightly improving conservancy, of the state of its roads to which we have reconciled ourselves as the best tonic for a dyspeptic liver. But, Sir, I shall speak of subjects which ought to have secured greater attention. It is now nearly 18 years since the suburbs were amalgamated with the town: but the suburban drainage is not yet complete. I believe nearly 78 lakhs have been spent on this work. I was one of those who had ventured long ago in the days of the old Corporation to raise their voice against the system as it was then being carried out against the views of experts from home. Competent critics say that the suburban drainage may have to be done over again. Whatever that may be, the inconveniences of the residents of the southern [redacted] are nothing compared to the unhappy dwellers in the eastern [redacted] known as the canal or fringe area. That area lies like a basin between two high roads, the Circular Road on the west and the Canal Road on the east. During the rains it presents the appearance of an inland sea, and after the rains the unrelenting hand of death levies its heavy toll for the neglect of man. On the amalgamation of this area with the town 18 years ago, the first thing that was done was to close the old Mahratta ditch which used to serve as the waterway of the area, without providing for any means of escape for the rain-water or the drainage. I am told that it will take many years yet to improve the conditions of this area: if so, is it not fair and just that these people should not be made to pay the same rate as their more fortunate brethren in the City? If there was a case for a lower percentage of assessment, the canal area has the best claim on the attention of the Chairman, and I trust the Hon'ble Mr. Allen will be pleased to consider this aspect of the position of the poor and suffering rate-payers of the canal area.

"Sir, the special Committee of the Corporation which sat to review its administration has recommended the reconsideration of the provisions regarding assessment. The different methods of assessment of residential and rented houses have never been defended, for they are not defensible. The late Sir Henry Harrison introduced the differential treatment, because the method pursued by his assessor in the case of a palatial residence in the City was condemned by the High Court, and nothing is easier in this country than for the executive to get a law passed to suit their views. Once a wrong has been committed, it is difficult to undo it, but there is no reason that it should be perpetuated. The law has been in force sufficiently long to show the unfairness of the incidence of taxation on the residential house-owner, and I am quite sure your Honour's Government will not allow the system to continue if your Honour is satisfied as to its injustice."

"Sir, in connection with the assessment of the town, your Honour's Government has been pleased, in reviewing the administration report of the Corporation, that the results of appeals to the Courts would seem to show that the assessments were equitable. Your Honour is probably not aware of the difficulties of a recourse to the Courts of Law. In the first place a heavy Court fee has to be paid on the off chance of success. Assessment appeals were formerly heard by a Bench of Commissioners where parties could and did appear in person. In 1888, these appeals were transferred to the Small Cause Courts, but no fees were levied until the introduction of the present Act, with the result that appeals have been discouraged. In a Court of Law parties have to engage lawyers who are not generally known to work for love, and expert and necessarily expensive evidence has to be called to meet the case of the Corporation who have their own highly paid experts. The result is a virtual denial of justice to the poorer rate-payers who have to spend their own money to fight the Corporation who employ public funds. If recourse to the Courts is inevitable, may I appeal to your Honour to restore the old system under which these appeals were exempted from Court fees. This is a matter which your Honour can dispose of without the appointment of a Commission of enquiry suggested by the Committee of the Corporation. Your Honour, while assessments are being rigorously increased, the Municipal expenditure is also increasing. The resolution of your Honour's Government says that in the last four years it has gone up by 22 per cent., by which I believe it has increased by 5 lakhs of rupees a year. We have district offices with separate staff. a miniature reproduction of the executive heads, with a miniature Corporation in their advisory Committees: we have Municipal officers having quarters which would be the envy of many members of your Honour's service for nominal rents, I believe, at 5 per cent. of their salary, with I am told a free use of lights and fans. We have a multiplicity of supervising staff with not very apparent improvement in the results. I am reminded of an old story which may not be known to your Honour:—"An ancient King had a favourite elephant which he used to feed on milk. The King observed with concern that his favourite was showing signs of diminution in bulk: he appointed an orderly over the muhout to superintend the feeding of the elephant. This did not improve matters, and he appointed a superior officer, but the elephant was pining away. The King went himself to see the animal take its feed, and to his astonishment he found lobsters floating in the milk: he inquired of the mahout and threatened to put a high officer of State to supervise the feeding of the animal. The poor mahout with folded hands said: My Lord, when I was feeding the elephant, there was only a little water in the milk; when the orderly came, there were shells and crabs: with the advent of the officer, your Majesty is seeing the lobsters, and if a still higher officer of State is appointed, crocodiles will be found floating in the milk to the great prejudice of the elephant. The astonished King asked the mahout to explain. The mahout all trembling said: 'When I was feeding the elephant, I used to take a little water from my pot and that was enough for me: to satisfy the orderly I brought water from the reservoir where there are crabs and shells, and to meet the wishes of the officer I have to fetch water from the tank where there are lobsters, and if your Majesty places a higher officer over us all, I must go to the river, which is infested with crocodiles.' His Majesty grew wise and desisted from further interference."

"I am afraid much of what is spent on the establishment might be spent on the City itself. Crocodiles certainly are not floating in the streets of Calcutta; but, after a heavy shower, they would be a welcome diversion in the flooded streets, and they may be found if searched for during the rains in the canal area. Sir, in making the above observation, I make no imputation against any official in the Corporation; I only quote the story as showing that mere addition to the staff without careful supervision does not always mean increased efficiency. Sir, now that I am in the subject of the Corporation of Calcutta, with your Honour's leave I venture to approach a subject where I feel I am treading on delicate ground. There have been three elections since the new Act has been in force. At the first election, Commissioners were appointed to represent wards in which they did not live: in some cases they did not live in Calcutta at all, except casually. This admirable arrangement was of course the work of the Government. Two elections have since followed: the public have taken no interest: the electors have not entered their names as voters and have not cared who stood as candidates: some good men have come in no doubt, men who have done good service in the past and whose presence is a guarantee of honest work: but on the whole it is no use disguising the fact that the elections have been a failure. I might easily give figures to show the decreasing interest of people in Municipal matters, but I will not tire the patience of the Council. The history of the present Municipal law is too recent to bear repetition; but there was one feature of it which may be briefly referred to. Two of your Honour's predecessors gave us the solemn assurance that the representation of the City would not be diminished, that the sacred principle of Self-Government would be maintained. The Bill was drafted on these lines; but there was an evident anomaly in the Executive Committee of the Corporation known as its General Committee which was made an independent authority. Fifty elected Commissioners were to elect 4 members in this Committee, and the Government and the other nominated members, whose total strength was 25, were to elect the remaining 8 members. There was a universal protest against this arrangement. The Government of India saw the justice of the protest. A despatch came down from the far off heights of Simla over your Honour's signature, as Home Secretary admitting the justice of the protest and recommending that to remove the anomaly the elected Commissioners should be reduced to 25, and so it was done: but the anomaly remains only in diminished proportions: 25 elected Commissioners elect 4 members of the Executive Committee and the Government and the other members elect 8, out of a body of 12. Sir, there is a story in our country that a great Badshah had a big retainer who used to find it inconvenient to pass through the low doors of his master's palace: the retainer complained, and his master saw the justice of his grievance; but to alter the doors meant much trouble, so he ordered the retainer's head to be cut off so that his height might be lessened, but the poor retainer did not survive the operation. The cutting down of the elected Commissioners made some approach, though a very distant one, towards an adjustment, but Local Self-Government was killed. We are prepared to believe that the whole thing was based upon a misapprehension. We fully believe that unwillingly your Honour's name has been associated with the perpetration of a great wrong to the residents of this City. May it be associated with the righting of that wrong.

"Sir, my observations have been growing to unusual length, and many important matters I cannot touch. There are one or two things to which I should like to call your Honour's attention before I close. One of them is closely connected with the health of the City and the sentiment of the people, the discharge with the river of the waste products of the septic tanks. As this is a matter of great importance, your Honour will excuse me if I go with the question a little more fully than one would care to do towards the end of an address. I quote the observations of Dr. Cook, our Health Officer:—

'I cannot avoid the conclusion that the discharge of septic tank effluents into a river used for the drinking water-supply of a City is a danger to the health of that City. There is no getting over the fact that intestinal bacteria capable of producing disease can survive the septic process of purification and live for perhaps a fortnight or so in the water of a river. The logical conclusion is that in order to ensure safety the effluents should be sterilised or diverted into some other channel.'

I also quote from the report of the Special Committee:—

'Dr. Hauston has shown that effluents of this kind, otherwise unobjectionable, contain large number of living pathogenic organisms, such as streptococci, B. Pyocyaneus, B. Euteritidis sporegenes, and some others. He remarks that if streptococci can resist the biological process, there is small ground for the belief that other germs of a dangerous sort, e.g., the typhoid bacillus will be destroyed. He considers that the effluents from the bacteria beds ought to be regarded as hardly, if at all, more safe in their possible relation to disease than the raw sewage before treatment. A similar opinion has also been expressed by the Royal Commission on the disposal of sewage.'

"On these reports the Government resolution, I must confess, is disappointing. The Government has withdrawn its objection to the installation of these tanks if arrangements are made to try at the effluents with chlorinated lime in the manner proposed by the Sanitary Commissioner, and the Government has suggested that if our installation proves a nuisance, action may be taken under Rule 10 of the rules under the Indian Factories Act or under the Indian Penal Code. It is possible, however, that before action is taken, incalculable mischief may have been done in the pollution of the drinking-water of Calcutta and Howrah. I would respectfully submit that no installations of septic tanks near the Howrah and Calcutta water-supply intakes should be allowed without a special report of the Sanitary Commissioner and of the Health Officer of the Corporation. Sir, it was suggested that the effluents before being allowed to fall into the river should be utilised in the boilers: would not this be a much safer method of dealing with the sewage than chlorination. If there is any objection to this method of treatment, would it not be possible to put the mill-owners to a little expenditure of coal to evaporate the effluents? The health of the city for which the Government is prepared to undertake such heavy expense surely requires to be protected from the insidious danger lurking in these effluents. In a matter of such vital importance the ancient law-giver, Manu, takes a more determined attitude than the scientists of to-day. 'No one shall throw urine, ordure or sputum into water.' I trust Your Honour's Government will be as firm as this ancient dictum lays down.

"Sir, I have dwelt on many topics and ventured to make several suggestions. People will smile at my audacity. There is a widespread feeling in which I share, until recently, that our observations pass away like the breath of the wind; but, Sir, my experience of your Honour's treatment of these matters has been entirely different, and has been to me an agreeable surprise. Many suggestions which we non-official members of your Honour's Council have ventured to make have received careful consideration, and some of them have been adopted. The suggestion of my friend the Hon'ble Raja Bun Bihari Kapoor to add family quarters for paying Indian patients to the Calcutta Medical College Hospital has been accepted, and we are all grateful to your Honour for the carrying out of my Honourable friend's suggestion.

"We see in this year's budget provision for dredging operations in rivers which are being silted up. I presumed to suggest to your Honour in my budget speech last year to visit the Arambagh subdivision and see for yourself the havoc created by the Damodar at the Begna breach. Your Honour has been graciously pleased to inspect the place, though I would respectfully press upon Your Honour, or during your Honour's absence on the Honourable Mr. Hare, to make a monsoon tour and see the widespread desolation brought about by the floods of the Damodar pouring in through the Begua breach. And, lastly, to me it is a matter of great satisfaction that your Honour had lately appointed a small Committee to consider the drainage scheme in the Presidency Division in connection with the prevalence of malaria, a Committee the appointment of which I had taken the liberty to press on your Honour's attention: might I suggest that an Indian gentleman possessing expert knowledge may be associated with the Committee? The name of Colonel K. P. Gupta who held the high office of a Sanitary Commissioner under Government comes to my mind, and I believe, health permitting, he will be glad to help the Committee.

"Sir, many other matters I should have wished to place before your Honour to-day, but it is not possible to do so in the course of a single debate. There is one matter, however, to which I shall make a passing reference, namely, the contraction and withdrawal of gun-license. In reply to a question put in this Council it was said, I believe, that the growth of population was a sufficient answer to the theory of ravages by wild animals. I believe the Hon'ble Member who framed the answer is aware that the primitive man with his rude implements survived the ravages of the paleozoic mammoths. I may remind the Honourable Member that the number of human beings killed in Bengal by wild animals from 1879 to 1903 amounted to the decent figure of 37,576, and the number of cattle killed to 547,836. These are losses which a judicious distribution of fire-arms may have prevented.

"Sir, we have passed through a year of great stress and strain. A crisis has come in our national existence and he who holds the future in the hollow of his hand can alone say how we shall emerge from it. There has been a perceptible and wide breach between the rulers and the ruled.

"Sir, we have passed through a period of stress and strain. A crisis has come in our national existence, and he who holds the future in the hollow of his hand can alone say how we shall emerge from it. There has been a perceptible and wide breach between the rulers and the ruled, and distrust and want of mutual understanding. The partition of Bengal has agitated the people in a way in which no other measure of Government, since British rule began in this country, has done. Our regret is that the officials on the spot failed to see this; they attributed the whole agitation to wire-pulling from Calcutta, and they were careful to say so in their public utterances. It shows the absolute want of touch that now exists between the people and their ruler; it shows that police reports upon which Government relies, it shows that reports made by people who have the ear of Government, are absolutely misleading, even on matters which lie on the surface. Sir, if the Bengali people are aggrieved at the partition of their Province, they are still more aggrieved at the manner in which it was carried out. An un-British secrecy, an un-British evasion, characterised the procedure followed by Government. No information was vouchsafed either in this or the Supreme Council, and, though fuller information was promised to Parliament, the measure was carried when no Parliament was sitting. Sir, the ex-Viceroy of India has made a public grievance that the control and authority of Parliament were evaded on the question of the appointment of the Supply Member in the executive Council of the Governor-General. The appointment of the Supply Member is a matter of small concern to us, the people of India, but may we not ask, how was the authority of Parliament borne in mind by the Government of India on the far more important question which affected nearly 80 millions of His Majesty's subjects in India: but all that is by the way. The highest authority in the Government of India now admits, notwithstanding local protestations to the contrary, that the agitation is not artificial, but real. But also no remedy is forthcoming, no hope held out after seven years of strenuous life. India is asked to pause and to rest. After seven years of reactionary policy to rest at the hollow of the wave is all the assurance we have got. That is not the way, if I may be permitted to say so, to win back the affections of an estranged and bleeding people. Painted elephants and flying penons and sonorous emptinesses no more appeal to the East than to the West. The late Viceroyalty has tried these methods and signally failed. We cannot rest; we shall not rest until England sees the great wrong that her pro-Consuls have done us, until we have succeeded in arousing the conscience of England to a recognition of our grievances, and then I believe the issue is certain. Sir, there can be no question that the partition of Bengal and the methods by which it was achieved have shaken the confidence of the people in the good faith of the rulers. To you and to us it is a great loss, the waning belief in that noble trait which has been the characteristic of Englishmen in the past, their sense of fair policy. It has never been the practice of our rulers to keep people in the dark, to deal a blow from behind; and it was not till the partition was an accomplished fact that millions of people in the Rajshahi Division knew that they had been severed from Bengal and transferred to Assam. Sir, all the pageantry that an exuberant imagination could suggest has been tried to win the allegiance of a subject people: all the terrors which absolute power can invoke in its aid have been tried, the quartering of Gurkha soldiers and punitive police, the jails and flogging, belt and baton, have all had their part. But a frank and generous recognition of the outrage done to the sentiment of the people, to their most cherished feelings, has not yet been tried. For if that is done, much would lie therein. Would it be a vain hope, a far cry in the wilderness, to make the appeal to our rulers? For your sake and ours, I hope not. Of pomp and pageantry, of smooth words and phrases, we have had enough. Is there no statesman among our rulers who sees the real situation, who can rise above the common places of the Anglo-Indian Code of Government, who is prepared to do something to strike the imagination of an eastern race and win their affection, and who can lay the foundations of a rule with which will be bound the hopes and aspirations of the Indian people, and around which then will be gathered together as round a national standard the Princes and people of India? That there may be, is our earnest hope. That there must be, is our sincere conviction."

The Hon'ble MR. NIMMO said:—"Your Honour,—The Budget before the Council to-day is, I am sure, Sir, regarded by all of us as eminently a prosperity Budget, for not only does it show an expanding revenue, but it records an altogether advantageous new settlement with the Government of India. I am therefore disposed to regard it as a subject for congratulation rather than for criticism. At the same time the present occasion affords a convenient opportunity for bringing important matters to the notice of Government; and it is, I imagine, inevitable that the question of the division of the Province should be prominent in this debate. My own feeling on that vexed question is that for practical men the time for discussion has gone by. Whether we favour partition or object to it, we should now accept it as an accomplished fact. Whatever may be the force of the objections which have been urged against it, the establishment of the new Government seems to be making and will I firmly believe continue to make, for the material welfare of Eastern Bengal and Assam. We see that there is already an awakening of commercial activity in the Province. Schemes for extending and improving its railways are being promoted; mercantile organizations are being formed; and a spirit of trade rivalry with Bengal proper is being exhibited. And what is more, the new Government is evincing a manifest desire to foster and develop the resources of the territories under its jurisdiction. I am not one of those, Sir, who fear that this activity, this aggressive spirit, if I may so call it, will tend to the disadvantage of Bengal or of Calcutta. On the contrary, I believe that it will help us forward to greater prosperity. But we must be no less active. Our resources stand just as much in need of development; and our Government will require to be just as energetic and just as keen as the Government of the sister Province. The statement which we are discussing to-day affords to my mind tangible evidence that the Government of Bengal is not likely to be found wanting in this respect. But I know Sir that you welcome suggestions from the unofficial Members of this Council; and I do not hesitate therefore to put forward certain points which have occurred to me on reading the statement.

"I observe, Sir, that according to the revised estimates for the year which has just closed, a large increase in the receipts from the Hooghly pilotage service is expected. This anticipation may be and probably will be realised, for the tonnage coming to the port is undoubtedly increasing. But I cannot help inclining to the view that we are sometimes apt to take it too much as a matter of course that this development of trade will continue. It is true that in the past we have witnessed a rapid and a continuous expansion, in spite of obstacles and hindrances. But it seems to me that in the future the expansion may not be either so rapid or so continuous unless we make serious efforts to foster and conserve trade. I notice with pleasure the bold way in which the task of extending and perfecting the facilities of the port is being approached by the Calcutta Port Commissioners; and it is most satisfactory to see that the Government of India are interesting themselves in this question. But the large and costly works which will be necessary will involve the port in very heavy expenditure. I do not object to that. We must be able to handle our traffic efficiently and expeditiously. But we must also keep an eye on the revenue side of the account, and not concentrate our attention too exclusively on the expenditure side. And what I would ask is, are we doing all that we ought to do in this direction—I mean in the direction of increasing our trade so as to enable us to provide this money? I am afraid we are not. In order to bring more trade to the port the first and most essential thing is to cheapen transport. We want the very cheapest transport that we can get. We want to be able to land our staples in Calcutta at the lowest possible cost; and to do that we must perfect our communications. For this reason I am glad to see that the Province will soon be provided with a dredger worthy of the name, which will be used of course on our navigable waterways. It has certainly not been obtained before it was wanted; and I trust that its purchase will be but the prelude to those really comprehensive measures, which have been so long delayed, for the improvement of our rivers and canals. There is no necessity for me to mention in detail the great inland navigation schemes which are awaiting attention. But they are all projects either for providing new, or for improving existing, trade routes. I am no enemy of railways: on the contrary, I am a convinced believer in their extension and development. But because we have built ourselves railways, we must not neglect our magnificent rivers, which are nature's gift to Bengal. Navigable waterways, worked in conjunction with an efficient railway system, will give us the cheap transport which we need; and inland navigation should for that reason be encouraged and fostered. We know what other countries are doing, and we now see that a Royal Commission has been appointed to look into the subject at home. If the advantages of water transport are thus coming to be recognised in Great Britain, where the waterways have to be artificially constructed, surely they ought not be overlooked here in Bengal, where the rivers provide the natural means of communication. And it is to me a matter of much satisfaction to learn that the Government of India, no less than the Government of Bengal, are so alive to the potentialities of our great waterways. But there are, of course, two other Local Governments, in addition to the Government of Bengal, who are interested in the Ganges-Brahmaputra-Megna system of rivers. Unity of effort, combined with continuity of service and vigorous initiation and action, is what is wanted, and possibly it could be most effectively obtained if the work of improving and conserving this river system were entrusted to a special department, subject to the control of the three Governments. The proposals which have recently been discussed for policing the rivers proceed on these lines; and the suggestion may possibly be worthy of your Honour's attention.

"But, as I have already indicated, it is not our waterways only, which I would wish improved and extended. Our railways are equally important, and there is one particular item of railway expenditure which is not of course in this budget, but which will be very shortly, I hope, be in the railway programme of the Government of India. I refer to the proposed railway bridge over the Ganges at Sara Ghat. This has been so much to the front of late that I need neither reiterate the urgency of the project, nor repeat the arguments by which it has been shown, to my mind conclusively, that the site should be somewhere near Sara, and not at any other point which would lengthen the lead. But what I want to say is that to construct this bridge would be to take another step forward in the way of improving the communications converging on this port. With the bridge, and with a through broad-gauge line from Calcutta to Siliguri, which will be I hope, a part of the scheme eventually, we shall have done a great deal to facilitate and cheapen the transport of Northern Bengal jute, tea, and other staples from the producing districts to the sea-board. Then we must also remember that Darjeeling is still our summer capital, and the principal sanitarium of the Province; and surely it is not too much to ask that, after waiting patiently for so many years, we should be at length afforded reasonably easy access to it. I know that we have your support, Sir, in this matter, and I trust we shall learn before long that the bridge is to be undertaken.

"I have referred, Sir, to the great port improvements which are in contemplation. If these improvements are to be paid for without an enhancement of the port charges, we shall require to expand our trade to the greatest extent possible. To do that we shall have to be careful to see that no traffic which is legitimately ours is diverted elsewhere; and for this reason I attach considerable importance to the question of the competition between Calcutta and Bombay for the import and export trade of Northern India. We contend that our railways, because they work at lower cost should be allowed to charge lower rates mile for mile than the Bombay lines. It seems on the face of it a simple and a business-like proposal. We know that at present the rates are not lower, and that they cannot be reduced because of the existence of the statutory minimum. This minimum ignores working costs, and its too rigid application has resulted in the western ports being, to my mind, unduly favoured at our expense. I wish them no ill, but I think we have a right to expect from the Government the same good treatment which they receive. At present, to put the case in a concrete form, the Government of India say to the East Indian Railway: 'You must not carry grain from the Cawnpore district to Calcutta unless you "can make a profit of more than Rs. 400 per 100 tons.' And then they say to the Great Indian Peninsula Railway: 'But you may carry it from the same district to Bombay if you can make a profit of Rs. 20 on the same quantity.'

"We were told the other day by the Hon'ble Mr. Hewett that 'the reduction of the minima rates on the East Indian Railway alone would involve the transfer to that line, at the expense of other lines, of traffic which would be conveyed at a lower cost, and a consequent reduction of the general income of our railway systems without a demonstrable increase of the general volume of our internal trade.' It is, Sir, with the greatest diffidence that I venture to question any statement made by a minister whose well-directed and successful efforts for the promotion of India's commerce and industries we all most gratefully acknowledge. But is this proposal really sound? I cannot help thinking that Mr. Hewett has overlooked the fact that on the East Indian Railway the cost of working is so much lower than on the Bombay lines. Let us imagine that the East Indian Railway rates were so reduced as to attract to Calcutta the traffic which now goes to the West at a profit, to the carrying railway, of Rs. 20 per 100 tons. The East Indian Railway could then make, I understand, on that traffic, at these reduced rates, a profit of, say Rs. 200 per 100 tons. Surely the net income—and it is, you will observe, not the gross, but the net income in which the Government is interested—of our railway systems could not be diminished in these circumstances. Then, again, I venture to take exception to the suggestion that the reduction would mean a transfer of traffic to the East Indian Railway at the expense of other lines. It would be more correct, I think, to say that the reduction would enable the East Indian Railway to regain traffic which properly belongs to it, but which has been wrongly taken from it by the operation of a too rigid system of minima rates. What the East Indian Railway and the merchants of Calcutta want is to get back their vanished trade with Delhi and their vanishing trade with Cawnpore. We do not seek what does not belong to us; for you must remember please that, from Cawnpore, Calcutta is distant 684 miles, while Bombay is 839 miles. What we say is that a large share of the import and export traffic which goes to these western ports does belong to us. It is artificially deflected to them, because of this system of minima rates. And what is more, the western lines cannot really afford to carry at the rates which they now charge; for they are obliged to make up their dividends by charging exorbitant rates from non-competitive points.

"I further think, Sir, that the Hon'ble Mr. Hewett is mistaken in supposing that no general reduction of rates on the East Indian Railway is contemplated. The correspondence appears to indicate that if the railway were allowed to go below the minimum, they would reduce their rates for long-distance traffic all over the system. It may therefore be reasonably anticipated that a general increase in trade would result from the adoption of the proposal.

"So much has been said of late upon the great question of agriculture, that I hesitate to offer any remarks upon it. But the necessity for improving our methods of production is even greater than the need for improving our methods of distribution upon which I have already dwelt. It is therefore to me a matter of very great satisfaction to observe how earnestly and thoroughly both the Government of India and the Local Governments are working towards this end; and with still more satisfaction do I welcome the cordial invitation which they have extended to the mercantile community to join hands with them in their great task. As regards Bengal, I think that the re-organisation of the Agricultural Department, as explained in the Resolution dated 11th October last, ought to provide us with an admirably effective agency. And if we can only make the Department a really live and efficient organisation, as it is clearly designed to be, I am convinced that it will confer very great benefits upon the people. So far as the commercial community is concerned, the question of the greatest immediate importance in connection with agriculture is that of the adulteration of jute. I am entirely in accord with the Hon'ble Sir Denzil Ibbetson in thinking that the true remedy for the evil is to be found in the extension of the cultivated area. But my fear is that this remedy will be slow, and that the trade may be ruined in the meantime. We cannot afford to wait; we want a remedy now. It is a truism to repeat that Bengal has a monopoly of the jute trade. But the fact that we enjoy that monopoly because our fibre has hitherto been cheap, and good at the price, is not so often insisted upon. Jute has now ceased to be cheap, and, what is more, it is adulterated—it is leavened with rot. We are selling an adulterated article at an extravagant price. To continue to do so will undoubtedly tend to endanger our monopoly; for it will stimulate the cultivation of jute in other parts of the world and will lead to the substitution for jute of other cheap fibres. If we cannot stop adulteration by immediately increasing the crop, as I fear we cannot, then we ought at least to be able to stop it in some other way. I trust therefore that your Honour's Government will favourably consider the legislative proposals which, after prolonged deliberation, have been formulated, and which will be shortly submitted. When, as a result of the steps now being taken to extend cultivation, we have an abundant supply of cheap jute, then adulteration will no doubt disappear, irrespective of the preventive measures. But some years will elapse before we shall be in that happy position, and we cannot in the meantime risk endangering an industry which during the present season has poured into the cultivating districts 10 crores of rupees more than ever before, and which is one of the most profitable in this country.

"There are two other questions concerning the port of Calcutta to which, Sir, I would like to refer very briefly. The first is the question of the hospital port-dues. The object to which these dues are devoted is so excellent, and so commands our sympathy, that I hesitate to criticise them. But we must remember that they are paid by ship-owners throughout the world. They were imposed, and rightly imposed, in the days when our trade was carried in sailing ships manned by European crews. All that is now changed. But few sailing ships visit Calcutta, and our steamers are manned by Indian seamen, who do not care to be in-patients at hospitals. I do not wish to dwell on this subject at any length, but I would remind the Council that Calcutta has a most unenviable notoriety as a dear port. I think therefore that the Bengal Chamber of Commerce is justified in asking, as it has recently done, that the basis upon which these dues are assessed should now be reconsidered; for it should clearly be our endeavour to relieve ship-owners to the greatest extent possible; and I doubt if we ought really to create such a windfall, so to speak, as that mentioned on page 18 of the Statement.

"The second question has reference to the steam Pilot cruiser Fraser, which is mentioned in the Budget Statement. This new departure has proved to be so successful that a suggestion for the purchase of a second cruiser has been, I believe, already made to Government. Seeing that the adoption of the suggestion would enable the brigs to be abolished altogether, the ultimate cost would probably be less than might be at first sight anticipated. One of the advantages of the Fraser is that the vessel is equipped with a wireless telegraphic installation, which is of utmost value in establishing communication with shipping while still at sea, and is an advantage greatly appreciated by ship-owners and underwriters.

"The Excise-revenue of the Province is apparently increasing, Sir, and I notice also that under your new settlement you will obtain one-sixteenth more of it than you have hitherto had. This gives point, I think, to the suggestion which has been made that the Excise revenue should be laid under contribution for the improvement of Calcutta. I rejoice to learn that the Government of India are open to conviction upon the subject of the Imperial grant and I am entirely at one with the Hon'ble the Finance Minister in thinking that those who benefit most by the scheme should bear the brunt of the expenditure. But I am not quite sure that the manufacturers and exporters of jute who have been asked to contribute pretty heavily are among those who will benefit most. For myself I would like the land to pay more liberally, although I recognise the difficulty of formulating practical proposals in that direction. But although an ambitious scheme may be, perhaps, beyond us at the moment, I am inclined to think, from certain small inquiries which I have made, that vacant lands in Calcutta are not perhaps assessed at proper rates. Possibly the Hon'ble Mr. Allen may deem it worth while to look into this question. In a city where there is so much pressure for space the land taxation should certainly not be so arranged as to encourage owners to hold lands vacant in order to inflate values.

"In conclusion, Sir, I desire to mention another question which is not perhaps quite within the scope of our deliberations, but which has recently come under my notice. I have been reading with very great interest a progress report by Sir Frederick Nicholson on the fisheries investigations which he has undertaken on behalf of the Madras Government. The object of these investigations is, I understand, to ascertain whether measures cannot be adopted whereby our Indian seas may be more thoroughly and completely exploited than they are at present. Although the report is only a preliminary statement, and although it deals with but the west coast of Madras, it contains a mass of useful information, and it shows how defective and antiquated are the methods which Indian fishermen now employ. I believe that Sir Frederick Nicholson has since been pursuing his researches on the East Coast; and it has occurred to me that possibly the Government of Bengal might be disposed to co-operate with the Government of Madras, and to arrange for the investigations to be continued in this province. We are all anxious to develop the industries of Bengal, and it does not strike me as being at all beyond the range of the practical to hope that in connection with our fisheries we may eventually have an industry of no mean extent and value.

"More or less associated with the question is a suggestion which has been made for the establishment of an aquarium at the Calcutta Zoological Gardens. The gardens are now being extended, and an aquarium, if it could be included in the extension, would not only add to the attractions of the place, but would also have a certain educational and economic value in connection with fisheries, which we ought not I think to overlook. I hope that the suggestion will be favourably considered by the Government."

The Hon'ble BABU JOGENDRA NATH MUKHERJEE said:—"Sir,—I must begin by offering my congratulations to the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary upon his very lucid presentation of the Budget. The year that is just gone has witnessed an unprecedented disturbance of the normal financial conditions of the country owing to the partition of Bengal, a measure by the way which has convulsed Bengal so much, and I presume it has been a matter of no small difficulty to the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Budget to eliminate the figures appertaining to the 15 districts separated from the old province and to place before the Council for consideration the tables comparing the figures for the expired year with those for the year that has begun. If, therefore, under ordinary circumstances a lucid financial statement like the one just presented would evoke congratulations, it would do so in a far greater degree in view of the recent administrative changes of so sweeping a character. One of the most noticeable features of the present Budget estimate is that although a good number of important districts have been separated from old Bengal in the middle of the year, the financial equilibrium has been maintained. The total receipts for new Bengal do not fall far short of the estimated figure for undivided Bengal, and the administrative machinery for the former does not appear in any part to have been thrown out of gear; and we have a satisfactory balance for the present year's operations.

"But while congratulating the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary and Your Honour's Government upon the successful launching out, so to speak, of new Bengal from a financial point of view, there are certain points in connection with the Budget estimate which cannot, from the people's point of view, be passed over in silence. The first that I would beg leave to notice is the excess of nearly Rs. 16,00,000 put down to the normal expansion of revenue during the current year, which, in other words, is the difference between the estimated total of receipts for the year 1906-07 and the amount assigned to this Government by the Government of India in the new financial settlement. However legitimate the anxiety of an Administration may be to make its revenue expansive from year to year in order to be able to meet the annually increasing demands upon its resources, it seems to me to be difficult to deny that in its efforts to realise its expectations of revenue the Government is apt, though often unconsciously, to go through the process of its financial harvest-home with but a one-sided intent. The upward tendency of the estimated figure for receipts under the head of 'Assessed taxes' may be referred to by way of example. The Budget estimate for the present year provides for an increase of Rs. 1,00,000 under this head on account of the normal expansion of revenue. Those who have an experience of the administration of the Income-tax law will perhaps bear me out when I say that a good portion of this estimated increase will have to be accounted for by men who either fall below the assessable limit or, though above it, are made to pay more than they ought to, by zealous officers of Government. The explanation which was given last year by the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary regarding this aspect of the Budget does not seem, in my humble judgment, to go to the heart of the question. The mere fact that there has been a steady annual increase under this head in years past, does not afford, to my mind, a sufficient basis for any provision for a further increase in the demand. An increased provision for receipts in the Budget means an increased expectation on the part of Government, and indirectly it is an order on its Executive Officers to bring the realizations up to the level of the Government expectations. Although I fully appreciate the administrative difficulties as to where and how the line is to be drawn in regard to the supposed normal expansion of assessed taxes, a practical solution of the question would seem to lie in the fact of keeping, in the first place, the actuals in respect of receipts for the expiring year as the rough basis for the following year's calculations; in the second place, of scrutinising the details as to the difference between the figures for receipts in the original estimate and the revised estimate for the expiring year and, lastly, instead of adding something more to the actuals of the expiring year, of carefully eliminating from them those items which betray any result of irregular or over-assessment. The net figure thus obtained, if adopted as the initial figure for the estimated receipts for the following year, would perhaps more correctly represent the normal growth of revenue than any figures based merely upon the progressive receipts for past years and accepted without any scrutiny as to how they came into being. There is nothing to show that the increased provision for a lakh of rupees of revenue from Income-tax referred to above as well as the difference between the figures in the original Budget estimate and the revised Budget estimate in respect of any other head of taxation has undergone any such scrutiny, or that any practical check has been kept in the Budget over undue or over-assessments, in any other way.

"Regarding the figures on the receipt side under 'Provincial Rates' and 'Excise,' although different processes for assessment and levy are in force, yet the same remarks would seem to apply to them subject, of course, to necessary modifications. In connection with the revenue from Excise I may venture to say specially that although I am not one of those who think that all revenue under this head should be sacrificed, I maintain that Government should not raise from it any revenue which has the result of directly or indirectly encouraging the consumption of intoxicants, and I would ask Your Honour's Government to provide for a more effective scheme in the Excise law which is going to be amended in a short time, whereby this object can be more fully attained than is the case at present. So far, there is no indication in the Budget statement which will go to assure the public mind that the present excise policy of Government or the increased revenue under this head from year to year has succeeded to any appreciable extent in steering clear of the danger of stimulating the consumption of intoxicants.

"Apart from the question of what ought to have been Bengal's share in the grants from the surplus revenue made by the Government of India to the different Provincial Governments, I cannot pass over the general column of receipts without acknowledging the fairness with which the Government of India has treated this Government in the matter of the new financial settlement. Although in a country palpably overtaxed like ours, the Supreme Government finds in the end of the year, as a rule, a lot of surplus money on hand which it must dispose of somehow, it is gratifying to find that in the present year that Government has thought fit to apply it to a great extent to objects of admitted utility. I notice with particular satisfaction—and I think I reflect the sentiment of the majority of my educated countrymen in this matter—the assignment to this Government of a larger proportion of the expanding revenues. This, to my mind, will enable Your Honour's Government to proceed with greater certainty to the forming and carrying out of more comprehensive schemes of improvement and reform than has been possible hitherto. At the same time, the people will have the satisfaction of knowing that if they have had to pay more, a good portion of the amount paid will be locally spent.

"The grants made to several Municipalities in the Province in aid of sanitary improvements have my cordial sympathy, specially the grant of Rs. 25,000 to the Bhagalpur Municipality for water-works and of Rs. 75,000 to the Monghyr Municipality for water-supply, both these towns belonging, as they do, to the Division which I have the honour to represent in this Council. The grants to the last-named towns will be specially appreciated at a period when both of them have been suffering from severe visitations of plague. No doubt plague may have its origin and growth in other causes which have to be specially dealt with, but anything that tends to bring about the supply of good drinking water is calculated, among other things, to restrict the scope of its activity by introducing healthier conditions among the townspeople.

"But, however, grateful we may be for special contributions of this kind, we cannot overlook the demands of the country at large in respect of sanitation. It will be superfluous for me to allude to the excessive mortality from fever, cholera, and plague in this Province and to the fact that where malaria does not kill, it enfeebles and enervates the population, for years if not for generations, inasmuch as the question was dealt with, with some fulness, by my friends the Hon'ble Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu and the Hon'ble Mr. J. Chaudhuri last year. Your Honour was pleased to observe on that occasion that their appeals in this connection had not fallen on unsympathetic ears and that the matter was already engaging the attention of Government. One year has since gone by, yet it is not known whether any scheme calculated to mitigate, on any comprehensive scale, the ravages of these evils, has been formulated, or even if not formulated, at what stage of consideration the question is at present. It must be admitted that several insanitary conditions of an extensive character exist in the country; and it will be for Your Honour's Government, in formulating any scheme for the improvement of the sanitary conditions of our towns and villages, to fix with some precision the responsibilities of the people and of the Government. I say this because it has been repeated, year after year, by responsible officers, that in certain important matters of sanitation, the people must do everything and the Government little or nothing. I will here quote what was stated last year by one Hon'ble Member in defending the position of Government in connection with the supply of good drinking-water to our villages. He said: "A doctrine of self-help is usually distasteful; but in this vitally important matter there is no other possible remedy." Again, in connection with the question of malaria in the country, the only important Government action he pointed to, apart from the Magra Hât drainage scheme, was an increased manufacture of quinine, and increased facilities for its sale and consumption. All this is very good so far as it goes, just as the doctrine of self-help is a very sound doctrine. But I have to join issue with the Hon'ble Member, if by what he said he intended to minimise the responsibility of Government in the matter of sanitary improvements. I need scarcely point out that some of the insanitary conditions of our towns and villages are the direct results of certain acts of State such as irrigation and railway; and there can be no doubt that these either divert or interfere with the natural drainage of the country and the out-flow of its waters. As to irrigation, it is undoubted that the Government by diverting to some extent the waters of our great rivers from their natural channels and by spreading them over the country for agricultural purposes, has been gradually but steadily attenuating them. Again, the beds of the canals by which the waters of the Ganges are drawn away from it, being on a higher level than the surrounding country, render the latter damp by percolation and thus bring on malaria. I have seen such results myself near Dinapore and Khagole. I noticed there places which were dry and healthy before the canals came into existence, but which have become distinctly malarious since that time. Further down its course, the silting up of the bed of the Ganges and of its branches in the Gangetic delta is traceable, to my mind, to a material extent, to the diversion of its waters up-stream. If, therefore, irrigation brings in its train certain attendant evils, or if the railways and the high-bunded roads all over the country, restrict the natural waterways and interfere with the natural drainage of the country, is it not the plain duty of Government to keep the fact in mind and work out a scheme which will effectively grapple with the causes of these epidemics? We are thankful for the comparatively small projects such as those in connection with the Magra Hât and the Bhairab valley drainage. But, after all, these schemes are not very comprehensive. I respectfully submit that the Government has not hitherto shown itself sufficiently alive to the situation.

"As regards the supply of good drinking water to our village communities, the first point to which I would beg leave to draw the attention of Your Honour's Government is, that when the people pay a special cess in the shape of Public Works Cess, would it not be reasonable for them to urge that, instead of the amount available under this head of revenue being mostly used up in the construction of buildings in big towns and head-quarters stations, a fixed-proportion of it should be spent every year in keeping up at least one or two tanks or wells in each village for this purpose? A great number of Government buildings have already come into existence, sufficient perhaps for the present requirements of our big towns and stations, but even if this number is not sufficient, it seems to me that questions of life and death should have preference to questions of mere adornment or convenience.

"The next point is that, assuming that the people must do everything in the matter of their village water-supply, should it be considered impracticable for Government to stimulate their energies in this behalf? The Government commands a vast influence over zamindars and other monied classes, and if it once became known to them that it looked upon the excavation and maintenance of tanks and wells with special favour, a good beginning would perhaps at once spring into our vision. Where Municipalities exist the Government will do well to continue to employ its influence in the matter of water-supply as it has been doing for some time past. Further, it can do similar work through village panchayats also wherever such organisations may exist.

"Turning to the Police it is not very satisfactory to find that there have been savings in the special and other grants to this department, amounting to about 7 lakhs of rupees. I do not mean to suggest for one moment that the grants, if utilised would have inaugurated a golden era of Police Administration. I believe that any amount of these grants, or even some increments of pay, would fail to achieve their purpose fully, so long as the real canker that is eating into the vitals of the Police administration, viz., the union of the Judicial and Executive functions in one and the same person, is left untouched. These savings form part of a total of Rs. 28,34,000 effected under different heads, including even that of Education, and they betray a general slowness of movement which is not altogether in keeping with our expectations of progress.

"The savings also relate to another branch of the Administration in respect of which I beg leave to say a word or two, I mean, to the non-utilisation of the grants for the increase in the number of Deputy Collectors, as well as for the increase of salaries of the Ministerial officers. The grants under these heads failed to be utilised in 1904-1905 also, and it is hoped Your Honour's Government will find it possible to dispose of these matters completely and satisfactorily in course of the current year. But while on this question, I may be permitted to say a few words in support of the claims of Sub-Deputy Collectors to better treatment than they have hitherto received. There is little difference between Deputy Collectors and these officers, specially those who have been appointed as Sub-Deputy Collectors in recent times, and the two classes have to do practically the same kind of work. Yet, the difference between them in point of pay and prospects is considerable, and in view of the facts submitted above, perhaps unjustifiable; and I am glad to learn from the answer which has been just given to my question on the subject, that the matter of the travelling and halting allowances of Sub-deputy Collectors has been decided in their favour. I may also be permitted to say a word or two in regard to the present prospects of Munsifs, a subject which has been already dealt with by my Hon'ble friend Mr. Syed Sharfuddin. These hard-worked officers of Government have to wait almost to the end of their career before they can become Sub-Judges, and some of them have to retire before their turn for that office comes to them. It is not possible for me now to enter into any discussion over this subject, but I will leave it by respectfully asking Your Honour's Government to consider, along with the Hon'ble Judges of the High Court, whether it is not possible to create an intermediate grade for Munsifs carrying a pay of Rs. 500. Such a measure will, I feel sure, mitigate, to some extent, the feeling of dejection, which, so far as I know, exists among this class of officers.

"Sir, the non-utilisation of the Educational grants to the extent of Rs. 9½ lakhs bears testimony to the backwardness in respect of a most important branch of the Administration, which, to my mind, should engage Your Honour's attention, specially as we all know, how favourably disposed Your Honour is towards progress and reform in all the branches of Education—primary, secondary as well as higher. Observations on the details of this branch of the administration have been made by my Hon'ble friend Babu Bhupendra Nath Basu and I do not propose to go over the same ground again. I notice, however, with special satisfaction the large grants made towards college education, both general as well as technical. The provision of Rs. 1,00,000 as the initial outlay on the establishment of a central weaving school at Sirampur is a special feature of the Budget which deserves notice. It is a small beginning, but apart from the question of the undoubted practical usefulness of such an institution, the grant appears to me to indicate a disposition on the part of Government to recognise the principle that for the administration to be successful Government must move with the people and with the times. Yet there is another without recognising which we may look for satisfactory progress in vain. We may spend money in constructing buildings for the development of primary education, buy models and fit up laboratories for our technical schools and colleges, make provision for the improvement of agriculture and do many other things besides, but they will remain detached from the great heart of the people and will be comparatively barren of good results, so long as all forms of education do not tend to wake up in the mind of the people a national self-consciousness. Such a turn to our educational system is bound to result in self-help and power of joint action in the people. If we examine the material and moral results of the working of any department of our administration, we shall find that the apathy and helplessness of the people are blocking a good part of the way of progress. As in individuals, so in nations and communities. Make the individual unconscious, the limbs cease to act, put vitality into him, the limbs commence to work. If our great administration tend to produce anæsthetic effects on the people, it will be unreasonable to expect self-help in them to any considerable extent.

"I do not feel justified in detaining the Hon'ble Members any longer with my observations. I think I have detained them too long already. I will only say in conclusion that I feel thankful to Your Honour for the several progressive measures which have been provided for in the Budget, although I wish their number were larger and their scope more extensive. Yet, such as they are, they cannot fail to be appreciated by the public, and I hope and trust that we shall find ampler provision for progress and reform in the Budget for the next year."

The Hon'ble RAJA BAN BEHARI KAPUR, said:—"Your Honour—I beg to offer you my sincere congratulations on the new financial settlement which has been effected with the Government of India after the making over of fifteen districts to the new Province of Eastern Bengal and Assam. It removes all doubts and apprehensions that were naturally caused by the altered circumstances induced by the new session.

"The Budget under discussion which is ably prepared by the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary on the basis of our new settlement with the Government of India should be declared a Prosperity Budget, and I feel bound to congratulate Your Honour and the Financial Secretary on such a good Budget. The Budget is clear and comprehensive, and its allotments are fair and just. I have no desire to occupy the time of the Council by dealing with the Budget allotments in all their details. I shall confine myself to a few heads only.

"Sir, I do not consider it fair to deal with the points which I desire to take up before offering, through Your Honour, our thanks to His Excellency the Governor General in Council for the abolition of the zamindari dāk cess, amounting to Rs. 2,34,000 only—a cess which, however small, entailed a good deal of trouble, labour and expense on the Government for its collection, and was looked upon as an improper cess in these days of an expansive postal system. The exemption from this tax will relieve the agricultural class as well as the landlords who had to pay the greater portion of this cess from their own pockets, being unable to realise the whole amount from their subordinate tenure-holders or from the tenants under direct management where no clear stipulation existed in the kabuliyats. Its collection by the zamindars was very expensive. The abolition of the zamindari dāk cess is a blessing to all concerned, and will have the effect of putting a stop to a large number of petty suits in courts.

"Before leaving the subject of remission of taxation, I venture to mention in passing that when I had the honour of serving my first term as a Member of this Council in 1885, a Bill was introduced styled "Canoongoo and patwari Bill" for the purpose of levying taxes for the introduction and the upkeep of the Patwari system. Some of my hon'ble colleagues and myself successfully opposed the introduction of the measure, and the Bill was fortunately withdrawn. Here in 1906 the Indian Government find the Patwari cesses to be improper cesses or taxes, and give up a large amount of income in the present Budget. However, I am glad to find that I was in the right in opposing the introduction of the Bill in question in 1885, for if this Bill had become law the landlords and the tenants would have to pay a tax which the Government of the present day consider it improper to saddle the agricultural people of other provinces with.

"It is very gratifying to find in paragraph 16 of the Budget under head 'Non recurring charges' a provision of Rs. 1,00,000 for meeting the "Initial outlay on the establishment of Central Weaving School at Serampore." The establishment of the Weaving School will do much towards the renewal and improvement of the weaving industry in Bengal, and we hope that pupils from this school will gradually disseminate throughout the country a thorough knowledge of weaving in all its branches. This move is in the right direction, and your Government deserve the grateful thanks of the nation. I hope, Sir, this step taken by you will be followed up by others equally practical and beneficial to the country and its people. The institution at Pusa, by diffusing scientific knowledge of agriculture amongst the people and the school at Serampore by placing the most improved methods of weaving within their reach will contribute much towards the prosperity of the country in the quietest and the least aggressive manner.

"I beg to suggest, Sir, that, following the tradition of the Mogul Emperors, the Government should, in addition to the sum allotted to the District Boards for the supply of drinking-water, set apart a certain sum annually for digging and re-excavating large dighees and tanks in selected areas and localities which would not only serve the purpose of supplying drinking-water, but would also afford the means of irrigation in years of drought. There are several large tanks and dighees which are commonly known as Badshahi Dighi, Dewan, Dighi, etc. which were excavated and maintained by the State in those days. When dighees or tanks are thus excavated they should be kept up as public properties. If this is done, Sir, your Government will virtually ensure the water-supply for drinking and irrigation purposes and guard against scarcity in years of drought. I need not say that it is better to allot some money to provide against scarcity than to spend much more in relief-works during famine.

"Last year at the debate of the Council on the Budget I had the honour to propose the establishment of a paying patients' ward for middle class Indian gentlemen, and I was fortunate enough to get your sympathetic support towards the proposal. Your Honour soon after appointed a representative Committee consisting of several European and Indian gentlemen to draw up a scheme and submit a practicable proposition for the consideration of Your Honour. The Committee met on several occasions and submitted its report under the signature of Lieutenant-Colonel C. P. Lukis, M.D., F.R.C.S., its President, on the 7th July 1905. This subject was discussed before Your Honour at Belvedere on the 1st February last at a meeting presided over by yourself; and in spite of strong opposition from some members Your Honour was satisfied that the project was one which should receive your support. Therefore Your Honour was pleased to say that the project should be taken up and proceeded with. Though our original proposal was for 50 beds according to cottage hospital plan, it was agreed to have only 20 beds to start with, and the Hon'ble Mr. Shirres said that the probable cost would be Rs. 3,00,000, but that the Government could not undertake to pay the whole cost. Sir, you were pleased to say that you would be prepared to pay one-third of the initial cost of the building, and that two-thirds should be raised by subscription. You, Sir, were also pleased to announce at that meeting that one of the worthy citizens of Calcutta—Seth Sheo Prosad Joonjoonwala—had placed Rs. 30,000 at your hands and was prepared to go up to another Rs. 10,000. It will not be out of place here to thank our worthy friend for his munificent donation and to express a hope that other gentlemen of means will come forward with their contributions towards the carrying out of the project.

"My hon'ble friend, the Financial Secretary, remarked at the meeting of the 1st February last that as the European Community subscribed a large sum for the construction of the "paying patients' block" at the Presidency General Hospital, it was expected that the Native community should come forward to make up the required amount by subscriptions. But it will be as well to remember in this connection that whereas the European community fully appreciates the advantages of a fully-equipped medical establishment and are above all prejudices against treatment in such a place, the Indian people prefer home-nursing to hired, though more skilful, ministrations in a strange place and look upon removal to a hospital as social degradation. Besides the European residents are far and away better able to pay for whatever they consider to be useful than the middle class Indian people who alone would be benefitted by the scheme under contemplation; we can therefore look up to only the wealthy community with charitable and sympathetic feelings, for subscriptions. Hence I am not very hopeful as to the amount we are likely to get together, though it is quite possible that we shall be able to collect a sufficient amount. It is for this reason, Sir, that I want to say that there is a certain accumulated sum of money now lying unused at the different treasuries in the collectorates of this province, and if Your Honour is pleased, it could be made available for this noble object, without any loss to anybody whatsoever. There is a large sum of money under the deposit head at the different treasuries in Bengal, being the accumulated amount of landlords' fees under sections 12, 13 and 15 of the Bengal Tenancy Act (from year 1885-86 to 1903-04, and I have not been able to obtain the figures for 1904-05 and 1905-06) aggregating Rs. 5,69,354, which, for various reasons, has not been drawn by the parties in whose favour it is held. I understand that if a certain proposal which is under consideration be carried into effect a large portion of this amount might be withdrawn. Even, if we assume, Sir, that half of this amount will be withdrawn, the other half, namely, Rs. 2,84,677, will, at no distant date, lapse to Government. My definite proposal is, Sir, that by the issue of a certain rule from the Board of Revenue or by an Executive order, the landlords in whose favour these deposits are held should be required to withdraw the amount within a fixed time, after which the money will be declared to have lapsed to Government. The amount which thus comes to Government will be made over for the construction of the paying-patients' hospital for Indian patients. This proposal of mine might seem to be rather rough-and-ready, but Sir, I am positively certain that the amount held in deposit will lapse to Government, sooner or later, and that is why I propose that the Indian peoples' money may very well be used for the benefit of the Indian people at large. If this is done, Sir, we will not require to raise any subscription, though, of course, we shall always be thankful to persons proffering any donation towards the object. I am afraid, Sir, I have tired the Council with this long disquisition of mine, but before I leave this subject I must offer my sincere thanks to Your Honour for the provision of Rs. 1,00,000 made in the budget for the project under discussion, though I do not think it will suffice to complete our object. We desire to have twenty units all built one-storied on the Cottage Hospital plan and so arranged that the patients will be able to bring their families with them and cook their own food. If we cannot get this, then we shall agree to have five separate double-storied blocks having four units in each with separate stair-cases, proper attention being paid to the sanana arrangements of each unit so that ladies of one family could get in and out without being looked over by the inmates of other units. Sir, if ever this project becomes an accomplished fact, it would be entirely through your personal sympathy and support and the boon you will have thus conferred upon the public would be appreciated so much, that your name will go down to posterity and be always remembered very thankfully.

"In paragraph 11 of the Budget Statement I find the following "In revising the terms the receipts under the heads of Land Revenue, Excise, Assessed Taxes and Forests have been divided equally between Provincial and Imperial, while the collections from Government estates have been made wholly Provincial." Therefore, Sir, I wish to suggest for Your Honour's consideration that as under, the present which is "of a quasi-permanent nature" the revenue from the Government estates will remain wholly Provincial, for the future benefit of the province the number of Government khas mahals be increased and more estates be created by bringing under cultivation larger areas of lands in the Sundarbans and other uncultivated areas situated in different districts under your government, and for this purpose a fixed sum be allotted every year for some years to come, and that the estates under Government management be allowed to continue to be so managed and may not be leased out either under temporary or permanent leases. It is needless for me to say, Sir, that the more the revenue Your Honour can command the more numerous will be the benefits you can confer on the province under your care.

"The crops of the year which were very promising at one time have suffered very much from unusually heavy rain and hail at a time when it was not wanted. The paddy crop was good, but people did not get a sufficiently large number of sunny days and the thrashing of the paddy was delayed so very much that much paddy and straw has gone bad. The rabi crops, especially sugarcane and the potato, have suffered very much, and many tenants have lost a good deal of money and labour over these crops. This is a bad year and all sorts of crops have been damaged somehow or other. For this reason, Sir, and as some Hon'ble Members of this Council asked questions on this subject and stated that scarcity existed in parts of this province, I think a certain amount, out of our surplus, might, with advantage, be set apart for aiding districts which may feel the pinch but cannot meet it from the local funds.

"I beg leave to ask Your Honour to redress a grievance which, though it may, at first sight, seem to be purely nominal, is none the less a source of misapprehension, and as such, it may, in the near or distant future lead to mischief, if not real danger; on many occasions the question of some part of Bengal being affected with malarious fever was brought up in Council and on every one of these the fever was called the Burdwan fever. So far as we are acquainted with the genesis and history of the fever which has been ravaging Bengal for the last half of a century, it originated at Ula in the District of Nadia and devastated many populous villages before it appeared at Burdwan. Thus it will be seen that there is no earthly reason why this fever should be named after Burdwan more than after any of the other number of places afflicted by it. Besides, it is not fair that a disease, which is not confined to any particular place, should have a local designation, seeing that the plague or cholera is not designated after any place where it broke out first or has since claimed the largest number of victims.

"Before I resume my seat, allow me, Sir, to wish you God-speed and a pleasant voyage home, and, as a mark of our appreciation of your universal kindness, sympathy and fair dealing, to say that we sincerely hope that you will come back to us after the expiry of your leave and the completion of the work which is taking you home, with renewed health, zeal and vigour and be able to govern this province during the full time of your office."

The Hon'ble ASIF KADIR SAHYID WASIF ALI MIRZA of Murshidabad said:—
"I have to congratulate the Government for the Financial Statement for the past year, and the prosperity Budget Statement for the current year.

"The Budget Statement for the current year provides for an expenditure of Rs. 5,20,94,000, allotment being apportioned according to the importance of the various sorts of works and objects.

"It is gratifying to find an amount larger by almost ten lakhs has been provided for education. I do not, however, understand why a less amount than was provided last year has been sanctioned for 'grants-in-aid.' The allotment of Rs. 1,35,600 for technical education, which will take the shape of a Weaving Institution at Serampore is indeed a provision for which the whole province will be grateful to Government. I understand one lakh would be the initial expense for starting the institution, and Rs. 35,000 would be required annually for the maintenance.

"The grant for police is also very satisfactory, and it is hoped that the Police Department would be appreciably improved by raising the pay of responsible officers.

"The abolition of the zamindari dāk cess is a measure in the right direction, and I am sure the land-owning class will feel the benefit in a perceptible way.

"I regret to find that no provision has been made for the improvement of the river Bhagirathi. It is true that the opening of a new Railway and another in contemplation will afford facilities for transit and traffic; but I regret that the Government has not been pleased to consider another aspect of the question, viz., the sanitary condition of the large tract through which the river runs. The present condition of the river is most deplorable, the least depth of water sounding being—

- (1) at the entrance 6 inches,
- (2) from entrance to Geria 2 inches,
- (3) from Geria to Jangipur 4 inches,
- (4) from Jangipur to Berhampore 9 inches, and
- (5) from Berhampore to Katwa 7 inches.

The health of the whole tract from the entrance from Ganges to Katwa, a distance of nearly a hundred miles, is sure to be affected prejudicially, and the malaria, which has already made its appearance, will develop by leaps and bounds. For the prevention of the insanitary condition of this large tract, and that there may be available good drinking-water, effective measures ought to be adopted by the Government. It is, I am afraid, this want of good drinking-water which is the cause of so much cholera at Murshidabad, which carries off a number of people every year, and which, together with malaria consequent upon defective drainage and other insanitary causes, has been depopulating Murshidabad from year to year, the death-rates having always considerably exceeded the birth-rates for a succession of years. I hope that these matters will receive such attention at the hands of Government as their vital importance to the existence of the people deserves.

"It appears from the Financial Statement of the last year that a large amount (Rs. 28,34,000), though provided in the Budget, was not spent. This is certainly to be regretted, and I hope that the Government will be pleased to see that the Heads of the different Departments of the Administration carry out the various measures of improvement and do not allow the money to remain idle and unexpended.

"Lastly, I venture to submit that in view of the Financial condition steps should be taken to reduce the taxation, and I beg to take the liberty to suggest that if any additional grant be made for the Police, relief might be given to the poor agriculturist by reducing the village Chaukidari tax. Poor raiyats who live upon agriculture only, feel sorely on account of the tax they have to pay for the maintenance of the village chaukidars and while a reduction of the tax can be effected by Government very easily, contentment and happiness would then be secured to a large class of poor raiyats of His Majesty's subjects."

The Hon'ble Mr. J. CHAUDHURI said:—"Sir, the Bengal Financial Statement for 1906-7 may truly be said to be the Bengal Partition Budget. I am quite conscious that any allusion to the Partition of Bengal is likely to be unpleasant to those who have been more or less responsible for it. However mindful I may be of their feeling in the matter and unmindful of their disregard of ours in its connection, I feel sorry that I can no more discuss the present Budget without any reference to the Partition than one can discourse on the play of Hamlet without making any allusion to the character of the Prince or the affairs of the State of Denmark.

"It has been often said, Sir, that our objections to the Partition are mostly sentimental, but I shall presently show by reference to solid facts and figures—even from this very Financial Statement that is before us—how, not only the fifteen partitioned districts but also the remaining Province of Bengal has been seriously prejudiced by it.

"Before I come to discuss dry facts and figures and relegate our sentiments in the matter of the Partition to the background, I may be pardoned for repeating the concluding words of our Secretary of State, Mr. John Morley, in the recent Partition Debate in Parliament, regarding the place of sentiment in public affairs—'You may call it sentiment if you like, but a man is ill-fitted for the governing of other men if he does not give a large place to the operation of sentiment.'

"It gladdens my heart to find, that amongst the universal opposition to the Partition in the severed territory, even Nawab Salimulla, the 'only faithful' supporter of Lord Curzon's Partition Scheme, in the fifteen districts concerned, observed in the Viceregal Council the other day that 'he did not for a moment ignore the strong sentiment of attachment and a passionate desire to cling together which a seeming severance has so unmistakeably evoked.' But he expected that time would remove the pangs of separation.

"I shall advert now to facts which cannot be gainsaid, to show that the effect of this severance is not at all 'seeming,' but is most real and likely to prove a source of some irreparable wrongs to us, should the Partition be perpetuated.

"Take for instance my constituency, the Rajshahi Division, now comprising of six districts, Rajshahi, Fabna, Bogra, Rangpur, Dinajpur and Jalpai-guri. Before Partition, Calcutta and Darjeeling were our seats of government. When we had any urgent business with the Government we could finish our day's work in any one of those districts, catch the Darjeeling up or down mail in the course of the night and get to Darjeeling or Calcutta during business hours of the next day. As for Calcutta, we can arrive here before office hours and finish our business in the course of the day and taking the up Darjeeling mail get back to any one of the six districts the next morning. As for Darjeeling, it is equally accessible from all the six and especially so from the northern districts.

"Now take the seats of the government to which we have been transferred. From none of the six districts can we reach Dacca starting any evening before the following night. On the return journey we lose another day. When a certain business can be done in a day, to waste two days for it would be regarded as intolerable in the present business age. When the Government of the new Province resides in Shillong, it will be impossible for us to get there from any one of the six districts in less than three days and thus a week will be wasted when there is any occasion for us or for the District officers to visit the seat of Government or for any official from Shillong to visit any of the six districts. Darjeeling and Calcutta are also much more accessible from Dacca or Mymensingh than is Shillong. As for the people of Malda, their lot is still more pitiable.

"The seat of Government was transferred from Dacca to Murshidabad by Murshid-Kuli-Khan two centuries ago for the convenience of the administration of Bengal, as the latter place was more centrally situated. With the consolidation of the British rule, the capital of Bengal only shifted along the same line, down the same river Bhagirathi, because the British are a maritime people and wanted their capital closer to the sea. But if you look into the history of Bengal, ancient or modern, you will find that the capital of Bengal has all along gravitated along the same line, be it at Gour, Navadwip, Murshidabad or Calcutta. Attempts to remove it further east, be it by the Hindu Princes to Bikrampur or by Mahomedan Viceroy to Dacca, have failed, and, I dare say, this attempt by an English Viceroy to remove it to a place already tried and found wanting, will fail too. The present scheme of Partition is not only a historical anomaly but also a geographical absurdity.

"In spite of such inconveniences, if the Governments of Eastern and Western Bengal believe that we shall soon get reconciled to our lot and both would continue to cry 'annihilate time and space and make two lovers happy,' I would say that it is a very fine poetic sentiment but many many years ago Edmund Burke had said it has no place in practical politics.

"The Partition has not only set up arbitrary and artificial barriers between one and the same people, but, as time goes on, it is likely to work incalculable mischief in many other ways. If it continues in force for long, it will make a mess of our land-laws. Fortunately or unfortunately for Lower Bengal, land forms its principal resource, and agriculture its chief occupation and industry. Heretofore the land-laws for all Bengal were one and the same. They were the slow growth of centuries and were consolidated, amended, or altered by one and the same Legislature. Whether the laws were good or bad there was always uniformity of the laws in Eastern and Western, Northern and Southern Bengal. But now Northern and Eastern Bengal and Southern and Western Bengal have been placed under two different legislatures. The boundary line between the partitioned provinces cuts people's houses, gardens, holdings, &c., into two. It should also be remembered that the same divisions and subdivisions of land or estates that were prevalent in Muhammadan times have also come down to us. The divisions known as pargana, taraf, dihi, mausa, &c., comprise extents of land, villages or groups of villages and they will, henceforth, fall partly in one province and partly in the other. They may be owned by one and the same, or two or more co-sharer landlords or tenants or tenure-holders. Now if the land-laws are henceforth amended by two different legislatures in two different ways, the Courts of law may often be at a loss to determine which law to apply; and the landlords and tenants may get still more confused as regards their rights and remedies under the conflicting provisions of different laws. For instance, if the two legislatures amend the laws regarding co-sharer landlords, as regards their rights and remedies as between themselves or in their relation to the tenants, in two different ways, the co-sharer landlords living in different provinces or the tenants or tenure-holders owning holdings which may extend over both the provinces, will be placed in an impossible position. It may be suggested, however, that the only way to avoid such divergent legislation would be to leave it to the Governor-General's Council to amend all land-laws relating to Bengal. But why should then Bengal to be placed under two legislatures?

"I can multiply the number of other legislative and administrative anomalies that will result from this Partition of Bengal. But I shall content myself here by pointing out only the typical ones.

"It has perhaps not been realized by the tax-payers of this Province that the Partition of Bengal has financially affected them very prejudicially. With out any very elaborate calculation I shall prove my proposition in such general terms as will carry conviction to the minds of the average tax-payer. Our Financial Secretary, in laying the Budget before us, a fortnight ago, observed that the fifteen districts, now partitioned off from this Province, yielded annually a net surplus of Rs. 9,27,000. This amount was available to this Province for expenditure outside those districts, that is partly to defray the cost of the central Government in this Province. The central Administration of this Province has obtained no financial relief from the Partition. The Lieutenant-Governor and his staff, the Secretariat, the Board of Revenue, and also 'Superintendence' under Excise, Registration, Forest, &c., as shown in Appendix B of the Financial Statement, are costing us just the same as before. By way of anomaly, perhaps, the only curtailment noticeable is under High Court, which obtains no relief from Partition, in respect of an Additional Judge for inspection work provided for in last year's Budget.

"The net result, however, is that after the Partition the Bengal Government could not have defrayed the cost of its central Administration for the ensuing year without this sum of Rs. 9,27,000. To make good this deficiency the Government of India came to its rescue and made over to it a larger share of the provincial sources of revenue. Before partition, the Bengal Government used to get only a fourth of the land revenue, $\frac{1}{3}$ of excise, $\frac{1}{4}$ of the assessed taxes, $\frac{1}{2}$ of the Forests, &c., &c., and now generally a half share of all these sources of revenue and the whole (and not merely 12 per cent. as formerly) of the collections of the Government estates have been made over to the Local Government. And why? To make good the deficit resulting from the Partition of Bengal. This annual deficit for the past year has been put down at Rs. 9,27,000, and from a prospective point of view I may put it down roundly at 10 lakhs a year. This means the making over of a larger proportion of the tax-payers' money out of this Province for meeting the cost of the self-same central Administration. Or in other words, if the Partition had not taken place and we had got a half share of our provincial revenues, these 10 lakhs would have been available to us annually to make a return to the poor tax-payers of this Province by way of giving better drinking water, drainage and improved sanitary surroundings for want of which they have been dying by millions every year from the ravages of malarial fever, cholera, plague and other pestilences. In the present Budget provision is made for the expenditure of only 20 thousand rupees for the prevention of malaria, which alone has been for many years past claiming annually from 1,600,000 to 1,700,000 victims in a population of 75 millions of souls. If so many people died from famine any year it would stagger humanity, and we would bestir ourselves, but when they die of fever year after year in such appalling numbers, we look on complacently and continue to squander money with an easy conscience. Even ten lakhs a year is too little to cope with a pest of this magnitude but to provide only 20 thousand rupees in the next year's Budget is a satire on suffering humanity.

"It must not be supposed, however, that the fifteen districts transferred have been any gainers by being wedded to Assam, which has been a source of financial drain to the Government of India for a number of years past.
